The door was thrown open and our name the Constable of the Castle, Lord Harlech, who bore the key to Caernarvon on an oaken tray. "Madame," he said, descending the steps, "I surrender the key of the castle into Your Majesty's hands."

The Queen returned the key to Lord Harlech and entered the ruins. The Queen's personal standard was broken above the castle.

Within the ancient walls, the Queen, followed by the Duke of Edinburgh in blue uniform of admiral of the fleet, made her way to a silk-canopied dais, where she received 61 men and women of the public and civic life of north Wales.

Ben Hogan Ties For Lead in Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., with a two-under 70 went into a tie for the lead with Robert de Vincenzo of the Argentine today after the third round of the British Open golf championship. Both had scores of 214.

The Argentine had finished long before the U. S. Open champion, and Hogan knew what he had to accomplish—and did to the delight of a large gallery which has made him the popular choice all week.

Another 18 holes this afternoon will decide the championship, and it is far from over. Dai Rees of Wales and Peter Thomson of Australia are just a stroke behind the leaders at 215.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Churchill on Hudson Bay enjoyed a real touch of summer on Thursday with a maximum temperature of 87 degrees. This warm dry air is moving eastward into Ontario, and it gives promise of pleasant sunny weather in all forecast regions today and Saturday.

EISENHOWER'S BLAST OUSTS McCARTHY'S AIDE

President Assails Red Clergy Article

By G. NELSON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—A vigorous blast from President Eisenhower, fired over the head of Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.), has blown J. B. Matthews out of the investigating job in which McCarthy had sought to keep him.

"Also in America," the president said in obvious reference to the statement in a magazine article that 5,000 Protestant clergymen are "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus" in this country.

McCarthy promptly accepted the resignation of Matthews, whom he has called "a star-spangled American," as executive staff director of the Senate investigations subcommittee which the Wisconsin senator heads.

Matthews Resigned

The fast-breaking developments which marked Matthews' departure climaxed months of strained relations between Eisenhower and McCarthy.

McCarthy, for years the centre of controversy in Washington, was simultaneously involved in two other brushes with the administration. These came when the senator:

1. Moved to call before his subcommittee top officials of the central intelligence agency, including director Allen Dulles, for some searching questioning. McCarthy accused Dulles, a brother of Eisenhower's secretary of state, of refusing to let the McCarthy sub-committee question a CIA employee.

2. Aimed sharp criticism at a new state department directive designed to curb some Communist writers' books may be used in the U. S. overseas libraries. He got a swift reply indicating the department intends to stick to its guns.

Eleven Killed In Air Collision Over Norway

OSLO (Reuters)—A U. S. Air Force C-47 and a Norwegian F-84 jet fighter collided in mid-air over southwest Norway today killing all 11 men aboard the transport and trapped with the pilot of the fighter.

Italian newspapers acclaimed the news with such headlines as: "The struggle among the Soviet leaders has broken out" and "the beginning of the end," but few commented editorially.

The right-wing Il Tempo said Beria's dismissal is the "first round in favor of Malenkov in the open struggle which will probably continue on the battlefield of civil war."

The crisis has broken out at the top of the Soviet pyramid, said Il Tempo. "It is a political crisis among the highest exponents of Russian and world communism and is therefore being interpreted also as a mortal crisis of communism itself as a form of state organization."

Japanese newspapers headlined the news, but refrained from comment, as did Japanese government officials.

St. Laurent 'Ready to Help' In National Health Plan

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Tax reductions and a contributory health insurance scheme are back in the forefront of the election campaign. Prime Minister St. Laurent outlined his party's attitude to these and other matters Thursday night in Vancouver.

Of the former, Mr. St. Laurent said the Liberals will continue to reduce taxes if national revenues keep rising and other circumstances warrant. His government also was ready to help in a "sensible and practical" contributory health scheme "if satisfactory" arrangements can be made with the provinces.

Meanwhile, Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, charged that the Liberal government of the late 1920s aggravated the depression of the 1930s by not preparing for it despite warnings that depression was imminent.

Neither Blamed

He said neither Liberal nor Conservative governments could be blamed for the depression. But a Liberal government was in power when depression came in 1929. And it was made more severe because the Liberals did not prepare for it.

Mr. St. Laurent said his party is committed to a policy of contributory health insurance to be administered by the provinces. He was convinced "this is a field which should, as far as possible, be left to provincial administration."

In an obvious reference to Mr. Drew's promise of $500,000,000 in tax cuts, Mr. St. Laurent said he makes no promise of reductions "regardless of circumstances." His party should promise that unless prepared to borrow money and increase the national debt.

"And that would be, as Mr. (Finance Minister) Abbott said, trying to buy votes with our children's earnings."

Will Carry On As P.M.

He referred to the Progressive Conservative challenge to say whether the Liberals will retain farm price support and whether he will remain, Liberal leader if elected.

If returned Aug. 10, he would "carry on as prime minister just as long as I feel I am capable of performing the duties of that office effectively."

Farm and fisheries prices support would continue as protection against calamity and disaster. But the government chief also would be to help find markets at prices higher than the support price level.

Dealing with communism, Mr. St. Laurent said his government opposes laws designed to control men's political opinions. Drastic legislation, including emergency powers to deal quickly with subversion and unforeseeable circumstances, would be chief as protection against subversion and sabotage.

Malenkov Wins First Round In Fight for Stalin's Power

By EDDY GILMORE

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Lavrenty Beria's expulsion from the Communist party and Soviet government means that Premier Malenkov—and perhaps others—now feel strong enough to get rid of Stalin's old sub-committee question a CIA employee.

2. Aimed sharp criticism at a new state department directive designed to curb some Communist writers' books may be used in the U. S. overseas libraries. He got a swift reply indicating the department intends to stick to its guns.

Like so many other mysterious things about that mysterious country, Russia, when did it all take place?

When Did It Happen?

Has Beria already been kicked out of the party and government or did all this happen some time ago?

Just before I left Moscow 10 days ago, high members of the party and government on June 27 watched the premiere of a new opera at the Bolshoi theatre.

Oddly, Beria's name was not listed among those present.

"Do you suppose that it's already happened?" one Western diplomat asked me, rejecting to what we all expected in the Kremlin—perhaps the inevitable arrest of someone like Beria.

The cold-eyed Georgian has been damned in the most terrifying phrase of all in the Soviet lexicon—an enemy of the party and people.

On top of this he has been branded an international imperialist agent, a sickeningly familiar expression.

Beria Has Had It

From almost every angle, Beria has had it.

It is most certain that the Supreme Court, which now has his case in its hands, will give him the works.

One of the momentous points involved in the disgrace of Beria is its possible connection with recent moves of the Soviet government to improve relations with the West.

New Berlin Strike Planned; Predict Amnesty for Rebels

By DON DOANE

BERLIN (AP)—A West Berlin anti-Communist organization reported East Berlin workers planned to strike again today in an effort to free comrades detailed to the Reds in the June 17 rebellion.

As starting whistles sounded at East sector factories this morning, however, there were no immediate reports to show whether the walkouts scheduled had taken place.

The West Berlin organization—The Fighting Group Against Inhumanity—predicted the strike action would spread to at least throughout the Soviet sector of Berlin" and possibly to the dwindling Russian-occupied territory.

Earlier this week, a two-day work slowdown by East sector laborers won the lifting of the Russians' arrest barricade along the East-West border of the divided city. But the 17 persons arrested were far from satisfied with their partial victory.

Thousands of their comrades in the June uprising still are in jail. Work and food conditions are still bad despite Communist promises of improvement.

There were indications that East Germany's hard-pressed Red government would not be hard to persuade. The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf declared that a "fair

His Holiday Unofficial, Meets Jailer

SOUTHPORT, Eng. (Reuters) — Jailbreaker Thomas McNally, 23, thought he was playing it safe when he headed for this crowded summer resort to lie low after escaping from Manchester prison two weeks ago.

But he forgot jailers get vacations just like other people.

The first man he met in town when he stepped off the train was Arthur Hall, a prison officer, and John Cockney of Manchester, an old acquaintance. McNally was whipped back to Manchester within the hour.

FATAL COLLISION

PALMERSTON (CP) — Ernest Leppington, 60-year-old Palmerston man, died in hospital here Thursday night of injuries suffered six hours earlier in a head-on car crash three miles east of here. Mr. Leppington's son, Edward, 32, of RR 2, Palmerston, suffered concussion and lacerations, and Edward's son, Harry, 8, suffered lacerations. They were reported in fair condition.

NEGOTIATORS RUN INTO NO SNAGS IN TRUCE TALKS

Session Devoted To Red Demands

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators held a brief meeting today and apparently ran into no snags in their efforts to clear the final obstacles to a Korean truce despite South Korea's opposition.

Announcement that the top-level delegates will meet again at 11 a.m. Friday (10 p. m. EST) today indicated that today's 29-minute, secret session, the first in 20 days, produced little or no disagreement.

Informed quarters speculated that much of the session was devoted to Communist demands that the United Nations command guarantee South Korean compliance with armistice terms. President Syngman Rhee has threatened to pull his 16-division army out of the UN command and fight on South Korea's own in this country.

Swap Information

There also was speculation that the delegates exchanged information on when members of a five-nation neutral governing commission could start the job of overseeing a truce.

Gen. Mark Clark, the UN Far East commander, suggested to the Communists in June that the two sides negotiators confer to exchange information on the supervisory commission before signing or signing a truce whether or not South Korea objects.

In their reply Wednesday, the Reds suggested that the full delegations convene to "discuss implementation of the armistice agreement" and to work out various preparations necessary before the armistice is signed.

One source pointed out that the prisoner exchange agreement already signed calls for the two sides to trade up-to-date prisoner rosters before a truce is signed. It also provides that the lists be checked before the signing.

There has been no announcement of lists being exchanged.

Executive Sessions Tuesday came after a 20-day recess which began June 8 when word of some 27,000 anti-Communist Korean war prisoners.

The issue on the second anniversary of the first negotiating session.

Rhee refuses to support any truce which does not guarantee unification of Korea soon, by force if necessary.

New York State Gets St. Lawrence Power Plan O.K.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. federal power commission today announced approval of New York state's proposal to build the American half of the $800,000,000 St. Lawrence river power project.

The Canadian part of the project is to be built by the Ontario hydroelectric commission.

The power commission said in its announcement that it is considering the rival application of Public Power Corp. and Water Corp., Trenton, N. J., for authority to build the big project.

Secret Police Chief Charged As Enemy Of Soviet People

Pravda Says He Planned To Seize Party Leadership

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Lavrenty P. Beria, longtime boss of Russia's police forces and first deputy to Premier Malenkov, has been fired from the Soviet government, expelled from the Communist party and turned over to his nation's highest tribunal as a traitor.

The party newspaper Pravda announced this today as an agent of international imperialism and an enemy of the Communist party and the Soviet people."

A party communique said Malenkov himself outlined the case against Beria at a recent meeting of the party central committee which took away party membership and office from the 53-year-old veteran Red.

Removed From Office

A separate communique said the presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) had removed Beria from his posts as first deputy premier of the Soviet Union and minister of internal affairs.

"It was decided also by the presidium that the case on the criminal actions of L. P. Beria should be turned over to the Supreme Court of the USSR," the announcement added.

The party accused Beria of criminal activities designed at subverting the Soviet state in the interests of foreign capitalism" and of trying to put his internal affairs ministry "higher than the government and Communist party of the Soviet Union."

Pravda said he had planned secretly to "seize the leadership of the party and the country" in order to restore capitalism.

Fruits of Fascism

(In Western capitals, non-Communist observers speculated that Beria is the first victim of the power struggle within the ruling Politburo. Their theory is based also that he possibly is being made the scapegoat for the recent East German uprising and other unrest in the Soviet satellites).

Pravda said Beria "has acted in the interests of foreign imperialism and viewed Soviet Russia's existence to the recent riots in Berlin and the release of North Korean prisoners of war by order of South President Syngman Rhee. The Russian press has charged that Beria ordered secret related parts of a Western plan to prevent peace.

The government announced Gen. N. Kruglov had been named interior minister. He had headed the ministry until Stalin's death, when it was combined with Beria's ministry of state security and Beria took over.

Detail of Offenses

Pravda gave these details of Beria's offences:

He directed officials in his ministry on the basis of their personal loyalty to him.

He "put the brake by every means possible on decisions of the most important and urgent questions in the field of agriculture . . . in order to undermine the collec-

Private Interests Given Right To Build Plants

The bill, passed by roll call vote of 262 to 120, now goes to the Senate.

A motion to send the bill back to committee lost on a roll call vote of 254 to 130.

Also defeated was an amendment by Representative Frank Becker (Rep. N.Y.) which proposed that New York state be given the right to build the estimated $460,000,000 project. The amendment was rejected, 136 to 17, by a standing vote.

The measure, if approved by the Senate and signed by President Eisenhower, will give the five big utilities authority to apply to the power commission for a licence to construct the new power facilities.

The bill to give the private utilities authority to construct the new facilities was opposed by the New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey would like his state's power authority to do the work.

Development of the new power facilities is made possible under a 1950 U.S.-Canadian treaty permitting increased diversions of Niagara river water.

Predictions on Result of Beria's Fall Vary from Civil War to World Peace

By Reuters News Agency

World capitals interpreted the dismissal of Lavrenty P. Beria, No. 2 man in Russia's Communist hierarchy, as an important victory by Premier Georgi Malenkov in a behind-the-scenes struggle for power since Stalin's death.

Western observers generally said it could bring either civil war in Russia or improved East-West relations.

In London, The Star said: "Since Stalin's death, (Beria) has been the main advocate of a 'tougher' line—even in the country," may have been made scapegoat for all the unpopular measures of the past governments. Malenkov might be using this as a convenient excuse for getting rid of one of the powerful rival they said.

Italian newspapers acclaimed the news with such headlines as: "The struggle among the Soviet leaders has broken out" and "the beginning of the end," but few commented editorially.

The right-wing Il Tempo said Beria's dismissal is the "first round in favor of Malenkov in the open struggle which will probably continue on the battlefield of civil war."

The crisis has broken out at the top of the Soviet pyramid, said Il Tempo. "It is a political crisis among the highest exponents of Russian and world communism and is therefore being interpreted also as a mortal crisis of communism itself as a form of state organization."

Japanese newspapers headlined the news, but refrained from comment, as did Japanese government officials.

LOUISBURG, N. S. (CP)—Despite the efforts of police, by police and a plane, hunted the waters off eastern Cape Breton Island today, repainted it and caused the drowning of John Burke, 40. A companion, John MacLeod, 21, was rescued by a nearby boat.

Frank Burns, skipper of the rescue craft, said the fin of the killer fish was six feet out of the water just before it rammed Burns' 37-foot fishing smack.

RCMP officers went to sea with the fishermen in an attempt to find the fish. A plane from Sydney was used as a spotter until it was forced to return to base because of bad weather.

Last week Newman Dubinsky was killed by a shark while he was a-bi-Dieu and reported being chased by a giant shark. Burns' boat trailing craft from Little Lorraine, circt miles east of here scaffored for safety when a large fish attacked them.

Burns' body was recovered today, indicating that the fish is not a man-eater. There was some speculation here that the fish might be a giant swordfish and not a shark.

Socreds Plan Candidate In P. E.-Lennox

The Social Credit party may enter a candidate to contest the riding of Prince Edward Lennox, forcing a three-way fight for the constituency according to reports from the district.

The Social Credit party has called a public meeting for Monday night in Napanee where S. R. Patterson, provincial organizer will be the guest speaker.

Party representatives in Napanee say "it is altogether likely" a candidate will be nominated. According to reports, the Rev. E. L. Bisley, a Pentecostal minister, is said to be interested in securing the Social Credit nomination.

George J. Thomas, Progressive Conservative, has represented the riding for the past 18 years.

Mr. Grills extends an invitation to everyone in the riding to visit and make use of the rooms.

Information and literature service to residents of the area will be available at all times Mr. Grills said. He is looking forward to greeting his friends and many new residents of the area.

Letter of Thanks Sent Ont. House By Mayor Haig

When Mayor MacLean Haig returned from the Coronation a little more than a week ago, he wrote a letter of thanks to the Agent General in the United Kingdom, James S. P. Armstrong.

June 30, 1953

Mr. J. S. P. Armstrong,
Agent General for Ontario,
Ontario House,
London, S.W. 1, England.
Dear Mr. Armstrong:

Mrs. Haig and I have just returned from our visit to the Coronation and we again wish to thank you and your staff at Ontario House for the many courtesies extended to us. Our province is to be congratulated for its fine representation in London, not only did it make our visit more pleasant than it otherwise would have been but we realize it constantly presents and maintains the appeal of the fine Province of Ontario to the British people.

Very kind regards,
I remain,
Yours sincerely,
"MacLean Haig",
MacLean Haig, Mayor

Ontario House
13 Charles II, St., London S.W. 1
James S. P. Armstrong
Agent General in the United Kingdom.

6th. July, 1953

Dear Mr. Haig:
Thank you for your letter of June 30th. It was very kind of you to write as you did expressing appreciation of the work being done at Ontario House. It was a great pleasure for us to see so many here from province but I am afraid that so much was in such a condensed period and we were under such a pressure that we were unable to give the personal attention which we would have liked under normal conditions.

I do hope that you will keep our office in mind and in future if you feel there is anything we can do to further the interest of your fair city you will not hesitate to communicate with us.

Mrs. Armstrong joins me in sending to you and Mrs. Haig our warmest personal regards.

Sincerely yours,
"James Armstrong"
J. S. P. Armstrong.

Voter Blundered Badly in Giving Name to Clerk

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said today a man held for alleged impersonation in Thursday's provincial by-election in Montreal Outremont blundered badly when he showed up at poll No. 128.

When he said he was Gerard Leduc of Apartment 4, 2840 Barclay avenue, the returning officer asked:

"You are' certain your name is Gerard Leduc?"

"Quite sure," said the man.

"And your address?"

"2840 Barclay avenue."

"Apartment 4?"

"Correct."

"Well I have news for you" declared the returning officer. 'I am Gerard Leduc. My address is Apartment 4, 2840 Barclay avenue.' As a matter of fact, it is this poll."

Mosquito Menace May Get Worse Says Entomologist

The city and district is being bombarded by an extremely heavy crop of mosquitoes this summer and it may get worse according to an official at the Dominion Parasite Laboratory on Dundas Street.

The entomologist who prefers his name be withheld, has heard numerous complaints from residents to the effect that there appears to be an increase in the size and number of them this season. He said, however, the laboratory has not been surprised at the heavier influx.

Considerable research work into mosquito lives and habits has been going on at the institution for some time and as a result, close watch has been kept during May and June of the woodland variety of mosquito at that time of year.

The entomologist knew this spring there would be a high hatch of the eggs of this variety, possibly in a record quantity of mosquitoes in the summer. However, he does not believe the woodland variety is the cause of all the trouble. There are apparently quite a number of other species which breed and lay eggs later in the season, some in June and July.

Lays All Summer

A mosquito which is known as the rain-barrel type will go on laying eggs all summer. Those too, are contributing to animal human discomfort. But, the one that is causing most of the trouble is the species which lays its eggs in June and late May in rain puddles. There has been an extremely high rate of hatching of these eggs. At the present time, the woodland variety should be on the decline, the entomologist stated.

It is interesting to note, the female is the cause of the trouble. She does all the biting. The male's only purpose in the life span is to fertilize the eggs and die.

The official pointed out that before the male is able to bite she must have what is termed, a blood meal. In other words, she must bite into a human or animal and acquire blood.

After that, the eggs must be fertilized and laid. The female will lay a maximum of 200 eggs, sometimes unfertilized eggs, which will not hatch. Each time a person swats a mosquito and kills it, a maximum of 200 eggs will never be laid. So, . . . keep swatting!

Pickerel, Bass Fishing Good In Hay Bay

Very good fishing is reported from most localities in the Trenton district, this week with visiting anglers numerous. Excellent catches of pickerel and black bass were taken in Hay Bay and eastern end of Lake Ontario, say Landa and Forest Sylvicials.

Departing anglers were checked at the 1000 Island Bridge over the July 4th, weekend by conservation officers of the Rideau and Tweed districts. Approximately 3,000 fishermen were interviewed 75 per cent of whom reported good fishing.

A number were found exceeding exportation limits and lost most of the fish to the bailiff. Questioning revealed that few licensees take the time to acquaint themselves with the regulations, printed for their convenience on the back of the license and regrettably also it appears that too few Canadians try to encourage visitors in this connection.

Obituary

MRS. ALICE LOUISE YEREX

In failing health for some time, Mrs. Alice Louise Yerex, Herchimer Ave., died at the Hannan Nursing Home, Albert Street, on Friday morning. She was born in Casper, Quebec, 82 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Falls, but has lived in this community practically all her life. Her husband, the late William J. Yerex, operated a bakery business in this city for some years. Mrs. Alice Yerex was well known and highly respected and a wide circle of friends will regret her passing at her death.

A member of Holloway Street United Church, she is survived by two sons, Arthur Leslie Yerex of Trenton, William J. Yerex of Belleville, one daughter, Mrs. E. Jackson of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Harrison of Trenton and Mrs. E. J. Kerr of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan. Her husband, William J. Yerex, died in 1927.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel. The funeral arrangements will be made elsewhere in this edition.

Dinner was served at the sheltered pavilion tables and a dinner program was presented. The history of the Robinson-Ketchenson family, complete with photographs of the older members who first came to this country, was delivered by the Rev. R. H. Hamilton.

The reunion will be held again next year at Canatara Park on the first of July. Tentative plans were made to hold the 1955 reunion at Toronto. Buses will be chartered from Chatham, Sarnia, Peterborough, Madoc and Belleville.

Controller Has Plan

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Controller W. Ernest Atkinson Thursday urged the city seek to have several Windsor manufacturing industries designated as defence plants so employees would be eligible for deferments in the purchase of National Housing Act homes.

He said several industries in Sarnia have been granted such classification.

Under terms of the act, Mr. Atkinson said, employees of defence plants can purchase NHA homes for $1,000 down instead of the usual $2,000 down payment.

The suggestion was sent to city solicitor James Watson for study.

Motorcycle Hits Car, Rider Turns Complete Flip

TRENTON. (Special) — The press had a front seat to a rather spectacular accident last night, involving a car and a motorcycle.

The car driven by George Forrest, 61, of Mills Street, Consecon, was turning from Front Street to Ford Street, when a motor bike driven by T. Zanko Ostrowski of Trenton, crashed into the side of it. Gabrowski flew off the seat into the air turned a complete front flip and landed on his feet on the hood of the car. He jumped down off the hood to the pavement and ran around to the right hand side of the car, which by this time had stopped. A passenger sitting on the right side in the car, Keith Geece of Consecon, was not injured.

The cyclist suffered a cut arm and cut and bruised knee. He was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for an examination and later released.

Damage to the car was estimated at $25 to the motorcycle $50.

The car was proceeding north on Front Street and the driver had signalled to turn to Ford Street. The motorcycle travelling south on Front Street hit the car at a forward point on the right front fender.

Will Be Candidate

When the widely-publicized Toronto Police Games Beauty contest is staged July 18. Trenton will be represented by Miss Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bennett of Coulter Crescent. Miss Bennett was

Mathews Resigns

Mathews, whose article about alleged communism in the ranks of Protestant clergymen had stirred up a bitter row, appointed to the newly-created defeat within a few minutes after the White House made public Eisenhower's denunciation of his views.

He submitted a new letter of resignation as executive staff director of McCarthy's subcommittee, with a defiant declaration that his article printed in the June issue of American Mercury magazine "is completely factual and fully documented. He had emphasized that he wrote that the vast majority of clergymen are loyal.

Article "Deplorable"

In cutting words, Eisenhower had made public a message to a religious group declaring that "I fully share" in public reaction to Mathews' accusation was "unjustified and deplorable."

"Such attacks portray contempt for the principles of freedom and democracy," Eisenhower said in a telegram to the three national co-chairmen of the commission on religious organizations of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

"And when these attacks—whatever their professed purpose—become such a vast portion of all the churches or clergy as to create doubt in the hearts of all, the damage to our nation is multiplied. . . ."

GETS 10-YEAR TERM

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice Lauzon, 24, who robbed a grocery store of $17 and shot a man in May, was sentenced Thursday to 10 years in prison and told he only escaped the lash because his health is not good. Lauzon earlier had pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Eugene Lafontaine in criminal court.

Police Baffled, No Trace Found Of Missing Girl

MINAKI, Ont. (CP)—Police officials said Thursday night they were baffled by the disappearance of a five-year-old Winnipeg girl who has been missing five days in swampy bush land near this northwestern Ontario resort.

Geraldine Huggan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jared Huggan, was last seen playing with her five sisters near her grandfather's cottage, six miles west of here.

Officials in charge of the search said there have been no indications of foul play, but the possibility of such an explanation has not entirely been ruled out.

Meanwhile, searchers ranks have been augmented to 120 by the arrival from Winnipeg Thursday night of 65 volunteers from units of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. The soldiers were provided with bloodhounds.

Police, holidayers, railway men, Indian guides and forestry officials have joined in the hunt for the missing child. Newcomers included 16 volunteers from Kenora Ont., and 11 Indians from Minaki.

So far, not a single clue has been uncovered.

APPEAL TO DOCTORS

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Bakers appealed to doctors to go easy on telling overweight patients to slim bread. The International Congress of Master Bakers said bread consumption was becoming seriously, and that unnecessary restriction of bread to healthy people would harm bakers.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices drifted lower in light forenoon stock market trading today as losses and gains with small losses. New Brunswick base metals trended easily.

Leading industrials to lower ground were refining oils, pipelines and utilities.

In the golds group, seniors mixed while junior weakened in two out of the three issues traded. Preston, East Dome and Campbell Red Lake topped the losers, dropping 10 and 20 cents respectively.

Higher-priced base metals provided a weaker trend that has dominated the last few sessions. Smelters, International Nickel, and Noranda all gave up small fractions while Ontario Pyrites dropped pennies in the lower-priced group.

Western oils were also lower as they traded irregularly lower following a temporary firmness in opening activity. Trinidad extended recent losses by easing 25 cents but Britalta Petroleum was unchanged.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Receipts of cattle were up slightly this week at the Ontario stockyards and the prices were 25 cents to $1 higher on most killers. Hogs gained $1, closing steady to strong and calf and lambs were steady but closed $1 higher. Holdover at the close was 300 cattle.

A moderate cattle run of 6,065 head was aided by 650 carried from last week. Choice light steers to $30.50 and good light $28-$29; good light $28-$29; medium to $27; plain as low as $16; good to choice heifers and steers $17-17.75; a few $18; good heifers $18.50-19; plain $15-$16; good to $14; good cows $14-15; heifery cows $16; good heavy bulls $13.50-14.50; plain light bulls $10-12; choice fed yearlings $20-21.50; one lot $21.75; medium down-graded to $17.50; medium to good stockers $25.50-28.

Calves totalled 1,307 head. Prices steadied at $18-20 for bulk of choice vealers with a few tops at $21-22; common to medium $12-17; good calves $10-14.

Hogs were 2,687 head. Prices opened steady at $32 for grade A and gained to $33 on Tuesday; dressed sold at $52.

Sheep and lamb receipts were 842 head. Good spring lambs offered and sold steady at $28 but closed at $29; bucky were a $1 discount at $27 closing at $28; culls $20-25; common to medium sheep $5-8; good light sheep up to $16.

PRODUCE MARKET

Sales were from at the egg market. Quotations for graded eggs in fifty cases were: A large 70; A medium 67-68; A small 58; grade B 47 grade C 42. Wholesale to retail: A large 74-75; A medium 72-73; A small 55 grade B 52; grade C 47.

Butter solids: first grade tenderable 58 cents; non-tenderable 56½-56¾; 40-score non-tenderable 57¾.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 11-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 99⅝ cents. Pound sterling $2.79 11-16, against $2.79 13-16.

Bowling News

Perfect weather greeted the women's section of the Bowling Club at their regular Thursday afternoon session on the greens. Mrs. D. L. Storey, Mrs. Gordon Vanduzer, Mrs. Orvil Joseph, Mrs. Gault as skip, won the major award, with Mrs. J. McKeen, Mrs. Orlo Smith, Mrs. Joseph Black with Mrs. H. H. McBride as skip, the runner-up.

Bridge winners at the club-house were: Miss Allan Dempsey, Mrs. W. Smith and Mrs. A. Timmerman, and the tea hostesses were: Mrs. Cyril McBride, Mrs. Doug Row and Mrs. Harry Thompson.

On Wednesday afternoon a rink of Mrs. Vera Kyle, Mrs. Clift Argue, Mrs. H. Thompson and Mrs. Harold Cross, as skip, journeyed to Cobourg and came home with the two-game high score. They defeated seven rinks there for a three-game high count but tied the Cobourg four and lost on the extra end. As one of the rink's members said: "It was a tough day, but we had a most exciting shot before the last bowl was played."

Tonight the regular 7:30 play will be held and every member is requested to be on hand before that time. Also the draw and games can be completed before too late an hour. The mosquito spirals have been quite particularly bad for past two weeks, but with cooler and more pleasant are in bowling will result. The greens are coming along in great shape and soon will be the best in this section of the province.

The last game for the Governor-General's trophy for this section will have been held Monday night when two teams from the Belleville green and Kingston will hook up, a Kingston rink coming to Belleville, and one local rink going to Kingston, the total score counts in this series. Belleville has already defeated Trenton and Deseronto and the rink in this game will put the locals in against the winners of the western section.

NEW BERLIN

reaching amnesty" for those responsible, and open revolt already is being prepared.

The Telegraf said the clemency was ordered by Vladimir Semichastny, Soviet high commissioner in East Germany, who is reported to have returned this week from Moscow.

Another unconfirmed report filtered with the story. It said all pending trials of East Berliners have been halted until Monday when a "new policy" is expected to be announced.

East German Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl has publicly assured workers that imprisoned workers are being released as soon as it is proved their rules in the uprising were minor. The Telegraf said, however, that some other East zone leaders, apparently fearful that revolt may flare anew, have opposed an amnesty.

West Berlin's Mayor Ernest Reuter, in a radio speech marking the Soviet's restoration of free travel across the border, told East zone workers Thursday night their pressure had forced the Soviets to abandon attempts to build a Communist state in their zone.

Will Achieve More

"Past events now show that one achieves something even under armed," Reuter declared. "we have achieved much and will achieve more."

Despite the lifting of travel restrictions, slowdown strikes continued in many East Berlin plants Thursday. The U.S. state department's specialist, Jesse Zeiland, said there were demonstrations against Communist bosses in several factories.

Power Project Approved By Federal Society

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal power commission has unanimously approved New York's application to join with Canada in construction of the St. Lawrence river power project. It was learned authoritatively Thursday night.

The power project in the International Rapids section of the river is held to be a necessary prelude to harry to the proposed St. Lawrence seaway.

A wholly reliable source told a reporter that the commission acted Thursday on the application which has been before the FPC since 1940.

Under the proposal, New York's power authority would join with the Ontario hydro-electric power commission in constructing the project.

If a pending court action seeks to halt the commission's action is unsuccessful, construction of the project would get started promptly.

Completion of the power project would give Canada an opportunity to build more generators at the Lawrence seaway by itself on its own side of the river if the U.S. persists in refusal to participate in the 27-foot-deep waterway.

At Ottawa, Transport Minister Lapointe refused comment on the agreement. However, Mr. Chevrier said in an election campaign speech at Cornwall that he was pleased that the New York state power authority will be able to go ahead in 60 days to co-operate on the power phase of the seaway and power project.

Find Skeletons Of Five Babies In English Home

HARWICK, England (Reuters)—Skeletons of five babies have been discovered in a demolished house at this port town on the east coast.

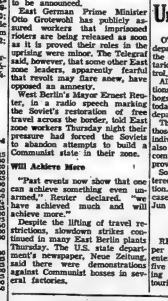
Workmen repairing damage inflicted by the city's floods came across the first two. Then police ordered the search for more.

One of the skeletons was wrapped in coal, another seven in a piece of canvas.

The house in which the skeletons were found stands in a district flooded to a depth of several feet in last February's severe floods. The whole area had to be evacuated and many houses are still unoccupied.

Hog Cholera Outbreak Now Under Control

OTTAWA (CP)—The agriculture department today announced that the outbreak of hog cholera in Ontario now is considered under control.



All regulations—with two exceptions—restricting the movement of hogs in the province are revoked today by ministerial order, the department said.

The shipping ban still applies to those animals under quarantine on individual premises. It still applies also on the sale in or out of community sales barns in the province.

Some 2,800 hogs were slaughtered because of the cholera infection. The department said no new cases have been reported since Jun 19 in Ontario.

MARMORA

Dr. John S. Stock, Family Take Up Residence

MARMORA — Dr. John S. Stock, wife and family of seven sons and daughter have moved into the residence just west of Crowe River bridge, built and occupied for a year or so by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wood, who have moved to their Sylvan Lodge at Belmont Lake.

Dr. Stock is a native of Belleville, where his father was city treasurer and a number of years and with Mrs. Stock, being a daughter of J. E. Dickens, of the same city, they are already known to some of the village's residents. Dr. Stock, it is understood, will have his office open on this week.

Window Shattered

The plate glass in the northern window of Mr. Lynch's store was shattered on Tuesday evening by a car belonging to Joseph Gray. As the latter backed out of his car facing the store as he put on the brakes and alighted from the car. As he did so, the vehicle commenced to move. Here is a drop of a few inches from the side of the road to the sidewalk. This drop was enough to upset the car sufficiently for its bumper to strike the window pane and shatter the glass. While the car apparently was not damaged the replacement of the plate glass will be somewhat costly.

Kenneth C. McKay, who recently has been a credit officer in the head office of the Dominion Bank in Toronto, has been appointed to succeed Alex. Fraser, manager of the Marmora branch, whose resignation will shortly take effect. Mr. McKay joined the Dominion Bank in Wingham in 1935 and has served the bank in Brampton, London and the Fairbank branch in Toronto.

From 1942 to 1945 he was with the armed services, as a pilot instructor with the RCAF.

Another change at the local bank office is that of Miss Michael Forestell, the teller, to the Islington branch, and singular to relate Alex. Fraser, successor, but no relative to the resigning manager, has arrived from Montreal to succeed him. Also has been a newcomer to the staff is Mrs. Marilyn Stevens, of Minden, formerly of a Toronto branch of the Dominion Bank. Mrs. Stevens who recently retired from the bank's employ, to take up residence in Marmora.

CHARACTER ACTOR DIES

NEW YORK (AP)—John Farrell, 70, character actor in musical comedy and silent screen productions, died of a heart attack Thursday at his Brooklyn home. Farrell was born in Boston, entered vaudeville as a singing and dancing comedian. With Joseph Santos, who became his wife, he formed the team of Sexton and Farrell, widely known on the vaudeville circuits for many years.

HEAVY TRAFFIC TOLL

LONDON (Reuters) — The British highway commission reported Thursday that 218,000 men, women and children have been killed in auto accidents in Britain since 1896. First known victim was killed Aug. 17, 1896 when struck down by a car driven at four miles an hour.

KILLED IN COLLISION

CORNWALL (CP) — Reginald Moore, believed to be from Montreal, was killed Thursday in the head-on crash of an automobile and a transport truck at Dickinson's Landing, 10 miles west of here. Details of the mishap were not available.

40th Anniversary Of Air Force To be Celebrated

SOESTERBERG AIRBASE, Holland (Reuters)—Canada's contribution toward arming North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations will be celebrated on July 18 when Royal Netherlands Air Force celebrates its 40th anniversary with a display of jet strength.

More than 600 planes from Canada and seven other NATO nations will join in Western Europe's biggest air show, from the field where the first Netherlands air force plane took off in 1913.

Representing Canada will be three squadrons of Canadian-built Sabre jet fighters from the RCAF's No. 3 fighter wing at Zweibroeck, Germany. Leading them will be Wing Cmdr. R. T. P. Davidson of Vancouver.

With the United States a Kingdom, Canada has supplied technical training to the rebuilt Netherlands air force, as she has to France, Denmark, Italy and Belgium.

Supplied under her two-year $1,200,000 Lend-Lease program have been armaments ammunition, jet engines and other equipment. Canada has trained Dutch pilots and navigators for combat aerial NATO exercises.

Guest of honor at the air show will be Queen Juliana of the Netherlands.

SHOULD WE DISOWN SOUTH AFRICA?

Prime Minister Daniel Malan, of South Africa, says that there is no need for South Africa to leave the Commonwealth to maintain its apartheid policy.

This immediately raises the question of whether there may not be a need for the Commonwealth to leave South Africa, for the only kind of freedom in which Malan appears interested is a freedom to act in a manner which cannot help but disgust all those who have a real appreciation of the principles on which the Commonwealth is founded.

A few days ago the Ontario Intelligencer published an editorial arguing that every patriot in the world, providing it is not actually engaged in an aggressive war, should be eligible for membership in the United Nations. That one is prepared to swallow the Malenkov camel, why strain at the Malan gnat? The answer is simple. The British Commonwealth is become an effective organization, must include for, as well as friend. The British Commonwealth, if it is to continue to be an effective organization, must consist solely of nations with a common purpose.

That purpose is somewhat difficult to define. The Christian might be inclined to say that the growth of the Kingdom of God on earth—but only a minority of the citizens of the Commonwealth are Christians. The royalist might refer to the rich heritage of the Crown—but many of the Commonwealth residents are republicans. The conservative might talk of the preservation of traditions, the liberal of the spread of freedom. Yet, perhaps, all these things are too much, rather than too little. For what the Commonwealth nations have in common is a very small thing, intangible yet ever-present. Suppose we attempt to define it merely as good-will towards each other.

Now small though that bond be, it is yet tremendously strong, because in today's world it is so rare. South Africa, endeavoring relentlessly difficult for a Hindu to bear any good will towards South Africa and if many Canadians feel it equally difficult it can be argued that they should be proud of rather than ashamed of that fact. It is quite obvious that Malan bears no good-will towards the natives of Pakistan or of Burma, the West Indies or Rhodesia.

Discarding South Africa, thrusting her out of the Commonwealth, would have dangerous repercussions. Commonwealth unity would be destroyed beyond repair. We might easily harm, rather than help, the people whose welfare we are endeavoring. It is not a step to be taken without mature consideration—and the average citizen of Canada or of any of the other Commonwealth countries is not equipped, either by training or by the question the study it would require before any decision is reached.

Let us, however, recognize that, if the step would not be without grave disadvantages, it would also not be without possible benefits. Its effect on Britain's prestige in Asia, and particularly in Pakistan, India, Burma and Malaya, would be tremendous. In Africa, it would provide natives in other Commonwealth territories with concrete evidence that Britain disapproved of the violently discriminatory apartheid policies of Premier Malan.

And that is one final point. It would free Commonwealth countries in the United Nations. Eventually, it is inevitable that the South African problem will come to lengthy consideration by that parliament of the nations. When that day arrives, if South Africa is still a member of the Commonwealth, it is almost certain that an attempt will be made to censure the representatives of the Commonwealth by threats of South African withdrawal in the event of their casting votes unfavorable to the Malan regime.

It might be preferable, if South Africa is to quit the Commonwealth in any event, that it be pushed out, rather than being given the privilege of voluntarily withdrawing.

DOING WHAT COMES NATURALLY!

Wilfrid Jury, curator of the Museum of Indian Archeology at the University of Western Ontario, is concerned. For several years now Mr. Jury has been directing excavations at the site of the Huron village of Ossossane, where Brebeuf and Lalemant were captured by the Iroquois in 1649. A summer school of Indian archeology is held there every year. This year the class is a good enrolment, principally of the students are girls.

Mr. Jury ought not to be surprised. Digging up the news about neighborhood goings-on comes naturally to the feminine gender. It is unsurprising that the archeologist and the housewife is that the latter's concern is with what happened last night, not back in 1649.

TASTES DIFFER

Frequently odd little bits of information are picked up in strange ways. Perhaps you may write or say something which they believe to be interesting and one may be completely indifferent to the main theme, but intensely interested by some aside, a casual remark thrown in as an afterthought.

BBC London Letter provided one of those instances. It quoted Barbara MacFadyean speaking in the BBC's general election service. Britons today talk continuously about food, she says. It was once considered bad taste, "just as it was bad taste to talk about money."

It is not considered bad taste in Canada today to talk about money. Was this ever the case? We asked an older colleague. "No," he replied, "not as long as you weren't bragging."

It is not considered bad taste in Canada to talk about food, either, although it is less often the subject of conversation than is money.

Why the different attitude?

Come to think of it, is there any place in the world where it is bad taste to talk about the weather?

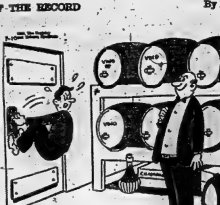
ENGINEERS ARE CAREFUL

For every railroad engineer
The rules are plain:
He must, unless the road is clear,
Slow down the train.



But thoughtless drivers chat with friends;
Aside they stare,
And never think that life depends
On taking care.

His train in motion, never he Should turn his back.
Mile after mile his eyes must be
Upon the track.

They'll drive, full-speed, without a fear,
A red light through;
And that, a wise, old engineer,
Would never do.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE SECRET

One of the most beautiful stories I have ever read was written by Robert Herrick and published in 1900. It is called "The Master of the Inn." It is the story of two physicians who were in love with the same woman. She was pledged to one of them, but before the day of trip she met the other, whom she had known years before and with whom her earlier decision and she agreed to break her first engagement and marry the new acquaintance.

It turned out unhappily. The one to whom she looked for power failed to be a powerful force in the country, where he established an inn for the treatment of sick minds and souls. To this place, not knowing of the circumstances, came the physician who had taken from him the one woman whom he loved. He was broken in health. No longer did his skill as a surgeon serve him.

The Master of the Inn cured him, brought him back to his former power. Before leaving for his hospital there was an intimacy talk, and there was a discovery that revealed the life story of each man. Then they were again beckoned to the face of the fact: the one had taken all and left next love turned to hatred in his heart, and the other had lost and the bitter turned to sweet!"

"At last the surgeon rose and stood before the Master and said, 'I learned the Secret,' he said, 'and now it is time for me to go.' For a long time the Master sat alone before the little pool where they had talked, his face graven like the face of an old man, who has seen the circle of life and understands."

Here in this little book has been told the story of two men. One gave all. The other took all. Kindliness and selflessness had richer influence and genuine power. He was the successful life. He it was who revealed the Secret to life itself.

The Times Exceptional

St. Catherines Standard

British sport specialists certainly went into a rave over the performance of Marlene Stewart in winning the British women's amateur championship in Wales on Thursday. "Do look at his wonder girl" one could not imagine in her tiny hands a golf club becomes lethal to her opponents," wrote The Daily Mail expert. "Nothing so solidly constructed and correct as this child," wrote The Manchester Guardian after the deep end with this superlative: "Clearly one of the finest players to-day."

But trust the old London Times to run true to form. No dazzy dithers there, no smashing of tradition or precedent. The Times' golf writer Miss Sewart played "quite exceptional" golf.

Good old Times, it had to be the exception itself. It's really not done, you know, to overstate anything.

Hurray, Children Away

(New York Times)

Well, the children are away at camp now, so this is an excellent time to begin thinking about the time to disconnect the radio, the television and the record player, and in the late afternoon and early evening to sit in silence. That unaccustomed quiet may be frightening for a bit, but after a day or two the tendency to jump at the sudden sight or sound will and the calm peace will be comforting. This is the time to use the house a fair sort of cleaning, content in the knowledge that the children's rooms will not be scattered about the living room and bedroom, will not rest, as traps for the unwary, at the head of the stairs. This is the time to go early to bed with a book, in the serene assurance that when morning comes that first start of wakefulness will be caused by nothing more violent than a roving mosquito. Violence at night is defined as children coming home after parties, which now they are at camp and it is time to begin living. And one must set firmly upon that objective, a great deal of pure living can be crowded into the next few short weeks.

The children are away, and this is the time for living. One of the component parts of good living lies in the deliberate irregularity of meals. Now that children are about, custom, if nothing else, decrees that meals be set out on schedule. Breakfast is at a certain hour, lunch at a certain hour, dinner the same. They are changeless, except through some episode terrible to contemplate. Now, at last, in this time of living, we may have the flexibility of refined rubber. This does not mean that the cook may sleep late and the stretching is done primarily on behalf of the housewife. Invited guests of children, and it consists of loading up more than potatoes. It means instead that breakfast may be at any hour, dinner at any hour, by the whim so decrees, both dinner and the following morning's breakfast may be eaten together at some time in the neighborhood of midnight. That is living. That is getting fully away from the deadening routine of the year, and it constitutes a natural reward for rearing the children's being away at camp now.

And about these meals — there is another thing of some importance, now that the time for real living has come about. These meals need not follow the usual substance of those of the rest of the year. It is known and recognized, for days, that when the children are about, such tedious greenery as spinach and string beans must form a too large part of the main meals. But it is that children are away at camp, much of this dubious material may be used in favor of such items as lobster. For growing children too much lobster would of course be bad, while for adults in this time of real living, lobster does give enough iron, iodine and such — and all of it prodigiously fresh — served by the dinner itself. The summer is no time for the personal digestion to go on the rewards, and if digestion can be done for the children, it can be done for them. Then, too, great masses of cherry-stone clams are not for children at all, but are highly they may regard them. At the prices they are now, they are not even strictly for the time of adult living. Also, a dozen ears of corn on the cob, entire breasts of chicken set in aspic, and the like, are not for children, nor for the freezer last March for this time of real living.

Then, again, this time of real living is splendid one for the renewal of old friendships. That unaccustomed quiet which April evening was due to nothing save the unaccustomed absence of children. After an afternoon spent talking children to the circus, tempers ought to be at their sweetest and everyone said a bit more than he had intended to say. This is the go living again, it also is time to telephone those friends one would like to make guarded apologies. The chances are the reply will be that they are glad you're bereaved, for they too are anxious for the renewal of real living. Children are now in camp also. This is the time of real living given to the renewal of former friends as well, and with them to carry on the unaccustomed conversation living deep into the night. At other times of the year that is to be avoided by the children who moves to a new address, for after the change of address as widely as possible. The cheapest and easiest way to do this is to have a sufficiency of envelope-sized cards printed, carrying the change of address, to be mailed out to as many friends and businesses as can be recalled, and thereafter to be sent to all those from whom re-addressed mail comes. A hundred such cards can be got for under $5, a small price to pay for the convenience of your postman and the new occupant of the former address.

Railway Marks Its Centenary

(New York Times)

Exactly one hundred years ago today (July 7) ten small railroad companies merged to organize the Central Railroad. The newly formed railroad with its 154 miles of trackage was the most outgrew its infancy. Within eight years of its founding it was servicing the greater part of New York State and before ten decades of steady progress and consistent improvements, it spans 10,700 miles of track in eleven states.

As part of its centenary program for better railroading which will include the spending of $27,500,000 on new Diesel equipment which will make the railroad's Diesel fleet the largest in the nation. Also, within the next few months all steam locomotives that now service the line's 2,900 miles of track in New York State will be replaced by Diesel-powered units. Also on the list of improvement for the centenary year the company expects to construct all the way from Chicago to Cleveland and all passenger services will be handled by Diesel power, leaving the company at the end of the year with 1,000 Diesel units handled harnessed by Diesel engines.

The festivities are in order for a railroad that has come as far as the New York Central in the last hundred years. Certainly, we can hope that the next hundred years will be as successful as the first and that passengers will continue to patronize the service as this famed "water-level route."

Nice Ways To Open Letters

(Ottawa Journal)

Most of our letters start with a crisp "Dear Sir" and end with "Yours Sincerely" or other pleasantries. Recently we received, by mail, a note from a couple of Germans who want work in Canada who addressed us as "Dear Greatest Newspaper of Ottawa!"

We like the sound of how much nicer we could be in our written salutations. The milkman who leaves the cream could be "Dear Sir" should be encouraged on his rounds with a hearty "Bonjour!" The man with a long red tongue and the label, "Not Today, Comrade, Tomorrow!" could be thought that instead of being mean to the income tax collector we should write as we pay, "Hand in Hand, in United Self-denial, We Walk Together into the Future."

We have a plan to have our bank statements begin with the signature we use on cheques so that each time we get one we will be reminded to say YIA, which as any fool would know mean "Yours in Affection." Meanwhile, we shall butcher the baker and mudguard the maker being grateful for their accuracy and they would send us notes such as "Pay the Balance by July 20" or "Remember, Only 10 Days Left!"

We wondered if the politicians would be interested in calling each other "Brother" until August 16 and "Comrade" after that, according to the story by Mr. Herridge, a CCF member from British Columbia, whose father was a Liberal stalwart. The Conservative Party, under Bracken, was asked to explain how they can't unfold into the horrid fold enclosure.

"Ah", said Mr. Herridge, "my Willie is a lad now but he was wounded in the head in the first war and he's never been the same since."

We were prepared to go rhapsodizing on when a colleague passed and said that naturally if we replied to letters addressed to clients we would begin our letter "Achtung!" He explained this meant "Attention!" and would be sure of attention. This eso delighted us that we started our letter "Sir:" and proceeded to forget the whole business.

BACK TO THE SNICKERSNEE

Brief glossary:
Snickersnee—A cutting weapon.

Dr. Brady

Tonsillotomy.
Cutting of a portion of the tonsil.

Tonsillectomy
—Complete removal of tonsil.

Tonsillectomee
—Polite name for a snickersnee.

"If the surface of the organ" (tonsil) "be regular the removal of a small portion (tonsillotomy) by means of the tonsillotome will, by reason of the contraction of the scar tissue which necessarily follows, materially reduce its size, the object of this procedure being merely to relieve the symptoms without the removal of the entire tonsil" (tonsillectomy), "as its presence is physiological."

Just what are the symptoms which tonsillotomy relieves? In other words, what harm does enlargement, overgrowth, hypertrophy of the tonsils do to the child?

In the same standard textbook the symptoms which call for tonsillotomy are:

1. Interference with breathing through nose.
2. Food or fluids tend to get up into nose-throat space behind soft palate when child swallows.
3. Hearing may be dulled or earache or inflamation of lining cavity may result from pressure on orifices of Eustachian tubes in nose-throat space behind tonsils.
4. Child apt to become mouth breather because nasal airways obstructed.
5. Child generally restless at night. Sleep disturbed by rasping, hacking, bronchial or asthmatic cough.
6. Child likely to become anemic, languid, mentality and physically deficient because of prolonged oxygen deficiency.
7. The same kind of hacking cough as that above mentioned begins, in many instances, soon after the child lies down.
8. In some instances enlarged tonsils not only thicken the voice, but interfere with articulation or clear speech.

That's all . . . The question of infection or the relative of enlargement of tonsils to the child's susceptibility or immunity to cri (commits respiratory infections) is irrelevant. For the child's sake, I beg you good guardians of this fact firmly in mind: Children whose tonsils have been removed are likely to have mastoiditis, otitis media, sinusitis, impetigo fever, and what unfeasible doctors and laymen call "colds" (undistended infections) are children whose tonsils are intact. If any physician or specialist states that he can dispute this assertion I'll cite medical authorities to back it up. Again I warn you parents and guardians of growing children not to allow the tonsils ever ready operator that the child will no longer have such frequent attacks after removal of the tonsils.

Now about the snickersnee — next time maybe we'll get to it before the bell.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When people move to new homes, they generally take it for granted that it is the post offices responsibility to forward their mail. The post office does undertake to forward mail to the new address for a limited period, despite the fact that the re-addressing of mail has to be done by a very busy individual postman who has a hard and routine facing him every-day, as well as a long walk and usually a heavy load.

When that period is up, the new occupant of the former house is expected to go to the trouble of re-addressing the mail. But it is undoubtedly the duty and responsibility of the citizen who moves to a new address to make the change of address as widely as possible. The cheapest and easiest way to do this is to have a sufficiency of envelope-sized cards printed, carrying the change of address, to be mailed out to as many friends and businesses as can be recalled, and thereafter to be sent to all those from whom re-addressed mail comes. A hundred such cards can be got for under $5, a small price to pay for the convenience of your postman and the new occupant of the former address.

After a while, nothing still dribbles in but circulars sent by people who buy those ready-made lists of names and addresses. And it is a simple matter to arrange to have these circulars left in a basket by the new occupant; for they will be addressed to him. These commercial mailing lists are outdated many years.

The forwarding of summer mail is another headache to the postman. Each day he is asked to the re-addressing on his walk, and in some neighborhoods where a large number of the residents are away all summer, this involves a great deal of clerical work each morning. For around one dollar, the resident can have small envelopes printed that means not only less extraneous work for the postman, but also more efficient delivery of mail. Some postmen don't write very legibly.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

DESIGN FOR LIVING

When marine architects design a ship, they must consider the work they provide more water-tight compartments than are likely to be necessary; they equip the vessel with lifeboats and rafts far in excess of holding more people than will ever be aboard; they arrange for lifejackets and emergency flares, auxiliary pumps and so on. They hope that all this equipment will never have to be used. But they know that if these things are needed, it will be too late to supply them then.

The wise man prepares for life in the same way. He hopes for the best, but he acknowledges the possibility of the worst. He desires, for example, to be honest; but he knows that great temptations may come to him. Accordingly, he strengthens his own standards by aiming at the high standards set by his colleagues.

He desires to be temperate, but he knows that humans often overindulge; and so he schools himself in the self-discipline which his strength requires of its members.

He desires to be happy, but he knows that tragedy strike any life and that sadness is bound to come sometime to all. So he strengthens his spiritual life, that he can face whatever comes with perfect confidence. Assuming that the ship of his life has been designed by the Great Architect of all creation,

Drew Declares Camp Visit Ban Always Ignored

PEMBROKE (CP) — George Drew Thursday took issue with the application of a defence department regulation which banned a visit to Petawawa military camp.

He told newsmen he was the initiation "has been honored by its breach ever since." He was elected in 1827, prohibiting visits by election candidates to armed forces camps or units.

The Progressive Conservative leader said the regulation apparently has not been applied to defence Minister Claxton, himself a candidate, during the present campaign for the Aug. 10 general election.

A visit to nearby Petawawa camp had been planned as one week Mr. Drew's election campaign trip to this Ottawa valley town. It was cancelled because of the regulation which bans campaigning in military establishments.

Mr. Drew referred to a letter from Mr. Claxton to Edgar Hunt a local party organizer who had requested permission for the visit. The letter said Mr. Drew would "ordinarily" be welcome at Petawawa or any other military camp, but it added that military regulations prohibit such visits and that revenue Minister McCann and J. M. Forgie, Liberal candidates in Renfrew South and North constituencies, were also unable to visit the camp.

Referring to Mr. Claxton, he said; "I'd be very interested to know under what arrangement he is visiting military camps at the present time."

Hundreds Faced With Eviction

TORONTO (CP) — Hundreds of families in suburban North York who live in rented quarters are faced with eviction. The township has given notice it intends to enforce a single-family dwelling by-law.

Homeowners in the Summit Heights and Beverly Hills sections have been notified that any tenants sharing accommodation in single-family units must vacate by Sept. 1.

C. Frank Moore, township solicitor, said Thursday night that the action was taken as a result of a protest by ratepayers against the practice of many homeowners in areas designated as single-family dwelling zones renting part of their accomodation.

Quebec Liberal Leader Winner In By-Election

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Liberals have won their first provincial by-election since 1944 and a legislature seat for their leader, Georges Lapalme, who has remained outside the Quebec House since he was chosen to head the party in 1950.

While carrying the traditionally-Liberal constituency of Montreal-Outremont Thursday the Liberals saw the Union Nationale government retain the constituencies of Matapedia and Portneuf.

Called to fill vacancies caused by deaths, the by-elections left the standing in the legislative assembly unchanged from July 31, 1952 when general elections were held.

Mr. Lapalme, 46-year-old Joliette, Que., lawyer, became the first Quebec Liberal leader to occupy a seat in the legislature since 1948. His predecessor, Senator Adelard Godbout was defeated personally in general elections that year.

Mr. Lapalme resigned the federal seat of Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm to accept a convention's offer of the provincial leadership in 1950. In the 1952 general election he was defeated in Joliette by Labor Minister Barrett.

Polling was marked by ficticuffs and disturbances that led to several arrests. The trouble subsided when the counting of ballots started. Mr. Lapalme led from the outset over Bernard Couvrette, Union Nationale, and two other candidates.

With four of 2932 polls unreported, the count was:

Mr. Lapalme, 15,229; Mr. Couvrette, 10,966; Robert Holland, Independent Liberal, 387; and Yvon Chan Nerenberg, Labor-Progressive, 402.

Condition 'Poor'

TORONTO (CP)—Officials at the Toronto General Hospital early today said the condition of Mrs. Wilson Corson, 59, shot in the head Tuesday, is poor.

Mrs. Corson had a brain operation Wednesday after being brought from her home at Port Union, 15 miles west of here.

Police said she was wounded by a .22-calibre revolver bullet when the gun accidentally discharged while her husband was loading it to shoot rats.

British Designer Working on New Jet Fighter

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — A top British plane designer is working on a new supersonic pocket jet fighter, only a third as heavy and a quarter as expensive as the conventional type.

The pint-sized plane will give nothing away to ordinary sized competitors except size, claims W. E. W. Petter who designed the record breaking Canberra jet bomber used by the RAF. Petter is building a prototype of the little plane, dubbed the Gnat.

He expects it to be a potent intelligence or bomber weapon, and at the same time to be able to five times as fast to produce as other planes.

The statistics listed by Petter make Gnat the lightweight fighter craft turned out by the Japanese during the Second World War, cashing in on economy and manoeuvreability at the expense of the pilot's lack of armor protection.

The resemblance is only skin deep however. Petter's plans discount the possibility of the pilot being merely an expendable addition to existing armaments.

What he has in mind is a heavy hitting fighter, with sweet wings, two 30 or 30 millimetre guns fighter sight, radar, and power controls and possible radar ranger, finding equipment for the guns.

Petter thinks it may be possible to produce as many as 900 Gnats for the £2,000,000 that it costs to buy 215 Sabre jets or other up-to-the-minute fighters.

Petter estimates the combined weight of the necessary equipment plus pilot may total only 2,250 pounds, 40 per cent of the plane's total weight.

He calls his hypothetical craft a practical flying weapon whose short production time and saving on man - hours in construction "makes possible efficient production in many countries which might otherwise not be able to contribute to their own and North Atlantic Treaty Organization defence."

State Secretary Opposed to Cut In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—John Foster Dulles said Thursday it is too early to make a long-term assessment of signs of unrest behind the Iron Curtain.

The state secretary appealed to a congressional committee not to "let down our guard" by cutting funds requested for the foreign aid program and declared the Soviet "peace offensive" should not lull the United States into a false mood of security.

His comments were made before Moscow radio announcement that Lavrenty Beria has been fired as chief of Russia's secret police and is being held for trial as a traitor.)

Dulles appeared before the Senate appropriations committee which began to consider the appropriations for the Eisenhower administration's proposed foreign aid program for 1953-54.

President Eisenhower asked for $5,000,000,000, but Congress has limited this to a ceiling of about $5,000,000,000, and the Senate and House of Representatives now must decide on the actual funds to be voted within the limit already decided on.

"The Soviet Union continues to be a totalitarian regime which controls the destinies of a third of mankind and which has at its disposal a vast and powerful military force," Dulles said. "Nothing happened to change that basic fact."

Five-day Week Gaining Ground Says Gazette

OTTAWA (CP) — The 40-hour five-day week apparently is growing in popularity, the June issue of the Labor Gazette says.

The Labor Gazette official journal of the labor department, says that a survey showed 75 per cent of plant workers in manufacturing industries were working a five-day week by December, 1952, a five-per cent increase over the previous October.

The percentage of workers on a 40-hour week rose to 40 from 36 during the same period. Fewer than 20 per cent had a 40-hour week week in 1947. The survey was based on 6,700 establishments employing more than 800,000 plant workers.

The survey showed that workers in British Columbia have the shortest hours. Seventy per cent of them are on the 40-hour week and 81.2 per cent on a five-day week.

South Africa Plans to Curb Sale of Drugs

By LOUIS WIID

PRETORIA (Reuters) — South Africa is considering legislation to curb the sale of such habit-forming drugs sold freely over the counter and is reducing preparations, cures for insomnia and stimulants to ward off sleep.

Druggists have been asked to agree on voluntary measures to control sales of stimulants and sedatives. If they do not reach such an agreement soon, the government is expected to introduce legislation to add the drugs to the country's poison list.

The druggists themselves have been pressing through their national association to have laws enacted to channel sales of all medicinal substances through their own profession and ban sale by ordinary stores.

Acting health secretary R. J. Smit wrote to the South African Medical Journal appealing to doctors to restrict prescriptions for the amphetamine group of drugs. These drugs, sold under a variety of trade names, are stimulants used for reducing, relieving sleepiness and fatigue.

Smit says the department has investigated cases of addiction due to these drugs and "in each case, the individual admitted that he or she had become an addict."

The amphetamines are also sometimes used by students who want to keep awake while studying for examinations, and by motorists driving at night.

Their use sometimes leads to insomnia. Then people have to take barbiturates to get to sleep, thus building a vicious circle.

Another danger is that the so-called "fast set" frequently offers a drug or the amphetamine group along with a cocktail "to pep up the party."

Some druggists offer a "party mixture" to clients who drop in asking for something to cure a hangover. This "party mixture" contains drugs which can lead to addiction and which are doubly dangerous if taken in a cycle of drugs and alcohol.

Suspect Cattle Shipment May Be Diseased

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture department spokesmen said today 386 swine and 41 cattle are being held at New Westminster, B.C., awaiting a report on whether they are suffering from a highly infectious animal disease.

The swine and cattle comprised a shipment from Edmonton to the United States. U. S. authorities stopped the shipment Wednesday at the international boundary at Blaine, Wash., when some of the animals were found to be suffering from foot injuries.

The animals are being examined to determine if the condition of their feet is due to simple injuries or the result of vesicular exanthema, a highly contagious disease, not present widespread in the U. S. So far the disease has not appeared in Canada.

Worst Weather For Hay in Years

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Some of the worst harvest weather for hay in years is spoiling considerable quantities of the expected bumper crop and has resulted in Elgin farmers burning it in their fields.

A. V. Langton, agriculture representative here, says he has seen two district farmers burning hay in the last two days, and has heard reports of other hay burnings.

"This is wrong and wasteful," Mr. Langton said Thursday.

IMPRESSIVE RECORD

EDMONTON (CP) — Between 1946 and 1951 inclusive at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto, Alberta won 21 grand championships, 16 of them coming in judging of grains and seeds. The province also won 12 reserve grand championships in this division.

Beria Most Hated Individual In Soviet Empire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lavrenty P. Beria, a squat, scholarly-looking man, has long been looked on as the most feared individual in the Red Soviet empire.

It was Beria who was responsible for keeping and tightening the grip on the satellite world. And it was Beria whose security forces had to share the blame for recent uprising in eastern Europe.

Beria rival name Mohlai Skurelov) is a Georgian, as was Stalin. As Stalin's official biographer, Beria was one of the outstanding falsifiers of history, the man who purged its pages of those who opposed Stalin.

All his Communist party career has been enmeshed in the grim business of secret police, from the days of the revolutionary Cheka, through the OGPU, the NKVD and up to his late preeminence as ruler of an empire of spies, informers and executioners.

His assumption once again under Georgi Malenkov's regime of the ministry of interior (MVD) and the direction of the ministry of state security (MGB) was looked on as an indication of tightening at the top of the reins of power.

Beria sprang to prominence at the tail end of the bloody purges by Stalin which made Stalin absolute dictator. He was a first job was to purge the purgers and then to attempt to heal the wounds of the bloody bath. He reinstated many who had been expelled, called back others from exile. He became a full member of the politburo at the same time as Malenkov, in 1946. They made a mighty combination.

Until his sudden downfall Beria commanded not only the vast secret police in the Soviet Union and satellite countries, but he was in charge of the U.S.S.R's forced labor system.

Weddings

WANNAMAKER—SALLANS

A quiet double-ring ceremony took place in Grace United Church parsonage, Trenton, on Friday, July 3, of Patricia Marguerite, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sallans, Demorestville, and Donald Fred Wannamaker, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Wannamaker, Consecon. The Rev. Dean Matthews officiated.

The bride chose a suit of white gabardine with navy accessories, and her corsage was of pink roses.

She was attended by Miss Phyllis Downs, of Stirling, wearing a gold suit with white accessories, and a corsage of white roses.

The reception was held at Golden Acre Inn, Belleville, after which the happy, couple left for Algonquin Park and points north. On their return they will take up residence in Belleville.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a rhinestone bracelet, and the best man received a tie pin. The groom's gift to his bride was a rhinestone set, and the bride presented her husband with a gold expansion bracelet.

HATFIELD—MARTIN

Before an altar banked with pink and white gladioli and ferns, a lovely summer wedding was solemnized by the very Rev. Dean Garvin, assisted by the Rev. R. J. Flurry, on Saturday, June 20, at 10:30 a.m., in the Church St. Verna was given in marriage by her father. The bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Dorothy Grant, organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. H. Lucy, who sang "Ave Maria" and "On this Day O Beautiful Mother".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her gown of white nylon net in ballerina length, featuring a molded bodice with lace jacket, and accordion pleated skirt. She wore a white satin headdress with nylon veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white iris.

Mrs. Douglas Bone, of Belleville, attended the bride, wearing a nylon orchid colored gown in ballerina length, with matching bandeau, and carrying a bouquet of purple larkspur.

Mr. Peter Jones, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Douglas Bone, of Belleville; Mr. Brian Martin, of Montreal, Quebec, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The bride's mother, wearing navy blue sheer with navy accessories and corsage of coral Sweetheart roses, received the many guests at Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy blue sheer with white accessories and coral Sweetheart rose corsage.

The bride's travelling costume was a powder blue ensemble with navy accessories accented by a corsage of blue cornflowers. Upon their return from Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield will reside at 186 Foster Avenue, Belleville.

Guests were present from Montreal, Toronto, Trenton, and surrounding districts.

Bride-to-Be Honored by Friends

RAWDON—Miss Marlene Armstrong and her mother, Mrs. Jack Armstrong entertained about 30 guests to a delightful red and white kitchen shower in honor of Miss Verna Brown, bride-to-be.

The home was profusely decorated with pink and white streamers, bells, flowers and corsage balloons.

As Verna arrived she was presented with a rose corsage and the girls enjoyed a number of delightful games.

Mrs. Russell Fryear read an address of appreciation and then Miss Verna was given a corsage of balloons, as they were opened she found small messages telling where to hunt for gifts.

At the close of a happy evening, Verna thanked her friends and the hostesses served bountiful refreshments.

Just recently St. Paul's senior choir was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bush. A surprise came that evening when Miss Verna Brown was chaired and Mrs. William Wilkins read an appropriate address and presented the July bride with a China tea set.

Following a gracious thank-you from Verna, the host and hostess served refreshments topped off with strawberries and ice cream.

Carmel United Church was erected nearly 80 years ago and the first wedding ever to be solemnized in the building took place on Saturday, July 4th when Miss Verna Brown, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown became the bride of Gerald Clancy only son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clancy.

During the reception which followed in Jubilee hall a large family Bible was presented to the newlyweds on behalf of Carmel congregation.

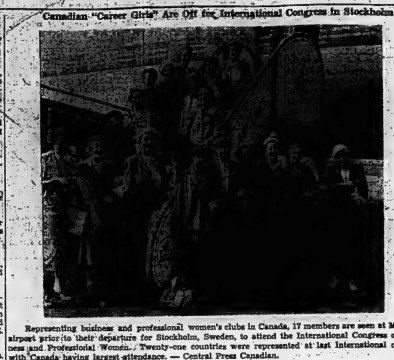
Women's Activities

FOXBORO W.M.S.-L.G.

The June meeting of the Foxboro W.M.S. and Ladies' Guild was held recently at the home of Mrs. Jack Juby with eight present. Miss Watt prepared the program and took charge of the meeting, the topic being "Where love is kindness, and courtesy are natural".

Love is patient, kind; love no jealousy, gives itself no airs; is never rude; where love is, humility and modesty make the character.

Rev. J. McMurray rendered a lovely solo.



Each lady read a passage of Scripture based on the word "Love".

The highlights of the Presbyterial were given and discussed, by those who attended the meeting at Picton. Reports were read and business discussion followed. Mrs. Hamilton invited the group to meet at her home in August. Miss Watt closed the meeting.

Mrs. Juby served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

Milady Will Change Shape Again This Fall

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Milady is due to change her shape again this fall, as new fashion silhouettes call for a string-bean midriff and snake hips.

Daytime clothes, as currently previewed, are skin-tight through the middle, ruler-slim through the skirt and curved and draped about the top.

Most designers favor the slim sheath silhouette for daytime, softer, full skirts for after five and a choice between the draped sheath and the crinolined look for formal evening wear.

For those who have become accustomed to full skirts, there is, fortunately, a compromise. This is the skirt which appears slim in front, but acquires walking width through back fulness, in what is called the Edwardian silhouette.

The lady with the midriff bulge is going to be out of luck this fall, unless she takes to one of the new foundation garments designed to cope with this problem —or goes on a diet.

An era of elegance is in the cards for fall and winter. Full-length evening gowns are back with a bang, fabrics are luxurious and trimmings are brilliant. For example, one wholesale manufacturer shows an evening sheath completely embroidered in sequins with coat to match, to retail at $3,000. That gives you a rough idea.

The costume suit continues the all-time favorite, consisting usually of a sheath dress and cover-up jacket. In many instances the dress is low-cut and glitter-trimmed above the belt, making it suitable for cocktail and dinner wear. With the jacket, it becomes a daytime suit.

As in coats, suit lines are softer this season, with drapery and detail concentrated above the belt. The "tulip" look becomes the "challice" this fall, the rounded look of the shoulder-bust line achieved by cut and drapery rather than padding.

Casualties of the season are the poodle and petticoat, except, in the latter case, for evening wear.

Lions Club Sponsors Fine Doll Exhibition

A splendid exhibition of beautifully dressed dolls, sponsored by the Belleville Lions Club, is on display at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Ritchie, Trent Road, three and one-half miles west of the city.

This display comprises approximately 125 or more dolls, representing the different countries of the world, as Spain, France, Holland, and others, as well as famous characters in nursery rhymes, as "Alice in Wonderland", "Goldilocks", and many local jewellery shops.

Mrs. James Ritchie, their creator, began doll-dressing as a hobby, and has since made dolls for many patriotic and humanitarian benefits. The dolls' heads are received from different countries, and are most authentic as to facial contours and color.

Mrs. Ritchie, who uses one room of her home for this exhibition, has hopes of extending the present showroom into more spacious quarters to accommodate the many interested people who come to view the display. Some of the dolls will be used as window displays in the windows of local jewellery shops.

Black, Red Not Solid Black, Correct For Wedding Guest

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is there a definite rule about a woman going at a wedding wearing black? I don't mean the women members of the families or close relatives of either bride or groom. I had thought it wasn't correct for a woman guest to wear black for a wedding, but my sister says this isn't true. What is the idea?

Frances B.

The idea is that it is not appropriate for a woman guest to wear solid black to a wedding. But it's quite all right for her to wear a black suit or dress if she wears some lightening touch, either of accessories that, gloves, purse, for example) or even a necklace or corsage ornament or other piece of jewelry, real or costume. As a matter of fact, many well-dressed women who always wear smart black suits or dresses never would be able to accept a wedding invitation if they didn't have a black to wear a suit or dress in any color but black! Black is the most-imitated women know just how to choose accessories that will make an interesting not-solid-black ensemble.

Plans For Simple Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am to have a small church wedding. I am planning to have a maid of honor and two bridesmaids. Please tell me if it is my duty to buy their dresses, or do they buy their own?

2. Is it necessary to give gifts to the members of the wedding party?

3. Do my parents do all the inviting, or may I help in that also?

4. Would a buffet supper be right for such an occasion?

Alice

1. Although you, the bride-to-be chooses and plan all the details of the costume of each of your attendants, each one pays for her own costume. The only detail you or your family provide is the bouquets to be carried by the attendants.

2. It is customary for the bride-to-be to give a present to each of her attendants, and for the groom-to-be to give a present to each of his attendants.

3. If formal invitations are to be sent, your mother makes out the list of your friends to be invited. If the invitations are to be by notes or telephone, whether you or your family, you may invite your own close friends, but in the name of your mother, the hostess: "Mother and I want you and Bill to come to the wedding."

4. Yes.

Friends Who Stand Ready to Help

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband died recently, and our friends were extremely kind and thoughtful in coming to offer their sympathy and their help. Would they excuse me if I answer these calls when I am able to do so? I deeply appreciated their goodness to me, and I don't want to omit doing anything I should do, even if it would be difficult for me at the present time.

A.G.B.

No, dear lady, your friends will not expect you to return their calls of sympathy, and they would not of course, want you to consider taking on such a burden. Perhaps, however, when you feel you can, you would like to write them little notes (they need be only a sentence or two) of appreciation for their goodness, and also if and when you would like to, ask them if they would come to see you "some day" or "sometime soon." In other words, your devoted friends, rather than expecting you to come to see them, will welcome word from you that you want again to associate and contact with them by letting them come to see you. And this kind word of friendship would, I know, be of wonderful help and inspiring comfort to you in the difficult adjustment of these days after your loss.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

Question:

I have been looking for a low calorie salad dressing and was wondering if you would have one or know of any.—Mrs. E. D.

Answer:

Recently I gave you the recipe for Herb Salad Dressing. I'll repeat that here today. But I have another queer one that a hotel in Chicago is serving to its reducing clients.

Redmoors' Vitamin Dressing

Cook 2 chicken livers, chill them, grate them and to them add 1-4 cup cottage cheese and mash and cream this until it is perfectly smooth. Add 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons pineapple juice, 1-4 cup tomato juice, 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Mix well. Store covered in refrigerator. I thought this was delicious on tossed greens.

Herb Salad Dressing

One egg, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon mustard, 1-4 teaspoon each rosemary and marjoram, 1 1-3 cups water, 1-3 cup vinegar, le lemon juice, 12 suscryl tablets, and sour cream. Cook hot water until mixture thickens. Store cool and covered.

Question:

When we were kids our mother used to bring us delicious baked English ginger beer with real ginger ale. Now I would like to have this recipe? I would like it for a flye gallon crock.—W. F. H.

Answer:

I have a feeling "W.F.H." is a man.

English Ginger Beer

Boil together 3 gallons water, 3 oz. powdered ginger, 4 lbs. sugar and 4 oz. cream of tartar. Boil 5 minutes covered, then cool to 70 when temperature is brought to room temperature add 2 tablespoons yeast. Allow to stand overnight. Filter through triple cheesecloth, then pour into bottles to seal.

Question:

Recently in your column I noticed a recipe for the syrup for honey-dipped doughnuts. I was wondering if you would be kind enough to let me have a recipe for the yeast doughnuts.—Margaret C.

Answer:

Yeast Doughnuts

Two-thirds cup sugar, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, one cup scalded milk, 1 yeast cake (or package granular yeast), 5 cups sifted flour, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1-teaspoon nutmeg. Add sugar, shortening and salt to luke-warm milk. Add yeast cake mixed with 1 tablespoon warm water. (If granular yeast is used dissolve it in 1-3 cup luke-warm water with 1-3 teaspoon sugar and reduce first amount of milk by 2 tablespoons.) Now add 3 cups of the flour to make a sponge. Beat until mixed. Stand in warm place, covered, to rise. When light add eggs, nutmeg and flour. To make a light dough. Cover and let rise again in warm place until doubled. Knead in bowl or on lightly floured board until free from large air bubbles. Roll out to 1-3-inch thickness. Cut with floured doughnut cutter. Cover on board and let rise again until doubled. Slip them, top side down, into deep hot fat at 375 deg. Fahr. Fry by a delicate brown on one side. Flip over and fry other side. Drain on unglazed paper towels. Sprinkle with icing sugar at serving time.

Question:

. . . Am coming to you again to ask for this delicious pie. I used to have good success making them but for some reason my luck has failed. They come out of the oven looking nice and in a few minutes down they go and turn out watery and crust soaked. I'm sure you can help me as you did before with the white cake problem. Would you also give me recipe for strawberry pie to do fresh; having have to be stewed before putting them in. . . is a minute tapioca used? I have still one more request . . . for angel food cake. . . I understand they are to be made in a pan with a tube centre.—Alta S.

Answer:

I am mailing you recipes for strawberry pie (which appeared June 18) and custard pie (which appeared March 25).

Angel Food

Sift cake flour and measure 1 cup, then sift it with: 7-8 cup granulated sugar; into a large bowl measure 1 1-3 cups of egg whites (about 12 whites) and 1 1-4 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon of vanilla and 1-3 teaspoon almond extract. Beat this with a fast whipping beater until it is foamy but not stiff. Gradually begin adding an additional 2-4 cup granulated sugar—3 tablespoons at a time, and continue beating until all of the 3-4 cup sugar is added and the meringue is stiff and will stand in peaks. . . Now gradually fold in the sifted flour-sugar mixture, until it disappears and is mingled. Do not whip, but fold. Gently turn into ungreased tube pan—10-inch. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for from 35 to 45 minutes. Cool cake by inverting pan on sides a little. Let cake hang upside down until cold. Coax from sides of pan with fingertips.

By VERA WINSTON

Interesting trimmings lend novelty to an attractive daytime dress of gray cotton. Black braid with a beaded edge marks the scooped-out neckline, and is also used at the cuffs and for the pocket trim. Other details include licorice black bows, a soft belt, and gathers on the skirt at the centre front and back.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

An Inferiority Complex is a Poor Companion

Dear Miss Fairfax;

I am a 35-year-old divorcee, and very lonely. I work in a business office where I have met many nice people, but I do not seem to have much social life. It is not very easy for me to make friends, and I have always thought that is because I was the child of very domineering parents and grew up with an inferiority complex. It is hard to live down the unhappiness one has suffered in childhood.

L.T.

Dear L.T.:

Stop living in the past with your inferiority complex. You're no longer under the domination of your parents, but free to make what you will of your life. Too many people sit back and blame their unhappiness on what happened to them in childhood, instead of using their adulthood to make a whole new world for themselves.

You live in a large city where you could find congenial companionship, but you seem have no way to new acquaintances and a wider social life.

If you don't know how else to go about it, visit your local YWCA and find out what they have to offer in the way of clubs that might interest you. Once you begin, you'll find that if you do your part by being friendly and joining in some of the activities, you will be invited to lend a hand, and before you know it you won't be lonely any more.

He Ignored Her Birthday — She Wants to Remember His

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 20, and have been going with a certain man for nearly three years. His birthday is coming up, and I want to give him something nice, maybe a radio for his car, or a ring, but my mother thinks that it is wrong for girls to give boys expensive gifts.

I work, and earn my own money so I think I have a right to do what I please. I'm not in debt to anyone, but the reason my mother says this is just because this man didn't give me anything for my birthday. I told her he was broke at the time, but she says no one is too broke to send at least a birthday card.

Priscilla H.

Dear Priscilla:

I'm afraid I agree with your mother on all counts. I don't think any young man needs to be so broke that he can't find the money for a birthday gift for his girl, even if he has to do a little extra work to earn it. And I can't see why the girl whose birthday was ignored should turn around and give the chap an expensive present on his, probably vain hope that it will do as you please with your money. But do you really want to use it to make yourself look like a lovesick teenager?

Make-Up For Pale Complexions

There are all types of women, as everything knows. There is the athletic girl who likes to look rugged, the sophisticated woman who endeavors to be a fee jumpe ahead of the fashion parade and who uses exotic make-up, and there is the sweet little cutie who likes to look fragile. She is a sort of throwback to the sheltered woman of the part, the clinging vine, the one who got everything she wanted by wheedling her old man instead of stepping out and doing something on her own, as is the way these days.

The sweet little angel with the big trusting eyes, who wants to look as if a strong breeze would blow her away, makes a big mistake in using heavy. She makes them feel big and strong, manly and protective. She requires a great deal of attention and so is inclined to get pretty lazy. As she is not the kind who enjoys outdoor sports, and as activity is not her long suit, she is likely to have a pale complexion. And so will endeavor to help her on make-up problems, to which she naturally gives considerable thought, namely how to be as pale and as fragile as possible.

Pallor is natural to some girls. The skin has a thin, delicate texture and the tiny capillaries that provide coloring to the complexion are not responsive. Sometimes happens that a fine Pale Face has normal health and powers of endurance. She can shop or work all day, dance half the night, and look not one bit the worse. But she is the exception. Pallor is more likely to signify malnutrition or lack of outdoor life.

Make-up for the white complexion calls for powder with a rosy tint, unless the girl has a true brunette with dark hair and brown eyes, in which case she should use a bluish flesh and even mauve shade. Rouge must be faint, and the applied high to give width to the face and to accept the eyes. The lipstick can be a gorgeous red, if she so desires. If the eyebrows lack coloring, it is almost necessary to darken them. She can use mascara for this purpose, or the crayon. If she prefers mascara, the small brush should be moistened slightly, pressed on the cake, and applied so lightly that the bristles or the brush do not come in contact with the flesh.

LUMBAGO AND SCIATIC PAINS? ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR RHEUMARTHROL

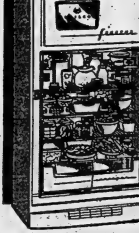
Fashion Flashes

Lots of tucks and lots of chiffon is charming mid-season dressy fare now until well into the new season. Soft, sheer, flattering tucks bulk, something new for afternoon wear is found in pale blue, rose beige and green, as well in the popular navy. Popular is the chiffon sheath, dress-length or thigh from all-over shirring. In one dress there is a surface finished at the side with a velvet bow and rhinestone pin. Beautiful in net or dark fabrics.

The principal line for Fall is slim, very slim, with a new coat is of yidged woolen, flecked with tweeds for a flattering flare-at look. The slim coat is wrappy, with pockets that require a tug to the wrist, and the collar is wide and wrappy, the whole line having a columnar effect.

Every time we pass our favorite handbag place there's a new metal and plastic bonbag. The latest has non-tarnishing silver-colored metal sides in jacquard patterned openwork, and a plain gold metal back. Lid and handle are of lucite. Bag is on the longish side, but rounded.

A favorite combination in new Fall fashions is wool and satin, the latter used in pipings, belts and panels. Beautiful, slim wool dresses have ruched satin midriffs and little flat collars of satin. Many of these dresses are of chiffon-weight wool worsted. Not exactly inexpensive, these dresses will appear from afternoon right through dinner, theatre and night clubs, always looking right.



Becoming and flattering little feather hats are beginning to show up in the shops for early Fall. Rose beige feathers make a pretty little cap marked at front with a cluster of tiny flowers for a pretty line. Rhinestone-studded complexion-pink veil.

AT THE CAPITOL—Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are currently being starred in the new comedy hit, "Jitterbugs" which is now at the Capitol Theatre, with John Lund and Joan Leslie also featured. They also program Laurel and Hardy in "Our Relations," a hilarious show starting from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL—Brian Donlevy and Claire Trevor appear in "Woman They Almost Lynched" starting Sunday at the Capitol Theatre. Starring which is now in the Capitol Theatre, with John Lund and Joan Leslie also featured. They also program Laurel and Hardy in "Our Relations," a hilarious show starting from 1.00 p.m.

A RECORD OR TWO!

Veterans softballers scratched their noggins today and couldn't come up with a record to equal that of big Vern Goyer, whose sensational performance with the bludgeon at the Diesels - Bobcats game last night had the twenty-five fans present gasping.

Seven runs batted in, off two stealing home runs in a single inning is an outstanding performance in any man's league, but "Jumbo" added another RBI for good measure in the second when his blazing double, which he stretched to "three" sent Alfie Rowbotham racing home.

There was nothing of the blooper-looper style in Goyer's husky clouts. They blasted off his shillalagh on a straight line, scorched the grass for ten feet, and like "Ole Man River kept on rollin' along." Two were on base when he stepped to the plate the first time in that sixteen-batter parade in the seventh and there wasn't a vacant spot around when he came up for the second time. His twin smash hit was in approximately the same spot and both blasts could have knocked the "L" out of the Ontario Intelligencer sign had they bounced.

Up to the bottom half of the fateful seventh it was as good a softball tussle as one could wish to see with Al Adams and Frank Baldwin, of the Bobcats, breezing along in a nifty hurling duel. The score was 2-1 to that point. Then the heavens opened and the deluge came.

The Bobcats blew higher than a Nevada atomic blast, and they couldn't do a thing right. They bobbled bunts, overthrew bases and in general reverted to a softball awkward squad. And Goyer's blasts didn't help their peace of mind any.

Neither did a weird stroke of luck that occurred in the top of the eighth inojivee the Bobcats' comprehensive. Frank had walked and Burley smashed out an Adams' pitch that was labelled for at least two bases. But "Big Bawdy", base accurate, loomed up like a dark cloud. The ball struck him directly on middribs as he stood near the second-third baseline and caromed off towards the Diesels' shortstop. He easily nipped Temple going into second. There was a little argument, but Bawdy" after straightening out the big incendiation in his equatorial region, shook his head, and that was it.

TIMBER-R-R-R!

Yukon Eric, the Alaskan Timber-Toppler, who was raised with a bread-axe in one hand and a peavy in the other, never "trained" Alaskan bears when he was a three-year old. That story is set true. He tossed his first Arctic bruin when he was four, so they say. The powerful-chested Eric (they say a rabbit once circumnavigated the terrific torso while Eric was sleeping and when it arrived at the starting point again it was a grandpappy) wrestles the popular Don Jonathan here tonight and the clash should be heard for miles. Both are veritable giants, strong as oxen and belligerent as bulls.

Surging Giants Battle 'Bums' As Cards Clash With Braves; Chicago Slashes Yankee Lead

By KEN FIELDGAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

First-division standings in the hot National League pennant chase hinge on vital series starting tonight in Brooklyn and St. Louis.

Chief American League interest during the week-end will centre on Chicago where the White Sox open a five-game stand against Cleveland with the runner-up slot at stake.

Leo Durocher's suddenly impressive New York Giants, riding a six-game winning streak and talking confidently of better things, invade Brooklyn for three games with the first-place Dodgers.

Milwaukee's second-place Braves visit St. Louis for a four-game set with the Cardinals, whom they lead by a half a length.

The Giants haven't cooled off since they hurled Brooklyn 20-4 last Sunday. They got a brilliant two-hit shutout from rookie Ruben Gomez Thursday to down Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0. Brooklyn bowed to Philadelphia 8-5 and the Cards and Braves weren't scheduled.

Parnell Beats Champ

The hustling White Sox shaved the Yankees' first-place margin to five games in the American league by whipping Detroit 4-2 while the New Yorkers were wilting before the heavyweight slants of Boston's Mel Parnell 4-0. Cleveland stayed 5½ games off the pace with a 9-1 verdict over St. Louis while Washington beat Philadelphia 8-4.

In handing Pittsburgh its ninth straight loss, the Giants climbed within one game of the first division. They've been that close before this season but they've always fizzled out under pressure.

The two Pirate hits off Gomez, the young Puerto Rican who bought his way out of the Yankee farm system during the winter because he didn't think the Giants organization appreciated him, were singles by Danny O'Connell and Eddie O'Brien. Gomez has a 6-4 record with the Giants.

New York's Whitey Lockman passed the 1,000-hit mark of his big-league career with a double as he rapped out four singles to run his lifetime total to 1,001.

The Dodgers, who beat Robin Roberts the last time they faced him, keyed him in the eighth inning Thursday night but then their own spotty pitching blew up and the Phils won the game with two runs in their half of the eighth. It was the first time in 30 starts that Roberts has failed to finish. Smoky Burgess, pinch hitting for Bob Miller, who had been relieved by Roberts, drove in the tying and winning runs with a double.

Farrell threw his second straight shutout at the Yankees. The victory was the 12th of the year for the 31-year-old lefthander. He's the first in the league to win a dozen.

IMPS TO START PRACTICE

SARNIA (CP)—Coach Red Douglas of Sarnia Imperials of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union said Thursday his team will begin practising next Monday for the 1953 season.

Douglas will again be assisted in his coaching chores by Trip Trepanier.

Bantam Baseball

The C.N.R. Diesel bantams won their first game of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association Bantam series Wednesday night by defeating the Canadian Legion by the score of 14 to 7.

Mike Ryan went the route for the winners striking out 8 men and allowing three hits. He walked 7.

Huddleston started for the Legion but gave way to Paulerd in the fourth. Between them they were nicked for 12 hits.

The Diesels scored 3 in the first the big hit being a double by Foster, and tallied 6 in the second. They scored four more in the 4th and finished with one in the fifth.

The Legion scored two runs in the 3rd, 5th and 6th. Latchford rounded out a homer in the second for their other run.

Citadelles Make Little Progress With OHA Entry

TORONTO (CP)—Quebec Citadelles, orphan team of the Quebec Junior A Hockey League, made only slight progress Thursday night in a bid for entry into the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Owner Frank Byrne, coach Phil Watson and a Citadelles lawyer appeared before an informal gathering of OHA junior and1 members but got only an adjournment of their proposal. The meeting was arranged after a Quebec appeal to George Dudley, business manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, for a hearing.

The Quebec proposal was that the Citadelles join the OHA as a full member, playing three home and three away games with every team in the league. The Citadelles' management proposed to pay each visiting club $500 and a percentage of the gate for each game played in Quebec City and would receive nothing in return for games the club would play in Ontario.

While Ontario representatives showed interest in the proposal, they indicated it would be best that the CAHA-QAHA situation at the junior level 1953 was too confused to make it wise for the Quebec club to come in.

Surprise Winner At Thorncliffe

TORONTO (CP)—J. C. (Bert) Cameron, automobile dealer from Smiths Falls, brought a surprise winner home in the last race at Thorncliffe Raceway Thursday, a surprise even to the four-year-old mare's driver, Norm Cooley.

Miss Erra won the first leg of the Ontario Colts series entered in an entry with Cameron's Gracious Hanover. Cooley expected to see this four-year-old, also a mare, roar past him in the first heat but the pacer never broke stride.

Gracious Hanover won the second heat.

Peewee Baseball

Deacon Quakers edged the Walker Hardware 6-5 in a peewee baseball game at King George school last night behind the fine hurling of Kelleher.

The Deacon pitcher held the hardwarers to a lone hit while striking out ten and walking six.

Dickie started for the Walker team but was relieved in the fifth when the Quakers got to him for hits and runs.

Saskatchewan Pro Threatens Lengthy American Monopoly Of Canadian Open Golf Title

By W. E. Wrigley
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, (CP)—The colorful Canadian open golf championship swinging into the third round today, last stop for the diminishing Saskatchewan prairie country as becalse of Pat Fletcher.

The onslaught of the American invasion was expected. It's the annual attack; and when the battering ram was thrashed Thursday the 36-hole leaders were a quartet of the tourists of the pro circuit, each with 136, six strokes under Scar, borough par for the distance.

A single stroke behind, bracketed with the other Americans, was the phlegmatic pro from the Saskatchewan Golf and Country Club, Saskatoon.

The leaders after two days of par-bending and sizzling sunshine —including a rousing bake in one by at home club, amateur—were Gardner Dickinson, Roanoke City, Fla., Wally Ulrich of St. Paul, Minn.; Ken Bowman, Minneapolis, and Ted Kroll of Utica, N. Y.

Behind them came a logy string of Americans all in the neighborhood of 138, 139 and 140. The one-under-par 140 American ranks were headed by Tommy Bolt of the Tournament of Champions, club.

Kroll, a celebrated starter with fire, held pitchy to the opening round "best" they had shared with Bolt. Tommy had a 71 to 72 and this legan from sub-par golf showing that he's capable of better ahead. Each shot 67, lowest score posted Thursday. Fletcher was the only under-par 71 at 68, and a little luck with his putting would have created a three-way tie for second with him take the lead all alone.

Only two Canadians, par for the course six Americans, are left when night smock a hot round of golf Thursday. They are Mario Turgeon, Max Evans, Shelly Mayfield, Claude Snow, Harold Paddock, Jr., and Davis Douglas. Snow gave Scarboro's front-line par of 36 a savage beating with 32, but couldn't keep up the pace and finished with 74-70—144.

Dickinson, back on the pro circuit after service with the U. S. Army, rifled along to a par 70 string out. A 30-foot putt that stung-fied into the cup at the 18th meant the difference for him between a par and a sub-par round.

Kroll held up his threesome more than an hour to await an official decision. His drive on the 10th left the ball in a ditch six inches from a tile. Calls went all over the place for officials. They came out of their huddle with a decision that Kroll could lift out and drop without a penalty. He went on to strike the 67.

Fletcher played beautiful golf, with not a single bogey on the opening round of 68. Up to the ball-mark in this tournament big Pat never loses his head. He has never missed a green Thursday. "I've played well but not that well. I even wondered whether I should start at all." A touch of stomach trouble struck him several hours before he started but he played without showing a glint of illness and in the 139, 70 and 140. The one-under-par 140 American ranks were headed by the Tournament of Champions Miamisburg, club.

Fletcher shot birdies early and then "choked" but got them back despite five approach shots and three putts on the 13th. He had birdies in the first seven holes getting down putts from two to 20 ft.

The ball didn't stick the green 11th. Givens drove off with a No. 1 iron. The ball struck the green 70 feet in front of the pin and rolled in for an ace.

Royals Regain Driver's Seat In International

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal baseball fans breathed a bit easier today with the Royals, at the Dickison period in second place, leading the International League by 1½ games.

The Royals widened their margin over Buffalo Bisons by edging Ottawa Athletics 3-1 Thursday night while the Bisons dropped a 5-2 verdict to Baltimore Orioles.

In other games, Syracuse Chiefs rallied for three runs in the seventh inning to defeat Rochester Red Wings 4-3 and a single to left field by Spanky Adamcz scored the winning run, as Springfield Cubs nipped Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 in 10 innings.

Lefty Ken Lehman's seven-hit pitching enabled Montreal to win in the second, Jim Hunter and Hal Bevan of Ottawa singled. Hal Bevan drove out the next man and the side was relired on two ground outs.

Sandy Amoros scored two of the three Montreal runs, one on a Lehman single in the sixth and four.

Both Frank Lery and Jack Sanford pitched shut-out ball for six innings at Baltimore, but in the seventh the Orioles chased Lary with a five-hit barrage, including Graham run homer by Jack Graham.

Jake Crawford homered for Buffalo in the fifth and Bob Garbard gave way to Tom Herrin in the ninth after walking two men.

At Syracuse, lefty Marvin Williams yielded two of Rochester's three hits over seven innings for his fourth victory in as many starts. Jim Pendleton's single was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh by Wenda Becher. The Chiefs knocked out Dennis Rowher.

At Springfield, the game was a pitching duel between Don Carlson of the Leafs and Sheldon Jones of the Cubs. Jones yielded a run in the first inning, then held the Leafs off through the next eight innings. Ted Tappe walloped Jacombs Cook in the tenth.

Regent Juniors Defeat Flyers By 10-5 Score

The Regents took the lead in the first inning on a single and two errors. They pushed another run in the second they got four more on an error, two singles and a walk. They went scoreless in the third and then they really grounded the Flyers with five more in the fourth on a double, a single, a man hit by a pitched ball and an error. Their final run came in the top of the eighth when Hull scored on a passed ball after he had hit a triple.

The Flyers were held scoreless until the seventh when Davis blasted a ball over Casey's head for a four bagger. Then two more runs came across in the same inning on two singles and two errors. In the eighth Davis again slammed a home run with one man on base. That was the first of the scoring of the Flyers.

The Regents played good ball all evening and are proving they are as good as any team in the Belleville and District Baseball League. They haven't lost a game in their last six starts.

Hull led the Regents at the plate with two singles and a solidly hit triple. Jones got two singles while Hall got a double, Carr, Goyer and Drummond were each credited with singles.

Davis led the losers at the plate with two four baggers. Mead and Noel each touched Drummond for two singles while McHarg, Mathews and Cossaboom rode the ball for singles.

Drummond went all the way on the hill for the Regents getting 10 via the strikeout route. He walked none. Lyndon started for the Flyers and in three and one-third innings he struck out one and walked one. He was relieved by Meade who fanned three and walked none.

The Flyers rushed reinforcements in the fourth when they pulled a switch that smacked of the two platoon system. Only three of the players were in the lineup playing the same position as when they started. In the eighth Lawrence Flyers backstop began to up the umpire. He thought he was giving the umpire a bad time but per usual the umpires prevailed and Lawrence politely got the boot.

Branca On Waiver List

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — The name of Ralph Branca, the man who served up Bobby Thomson's home run that is going the rounds of the major league baseball clubs at $10,000 apiece with a 6-0 record.

For years the Dodgers stuck with Branca, the big right hander along with Rex Barney, the Omaha wild man, hoping he would live up to his early promise. Now they're ready to give up, if they can get waivers on him, and they will.

Branca remains a mystery. Back in 1947, when he was a kid of 21 fresh out of New York university, he was the ace of the Dodger pitching staff. League. But that was six years ago. He won 14 the next year, then 13, then 21, then 12 and back to 13 in 1951. Then it happened.

Brooklyn and New York, finishing in a tie for first place, each with 96 wins and 58 loses. Don Newcombe, struggling with every pitch, coddled a 4-1 lead into the ninth inning of the third and final game at the polo grounds.

Newcombe had one out and one run of his lead and there were men on second and third when manager Chuck Dressen, called Branca.

Branca threw one pitch, to Bobby Thomson, a called strike. Then Ralph turned and left the mound stands for a home run that left its mark on baseball.

There was an unforgettable picture in the papers the next day of Branca, slumped in the dugout sitting with his head between his knees in the lockjaw embrace at the Polo Grounds.

As long as he lives, when the Rotary or Kiwanis asks him to make a little talk, somebody is going to shout: "Hey, Ralph, a pitch did you throw to Thomson?"

British Cricket

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—Play was restricted to just over three hours in the first day of the third cricket test match between England and Australia Thursday, but Australia rolled up 151 for three wickets. The first two matches for the mythical Ashes ended in draws.

The visitors started poorly just after 3 p.m., losing the wickets of three of their best batsmen. Arthur Morris, Lindsay Hasset and Keith Miller, for only 48 runs.

But Neil Harvey, with a sound 76 not out, and Graeme Hole, 41 not out, achieved a recovery and an unfinished fourth-wicket stand before the close.

Len Hutton, fit after a bout with fibrositis, lost the toss and let Hasset for the third consecutive time.

Lefty Ken Lehman's seven-hit pitching enabled Montreal to win. In the second, Jim Hunter and Hal Bevan of Ottawa singled. Hal Bevan drove out the next man and the side was relired on two ground outs.

Sandy Amoros scored two of the three Montreal runs, one on a Lehman single in the sixth and four.

Both Frank Lery and Jack Sanford pitched shut-out ball for six innings at Baltimore, but in the seventh the Orioles chased Lary with a five-hit barrage, including Graham run homer by Jack Graham.

Jake Crawford homered for Buffalo in the fifth and Bob Garbard gave way to Tom Herrin in the ninth after walking two men.

At Syracuse, lefty Marvin Williams yielded two of Rochester's three hits over seven innings for his fourth victory in as many starts. Jim Pendleton's single was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh by Wenda Becher. The Chiefs knocked out Dennis Rowher.

At Springfield, the game was a pitching duel between Don Carlson of the Leafs and Sheldon Jones of the Cubs. Jones yielded a run in the first inning, then held the Leafs off through the next eight innings. Ted Tappe walloped Jacombs Cook in the tenth.

Mounties Blast Toronto Yorks

MIMICO, (CP) — Mimico Monumentmen blasted Toronto Canadian West Yorks 21-13 Thursday night in a Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association game in which penalties outnumbered goals.

The teams handed out 116 minutes in penalties, including four misconducts and a game misconduct. The victory was the second of the season for Mimico.

Pete Sandilan led the Mimico scoring attack with six goals. Ray Hamilton had five and Ted Sandilan added two.

Bronca remains a mystery. Back in 1947, when he was a kid of 21 fresh out of New York university, he was the ace of the Dodger pitching staff. League. But that was six years ago. He won 14 the next year, then 13, then 21, then 12 and back to 13 in 1951. Then it happened.

Brooklyn and New York, finishing in a tie for first place, each with 96 wins and 58 loses. Don Newcombe, struggling with every pitch, coddled a 4-1 lead into the ninth inning of the third and final game at the polo grounds.

Newcombe had one out and one run of his lead and there were men on second and third when manager Chuck Dressen, called Branca.

Branca threw one pitch, to Bobby Thomson, a called strike. Then Ralph turned and left the mound stands for a home run that left its mark on baseball.

There was an unforgettable picture in the papers the next day of Branca, slumped in the dugout sitting with his head between his knees in the lockjaw embrace at the Polo Grounds.

As long as he lives, when the Rotary or Kiwanis asks him to make a little talk, somebody is going to shout: "Hey, Ralph, a pitch did you throw to Thomson?"

Six Row Clubs Compete In Eastern Regatta

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Some 150 oarsmen from six Eastern Canada clubs will compete here Saturday in the 58th annual Eastern Rowing Association regatta.

Ottawa, Brockville and Lachine, the three senior amateur clubs, will be rowing for the Comstock Cup, emblematic of regatta supremacy. However, it could well be that another, from St. Catharines, Hamilton and Toronto attract the majority of attention in five open races, key events on the day's 3.8 race program.

Ottawa won last year's regatta from home water and are favored to repeat. Brockville could spring an upset though. The junior eight-oar weight crews are always hard to beat on their choppy St. Lawrence river course.

The local oarsmen topped Ottawa and Lachine in 1950 and 1951, and have taken the Comstock Cup 18 times in 25 years of competition for an E.R.A.I record.

Hamilton Leanders, Toronto Zoos and St. Catharines will enter strong crews in the four sweep-oar events.

St. Catharines, with its smooth stroking heavies, is favored in the heavy eights while Ottawa are the choice for the 158-pound eights. The Leander four which represented Canada at the 1952 Olympics is the pick of entries in both the 155-pound and 145-pound fours.

Platt is the defending champion, having won the event at the last two regattas. Guest is the Canadian schoolboy singles titleholder Saturday is the 38th annual East-the race easily in 1950, the last time the E.R.A. regatta was rowed here.

Highlighting Saturday evening's presentation of trophies will be the dedication of the Brockville Rowing Club's new $7,000 Memorial shell-house.

Yanks Favored To Sweep Davis Cup Series

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Riding a long-armed cradle in the best-of-five round, the United States Davis Cup tennis team is favored to sweep today's doubles here and win their Inter-Zone tie from Japan.

But a shaky start by playing captain Tony Trabert, a 22-year-old "veteran" from Cincinnati, in the first of Thursday's two singles matches had a sun-baked crowed of 1,000 anticipating a major upset.

Trabert, matched with Koori Kano, Japan's second-ranked singles player, had to come from behind a two-set edge to win. He won 6-4, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

Trabert named himself and 31-year-old Tom Brown to play the doubles against Kano and Kamo, team captain Jiro Yamagishi declined to play today's singles contests.

If Japan wins today, the round will be decided in two final singles matches Saturday.

Tonight, Al had considered taking to the courts with Japan's fourth ranked doubles player, 30-year-old Masaake Kimura, a fellow countrymen had gained a split in the singles. But with the U. S. sweep, he apparently conceded the tie, naming Miyagi and Kamo for the doubles, with the winner second.

Playing his first games on grass since last year's Davis Cup final in Australia, Trabert started out without his usual zip. He was "up" and without an apparent "eye" for ball action and lost.

Kamo, a 135-pound, 21-year-old, played a steady deep-court game, occasionally varying the pace to score with placements.

Richardson changed his tactics when he began to find the range. Throwing in more service early in the third set, rushing the net to volley and scoring point after point on thundering kill of Ken's high mid-court lobs. Trabert took two and the final five games at love with power-packed serves.

Miyagi, facing the net-rushing tennis of Richardson, couldn't handle the cross-court placements. He came on in the third set as he began rushing himself. Neither player could hold his service. Nine Pitching: Lenz, Richardson and Richardson finally took his own service, the lead and the game.

Britons Lead Fancied Yanks Two Strokes in British Open

By STERLING SLAPPEY

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—Two great golfers were bunched within four strokes at the head of the pack after Thursday's play as a ruthless scramble developed for the prized British open golf championship.

Dai Rees and Eric Brown, two Britons, led with 142s, two strokes ahead of Ben Hogan and Frank Stranahan of the United States.

Hogan added a 73 to his 72 of Wednesday, while Stranahan slipped from 70 to 74. Peter Thomson of Australia was tied with the two Americans, while the powerful Argentine star, Robert de Vicenzo had 142.

The final 36 holes of the 72-hole tournament over Carnoustie's tough, windy, wet course is to be played today with the field cut from 81 to 49. A score of 154 was needed to qualify for the finals.

The tournament billed as Ben Hogan's swan song became anyone's prize—but the little Texan, famed for his fighting finishes, might well be counted out in front if his putts had not been missing by inches. Defending champion Bobby Locke, the round faced South African, is in contention with 72-73—145, tied with Max Faulkner of England, 74-71—145, and T. H. T. Fairbairn, also of England, 74-71—145. Antonio Cerda of Argentina had 75-71—146.

Rees, the merry Welshman, shot a 70, best score of the day, to put with his first-round 72. Brown, an unemployed professional golfer from Scotland, had 71, the same score as Wednesday. Unofficial par for Carnoustie is 72.

Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles and Niles, Ill., was back in the pack with 75-76—151.

Of the millions of bridge players only a handful have ever acquired the rating of life masters. This standing is possible after many wins in number-matches over years of play.

By virtue of this rating you might expect these players to be near to perfection. Actually, they are not. And the numerous errors they make are uniting to the frustrations they attain.

Their success has been due partly because of their brilliance at the play of the cards. Their bidding is not accurate; not nearly as accurate as many players who are still in the advancing age.

Before me is a record of the hands played in the 1951 world teams' individual championship. The life master division consisted of 24 tables. I wrote down what they did to some of the hands.

	NORTH
	♥K 9
	♦K 3
	♣9 3 2
	♠A 9 7
WEST		EAST
♠10		♥8 6 4
♥7 5		♦J 10 8 4 2
♦A 10 9 6		♣Q 5 4
♣K 10 8 5 2		♠8 6 4 3
	SOUTH
	♠J 9 7 5
	♥A Q 8 3
	♦Q 7 5
	♣J 6

Six tricks in north and four in south are ten. With such agreement six even vulnerable could go wrong or differ from these bids:

South	North
Pass	1 S
2 H	2 S
3 S	4 S

Yet, two pairs went to six spades and doubled to get plus scores. Two pairs ended at a doubtful bid of three no-trump. The other ten of 11 tricks that are there they belonged. But six of these took only ten tricks and one took the 11 tricks that are easy to hand in.

The trumps fall: North sheds a diamond on a third south heart. He can make then a diamond and a club they must be blindfolded.

It this makes life masters they must train on pinochle. If it is by stuff of which life masters are made, the new generation of players will soon play rings around them.

Record Broken At Goshen

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Parker Byrd showed it's second off the Historic Track record for two-year-old pacers Thursday and Frank Ervin drove the winner of four of the five races.

Parker Byrd, a son of Poplar Byrd owned by R. W. Droegmyer of Chicago, stepped the final heat of the $18,450 Goshen Board of Trade pace in 2:05 to beat off Diamond Hal, owned by S. S. Camp Farms of Shafter, Calif.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is the movie business muffing its chance for a comeback?

This spring brought a burst of optimism to Hollywood. For the first time in three years, the movie industry moved into a position of advantage over its arch competitor, television. The public's excitement over 3D and other tricks of film presentation buoyed up hopes as well as box office receipts.

But the craze shows signs of wearing off. Some of the gimmick pictures are still doing good business, although nowhere near the volume enjoyed by earlier efforts. The fact is that film quality has suffered a severe setback in the attempt to make a quick dollar.

A view of the product being shown in the Los Angeles area this week is appalling. It includes: A film about a sea beast that invades New York . . . another about a rampaging robot . . . a quickie concerning space islands . . . a farce actually filmed in five days!

A remake of a comedy bit of the '30s . . . a full-length foreign carbon of Hollywood . . . an old-fashioned costume epic . . . two low-budget westerns that would get no notice except that they are three dimensional.

That doesn't offer much reason for people to tear themselves away from TV, even in these summer months when the screens are filled with panel shows and giveaways. The current film fare offers plenty for the thrill-seekers, but how much of the movie audience do they comprise?

Nearly everyone is curious to see these newfangled 3D flickers. But once their curiosity is satisfied, how many will come back?

Recently a top producer told me: "If a picture is good, it can get by in the present market. But it has to be extra good to reach into that all-important 'lost audience' of people between 30 and 40. If you can get them to come to your picture, you have a big hit.

"But it's hard to get them out. They had the movie habit when they were younger, but it is. They lived through the era when Hollywood was turning out great pictures like 'Gone With the Wind.' When quality fell off, so did their theatre attendance."

Sport in Brief

TORONTO (CP)—Stan Leonard of Vancouver went to dinner Thursday night with the man he conked on the head—with a golf ball.

Playing in the second round of the Canadian Open championship, Leonard drove a low second shot, a full brassie, for the 18th green, up the sloping fairway.

But then Leo Osborne, manager of the nearby hotel where Leonard and other players are staying, poked his head over a rise in the ground. The ball caught him squarely on the head.

Osborne was taken to hospital and examined for possible concussion.

Several hours later Leonard said he had been informed that his host was in "pretty good shape" although badly bruised and that the dinner arrangements for Leonard and a few others, still stood.

WON'T PLAY THIS YEAR

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Marine Capt. Ted Williams returned to the United States Thursday from air combat and said he sees no possibility that he would return to baseball this season.

Upon arrival, the famed Boston Red Sox slugger said he might get back into the game next season, provided the Red Sox "want to fool around with old men." Williams will be 35 next month.

Police Requested To Lay Charge Against Club

TORONTO (CP) — The attorney-general's department Thursday asked Toronto police to lay a charge against the Variety Club based on a lottery held during a Maple Leaf Stadium benefit night to aid the child's Variety Village for Crippled Children.

The Toronto Baseball Club has twice been charged with holding a lottery, but this is the first time in the current campaign that action has been taken against a non-profit and charitable organization.

Acting Crown attorney Henry Bull said Thursday the charge then has been taken against a non-involve the Maple Leaf Club nor its president, Jack Kent Cooke.

Justice Fisher Dies in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Robert Grant Fisher, 67, who practised law in London for 40 years and sat on the judge' bench for another 26, died here Wednesday night.

He was a judge of the appellate division of the Ontario Supreme Court when he retired three years ago.

Born in Ryde Park, Mr. Justice Fisher was educated at Dufferin College, London, and Osgoode Hall. He was graduated in 1888 at the age of 18 and was articled to Sir William Meredith, who later became chief justice of Ontario.

For 40 years he practised law in London with T. G. Meredith. He was made a VC in 1920 and was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1932.

YOUTHS BREAK WINDOW

OTTAWA (CP) — Police said Thursday night a gang of youths broke a large window at the committee rooms of Daniel Nerenberg, Labor Progressive (Communist) party candidate for Ottawa West in the Aug. 10 federal election. Police said the youths entered the committee rooms and asked for campaign literature. On their way out they broke the window. They said for damages and no charges were laid.

WARN AGAINST POLLUTION

BELLEVILLE (CP)—The Grand river anti-pollution committee has erected 50 signs warning against polluted water in this area. The signs were placed by members of the Brant Rod and Gun Club. The committee will hold a general meeting Monday at Dunnville and several members of the Grand river conservation authority are expected to attend to outline plans for a tour of the river Aug. 12 in survey pollution conditions.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which plenty, cannot be denied.
your birthday comes and find what your outlook is ,according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — The future depends upon us. We can give the proper assistance, the necessary guidance that will promote benefits for all. How are you helping?

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Really generous day in which energy and application will count, put you in line for gains. Be efficient but not domineering.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Much good can be accomplished, regardless of some "cloudy" weather. Seek favors rightly, take advantage of leads. Romance favored in its turn.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — What you do and who you do it with today will have bearing upon whole week's activities and results. Be advised against forcing issues.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — May be some new responsibilities. Be practical, but progressive. You could be No. 1 helper. Work things out patiently.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Morning vibrations advise you stay today with extra prudence. You have certain winning aptitudes. Be more generously, astutely.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Snap to obligations, duties. Many fine opportunities now. Splendid day to capitalize on the unusual, the little known.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Though your efforts may not show immediate returns, you will reach your objectives later. Ingenuity, of which you have November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Go meet opportunity! Don't be timid! Take reasonable chances that can spell advancement. There are opportunities galore.

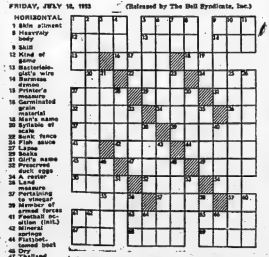
December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Be up and doing early. Give your fine mind a chance to master today's opportunities achieve something better than so-so.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Move with healthily progressive ways. Determined approach will carry well deserved rewards. Review issues ,allocate your abilities to get most for effort.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — May have to make changes for conditions that change. Keep pace with progress, but don't overpress. After 5 p.m., milder rays.

YOUR BONTY TODAY: Usually conservative, though have a knack for, and appreciate, the unusual. Dependability high. You can promote almost anything you put your mind to. Many of this zodiacal Sign are top salesmen, actors, speakers, journalists, doctors, nurses. Always rely on prayer religion, and make bounty your keyword. Birthdate of: John Quincy Adams; 6th Pres of the U.S.; John Wanamaker, great merchant, U.S. Postmaster General.

NEW B.C. DIOCESE

OTTAWA (CP)—Archbishop Ildebrando Antoniutti, apostolic delegate to Canada, announced today that Pope Pius has created a new Roman Catholic diocese of Yarmouth, N.S., and appointed Most Rev. Alcuin Lemenager of Moncton, N.B., its first bishop.

APPEAL IN 95 MPH CASE

TORONTO (CP)—The attorney-general's department will appeal the dismissal at a dangerous driving charge against Edward Levy of Weston, who police said sped along the new Toronto-Hamilton highway at 95 miles an hour. C. R. Magone, deputy attorney-general, announced today he would review the case. Levy was acquitted Wednesday by magistrate Gordon Porter in Barrie.

ST. LAURENT

This statement was in sharp contrast with one by Mr. Drew in a campaign speech Thursday at Pembroke, Ont. Mr. Drew said the Liberal government had taken the rule of law by dealing with Communists in government agencies without defining their offence.

"We should stop being soft about communism but any action should be done by law."

He said the government long ago abandoned the principle that "no man or woman shall have their freedom threatened or their right to work denied except under a known law, defining the offence and enforced only by our free and impartial courts."

In Brantford, Ont., Defence Minister Claxton said in a campaign speech that "so far the only disclosures of the Conservative campaign has been the steady stream of false and misrepresentation of the armed forces."

Out of each $1 spent on the armed forces, the Air Force got about 30 cents. The United States Air Force got 40 cents out of every $1 of the U.S. services budget.

"This makes it plain why the no - called economy cuts on per man used over and over again by the Conservative party are dishonest . . . we spend more proportionately on construction — largely airfields, hangars and accommodation—and a good deal more on equipment because of our tremendous emphasis on air force."

At Antigonish, N.S., Trade Minister Howe said a policy advocated by the Progressive Conservatives of keeping Canada's raw materials in this country "could result in war."

He told a Liberal nomination convention that if Canada withheld raw materials from other countries they would retaliate.

"They want our raw materials but not our finished products," he said. In other words, you would turn a saleable product into an unsaleable product."

MALENKOV

I wrote a story Thursday night and mailed it to New York. It began: "Who's running Russia today?" It ended: "When I recently saw Beria and Malenkov together . . . never once . . . was there any doubt in my mind who was running the show."

The Malenkov, Georgi Maximilianovich."

This morning that reads even better.

German Question

Beria's disgrace could very well be connected with the East Berlin and East German uprisings. It is known in Moscow that he has had the top finger but his whole arm in the bubbling German stalemate.

Has Stalin's old fellow-country-man—both were Georgians—been damned because of that?

It is quite possible, no matter what official explanation is now rolling off the propaganda machine of the central committee of the Communist party.

In Russia have certainly convinced me of one thing: When something happens as has happened in Germany, somebody has to be singled out. If it is anybody the boys can get their hands on, they certainly love denunciation as night does day.

A great wrestling bout for power was going on before the German demonstration, of course, but those events coming on top of the denunciation of the police and their methods could have given Malenkov the gun he was seeking to fire in Beria's back.

May Have Had Plans

Beria is being denounced in Moscow this morning for, among other things, trying to put his police before the party and government.

If one can believe this, it could mean Beria has been trying to have arrest some of his colleagues in the party and government. Possibly Malenkov himself.

Noteworthy, also, is the continuing emphasis from Moscow today on criticism of the "leader cults," of which Stalin-worship was the supreme and utter example. There has been much emphasis on collective leadership.

Are the Communist leaders in power really trying to work out a government by committee or is this the same old Communist trick of calling the sun the moon and day night, and saying it over and over again?

Malenkov and or others now have dealt with Beria.

Is anyone else next?

Nikolai Bulganin, who heads the armed forces, is a bright very quiet these days. So is Molotov. Nor is there much heard from Nikita Khrushchev, head of the Communist party machinery.

Malenkov seems to have won the first round in the great power vacuum that followed the death of Stalin. But it may not be the final round.

Volcano Erupting

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Mount Spurr, an active volcano 78 miles west of Anchorage, was erupting violently Thursday, hurling solid particles large enough to damage aircraft in an altitude of 20,000 feet, the air force reported.

A cloud of writhing smoke towered an estimated 25,000 feet into the sky.

The area is isolated in the wilderness, with the nearest human communities on Cook Inlet 40 miles away, and no damage or threats to life were reported.

The Alaska Steamship Co. at Seattle reported it was notified the skies were so murky at Anchorage it was almost like dusk at midday.

Porkchop Hill Attacks Broken

SEOUL (AP)—Infantrymen and big guns of the U. S. 7th division broke up two more Chinese attacks early in the four-day struggle for Porkchop hill in western Korea.

Artillery shells scattered some 400 Reds who rushed the dug-in Americans. U. S. foot soldiers hurled the Communists down the slopes of the Allied-held height in savage hand-to-hand fighting. The Reds still had a toehold on part of the hill.

Murky skies limited air action at the front, as daytime temperatures reached a sweltering 85 degrees Thursday, the hottest since last August.

Sunday School Lesson:

A Design for Living

By ROY L. SMITH

One of the great religious publishing houses is in the process of putting out a huge 12 volume commentary on the Bible. When complete, it will represent the finest work of nearly 300 of the most learned Christians in the English speaking world, and will consist of tens of millions of words. And such a work is badly needed, in order that plain people may know exactly what the Scriptures mean. And yet the interesting fact is that out of it all — the core of the Jewish and Christian teaching about God—can be found in two or three simple and brief passages which even a small child can understand. This twelfth chapter of Romans is one of them; the Sermon on the Mount and the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians are a couple more.

Transformed by Thinking

Many years ago Sam Jones, the famous evangelist, was accustomed to say, "You can scrub a dirty boy with soap and water all you will but you will not take the love of God out of his heart," which was another way of saying that unless something can be done to clean up a man's mind, you will not do much toward cleaning up his life.

It happens every day in the psychiatrist's clinic that the scientist undertakes to restore to the sufferer to mental health by persuading him to think along new paths. It is a working out of this principle Paul laid down to the Romans — "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your minds." For hundreds of thousands of sufferers from mental diseases there is no hope until they can change their thinking.

> The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 12: "A Pattern of Christian Behavior," Romans 6:1-14;12.

This is a task for the individual himself. No one can compel us to think sanely or basically. Other people can warn us, and other people can point the way to mental health, but when we have been given all the help that can be given from the outside, we must do the choosing of our thinking, and work out our own salvation.

Living Without Pretense

This week's lesson is so simply written in the Scripture that there is danger one may confuse the issue by trying to explain the Scripture or comment on it. But at least this much can be ventured; the pretender, or the one Paul calls the hypocrite, is the one for whom there, is no hope or peace.

Let's be careful about the way we use that word hypocrite. It sometimes happens that the man who has failed, and knows it, is called a hypocrite for no better reason that that he has fallen short of the goal he has set up for himself. But a hypocrite is something entirely different from a failure. He is a pretender, and for such there are no promises or assurances offered within the Scripture or in the psychological clinic.

"To thine own self be true and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man," is the way the great bard of Avon puts the case. Self-deception is demoralizing; it is spiritual suicide. No man can make progress until he is absolutely honest; there can be no promise of redemption for the man who will not admit to himself that he is in need of divine help. Here then is the secret to the design for life which was laid down by the Giver of Life — "live without hypocrisy."

Responsible for Yourself

There's one tough assignment in this lesson. "As much as lieth in you, be at peace with all men." Some of the conflicts and bad fortunes of life are quite beyond our control. It would be impossible for us to live at peace with some people who prefer discord to harmony. For the blows that are dealt us, we, and we are not responsible. But we can cut down the friction of life at least half if we will make it our business to maintain the peace, and so conduct ourselves that nothing we say or do starts war in another man's yard.

Weed of the Week

Bladder Campion

Whether you call it Bladder Campion, Bladder weed or Cow Basil, it still remains one of Ontario's worst weeds according to the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. It can be identified among the cockles by its smooth, hairless stem while flowers and inflated seed pod topped by three or six curved teeth. It spreads by seed or by pieces of the crown. Cutting before mid-June and careful cultivation are necessary for its control.

When only small patches are present, applications of sodium chlorate, ammate or heavy and repeated applications of Brushkill will eradicate it before it goes to seed. 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T and should be applied at the rate of two or three ounces of acid per gallon of water.

Bladder Campion is usually introduced as an impurity in Red Clover seed and is scattered throughout the field. Chemical control is not practical under these conditions. The hay should be cut early in June and the field plowed. Frequent cultivation from plowing till fall with a broad tooth cultivator will go a long way to cleaning up the field. Early spring cultivation followed by a row crop will take care of most of the survivors.

Don't buy clover seed unless you know it is free of Bladder Campion, and if you do find it on your farm spray it or cut it before it goes to seed.

See Broad Reforms Likely in Russia After Beria's Fall

Changes Affecting Millions Forecast by West's Experts

By THOMAS F. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP)—Western observers believe Soviet leaders plan to announce broad reforms affecting millions of citizens as an aftermath of Lavrenty P. Beria's ouster. This opinion was expressed as Beriaism press today reported widespread popular denunciation of the former deputy premier as an enemy of the people.

The reforms were expected to include important changes in the administration of Soviet heavy and agricultural policies, as well as price cuts and moves to increase the Russian standard of living.

An editorial in the Communist party newspaper Pravda gave support to the view that changes are likely. It charged Beria with using his power as first deputy premier and police chief to block "important and urgent" measures in agriculture and law reform. With his removal it seemed evident that the government would go ahead with these measures.

Repeated Denunciations

Pravda also claimed the entire Soviet people warmly approved the actions of the party and the government against Beria, fired from the party and government Thursday night as an agent of international imperialism.

Millions of Soviet people "wrathfully condemn the criminal actions of the traitorous enemies of the people and the party, Beria, and call for intensification of revolutionary vigilance," the newspaper declared.

Western sources here expressed the view that Beria's ouster did not indicate any policy reversals by Premier Malenkov's government, but rather a strengthening of those policies.

(Western European diplomatic sources also speculated that the purge of the former police boss did not indicate any change in Russian foreign policy. Said the Big Three foreign ministers, meeting in Washington, are reported to have agreed that it might forecast only a turn-about in the Kremlin's recent conciliatory attitude to the West.

Will Be Scapegoat

(As pointed out, Beria had the job of keeping the satellite states in line and presumably will be made the scapegoat for the failure that has been sweeping the peoples of those countries.

(In Vienna, the newspaper Vidensche Svobodne Listy, published by Czechoslovak exiles in the Australian capital, suggested Friday that a struggle for power between Beria and Kremlin battle that led to Beria's downfall is now going on in Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia.

(The newspaper said the fight for personal power behind the purport is being waged between President Antonin Zapotocky and Premier Viem Siroky.)

Although Beria was officially accused of collaboration "undermining the Soviet state in the interest of foreign states," Pravda said little on this theme.

Calling for a strengthening of "leadership in all links of the party and state apparatus," the editorial repeated most of the original denunciation of Beria and added long quotations from various speakers at workers' rallies throughout the country. It also declared:

"Foul perfidy and cruelty and enemy of the party, Beria, who was cleverly disguised, worked his way by various machinations to the party and crept into leadership.

"The party teaches us to remember and never forget the capitalist encirclement which is seeking and will seek into our midst its agents for subversive work."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: There was a general thunderstorm development in Northern Ontario Friday afternoon and evening but best these ended early Saturday morning. A band of cloudiness associated with this precipitation has moved across eastern counties but the sun will break up this bank of cloud during the day, and pleasant summer weather is forecast for the week-end over most of Ontario. Scattered thunderstorms will move into the Lake Superior area on Sunday.

3rd Battalion R.C.R. Returns To Line for Duty

IN KOREA (CP)—The 3rd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, returned to the line to begin its second tour of front-line duty in the Korean war.

The unit previously was in the line for 47 days from April 21, when it relieved the homeward-bound 1st battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, until June 6 when the 1st battalion of the Princess Patricias took over its sector.

The RCRs proved then they were prepared for battle. Highlight of the 47 days was a battle May 2 when the Chinese Reds swarmed in strength over a platoon position commanded by Lieut. Ed Hollyer of Toronto, only to be destroyed by lashing artillery fire from the 57th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery.

Man Cools Off In Niagara River So Pair 'Save' Him

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—James Watson, 50, calmly perched on a rock in the Niagara River above the Canadian falls Friday and protested the "rescuers" that he was only cooling off.

But Antonio Bonilla, of San Salvador, and William McClure, of Pittsburgh, figured there was a better way to get him back to shore. They waded out to the rock, 400 yards above the falls, and carried Watson ashore in a fireman's lift.

Later in police court Watson said he had an argument at home and was given a 30-day suspended sentence on a vagrancy charge. The judge suggested he cool off out of town.

Ontario and Quebec Industrial Cities Being Bombed in Operation Tailwind

MONTREAL (CP) — Was your city "bombed" today?

Well, don't worry—accusing our cities night and day, probably you didn't notice it. If you live in an industrial centre in Quebec or Ontario, possibly you were the victim on an "air attack." Or perhaps it happened yesterday.

Or perhaps you weren't attacked. Possibly the attack was repulsed by the ground observer corps and the fighter squadrons, all members of the RCAF's air defence command team, beat the "attackers" off. This is the week-end when "operation Tailwind," joint Canada-United States air manoeuvre, gets into full swing.

RCAF bombers and others from the United States strategic air command will do their best to penetrate Canada's air defences and air defence command, with headquarters at nearby St. Hubert, will attempt to stop them.

It's only "make believe" bombing. But it's serious business to Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James of St. Hubert and Gen. Benjamin W. Chidlaw of Colorado Springs, Colo., commanders of the air defences of Canada and the United States.

The general public won't be told the results of the manoeuvres. They won't even be told how the two air forces until after long, hard study.

Paradoxically, it won't be a success if the bombers get through or if they don't.

If they get through, then there's something wrong with our defence system. If they don't, then there's something wrong with our plans for attack.

The only real success will come from the gaining defence or attack plans straight.

All available units, both permanent and reserve (week-end) will be in on the deal. Bombers from Ontario and Michigan are to penetrate Canada's air defences while anti-aircraft units from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Moncton will join units from Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Halifax, Quebec and Trois-Rivieres; and the ground observer corps, spread across the two provinces, will be showing results of their training.

The ground observer corps consists of civilians trained to spot aircraft and relay the information to "filter centres" where routes and speeds of the attackers are plotted.

Drive Off 4,000 Foes After Seven-Hour Fight

By JOHN RANDOLPH

SEOUL (AP)—South Korean infantrymen, in seven hours of hilltop fighting, drove off more than 4,000 Communists who assaulted Reds' mainline positions along a four-mile front today in east-central Korea.

In the air, Red night fighters attacked Allied B-29s bombing a railroad yards in Pyongyang, west deep in northwest Korea which fumeds Red supplies into Korean battle fronts.

The Red jet fighters sprayed with cannon fire several of 18 B-29s which slammed 180 tons of bombs at wood and steel bridges spanning the Chongchon river. Red anti-aircraft batteries also opened up on the bombers, which were outlined with searchlights.

All the bombers returned to their base in Japan, the Far East air force said.

Two Chinese battalions—totaling up to 1,200 Communists—hit an outpost on the east-central front, but were driven off after five hours fighting.

The 7th division infantrymen defending besieged Porkchop hill 40 miles north of Seoul fought hand-to-hand battles with more than 200 Reds battling to expand their hold on the outpost.

The ROK 8th division hammered back a stiff Red attack just west of Finger ridge while other South Koreans with flame throwers burned out Communists in one of a series of counter-attacks on Arrowhead ridge five miles farther east.

One Finger Used To Write Letters

TORONTO (CP) — A policestricken mother started writing a letter with one finger Friday.

Mrs. Donna France of Kingsville, 24 miles southeast of Windsor, Ont., used the index finger of her electric typewriter from Canadian Press bureau there to write:

Mrs. France has been in hospital since she was stricken with polio Tuesday. She can barely move more than one finger. Her arms and legs are paralyzed.

The typewriter is on a special desk which can be tilted up and letters to her two children, Ronnie, 12 and Sherry, 6, who live with their grandmother in Windsor.

Thousands Are Sprucing Up For Traditional Walks on 12th

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

This is the day of the fife and drum, the big white horse and the Orangeman's sash. So is Sunday. And Monday.

Thousands of Canadian Protestants are preparing for the annual walk that will celebrate the "Glorious, Pious and Immortal Memory" of the battle of the Boyne where the forces of William of Orange defeated James II in 1690.

Because July 12 falls on a Sunday, Orangemen throughout the country will parade either Saturday, Sunday or Monday. And a Canadian Press survey yesterday plainly will line up. Warm sunny weather is expected in most parts of the country.

In Ottawa, at least 60,000 Orangemen, their abreast, are expected to strut down the city's main street Monday. It will be a familiar parade Sunday.

In Toronto, more than 7,000 men and women, sporting sashes, jackets and caps of blue and orange, are to march through downtown streets and cap off the day with a marshal Fred Woods and his white horse. Woods, 71, hasn't missed an event like this in 40 years.

At Chatham, Ont., Orangemen from many parts of southwestern Ontario and Michigan are to participate. Lodge members from as far as six counties around St. Catharines are parading the streets of that city early today. Galt will be host to lodge members from Woodstock and district.

In predominantly Roman Catholic Inverness, Quebec, Orangemen are to play host to all comers who want to join the celebrations. More than 500 lodge members plan to fall in behind a fife and drum corps to parade through the street.

Parades and church services are scheduled at Halifax and other Nova Scotia centres.

In New Brunswick, the celebrations are scheduled for today. Some 3,000 delegates and visitors from Canada and the U.S. are to be heading the transport department's special projects branch for the last year. Personnel of the other posts is still undisclosed.

P.M. Sees 'Ramshackle' Govt. Should Liberals be Beaten

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

British Columbia voters will be asked Saturday if a Social Credit government to office got a candid opinion Friday night from Prime Minister St. Laurent of Social Credit and Conservatives in the Aug. 10 general election.

He said at a Victoria Liberal rally there is "a reason" for fearing that, if enough Social Crediters and Conservatives and so-called Quebec independents could be elected, the Social Credit party might have just enough strength to hold its power in her ideas on a ramshackle, makeshift coalition in return for its support."

While Mr. St. Laurent aimed his blows at the Social Credit and at the Progressive Conservatives, Hon George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, campaigning in Eastern Ontario, charged the Liberals are inventing history to give themselves a creditable record.

Rewriting History

"They're rewriting history in a number of strange ways" in claiming that all major economic advances and steps to national stature have been made by Liberals, whereas Conservative governments were responsible for Confederation, the CPR, CNR and CBC, among other things.

Substantial Start on Seaway By Spring Is Now Expected

By JOHN LAKLAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A substantial start on the St. Lawrence seaway by spring—and a think by about the middle of August Friday by federal informants as the result of Washington's decision to go ahead with the project.

Preliminary work by the transport department and the Ontario hydro-electric commission on the International Rapids section of the river will be stepped up from now on, officials said, following the FPC award to the New York state power authority of hydro rights on the section.

While legal blocks remained, official quarters here were inclined to the belief that the two countries could plow ahead regardless of possible court brakes in the U.S. Canada appeared determined to move. Transport Minister Chevrier announced the Canadian government will consider "at once" subject to ensuing U.S. litigation—the appointment of three bodies dealing with the seaway problems.

These are the St. Lawrence seaway authority, established by Parliament at $300,000,000 to build and operate the navigation works of the project; the Canadian section of the St. Lawrence board of engineers which Canada and the U.S. to pass on the hydro and navigation works generally; and a board of control to study the flow problems in the river system.

Canada's appointments to all three bodies will be made shortly. The major job—chairman of the seaway authority—is expected to go to R. A. C. Henry, Montreal consulting engineer who has been heading the transport department's special projects branch for the last year. Personnel of the other posts is still undisclosed.

KREMLIN ON SPOT AS EISENHOWER OFFERING FOOD

E. German Communists Caught Between Fires

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's offer of food for rebellious East Germany faced the quarrelling Kremlin today with a choice between accepting capitalist aid or letting Germans go hungry.

The U. S. proposal Friday—to begin immediate delivery of $15,000,000 worth of food to the unhappy Soviet-controlled eastern zone—was made directly to Moscow.

That bypassed the East German government, which the American U. S. has never recognized, and put the issue squarely up to the Kremlin.

The dramatic stroke caught the Communists at a time when they were fighting the fires of revolt among their satellite peoples and stirring up sparks among the top men in the Kremlin which already has split wide open the downfall of Lavrenty Beria from his No. 2 perch as boss of the secret police.

Their choice lay between accepting help from the American offer—a call "decadent capitalists" or rejecting aid whose humanitarian aspects can not escape the restive peoples of the satellite countries. Air attack.

There was an air of suddenness about the president's move.

Eleven days ago at a press conference held by Secretary of State Dulles a reporter suggested sending U. S. goods to East Germany. Dulles replied that he did not know whether the Allied commissioners in Germany had considered the idea. He implied it was news to him but worth thinking about.

The Voice of America, which beams radio news to the world as an outlet of the state department, gave global coverage to the food offer. A Voice official said it was presented only as another indication of U. S. willingness to help the unfortunate.

Reliable Voice officials said most of the food would come out of existing surpluses held under the government's price support program.

But some of the commodities, like sugar, would have to be purchased outright before shipment abroad.

Made Under Authority

Foreign aid chief Harold Stassen said the offer was made under authority of the Mutual Security Law which permits the president to extend up to $20,000,000 in aid to any country.

Besides sugar, the commodities he would include grain, lard and soybean oil among others.

Eisenhower acted in response to a letter from West German Chancellor Adenauer of Western Germany.

The latter urged consideration of suggestions in Congress for "positive action" to wrest the initiative from Russia in the Cold War.

Even Big Three Foreign Ministers Undecided What Beria's Fall Means

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big three Western foreign ministers look to reports from their embassies in Moscow for a possibly fresh light on the dramatic Beria purge before they try finally to assess the importance to free world policies.

Under summons from State secretary Dulles, Britain's Anthony Eden, Charles E. Bohlen was flying home to report.

Bohlen had just arrived in Paris from Moscow for a vacation. The big three ministers met in Paris last week and reported a week ago the probabilities of the downfall of Lavrenty P. Beria as Russia's No. 2 man and rival for power of Premier Georgi Malenkov.

In their initial discussions, Dulles, Eden and Foreign Secretary Robert Schuman, acting British foreign secretary, and foreign minister Georges Bidault of France were reported to have agreed Friday that the affair might mean a return by Moscow to a tougher policy toward the West and a further rule for the captive Communist lands of Eastern Europe.

Washington informants gave this account of the opening meeting:

Most of the time was spent in discussing the Beria affair and Russian relations in general. Three broad conclusions stood out in the exchange of views:

1. Westerners which have recently shown up in the Soviet system—such as the uprising in East Germany and the power struggle in Moscow—tend to justify the policies followed by the free nations with Russia.

2. There is no reason so far seen to change the Western policies of building, strength against Soviet power.

3. Toward the satellite countries the Western powers should pursue a middle-of-the-road course aimed at keeping alive the hope of freedom and avoiding moves which could prompt suicidal revolt.

Robertson Says His Work Is Done, Progress Made

Eisenhower's True Emissary Winds Up Parleys With Rhee

By ROBERT GIBSON

SEOUL (AP)—President Eisenhower's true emissary said today he has wound up his secret conferences with President Syngman Rhee and U. S. embassy sources indicated Rhee had been won over to an armistice.

A joint communique on the talks will be issued at 10 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. EDT today).

Robertson held a press conference he was leaving for home because "I feel my work is done." He said substantial progress had been made toward winning Rhee because "I feel sure in more than two weeks of talks, but refused to say an agreement had been reached.

While there were indications soon a sort of agreement had been concluded, a South Korean source indicated the talks will continue at a different level.

The joint communique on the conferences was to have been issued Saturday, but a South Korean government source said it was held up because "we have to work on it."

These new developments in the Korean truce tangle came a few hours after Allied and Communist negotiators met twice at Panmunjom to discuss final details of an armistice.

Reach Understanding

Rhee told newspaper men today he and Robertson had reached "a friendly understanding" on problems relating to a truce.

And while Robertson refused to comment on his talks with the subject, observers said he appeared well satisfied with his mission as he talked with reporters after a reception in his honor at the U. S. embassy in Seoul.

Robertson said he would confer Monday and Tuesday with Gen. Mark Clark the United Nations commander and other American officials. He said he would leave for Washington about Thursday or Friday.

The South Korean president indicated earlier that he and Robertson had not come to a full agreement.

"I think some more meetings will be held," he told a press conference, "but we have covered all the important points."

Decision From U.S.

"I think a final decision will come from the United States."

"Never in my life have I met a more dedicated man than President Rhee," he said. "He is a true patriot. He is single-mindedly for the welfare of Korea—and I am certain that his actions in this matter have been well above any personal ambition.

"He has dedicated his life to a free and independent country and everything he does is aimed at achieving that object. It is an object we must all respect, and I pay

A prototype of the craft will undergo trials this summer near the eastern Lake Ontario port. First wrecks to be probed are in Deadman's Bay, just east of the city.

Designed by Lt.-Col. P. C. King, of RMC's mechanical engineering department, the cigar-shaped bell is powered by two two-people-type compressed air engines, permitting both forward and reverse motion.

Vision is provided by a large glass sheet at the bow and several ports along the 30-foot-long vessel.

The project developed from discussions at RMC between members of the Kingston Historical Society and naval officers interested in underwater exploration.

Col. King completed his basic design in 1951. The first test was made last year. Using only one engine, the bell, designed only for shallow water, went down 25 feet.

...sonally have a tremendous admiration for President Rhee."

Truce or Unity

Efforts to win Rhee over to an armistice at Panmunjom have been stalemated by his insistence that there may be unified union, by force if necessary.

Truce armistice negotiations at Panmunjom were, as usual, cloaked in secrecy. The delegates met for 27 minutes in the morning, then returned to the conference but for a 33-minute afternoon session.

They will meet again Sunday.

A Southern Korean source said that in return for a promise to divide by truce, Rhee told Robertson he would get:

1. Solid assurances of a mutual security pact.

2. Substantial economic assistance from the U. S.

3. Four additional divisions for his Southern Korean Army, boosting it to 20 divisions.

City and District News

OILING OF STREETS TO START SUNDAY

City Engineer, Charles A. Mott announced today that oiling of city streets would be started on Monday by the Bolton Construction Company and would continue until all the work is completed.

The first oiling will be on the West Hill and when that section of the city is completed -work will commence on the East Hill.

The Engineer has requested the motorists to stay off the oiled streets as much as possible because a better job can be done if the streets are not driven over until the roadways have been rolled and settled. This allows the oil to penetrate into the base. Signs will be posted and all motorists will be adequately warned as to where operations are going on.

Conservatives Hear Candidate

An enthusiastic and well attended meeting of the South Hastings Conservative Association was held at the Lee Grills' one million acres in the former fire hall on Front Street on Friday evening.

The president, Ray Grant, was in the chair and representatives from every section of the riding were present.

Enthusiastic reports were received from the various municipal associations and details for the coming elections were discussed.

Les Grills, the candidate, addressed the meeting and expressed his pleasure and appreciation for the reception he had been receiving from all parts of the riding, and for the co-operation being shown by all the workers.

The meeting also heard from Mr. Grills' campaign manager, George Stokes; Mr. Harry Rollins, chairman, and Mrs. Dorothy Tugwell.

John Luscombe Passes Exams

John D. Luscombe, of this city, was one of the twenty-five students to pass the examinations as prescribed by the Canadian School of Rehabilitation held at Banting Institute, Toronto.

Mr. Luscombe will be associated with Mr. Orland Pinkston at the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church and Victoria Ave.

Bantam Baseball

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Schwab's bantam baseballers chalked up their seventh win in six many starts by trouncing the Canadian Legion youngsters 18 to 1 at the Fair Grounds on Friday evening.

Gordie St. Louis went the full five innings for Schwab's at bat in one run off one single in the fifth frame. This run was unearned as errors aided allowed the rim. St. Louis struck out six batters and issued five free passes.

Haddleston started on the hill for the Legion, but was relieved by Pollard in the third inning. Haddleston was the losing pitcher. Frank Chalk was the best at the plate with a double and two singles, Elliott and St. Louis have singles. John Foster had a triple. Schwab a double and Wright and Walters a single. Haddleston got the only hit and run for the Legion. In the last twelve innings of play there had been only one hit off the Schwab pitchers.

Hasty Pees Enjoy Social Evening At Headquarters

A welcome home from the Coronation to Cpl. George Christopher and the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the landing of the Hasty Pees in Sicily was held at the Legion Memorial Home of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment on Friday evening under the R.C.M.I. Pte. L. Little, president of the mess, in charge. During the evening the Corps Padre joined by the officers from the Trenton Camp. Supper was enjoyed with a bountiful supply of spaghetti and meat balls, all the trimmings and topped off by a portion of mellow Italian wine. It was a grand evening for all those privileged to attend.

Sgt. Major, R.H. Swetlior, who was one of the landing party ten years ago yesterday, Sgt. H. Saltern, Cpl. G. Hall, Cpl. Christopher, J. McKechan, Cpl. Doug. Swetlior, Cpl. Fred Bowen, Cpl. Malcolm Duffy, former RSM of the Regiment, were on hand and there were suggestions made as the evening by Lieut.-Col. A. A. Kennedy, D.S.O., and Maj. F. Cowan, Sound, who was in Ottawa and stopped off in the Friendship for their celebration, Col. Kennedy was O.C. of the regiment in the latter stages of the campaign and had the honor of leading them home. Also a fine reception was given in this city.

Joined Happy Throng

Lt. Alan Jones, R.H.R. Sweetlior, who was one of the landing party ten years ago yesterday, Major Cliff Col. R. H. Widdifield, Major Cliff Dick, Maj. Hardy Peer, Major Austin Walters, Capt. William Hurst, Regimental Sergeant Major Fleming, Flying Officer Stuart McDougall, Capt. R. F. Dafoe and many others.

A special welcome was extended to Cpl. Doug. Christopher on his return as a representative of the Hasty Pees at the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth. In conversation with this soldier, he stated it was a wonderful experience and he showed the boys the many photographs that he collected during his visit to the Old Country. Cpl. Christopher stated the troops were stationed at Pirbright and of all the units represented the Ghurkas pipe band took his eye. "They were perfect" he stated. He had received a hearty welcome wherever they went.

Cpl. Christopher had the pleasure of witnessing the naval review off Spithead aboard the carrier Magnificent as the guest of the Navy and stated this was the most wonderful sight of a wonderful trip. While he was in England he met Ken Williams and Harry Means of this city now attached to the 27th Brigade in Germany. He also journeyed to present the Royal Banner. Equipment with a trophy from the Hasty-Pees, which will be awarded annually to that regiment for the best junior N.C.O. each year. "I am mighty proud in having been chosen to represent the Hasty Pees at the Coronation," said Cpl. Christopher, "and it is an experience I will never forget." One of his prized possessions of the journey is the Coronation Medal that was presented to him by Queen Elizabeth.

The evening was spent in reminiscing and two or three old sweats of the First World War congratulated the regiment for the splendid showing during the fateful days of World War II. A wonderful time was had by all.

Softball Playoff Dates Announced

At an executive meeting of the Belleville and District Softball League held on Friday evening, the playoff dates for the city championship were completed. It was unanimously decided to complete the title series as soon as possible in order that the playdowns in the OASA will not be interfered with.

The first and fourth, second and fifth and third and sixth place teams in the standings will play off with the winner of the first series getting a bye into the finals. The secretary is to arrange the schedule and games in each series will be played on consecutive nights until a winner is declared. All series are to be two out of three affairs with the final, three out of five.

Two the Belleville Bobcats and Northern Electric, will play a series for supremacy of the city playoffs for the Labatt trophy, and a series for the right to advance into the Intermediate "A" OASA playdowns.

Frankford, CNR and Point Anne will play a series with the second and third teams playing to meet the winner of final standings in league for the right to proceed into the OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns. The Glen Roy juniors enter directly into the playdowns as there is only one junior team in the district.

Canada's Airmen, Airwomen Losing No Time in Seeing Sights

METZ, France (CP) — Canada's airmen and airwomen are losing no time in seeing the sights of Europe.

On any long week-end leave, say officials at RCAF air division headquarters at RCAF personnel may be found anywhere from the Channel coast to the Black Forest in Germany, or from the north of the Netherlands to the sunny chalets of the Swiss Alps.

Organized bunkers take them the whole way. In the past two months about 20 tours have been organized to more than twenty tourist spots in France, Germany, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Recreation officer at No. 3 fighter wing, Zweibrucken, Germany, FO. R. F. Lynch of St. Lambert, Que., has been concentrating on Germany's beauty spots. He has sent three tours to Heidelberg where airmen saw the university, churches and castles of one of Germany's oldest centers of learning.

Visit Resort Areas

Two other trips were organized to Baden-Baden along the Hochstrasse and into the forest lodges which runs high on the banks of the Rhine. Another trip took Zweibrucken personnel to the holiday centre at Garmisch, south of Munich, by way of Freiburg and Breisach. The next tour scheduled from No. 3 fighter wing will head for the district south of Munich to the famous resort area of Berchtesgaden.

FO. J. J. Sangroon of Vancouver, recreation officer at Grostenquin, France, organized an ambitious summer program. Two-day trips are planned to fall just after pay days, and on the alternate week-ends bumper tours will take in places of interest closer to the station. So far Grostenquin activities have been to Switzerland, Germany, Belgium and eastern France. For those who have leave coming up this summer, FO. Stangroon has arranged two five-day journeys through Germany, one in July and one in August.

From here, Pte. L. E. D. (Herbie) Herbertson of Toronto has lined up four major trips, two to Holland and Belgium, two to Switzerland. Several other one-day trips have been arranged for airforce sight-seers to the battlefields around Verdun, France; to Luxembourg and to some of the historical and scenic spots of eastern France.

Scared Fresno Hunts Fire-Bug After 12 Blazes

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Armed troops patrolled downtown streets today as police combed this central California city for a $2,000 fire bug whose torch has plunged the community into a state of panic.

Lotterers and casual passersby were ordered out of a 22-block downtown area in the case of 12 fires which broke out almost simultaneously in major buildings Friday amid a rash of false alarms.

Mayor Gordon Dunn declared a state of emergency and Gov. Earl Warren authorized use of volunteer national guardsmen. Armed troops stood guard through the night to prevent looting and further arson at banks, stores, hotels and other public buildings.

More than 200 persons were overcome by heat or smoke were hospitalized, but there were no other reported injuries. Damage was estimated at upwards of $500,000.

"It must be a pyromaniac," said Dunn. "I'm sure whoever it is should the arsonist or arsonists strike again, theatres, dance halls and other central centers were shut down under the emergency proclamation.

"There ja no doubt these (fires) were deliberately set," mayor Dunn declared. Police said several false alarms were turned in at the height of the fire-fighting apparently to draw equipment away from the real blazes.

When all Fresno fire units were in action and new outbreaks continued, the mayor broadcast an appeal for help from neighboring fire departments, volunteers and civil defence workers. Units responded from as far away as 60 miles to quell the blaze.

The national guardsmen took over patrol of the fire zone, who were released to join a giant manhunt for the perpetrator of the fiery terror.

The first fire broke out in the four-story Hughes Hotel. More than 90 persons were evacuated before flames left the $500,000 building almost a total loss.

Within minutes, flames broke out in the brick apartments, a new four-story building across the street from Fresno's city hall. As the last of Fresno's available fire units pulled up there, other alarms flowed in.

Two Unidentified Youths Burned To Death in Car

PORT HOPE (CP) — Two unidentified youths were burned to death Friday night when the old model car in which they were riding went out of control, overturned and burst into flames about three miles east of Welcome.

Police said that firemen put out the flames but the two youths were found dead.

Fred McConnell, a farmer, said he saw the car out of control, sideswipe several guard rails and burst into flames. He said he was first on the scene, but was unable to rescue the two occupants.

Damascus 4,000 Years Old

World's Oldest City Has a Population of 300,000, and Is the Jewel of the Desert — Other Ancient Cities Have Died — Most of Inhabitants Are Moslems

(By Walter Binstead in Milwaukee Journal)

If old Damascus had a five wire chamber of commerce it would have something to trumpet about. Damascus is the world's oldest city still inhabited. Furthermore, the students who delve into such matters have come up with startling information that this is an anniversary year for the capital of steel blades and damask fabrics.

Just 4,000 years ago, according to calculations, some of the desert wanderers and agents of the Pharoahs decided that here, beside the spreading Barada River, was a good place to settle down—and they did.

If Paris, out of its legendary mists, could celebrate 2,000 years of municipal existence, then Damascus has just as valid a claim to declare Hail! twice as old. Paris and London, Rome "the eternal city," and Athens, even Jerusalem and Cairo—all must bow in the modesty of "the pearl of the desert," as Damascus is called.

Babylon and Nineveh, Ur and Carthage and many another proud city waxed mighty—and died bequeathing hardly a heap of stones to posterity. Damascus goes on and on. It's a tough old town. Eight centuries before Christ, the Assyrian monarch Tiglath-Pileser was not to be confused with a brand of brew—gave Damascus much a dreadful drubbing that he thought it would never arise again. But it did.

In 3400 A.D. the irresistible Mongol-conqueror Timerlane, "the prince of destruction," rode up to Damascus, stripped every last penny and jewel from the inhabitants, and then set the city afire. It was burned almost completely . . . Nothing that lived remained there. People returning to the city could not recognize their own streets or home sites "This is the end of Damascus," the Mongols chuckled. But the Mongols dwindled away shortly and Damascus arose from its ashes.

Damascus, which is only 160 miles from Jerusalem, has been large in Biblical annals. Early in Genesis we notice how the tribal elder Abram had not yet been named Abraham chasing his foes into the hills beyond Damascus. Many years later the magnetic King David rode east of Jerusalem to attack the Damascenes who had made war against him. The dynan rulers and the Hebrews were forever wrangling and conspiring with and against each other.

The Bible recounts no event more dramatic or consequential than that which took place at a Damascus gate some 19 centuries ago. The zealous Saul of Tarsus, "breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord," journeyed to the city to root out the Christian heretics and have them bound and sent to Jerusalem. Outside the city, he was overcome by a blinding light and a voice which asked, "Saul, Saul, persecutest thou me?"

Sightless he was led into the city. Three days later he could see again. He was converted to and baptized in the faith he had formerly assailed.

The most famous thoroughfare in Damascus is known as the Street Called Straight, in which the apostle Paul was once a lodger. It is a-mile long, stretching from the east to the west gates of the ancient central city, and actually is almost straight. It has a covering of stone roof for dimish the cold of winter and the heat of summer and to protect the bazaars.

Damascus, a city of 300,000, has its "good" sections and its slums. The Moslems, who have the majority of population, jobs and money enjoy the better sections, and the Christians and Jews live in degraded blocks.

Perhaps the science of steel making from crude iron was discovered at Damascus, but for centuries the ancient craftsmen made blades of unmatched hardness and resilience.

They had a quaint way of tempering their steel, it is said. When a criminal or aged cripple was deemed expendable, a newly wrought blade was plunged through his body, and the gradual cooling of the corpse effected a desirable effect on the steel. When the Mongols overran Damascus, they hauled all the smiths away to make their conquest armor, and Damascus lost its steel-making status.

But Damascus, a jewel in the desert, has been coveted by desert tribesmen ever since its position as caravan crossroads and oasis was noticed. It has been conquered, successively, by armies from Nineveh and Babylon, long-vanished capitals of the Assyrians, and by armies of Persia, Greece, Egypt, Rome, Mongolia and Turkey. The members of a hundred nationalities and creeds, eastern and western, brush past each other and past the camels, donkeys and horses that still compete with motor traffic.

Why a Ship Is a 'She'

By BERNARD PETTON Jr.
In the New York Herald-Tribune

Last September the American Merchant Marine Institute sent a new newsletter to newspapers, many of them in mid-Western towns, asking why a ship is called "she."

The returns have flowed back to the institute offices at Broadway, from Brooklyn and Yonkers, from steamship oilers with fire in their eyes, from steamship brokers with ink in their eyes. Castle or sheave, here are some of the returns:

Because a ship has a waist, bonnets, laces, stays, combings, jewels and earrings.

It was also noted that there is a great deal of "bustle" around a ship and that in port she has an agent handling her business called a "husband."

A captain wrote: "On to large vessels the word 'she' was attached because of the sails. The sail represented the vessel as dressed like a woman."

A Dutch student, recently arrived in America, submitted: 'In older times, when sea voyages could take many years, the ship was the woman . . . The seaman saw her as his home, he found in her his protection and the representation of female warmth and love, such as given by a mother or wife."

A man from Freeport, Texas, wrote: "First, there is always a gang of men around her; second, it takes a lot of paint to keep her good looking, and hard to get along with."

But a woman from Highlands, at so in Texas, ludicrously countered; "Ships are called 'she' because they home, and family—so a ship is sailed with great pride on the sea. Why is it that rocks the cradle of the world? It's a she. Who is it that waits at home for their loved ones, when they are away? It's a she."

From Surabaja, Indonesia, came this reply: 'A merchant ship is called 'she' because, coming in port, the first thing 'she' does is go to the buoys! I hope this solves your problem."

One respondent leaned on Shakespeare, Act II, Scene II, Act II, of "The Winter's Tale" a clown observes: "now the ship boring the moon with her mainmast, and anon the Bible, where in the description of Paul's voyage in Acts XXVII part of the third verse reads: 'and sailed into Syria, and landed at Tyre; for there the ship was to unlade her burden."

Another correspondent, a Seattle printer warned: 'Boats not to be called she are the mail boats" and added that in this the binding by law recently upheld by an article published six years ago in Yachting. Some of these sailing things to say: 'The prows of Phoenician ships, for instance, were graced with male animals, not feminine figureheads. The word 'ship' is masculine in French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese, and possesses the same in Danish, Swedish, during the 17th and 18th centuries, vessels were called men-of-war, merchantmen, Indiamen, and the like."

Just to make things worse, an account of the Battle of Agincourt, written in 1415, includes the line, 'Every ship waved her sail.' A treatise put out 150 years later remarks that 'in a ship she' But order ought to be no less than may be found in any one course." In Shakespeare's day a ship was frequently noted in his log, "wee mette a Dutch shippe near Nassapore Point. He wore a Flagg."

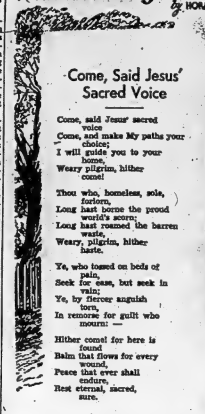
BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED M. WILSON

WORKING NORTH

Slowly but surely certain birds are changing, or enlarging, their territories. Point Pelee, which stretches far south into Lake Erie in southern Ontario, is used as an attracting point, to which several kinds have climbed up into Canada from the United States. This applies to both migratory and nonmigratory species.

Up to the early part of the 20th century, the wood thrush was common as a breeding bird on Canadian soil only in southern Ontario. Around 1910 bird students along the southern boundary of our eastern provinces used to be thrilled if they heard or saw this member of the thrush family. Now it has been gradually extending its range. Nearly 30 years ago a wood thrush was found nesting in the southerly Laurentian region, 50 miles or so northwest of Montreal, and now this species had actually got as far as C.P.R. Mile 50 on the north shore of Quebec City, down the St. Lawrence River.



The exotic cardinal, the male brilliant red with just a touch of black about the face, the female mostly brownish grey with conspicuous red feathers, is another live example of a non-migratory species which has worked its way north by this same route. The first nest in history it has been increasing in numbers and breeding. The first one was reported in the Toronto area in 1906. Now, not only is it quite established here, but several pairs have made their way many miles west, north, and east, especially in country where fruit grows near tangled areas.

More recent is the advance of the mockingbird, also a species that formerly was rare or unknown even it nests—which used to be from the New Jersey Indies northward to Maryland and western New York state. Some time ago it began to push gradually farther north, and for a number of years pairs have been found in the vicinity of the Great Lakes region and in New England. Again Point Pelee was the ladder into Canada. Now the Mockingbird is really established in southern Ontario, and pairs have made their way as far west as British Columbia, though seemingly they have not yet gone much above the southern border. Quite noticeably, however, is the report of an individual having been seen a year or so ago as far north as James Bay.

The tufted titmouse and blue-grey gnatcatcher are familiar only to Canadians who visit southern Ontario. Who knows but that before long they may be flying off the top of the ladder to make their homes in other provinces?

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Come, Said Jesus' Sacred Voice

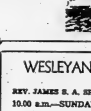
Come, said Jesus' sacred voice
Come, and make My paths your choice;
I will guide you to your home,
Weary pilgrim, hither come!

Thou who, homeless, sole, forlorn,
Long hast borne the proud world's scorn
Long hast roamed the barren waste;
Weary, pilgrim, hither haste.

Ye, who tossed on beds of pain,
Seek for ease, but seek in vain;
Ye, by fiercer anguish torn,
In remorse for guilt who mourn!

Hither come! for here is found
Balm that flows for every wound,
Peace that ever shall endure,
Rest eternal, sacred, sure.

One of the most beautiful passages in the Bible is Jesus' invitation to weary and discouraged humanity, in Matthew 11:28: "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."



That bit of Scripture inspired a consecrated English woman hymnist, Anne Laetitia Aiken, to write the hymn which appears above. Miss Aiken's poems were published in 1792 and was most popular of about 20 which she turned out during her life-time.

It was rather natural that the young hymnist should turn to the Bible for her inspiration, for her father, the Rev. John Aiken, was a devout Presbyterian church leader. She had a happy childhood and even before she was five years old she began to show evidence of the literary genius which in later years made her poems so popular.

A few years after she penned and published her hymn singing of Jesus' promise of comfort for the lives of the troubled, a great tribulation came into her own life. She had an unhappy marriage and when her husband became mentally ill, she placed him in an asylum. Later, he escaped from this haven and committed suicide.

Rome's Book Hospital

(A DIGEST Feature)

Ancient Egyptian papyri, Lydian tablets, scrolls from the ashes of Pompeii-books and manuscripts from every country and every century—made by side in the museum in Rome. This remarkable library is not known to be the general public, but the Museum of the Institute of Book Pathology is widely known, and as widely respected by specialists in many fields, primarily those who deal with the materials used for literary expression: paper, ink, glue, cloth and leather. The books have one thing in common—they have been victims of a variety of afflictions that threatened their physical existence. They have survived, with the help of science, fires, floods, bullets, bombs, chemical attacks, and the insects we—simply—old age.

Mr. Dertiere, Scientific Counselor for the French National Museum laboratories, describes a visit to the Institute of Book Pathology in an article for La Revue des Papiers et des Imprimés in Paris, from which many of the following facts are drawn.

On display are parchments which have been wholly or partly burned, books which have been soaked by sea water, some which have been attacked by mould, others by insects. One bundle of documents came from the wreck of a submarine, where they had been apparently reduced to a mass of pulp. Their restoration, seemingly impossible, was confidently undertaken and successfully accomplished.

Not all bear such evidence of external enemies, for some contained destructive elements from the beginning, unwittingly put there by the bookmakers themselves. For example, there are several old and beautiful books printed upon rich parchment long ago in Sicily. The paper was made with water from a stream containing a high percentage of copper. Whatever this may have contributed to the beauty of the paper when it was made, the passage of time has made the creases black and the pages brittle. Experts at the Institute devised a chemical treatment which restored strength to the pages and whitened the ugly creases.

Many old books were printed with ink containing acids which slowly destroyed the paper. This process has been arrested by chemicals which neutralize the acid.

In one room of the Museum, is a remarkable apparatus invented by Antonio Pazzini in 1773 which can accomplish the apparently impossible task of separating a book which has been completely burned. The pages, reduced to curled ashes, are placed in a glass frame and reinforced with silk threads. This work, requiring inexhaustible patience, has permitted the most astonishing restorations which have been of great importance in Italy where the loss of priceless documents by fire has occurred frequently. Apart from the losses of two world wars, fires in the Library of Turin in 1904 and in the University Library of Messina in 1908, as well as others caused by volcanic eruptions, have supplied book restorers with plenty of work.

Hundreds of books were burned or perforated by projectiles during the last war, among them treasures from the National Library of Naples and the archives of Monte Cassino.

Before all this debris, one stands helpless. Can it be that the incalculable treasures of the Abbey once flourished in these ashes—old papers, now transformed into shapeless tatters by fire and water? What can the expert save from all of this?

Leaving the Museum for the Library of the Institute, one begins to regain hope. Here craftsmen unsew the pages from their bindings, place them in separate frames and slide them carefully into chemical solutions which bleach the pages and restore their strength and flexibility. Further on, torn pages are carefully pasted together and covered by a clear varnish. Every material used is studied with the greatest care to make sure that it will best fulfil its purpose, that it will be chemically and otherwise compatible with the substance being treated. Sometimes, it is necessary to make a "sandwich" of a damaged page and a piece of gossamer thin silk fabric. After each document or book has received appropriate treatment, these are re-assembled, re-sewn and re-bound, the binding for which has been carefully repaired by appropriate means.

Very often, a particularly fragile manuscript is photographed, the original will then be carefully stored to protect it from further deterioration, but a photographic copy will always at least be able to consult the reproduction, either by enlarged replica or by means of a microfilm projector.

This is only one aspect of the work done in the Institute's well equipped photographic library. Photographic means are used to bring out writing which is so faded as to be invisible or illegible, to be able to the eye, to rediscover old texts which have been erased to make ancient parchments to make room for later writings, to verify the authenticity of stamps and seals.

An entire section is devoted to a microbiological laboratory for the study of damage caused by bacteria. Here also is an entire room reserved for entomological study.

To one side are the physics and chemical laboratories, with an ultra-modern spectograph and instruments to determine the effectiveness of various methods of bleaching, cleaning, of analyzing and improving inks, etc.

The Institute possesses a rich library of its own, containing works as old as 600 years, which deal with the graphic arts and with the means for preserving and caring for documents. A periodical information bulletin is issued, which describes experiments in process and makes available to others the benefits of research carried out by the Institute and in other establishments of the same kind.

WILL EDEN SUCCEED CHURCHILL?

Two British newspapers say that Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill may announce his retirement in the near future.

Though that announcement may cause much regret, it should not occasion great surprise. After all, Sir Winston is 78. Even he cannot defy time for ever.

The Liverpool Post says that Churchill may be succeeded as Prime Minister by Anthony Eden. There was a time when such succession would have been taken for granted. But that day is past. There is Eden's ill health in recent months. There is also the unpleasant fact that he has, in effect, been "waiting at the gate" for almost two decades.

In 1935, when he assumed the post of Foreign Secretary at the age of 38, Eden was hailed as the "boy wonder" of British politics. Today there are other, younger, aspirants for political honors and the two intervening decades, while they have given Eden give faithful service to his country and his party, have not quite lived up to the promise of his youth. The explanation, of course, is simple. He has served under Churchill—and been over-shadowed by Churchill—for any political career.

Eden's popularity among the masses in England, if not among the party stalwarts, reached its peak in 1938, when he resigned as Foreign Secretary as the result of a policy disagreement with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. International peace, he held, was impossible if Britain yielded to constant pressure from Hitler and Mussolini. Churchill, of course, had also disagreed with Chamberlain's policy of appeasing the dictators. Eden returned to the British cabinet as Dominions' Secretary in Chamberlain's war council and became War Secretary and subsequently Foreign Secretary after Churchill took over the reins.

After the war, when Labor won, Eden became Deputy Leader of the opposition. When Churchill returned to power in 1951, Eden again assumed the post of Foreign Secretary.

Good looks, a suave manner, a reputation for political integrity and years of experience are his assets. Yet the years have robbed him of something, of the glamor of a brilliant young man, without yet having bestowed upon him the aura of an elder statesman, such as Churchill enjoys.

Will the Conservative party select him as leader? Probably. But what kind of fate will await him at the hands of the electorate? For the Labor party, despite its schisms between right and left factions, is still strong. Its last election was by a majority of only seventeen. Labor can return to power, at some future date, if it pulls together. And while many political experts believe that Churchill helped the Labor cause by the very energy of his denunciations of the party's policies, it is by no means certain that his dynamic personality was not the most effective weapon that the Conservatives possessed. If the Conservatives, under Eden, meet a reverse at the polls, will the party quickly seek a substitute?

Neville Chamberlain and Stanley Baldwin before him were hardly colorful leaders, but may not over a decade of Churchillian direction have dulled the taste of the British Conservative for men who, like Eden, are rude, very rarely shows anger and is so quiet-spoken that he won a hearing—and cheers—in Labor strongholds in South Wales where few Conservative men raise their voices without being drowned out by heckles?

A TIME FOR EVERYTHING

The weather turned cooler Thursday but that was hardly enough of this year to bar the action of three boys, playing in a park on the banks of the Moira. They were tossing around a rugby ball!

We suppose that can be expected of today's younger generation. Artificial ice plants have dragged hockey into the lap of summer — up at Schumacher in Northern Ontario they even hold a figure-skating school during the summer holidays — and the kick-off problem has stripped the ball reason until Hallowe'en is just around the corner. And the Grey Cup has made snowstorms and football almost synonymous.

So what else could one expect but forward-passing fancies in July?

In a way, though, this seems a pity. One of the main attractions of the changing seasons a few decades ago was the manner in which each sport took the recreational spotlight from one diversion to another.

Was your only dive a belly-flopper? Did you peel instead of fan? No matter. Come August and toward the end of the swimming season and perhaps that tall, lean rival would find that on the rugby field a tubby little fellow with a few pounds of fat hung in appropriate places between shoulders and knees was quite effective.

Did the skinny chump prove unusually elusive in the mud and leave you studying clear marks on the bridge of your nose? No need to be despondent. Along came late November and time to get those skates sharpened. Soon hockey would be the only topic of conversation, the only activity on the sport calendar.

Was your best out of its class in the hockey wars? Well, relief was coming, for here was the breath of spring in your face and a tinge of green on the hills. Better scamper down to the ball diamond and start chasing a few flies.

And if you discovered you couldn't hit curves, well the summer holidays were approaching and maybe, this year, you would be able to learn to drive.

There was something comforting about the change in routine that the seasons brought. But now — rugby practice in July. It's disheartening!

GROWTH

Although a baby still is she,
Her love will be divided be.
When, just a little older grown,
She'll want a puppy for her own.
And promptly that young spaniel
smart
Will have a corner in her heart.

And there's a ragged Susan, too,
And she will be as babies do—
The doll of all her dolls whose lot
Will nightly be to share her cot.

The one that in her arms she'll keep
Until at last she falls asleep.

I know full well as time goes by
That learn to share her love must it;
That in the years that lie beyond
Are those of whom she will grow fond.
But still I hope there'll always be
A corner in her heart for me.

Mr. T. Daly left today on an extended visit to Nova Scotia and the Pacific Coast.

The proposal to establish a cadet corps has been debated at a meeting of the Board of Education by a vote of twelve to four.

The Rev. G. R. Beamish, rector of St. Thomas' Church, is spending a few days with Rev. Bogart Smith of the parish at Twelve O'Clock Point. He will return on Sunday and Mr. R. H. Farrow will take charge of the camp for that day.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REMOLDED TO SUIT

I have never understood why it is that so many people harp upon bringing to light unhappy memories. It isn't enough to bring up the happy ones—those by which our lives are enriched? The happy memories are those which I like to keep, watering them as I would a garden.

Speculate upon the event should we be able to recall no happy memories at all. The memory is the cream of the joy and beauty of our lives. Should we lose, it, those happy memories that give zest and hope to every one of our days. If we constantly appraise our remembrances, the happy ones far outnumber the unhappy ones.

It's the happy memories, kept alive, that make love so triumphant. The unhappy memories keep blotting out love. Happy memories have a tendency to grow. They keep reminding us that they are the only ones we should keep fresh.

Puppy Dog's Tails

(Toronto Star)

Lord Dunsany strongly opposes the cutting off of puppy dogs' tails. It is the trial separating the lot in him. What would be the purpose of a grown-up dog with a long curly tail when all his contemporaries had neat little, barely waggable, terminals?

How often we can at will return to the happy days of youth, to scenes that have given us delight. Many of these memories can be supplemented to new ones of a similar character.

If you should sit and listen to the story of a person's life, it would be the story of his memories. That is mostly what biography has to tell. And that which is written about and recorded are the happy and significant memories. How very familiar are these words, "I remember."

I have an interesting sun dial, and on it is engraved: "I record only the sunny hours." Wouldn't that be a worthy motto to be engraved upon our minds, substituting the words "happy memories" for "sunny hours"? Thus would the line appear: "I record only the happy memories." Yes, that can be done if we will it. We can keep crowding out the unhappy memories. And we would be happier human beings if we did this!

Sweet Serenaders

(Edmonton Journal)

In Mexico City, street musicians are demanding 10 pesos to serenade one's sweetheart sometimes the present price. Mexican maidens may have to be satisfied with such words and forget the sweet music.

Ice Cream For Breakfast

(Montreal Gazette)

Shades of Durwood Bumstead! Food Expert Duncan Hines raids the refrigerator at night for ice-cream! Not only that, he eats ice-cream for breakfast in the morning, instead of the usual cereals, milk, with sugar.

Despite the revolutionary sound of such procedures, Hines has very good reasons for his choice. On the fleeting side, there are obviously less calories in ice-cream than there are in cream and sugar. Secondly, he claims that ice-cream is easier to sleep on than a meat sandwich with condiments.

These arguments are quite acceptable, when thought over. The trouble is that, at first glance, the arguments are not prepared for breakfast! It sounds like a pose, or a scientific leg.

The truth is, of course, that it is this very predilection that ice-cream manufacturers are trying to erase. They want ice-cream regarded as a food, for eating every day, rather than as a "treat" which is only for a special event.

They'd better watch them, though. Once it becomes a food, then it might disappear from a lot of restaurant breakfast lists and appear on their "no" lists. And all the illnesses in the world, searching at midnight for an ice-cream snack, could never make up for all the children in the world who are now wanting ice-cream all the time.

Scrambled 'No-Eggs'

(Christian Science Monitor)

The art of government is not unmarked by a certain amount of confusion. Hard facts are presented to the electorate in the form of simple facts are presented to whom it may concern. In legislation millions of elaborately polysyllable verbiage calculated to befog the mind of the unlearned.

We are moved to this observation by a bill which Congress has come to our desk from South Africa—the match of anything we have seen since the jungles of Washington or the wide Potomac run.

With the approval of the minister, this bill would, among other things prohibit any person or any person belonging to any class or group of persons from possessing other than a person belonging to that class or group, or from procuring from acquiring, selling or disposing of any quantity of eggs.

There is, of course, a rhetorical tour de force that should be preserved for posterity. We suspect that the language of bureaucracy is inevitably the product, or a sense of the ultimate mysteries? Poised on that splendid crescendo of pedalliferous latinity which those unfortunate, unprivileged souls who have not had the right classes, hidden at the quiet heart of their existence, acknowledge—we find the small, locontroverstible, strangely pathetic emptiness where an egg ought to be.

Wire Mix-Up Could be Bad

(Winnipeg Free Press)

It is a thing of never ending wonderment to our unscientific mind that the human voice and ear can transmit scores of long distance telephone conversations through one little wire. Scientists have everything come out right at the other end.

The explanation sounds simple—frequencies, we gather, are used to understand electricity itself, insofar as most of us are concerned, which somehow are sorted out at the other day of the new "radio-relay system" linking Buffalo, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. Covering a distance of four hundred miles, fifty new long distance circuits been set up, each one with intricate equipment to keep conversations then amplifies and beams on to the next station television programs and long-distance telephone calls.

The system, we are assured, is now in operation. This is well, for all to the good unless someday, by some mysterious influence, the best laid schemes of mice and men "gang agley".

Imagine a Toronto travelling man phoning his wife from Montreal. What would be the result of lifting the receiver to hear a radio broadcast in on the wire! Or what if the wife's telephone conversation were interrupted with a threatening speech from a gangster show? Inconceivably awful are the circumstances—think of the impact of a Montreal hockey broadcast interspersed with the agonies of an afternoon soap opera.

Have a care, you scientific geniuses! Someday the monster is going to get away on you.

Bread and Wheat

(Farmer's Advocate)

The high level of economy we now have is pretty well represented by the value of the wheat in a loaf of bread. This amount is said to approximately 4½ cents.

Risk Lives To Save Dog

(Rahid 'John Telegraph-Journal)

At Patterson, near the village of Hoyt, a car swerved, skidded off the road and smashed up in a ditch. One of the four occupants of the overturned wreck climbed out uninjured; the other hurt.

The cause of it? A dog had suddenly crossed the road in front of the car and the driver had spun the wheel to avoid striking it. Apparently the dog, unlike one of the humans and the car itself, escaped unscathed.

Animals on the highways are to blame for a considerable number of accidents every year. It is one of the quirks of human nature that many motorists will endanger their own lives rather than strike a cat or a dog, a cow or a horse, a deer or a moose or, sometimes, even a squirrel or a fieldmouse.

We have heard of a driver who preferred to plunge into a ditch rather than plow through some chickens. We have had a mother skunk crossing the highway followed by three baby skunks, all waiting single file like tiny elephants on parade.

Asked afterward why he did he vaguely surmised that the skunk "might second" before the crash he instinctively and foolishly acted to save the skunk from smelling like a skunk for the next week. Actually, he might have done the very same thing if it had been a family of rabbits or chipmunks. In other words, he recoils instantly from the sacrifice of innocent life, unless it be himself.

And yet people, strolling along a roadside and seeing a dead cat in the traffic lane, will say, sometimes with a heartlessness of the average motorist, "Some fool driver is a speed demon who goes out of his way wherever possible to kill somebody's pet.

Peron in Peril Fighting Gossip

(Buffalo Evening News)

Widower President Juan Peron of Argentina sees cause to be pessed a law forbidding women to gossip; penalty, a fine or a stretch in the jailhouse. He must have heard early in life an idea of what the Argentine girls chattered about over the back fence or be the subject of a wife-to-wife who said: "It is perfectly monstrous the way people go about nowadays saying things against one, when there is not a word of truth in them, absolutely and entirely true."

If the South American dictator should ever get around to read a little American history he would learn that the Yankee gossip is the ducking stool, also imposed by law, to put a quick end to the wagging of women's tongues in long-ago New England. We offer it to Peron for consideration — women are gossiping women in Buenos Aires or Boston.

SO..YOU DON'T TAKE CHEMISTRY?

Dr. Brady
Dr. Brady

I cannot understand why many people (first and second years in high school) receive no instruction in Latin and chemistry. Students (third and fourth years in high school) are not required to study Latin; I think, somehow I think a year of Latin makes the difference between a pupil and a scholar.

I still resent the 2 years of algebra I had to take in order to study geometry. Why should a normal student be required to study algebra? I have asked many educators about this and the replies have left me as ignorant as ever. Now now, let's keep it orderly. I'll be as thankful to any one who will trouble to give me a brief and simple answer that I will send him or her in token a lot of little lessons that I've had to learn. The answer may be brief but it is barred from my ears. Honestly, that algebra "teaches one how to think." If that were true I should be able to answer the question myself.

Chemistry, in my judgment — which, lacking algebra, is probably not reliable—not only teaches one to think but makes thinking a pleasure. I thank my lucky stars for the two years of chemistry I enjoyed in high school.

Canadaigua under the Rose-bleacher I ever knew, save only the sainted Miss Bersee of Chapel Street school. That teacher was William Bennett, later of Rochester. You could put in your eye without blinking all the chemistry I learned in medical school over and above what William Bennett taught me in the public school in Canadaigua.

These comments and reflections are occasioned by such queries as these:

It says that only one under the effects of alcohol or a tasteless, odorless gas liable to be killed by carbon monoxide gas for the odor of the fumes would ordinarily warn of the danger. B says that carbon monoxide has no odor. Please settle this.—(F. W.)

The salesman assures us that if the heater is properly adjusted no flue or chimney pipe is necessary. Are all smokeless fumes or gases are destroyed in the flame. Do you agree? — (Mrs. E. S.)

F W. and Mrs. E. A. S. are both right and wrong. Let's explain. At least that's the impression one gets from their letters. Yet obviously their high school days were frittered away on academic diddlesticks. Observe the many ignorant creatures....

Mrs. E. S. is right side of the question — the character B. The trouble is there are too many A's in the world today and not enough B's. Too many B. W.'s and Mrs. E. S.'s and not enough high school chemistry teachers.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now is the time of year when young inexperienced skunks are finding out about motor cars, to their sorrow and cost. The highways of the country are beginning to be marked with the flattened reeky remains of many of North America's most wide-distributed animals. Misty few animals enjoy a wider or continental range like the skunk's. Even the muskrat, which is known in the wet Lowlands beyons as well as in the arid sloughs of the far prairies, cannot compete with the skunk for universality. The red fox, the cottontail hare and others are also handicapped to be everywhere have very restricted territories in comparison with striped skunk, which is the one we know, starts for south of the Mexican border and extends north well full width of the continent, to Great Slave Lake and Hudson's Bay, and out across Labrador. The way to get on in this world is to be highly offensive.

But there are four blank spot on the continental map. Canada's Island of tenth province, Newfoundland, is free of skunks. So is Cape Breton Island. Anticosti and Vancouver Island. The only other blank spots that I know are of British Columbia and the California pen-emies of man.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

WHERE DO YOU STAND ON THIS ONE

Do you believe in the reality of the Devil?

There are those today who maintain that when Jesus and his apostles spoke of the Devil, they did so means that they were using symbolic language. Others claim that although they had undoubtedly demonic possession in the time of our Lord, there is no such thing today. People who hold this view generally go on to state further that there is enough evil in man's heart to account for the wickedness of the world and that we need no incarnate evil spirit to explain the existence of sin.

There can be little doubt, ever, that Jesus believed that Satan existed, that he was overwhelmingly powerful, that he was surrounded by a host of evil forces corresponding to the holy angels only the other way round, that he had much disease and all human sin was due to this demonic empire. The fall of Judas is interpreted as the fact that Satan entered into him.

It is hard to believe that the existence evil of the world can be explained apart from a powerful, personal intelligence in conflict with the purposes of God. Also our Lord's frequent mention of Satan and evil spirits is hard to explain unless we take his words at their face value. Perhaps the Biblical doctrine of Satan and his minions will some day come back into style and be given scientific approval.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wells Celebrate Their Golden Anniversary

MARMORA — On Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wells, of Marmora township, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, being at home to their many friends in the afternoon and receiving when a large number availed themselves of the opportunity to extend their congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells have lived on the same farm for the whole of their married life. It is situated in the northern section of the township in what is familiarly known as the "Wells Settlement."

To their marriage were born seven sons and three daughters. Seven children were present for the celebration, three having died some years ago, namely, Vaughn, Irwin and Gertrude.

Successful Vocations

The seven surviving children have in each case been successful in their chosen vocation and have rendered service to their different communities in various capacities.

For many years Mr. and Mrs. Wells have been staunch supporters of the Free Methodist Church on the Marmora circuit. On the evening of their golden wedding a program of songs and brief addresses by friends and neighbors, with three presentations, and an address of appreciation, rounded off a fitting celebration.

The presents consisted of a floor lamp and upholstered rocking chair from the members of the family, a chrome rocking chair and wall mirror from the community and a chenille bedspread from the church members.

Refreshments were served before the gathering dispersed.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cunningham and three daughters and Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham, of Peterborough, were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan Glover, at their Crowe Lake cottage.

County Master Gordon Moffatt, past County Master; W. J. Cotterell and Brother John Moffatt attended the special meeting of Dawney L.O.L. 425 at Crookston, on Tuesday evening when two members of that lodge received the Blue degree and three members were elevated to the Royal Arch Degree.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kerr and family, of Toronto, are holidaying with Mrs. Anna Haslke at the latter's cottage, at Crowe Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eggett and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Eggett had a four days' trip through the United States recently.

Miss Jane Carter returned home on Wednesday from a visit to her aunt, Mrs. C. A. Mutton, in Barrie.

The hour of morning service at St. Paul's Anglican Church Sunday has been changed from the regular hour, 11 a.m., to 9.30 a.m.

Mrs. Lloyd Harding and children, of Oshawa, are visiting Mrs. H. Harding at the latter's summer home at Crowe Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meyer, of Edmonton, called upon Mr. and Mrs. George Forestell last week. Mrs. Meyer is a niece of Mr. Forestell.

Mr. Ross Loveless left on Sunday to visit his sister, Mrs. Margaret Roos, in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hewitt and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grant visited Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hewitt and Mrs. Betty Wellman, in Toronto, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Slattery, of Seaforth, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanis Bertrand.

The village council has had new, attractive parking signs placed along both side of the business section of Forsyth St. The signs read: "Three Hours' Parking Anytime, except Sundays."

Maritime Lobster Fishing In Bad Way Due to Storms

HALIFAX (CP)—A major reconstruction program will be required to get the Maritime lobster fishing industry back on its feet after destructive storms in late May.

Described by many veteran fishermen as the worst they could remember, gales pounded the coast throughout one week-end, wiping out thousands of dollars worth of traps, weirs, boats and other equipment.

Operations practically ceased in some areas and as a result prices rose to their highest level in years. About the middle of June fishermen were getting up to twice as much for their lobsters as they received last year.

The federal fisheries department sent survey teams to assess the damage, and their investigations continued for weeks. Fisheries Minister Sinclair promised Prince Edward Island fishermen that Ottawa would pay three-quarters of their rehabilitation bill. Fishermen in the other provinces sought similar assistance.

At one point on the P.E.I. coast four lobster boats were carried to sea and smashed by the churning combers.

Staggering Losses

From Gabarous to Glace Bay, on Cape Breton Island, it was estimated that more than 13,000 traps were destroyed. Estimates of damage ranged from $25,000 to $60,000 and similar losses were reported from other sections of the Cape Breton coast. Some fishermen lost 80 per cent of their gear.

Also hard hit was the Northumberland Strait shore, both in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. A fisheries protection officer predicted "a decline" in New Brunswick landings.

Until the storm hit, fishermen were having a good year, despite an upward revision in minimum size regulations making it illegal to land lobsters whose body shells measured less than 3½ inches.

The increase, one-eighth of an inch, was expected to reduce catches somewhat the first year but raise them and make for better catches in succeeding years.

P.M. SEES

were made in defence but they had been discovered and corrective steps taken.

Speaking in Brockville, Ont., Mr. Drew said the 1950 rail strike was due "to the failure of this (Liberal) government to be frank in its dealings with unions."

The government had introduced the principle of compulsory bargaining in the settlement ordered at a special session of Parliament.

The Progressive Conservative party repeatedly urged adequate labor laws fair to all parties.

"But the government did not act on our suggestions. As a result of this there have been crippling strikes in Canada."

Described as Untrue

Mr. Drew described as "absolutely untrue" statements by Mr. St. Laurent in Vancouver Thursday night that the provinces would lose financially in any reallocation of taxing powers between federal and provincial governments as proposed by the Progressive Conservatives. The aim was "to improve the financial position of every province."

Donald Fleming, a senior Progressive Conservative candidate and member of the last Parliament, charged in a recorded speech broadcast nationally that the Liberal government "holds its arms, shrugs its shoulders and groans 'it can't be done'" to every proposal of constructive action.

"The reduction, tax reform, recovery of lost markets, building of houses, the restoration of the dignity and power of Parliament—these necessary objectives indeed cannot be accomplished by the Liberal government. They have said: 'It can't be done.'"

He said a state of affairs has been reached "where everyone except this tired old government recognizes the need for action."

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, speaking in his home constituency of Melville, said at Langenburg, Sask., that a Progressive Conservative proposal to place operations of the Canadian wheat board on a voluntary basis would make the board ineffective within six months.

SUBSTANTIAL

Meanwhile, officials here said both the federal government and Ontario hydro are ready to get into top gear on a solid go-ahead from the U.S. They said the FPC decision, dispite a new fight ahead of it, will step up the work now going on in the international section of the river.

Preliminary borings, soundings and surveys have been on for months and will continue for some months, experts here said.

The first subsequent work would be the construction of a control dam for the huge power and navigation pool in the International Rapids, the dam to be built across the river in the neighborhood of Iroquois, Ont.

Building of the upriver control dam, officials here feel, will provide time for solving one of the biggest problems of the whole seaway—what's side of the river the navigation locks are to be built on.

Canada wants the locks on the Canadian side, having switched to this after many years of going along with a U.S.-side system on a joint basis. The U.S. Congress is considering legislation for locks on the American side. The Canadian government considers a Canadian set of canals would be cheaper.

Cotton and rayon acetate conspire to make an attractive afternoon dress in gray or beige. The straight-lined frock has narrow shoulder straps and is alternately pin-tucked in horizontal bands — one band plain, one tucked. Tiny covered buttons with loop fastening form the closing from the notched neck to below the waist. As a temper-up agent, there is a brief bolero with plain bands framing pin-tucked detail. It is a happy choice for the traveler.

Kingston Road W. A. Discusses 'Alcoholism', Its Effects, Cures

The Kingston Road W.A. held its July meeting recently at the home of Mrs. C. McDonald, with a large attendance of members present, and the president, Mrs. LaRue, presiding.

The Scripture was read from Luke 4:1-12, by Mrs. M. Reid.

After a short business period, a panel discussion on "Alcoholism", under the direction of Mrs. E. Farnsworth comprised the study of the evening. In opening discussion, Mrs. Farnsworth said: "Strong drink is a most popular subject these days as we find each family in Ontario spent an average of $150 on this beverage during the year 1952, according to the Globe and Mail of March, 1953. Let us discuss this subject under four heads:

Why Oppose Strong Drink

These heads were taken by different members, the first, "Why do we oppose strong drink?" was given by Mrs. Kenneth Reid, who prefaced her remarks by stating: "We are able to, Isaiah, Professor Arnold Townsee said, 'Abstinence has succeeded war as the greatest scourge of the world.' It is one of the most baneful problems that has ever set humanity. Seers, prophets and leaders have warned us to abuse. They recognize the poverty and misery caused by the liquor traffic."

"To quote Charlotte Whitton, last year the 13 and one half million people of Canada spent $600 million on alcoholic beverages or $48 or $49 per woman and child. That means out of every one dollar each Canadian paid indirect taxation he paid 75 or 80 cents for liquor. Now we cannot cut the taxes as we would like, but we can cut our liquor bill." "For every 2 cents on education $3 are spent on drink. On our welfare outlay, including veterans, we spend $1 on them, and $80 on drink."

$100 Million on Alcoholism

"Alcoholism costs the country at least $100 million a year in accidents, absenteeism and lowered efficiency alone, as Dr. Gordon Bell, of Shadowbrook Health Foundation, said in 1952.

"In Montreal, December issue, he said, "There is not another disease more disruptive in a community than alcoholism. It affects the drinker's health; his family, his business and society generally."

"Dr. Jocelyn Rogers makes this statement: '45 to 50 per cent motor accidents are involved with drunken drivers. 1,200, 73 people were killed; in 1951, 945; in 1952, 1,000.'

Second division, why do people drink? and why do they abstain? This was given by Mrs. Norman Gerow, who said: "People drink through curiosity and through social pressure. They fear to say 'no'; to offend. They drink as an escape; to get that million dollar feeling; to liven up; and to forget their worries.

Habit Makes Desire

"When the habit is formed there is a constant desire for the effects of alcohol. Alcohol depresses the nervous activities and gives a hang-over. One becomes addicted to alcohol by repeated action, which causes mental and physical disturbances.

"Why abstain? For fear of the habit-forming properties of alcohol; to help others not to drink by one's example; to have the brain cells functioning at their best; one does not need to forget worries, but to leave them with the Great Burden Bearer; to live by principle, not to resort to drugs; develop a hobby and a philosophy."

Third: face your fears, analyze them. Moderate drinking, given by Mrs. George Weymark, brought out the following reasons: "The road to alcoholism begins with moderate drinking. The habit is formed by the intoxication. Moderate drinkers provide the pool from which all alcoholics are drawn.

Dr. Samuel Johnson said, 'I know how to abstain; but I do not know how to be moderate.' The chains of habit are too weak to be felt, until they are too strong to be broken. There is no stage in a person's drinking that can be called a 'safety zone'. The Bible believes and knows this."

Alcohol a Deceiver

Fourth: Alcohol is a deceiver, given by Mrs. Douglas MacDonald. "Fifty thousand French girls in Paris were given this dictation —alcohol is certainly a liar and a deceiver. It pretends to strengthen a man and it makes him ill. It pretends to warm him and it makes him cold; it pretends to make him rejoice and it causes despair; it pretends to give life and it brings death."

"Why do people believe the opposite to the truth? Alcohol puts to sleep the highest part of the brain and the strait is to judge."

Her study continued under these heads: "alcohol and cold", "alcohol and heat"; "alcohol and fatigue", "alcohol and fatigue", "alcohol and hunger", and "alcohol and skilled work."

Hopeful Signs?

Are there any hopeful signs? The public are aroused to high-way accidents. The 2nd International Conference of Traffic to meet in Toronto on September 8-13 to study this subject.

Each year, at Yale, there is an international meet to study scientific measures, and the facts are all published. A text book has been issued for study in the public schools.

How can one help? By taking a definite stand for total abstinence and so order the homes. A great army of total abstainers will help in the push for a better world.

Following the discussion period, Mrs. J. Parrott led in a sing-song of familiar hymns, and after the close of the meeting, light freshments were served by Mrs. McDonald, assisted by Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Darling and Mrs. D. MacDonald.

ST. ANDREW'S, GILEAD W.M.S.

The second meeting of St. Andrew's, Gilead, W.A. of the year, was held at the home of Mrs. W. Treverton on Tuesday with ten members, one visitor and nine children present.

The worship service, under the leadership of Mrs. W. Hodgson, was based on "Prayer". The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. O. Rollins and devotional by Mrs. Hodgen.

They took out places even on the service from the sun. Some people are adamant about getting every ray of sunlight, while others take a little gradually and draw most benefit from their holidays.

Save Fabst

If your car is grey and you want to do a little touch up work, be sure to get the new grey foundation coat. This used to come only in a dull brown shade, but is now available in both brown and grey.

With a little fast-drying enamel brushed over the foundation paint, it is possible to snap up the old car and prevent it from rusting around the bumpers and headlights.

Game

If sometime you're at a loss for a game to amuse grownups or children at a party, bring out the baby's alphabet blocks. Problem is to make as many words as you can using only three blocks, or perhaps four.

Uncle Frontenac says he sees signs which used to read "Fishing Licences for Sale" now changed to "Angling Licences." If you come from outside Ontario, it is clear that you must pay for the privilege of the sport, whether you catch any fish or not.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Perhaps the best friend a woman has on a summer holiday is a light cardigan sweater which she can throw over her shoulders on a cool evening or over her suntan back in the resort dining room. Some women take as many as five light cardigans in summer shades to vary their clothes . . . And the well dressed woman will take a couple of extra summer skirts or cotton frocks to wear in to meals. Shorts and halters were never meant to appear in a dining room. They look out of place even on the resort golf course.

As for the men, plenty of white shirts with one nylon one to save on laundry, will not count amiss. Country air, swimming and sunbathing keep the body and the clothes free from the soot and the grime unavoidable in cities. This means less laundry on holidays than at home. If unlady sticks in her electric iron, she can iron up treasure. It was moved that the W. A. share toward reconditioning the parsonage be paid. A shower of cards was to be sent the sick friends and plans for an anniversary pie social in September were discussed.

Donations for a gift to Rev. W. R. Merrick and Mrs. Merrick were received from those present.

After the meeting closed a social time was spent.

ST. ANDREW'S, GILEAD W.M.S.

The July meeting of the St. Andrew's, Gilead, W.M.S., was held on Wednesday, July 8th, at the home of Mrs. E. P. Yorke with 18 ladies present and five children.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. E. Yorke, opened the meeting.

Words of appreciation for sending gifts during their illness were received from Mrs. John Ross and Mrs. Leonard Bailey.

The worship service opened with singing, "Come Let Us Sing of a Wonderful Love", followed by Scripture passages with Mrs. James Huffman, Mrs. Fred Yorke and Mrs. W. Treverton participating.

Mrs. Treverton gave the devotional reading entitled "The Value of Time Tithe".

"The Boyless Tree" was read by Mrs. O. Bertrand, and delightful instrumental items were given by Mrs. Earl Ross; a play by Mrs. E. Yorke and Mrs. O. Rollins entitled "The Institute" proved most interesting, as the thoughts expressed seemed to meet every one present.

"It Depends on Me" was read by Mrs. Gerald Swan; "Tell me the Stories of Jesus", was sung as a closing hymn and Mrs. Gerald Livingston pronounced the benediction.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Yorke with Mrs. O. Rollins and Mrs. Gerald Livingston as conveners. A social half-hour was spent and a vote of thanks tendered to the hostess by Mrs. G. Livingston.

Fashion Flashes

Cool, comfortable chic cottons are Black needlepoint cotton is used for a handsome coat-dress sheath, with an open neckline framed by a portrait collar of white piqué finished with a black and white striped cotton satin bow.

The bloused back is crystallizing for late Summer and early Fall clothes, and for furs, too. The blouse back, chevron striped, is a feature of a new waist-length cape of gun metal gray mink.

A good traveller is a simple two piece dress, violet, pink and gray mixture cotton tweed that doesn't wrinkle, doesn't muss, has moderately boxy jacket, closes with silver disc buttons; the skirt is slim, with kick pleats at the side back.

BOYLE SOFTBALL STARTS FAMILY

One of softball's better hurlers in this city is stepping out of the game, due to business reasons, he says. He is Don Boyle, a name that has been synonymous with softball for a number of years.

But we understand the Boyle name will be perpetuated in the game. Don proudly boasts the fact that he became the proud papa a booming young Master Boyle on Monday last and hopes to have the lil' fella in diamond action some 1964. All the boys, especially the softball gang, past, present and future join this department in congratulations, Donald, m'lad. Just slight more and you can call the team the "Boyle Brigadiers."

Don was one of the more likeable young cusses that tossed the upholstered baseball around city lots, later blossoming into stardom when he hurled the Columbian Squires to a junior provincial championship back in the middle forties. And with Jain was the one and only "Crock" Boyle, his father, who coached the club.

Since hurdling the "twenty-one mark" Don lost none of his mastery of hurling. He played for Point Anne and a number of city teams but the past couple of years has associated himself with the Frankford club.

Don always proved himself to be a sportsman of the first water. He took his triumphs with a smile and his losses with a nod of congratulation to the winners. He has enshiped himself well to meet the "batters" in the sterner game of life.

TIP TO ANGLERS!!

If you find that the hook has been swallowed by the next under-sized fish you catch, don't attempt to pull the hook out with force. Rather, grip the leader or line close to eye of the hook and release the fish with the hook still intact. Mother Nature will look after the fish so that it will grow to produce more fish for your sport. The fish has strong gastric juices that will reduce any regular hook to powder.

This method has proven itself many times in the past few years. Only last year a conservation officer on vacation caught five pickerel and several small-mouth bass with hooks in their gullets. These hooks powdered when touched.—Syiva.

CORNER—

Displaying a mound personality that is the envy of the majority of the kids in his league, Master Jackie Elliott, ace hurler of Schwab's bantam baseball squad, is attracting a lot of attention from coaches and others in the busy circuit.

Young Jackie is a natural. He has a mound stance worthy of a hurler of mature years and a pitching "savvy" that bespeaks not only excellent coaching but adaptability to study and practice.

The youthful right-hander is developing a blazing fast ball with an assortment of twisters that augur well for his mound future. He shows a remarkable coolness on the under fire, and perhaps that attribute was never more pronounced when the youngster tossed a no-hitter against the Picton bantams a few days ago.

Jackie hurled his "smoker" past ten of the Prince Edward County batters and assisted on three putouts at first base. Nor is his baseball ability confined to the mound. He is showing evidence of being a brainy hurler while his batting eye gives promise of developing into a marked keenness at the platter.

Jackie comes from a baseball family for the "old man" of the same name was, and is, a rabid baseball fan, besides being a more than fair exponent of the game himself. At the moment he is a member of the Point Anne softball squad.

And he's taking time out, and setting an outstanding example in so doing, to teach his up-and-coming hurling offspring the finer points of the game as well as helping to keep the young fella's throwing arm in shape.

Yeteran baseball men of the city and district who have seen young Jackie in mound action predict a splendid diamond future for the youngster accident. Right now, he is the outstanding pitcher in the bantam league, a fact that hasn't resulted in the "old man" having to purchase a cap several sizes larger than the regulation one.

BASEBALL, TONIGHT!

The Regent Juniors undefeated in their last six starts in the District Baseball League entertain a team from Marmora in the CNR Recreation Park tonight at 6:30 in an exhibition tilt. The Juniors have been going great guns during the past two or three weeks and have set the rest of the teams back on their heels when they emerged with tied games.

A touch of sour grapes or "oumple" is apparent in the Picton Gazette sports column in which the writer refers to the local kids having a lot of luck in their current unbeaten streak. It probably is quite a doe for the "Veterans of the Spanish Baseball Wars" to swallow when a crew of unseasoned, inexperienced, beardless teen-agers can make them say "uncle" in their own ampitheatre. And the least the young upstarts can do is field a team without having to resort to penalized players seated in the grandstand, or, for that matter the club secretary, which in itself is a breach of any properly organized baseball association since executive members are in no wise to be associated in a direct manner with any club.

Sets Record At Goshen

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Isola's Ensign set a world record for harness horses at the one-mile pacing geldings in winning the 36,109 Orange County Board of Supervisors purse Friday as the grand circuit closed its meeting at Historic Track's half-mile oval.

Owned by Joe Neville of Delaware, Ohio, and driven by Wayne Smart, the son of Ensign Hanover paced the second heat of his two winning heats in 2:02 3-5. The old mark of 2:01½ was set by Lee Hanover in 1933 and matched by Little Pat in 1936 and Grattan Mc Klyo in 1945. Isola's Ensign won the first heat in 2:04 1-5.

Giants Nip 'Bums' in Flatbush As Milwaukee Shuffles Cards; Indians, Sox Split Twin Bill

By KEN PELEGRAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Giants, who floundered in the second division the first half of the season, suddenly have invited themselves into the National League pennant race with a seven-game winning streak.

Starting with their 20-6 rout of Brooklyn Dodgers last Sunday, the New Yorkers have gained such momentum during the week that they may roll into fourth place before the All-Star game vacation which begins after Sunday's games.

Friday night they invaded Brooklyn and mopped up on the Dodgers on their home grounds. They took the first-place Bums by 6½ games and meet them again today and Sunday.

Sal (the Barber) Maglie, who specializes in tormenting the Dodgers, gave them just six hits Friday night in a 4-1 triumph. But the Dodgers scored their home-run-hitting streak to 24 games—one short of the major league record—when Duke Snyder connected for his 15th in the second inning.

Phila Clip Braves

The loss cost Brooklyn a full game of its first-place lead and left over Milwaukee Braves who whipped third-place St. Louis 5-2, Double-striking Philadelphia Phillies clung to fourth place with a 13-8 decision over Pittsburgh.

Going into today's games the Dodgers hold a two-game edge over the Braves, 3½ over the Cards, 4½ and 5½ over Philadelphia.

Early Ken Raffensberger hurled his 31st major league shutout to give Cincinnati a 6-0 victory over Chicago in the first half of a twi-night-twin bill but a three-run homer by Ralph Kiner helped the Cubs win the nightcap 4-3.

In the American League the leading New York Yankees gained a half-game on their nearest rivals, Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians, who split a doubleheader. The Yankees defeated Washington 6-1. Cleveland beat Chicago 3-0 in 10 innings on Bobby Feller's first shutout in 11 seasons and the 42nd of his career. The White Sox secured 10 runs in the seventh inning of the second game and won it easily 15-5. Boston outlasted Philadelphia 3-2 in 12 innings and St. Louis Browns, who haven't lost to the Tigers in Detroit this year, beat them again 8-7.

The Yanks now lead by 5½.

Warren Spahn posted his 11th victory of the season against only three losses at the expense of the Cardinals who were all set to grab second place from the supposedly faltering Braves. Eddie Mathews hit his 20th home run for Milwaukee.

Feller bested Billy Pierce in the first game at Chicago although Pierce had a no-hit, no-run game for seven innings. Luke Easter and Al Rosen drove in the three Cleveland runs in the top of the 10th. The 10-run seventh inning in the second game featured Minnie Minoso's three-run home and three Cleveland errors.

Dale Mitchell of the Indians ran up his hitting streak to 21 games with safeties in both halves of the doubleheader.

Buffalo Bisons Win Twin Bill To Top League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo's done it again.

Montreal Royals, only recently back atop the International Baseball league after being bounced by the Bisons, have dropped to second place by two percentage points.

Sharp pitching by Earl Harrist and Paul Foytack Friday night enabled Buffalo to win a double-header from fourth-place Baltimore Orioles, 1-0 and 5-3.

The Montrealers lost 1-0 to Ottawa Athletics, when Bob Trice scored Ottawa's lone run to break an eight-inning pitching duel between Trice and Connie Fox.

In other games, Manager Harry Walker's 10th-inning pinch single drove in the winning run as the third-place Rochester Red Wings edged Syracuse Chiefs 7-6 and Springfield Cubs downed Toronto Maple Leafs 8-5.

Harrist hurled a three-hitter in the opener at Baltimore and Foytack gave up only four in the afterpiece. The lone run off his delivery was a sacrifice fly scored by Archie Wilson.

In Ottawa, Shortstop Kelly connected for a single to left field, scoring Trice who had singled earlier and advanced on a second on a sacrifice by Gerry Scala.

Johnny Stanich hit two homers in Syracuse, his eighth and ninth, to help the Chiefs overcome an early deficit before Rochester Red Wings went on to win. Jack Griffore, former Montreal starter Art Dyck in the first inning, allowed 12 of the Wings' 16 hits.

In Jarvis at home, the Cubs lengthened their own winning streak to three and the Leafs' losing streak to five.

A five-run rally in the eighth brought the Cubs from behind to give reliefer Gene Tarabilda his fourth victory against as many defeats. Starter Don Lown was knocked out of the box by the Leafs in the third.

Four Records Go By The Board At Canadian Track, Field Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Four Canadian records took a beating at the first day's competition of the two-day Ontario track and field championships here Friday.

Although the times aren't automatically records, they will come under consideration at the fall meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. The track meet is sanctioned by the AAUC.

All four marks were bettered by Toronto entries. The Toronto Secondary Schools Association midget boys' entry did the 440-yard relay in 45.6 seconds, bettering the six-year mark of 49.2. Wes McLeod of the Toronto Track and Field Club capped the boys' juvenile one-mile sprint. He made it in 4:33.5.

Junior men's class of the one-mile relay, the Toronto Track and Field Club ran it alone and cracked the official Canadian record of 3:39.9 minutes. The old record was 34.2.

Toronto Leads

Team standings in the men's division at the end of the day's 36 events showed the Toronto Track and Field Club leading with 129 points. The Toronto Secondary Schools Association was second with 30 and East York Track Club third.

Athabaskan Hits the Bull's-Eye

Earlier this year, HMCS Athabaskan was the only one of the Canadian destroyers in the Korean war theatre without a loyed North Korean supply train to her credit. As a consequence the crew presented a plastic toy train to the commanding ficer, Commander John C. Reed, above, right, of Toronto, through Sig. Gordon A. Brooker, left, of Fernie, B.C. The consolation was premature, for the Canadian warship tallied two trains ing her latest patrol. Her jubilant crew hopes to better the rd of HMCS Crusader, back in Esquimalt, B.C., with a "car" trains stopped, and HMCS Haida, en route to Halifax, with ore of three. — Central Press Canadian.

Flag for Pay Corps

One of the most popular branches of the army, the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps, gets its own flag at a ceremony performed in Korea. Brig. J. V. Allard (left), commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade, presents the flag to Maj. C. A. Pilley, Ottawa, senior cashier of the brigade, it is the first time the pay corps has had its own flag. It is yellow and blue and has the pay corps crest. —

Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps Flying Its Own Flag

By BILL BOGS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—For the first time in its history, it's believed here, the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps is flying its own flag. The blue-and-yellow ensign has long been provided for in Canadian Army orders. But it remained for the pay corps' detachment in the Far East to produce the prototype.

Maj. C. A. Pilley of Ottawa, Canadian Army cashier for Korea and Japan, noting Japanese skill in needlework, gave a firm the flag's specifications and ordered one made.

Men of the field cash office, under WO2. Ken White of Ottawa and London, Ont., landscaped the ground in front of their tented hamlet, dug a hole for a flag-pole, sanded its approaches and white-washed its border of stones. When the pole provided by the brigade ordnance officer, Capt. Stan Campbell of London, had been painted white the detachment was ready for a ceremony.

Brig. Jean Allard, the brigade commander, presented the flag formally to the detachment and presided at its first hoisting.

From their office tents and caravans throughout the brigade all the Canadian paymasters, pay sergeants and their clerks and drivers assembled outside Pilley's field quarters. It was the first time they had all been together in Korea. The Patricias detailed four fliers under L/Cpl. Donald Thomas of St. Catharines, Ont., to sound the general salute.

Allard inspected the parade, drawn up under Capt. Fern Simpson of Toronto, assistant field cashier, and then, after officially presenting the flag to Pilley, led the salute as Sgt. Pierre Cyr of St. Laurent, Man., ran it up to the masthead.

To the men who twice a month go out at dusk to the forward positions and throughout the hours of darkness conduct pay parades within a few hundred years of the enemy, Allard said:

"This flag is the symbol of the silent and efficient service you are giving Canada. I hope you for it, and it is with great pleasure that I have presented it to you."

Mountain Climbers Gather For Annual National Camp

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Masters of North American mountain climbing will gather here July 20 for the start of the annual national camp of the Alpine Club of Canada.

But these polished Alpinists will accept none of the luxuries of this mountain resort town in the Canadian Rockies. They will journey to the base of Scott glacier, near the fabled Brown and Hooker peaks, about 35 miles south of here.

The spot was chosen earlier this year by an experienced reconnaissance team of Canadian and American climbers. The Brown and Hooker mountains, about 10,000 feet high, were made famous by David Douglas, who gave his name to the Douglas fir.

From Across Canada

The two-week camp will draw ACC members from Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal. Climbers are also expected from Yale, Harvard and Dartmouth universities in the United States and perhaps from Cambridge in England.

Most of the climbers are physicians, ministers, physicists, geologists, botanists or military officers.

Among those who attended previous ACC camps was N. E. O'Dell, associate professor of geology now on leave at the Canadian, who went to the 27,000-foot mark on Mount Everest in search of the body of George Mallory, lost during the 1924 British expedition.

Why do men climb a mountain? Most of the modern professional climbers like to recall the explanation "because it's there," given by Mallory in an address during a fund-raising tour of the United States prior to his 1924 assault on Everest.

Mountain climbing to these men is never a "challenge" except to one's self. It is never termed a "competitive sport" except in cases such as Everest where countries are vying for international prestige.

Splendid Record

The ACC can share some credit for the fact that there have been no mountain-climbing deaths on Canada's western ranges in the last 10 years. Three American university students were killed a few years ago on a mountain top in southeastern British Columbia, but they were struck by lightning.

Solo climbing is frowned upon in Canada. Amateurs are encouraged to join qualified groups for the sake of safety.

The ACC selects its members this way: Applicants are first advised to attend winter lectures on techniques and climbing problems. Later, they get practical experience at rock and snow schools.

The graduation test, which must be completed within two years after the first lecture, consists of a successful ascent of a 10,000-foot peak which is glacier-lung and more than 2,500 feet above the timberline.

Equipment Cost

Mountain climbing within close range of one's home has no real financial barriers. The initial outlay for equipment, as in golf, depends on quality selected.

The best wooden-handled ice axe costs about $18. The finest modern model fitted with rubber-cleated sole imported from Italy and the Swiss Tricouni studded with steel sidenails—cost about $40 and $45 respectively.

Crampons, sharp steel spikes strapped to boots for ice or snow work, are available in varying prices. For about $2 each a blacksmith can fashion a pair of steel and iron pieces, steel pegs driven into ice or rock to secure ropes.

The climber is also willing to pay a good price for a good rope, the key instrument. It must be approximately 11-7-16-inch diameter with a 4,000-pound breaking point.

The climber's equipment is rounded out by sunglasses, sun creams, a hat and windproof jacket, ordinary running shoes and, for work on wet slippery rock, a pair of rope-soled Kletterschuhs, similar to shoes worn by yachtsmen.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Mind Has Made A Decision; Her Emotions Have Not

To have a difficult problem that calls for a definite decision one way or the other, and to refuse to make it and to go on living in a state of anguished uncertainty, is bad enough. But there is one thing even worse. That is, to make a decision, and then to keep right on torturing oneself with the thought of what might have been if the decision had been otherwise.

Here is a woman who has been married 12 years; who says she does not love her husband any more but is in love with another man; who realizes that for many reasons the only right thing is to have nothing more to do with the man, so has given up seeing him; and yet, in spite of all this, continues to allow the thought of him to wholly occupy her mind.

"I married when I was 18 years old," she writes, "and thought I was in love. Maybe I was at the time, but later I found out that I didn't seem to love my husband any more.

"He is a wonderful husband, and a lot of women envy me because of him. I hate myself for not loving him because he is so kind, and does all he can to make me happy. We have a lovely home and two children, a boy 10 and a girl 3.

"When we had been married about seven years, I was unfaithful to him. He had to tell me about it because the husband of the woman I went out with one night was watching for her and caught them together. I didn't even fuss about it. I suppose that made me realize that I wasn't in love with him any more, as he said was, 'Let's forget about it.' We have never mentioned it since.

"At times I am content, and other times I think I will go crazy living like this. I even went to work thinking it would help me, and it was then that I met the man I mention because I fell in love with my boss. He is married, but there are no children. His wife and I work for him, and he was terribly cut up about it.

Does Not Sanction Divorce

"We never went out together, but I would have if he had asked me, but he didn't. He is a wonderful man, too, and doesn't want to cause any trouble, because he knows how hot to burn if I ever one break up his home. But he has told me he loved me, even though we cannot ever be married because our church does not sanction divorce.

"He told me that when he first knew about what he was going to do, he was going to 'leave her,' but decided to give his marriage another chance. He said that even though we loved each other it would be best for us all to have anything to do with each other. He said that I am weak, so he had to be strong enough for us.

"I quit my job and don't see him any more, because I don't seem to stand it. I really love him and always will, and I know I will never really be content with any man like other women are with their husbands. I am sick at heart, and don't feel about him the way I would like to."

Although in quitting her job so as not to see the other man any more, this woman apparently decided "if it was time to put an end to the whole episode, actually she has not done so. For, let us say her mind has ended it, but her emotions have not. And until her emotions make the same decision as her mind has done, she is going to continue in a state of turmoil and dreadful distress.

While she may feel that she does not really love her husband, and that this other man will always be set in her heart and thoughts, it is quite possible that is if she will give herself a chance, there might eventually be a change in her feelings that would surprise her. For there is an old saying to the effect that we get out of any situation in life exactly what we put into it. This means, in this particular case, that if the wife would put into an effort to turn her marital affairs into a success all the earnestness, interest and devotion she could, she might be rewarded by a renewed interest in her life with her husband.

Everything To Gain

Certainly she has everything to gain by making such an effort. Two children and a husband who, by her own admission, is wonderfully kind to her, are not lightly to be discarded. There is nothing in the letter to suggest that her husband has ever given her cause for worry except on that one occasion, now over ten years past. Instead, there seems every reason to believe that he loves his wife truly, and does everything he can to make her happy and atone for that one mistake. Wouldn't it be worthwhile, then, for her to attack the problem with some more constructive approach than that of the mere patient endurance of the past?

I suggest that, instead of putting all her energy into brooding over her hopeless love for the other man, and her lack of affection for the man she married, she put it into a sincere try at making a happy one for her husband and children. There seems to be nothing now in her home life to prevent her from doing so if she really wants to. To my mind, she will be happier not only for husband and children, but herself also, out of such possible happiness if she refuses to try.

Readers' Saturday Column

Question:

(From Blanche S. who asked for Almond Bars.)

Answer:

I did not have recipe containing the ingredients Blanche S. asked for, so I asked you to send it to me if one of you had it. Mrs. J. O. L. did have it. She calls them:

Oatmeal Fingers

One-half cup melted butter or margarine, 2 1-2 cups rolled oats, 1 cup brown sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup blanched almonds. Mix dry ingredients, add melted butter or margarine, mix well. Pack into buttered 8x8 inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. Fahr.) 25 to 30 minutes. Cool. Cut in fingers.

Mrs. J. O. L. does not say when to add the almonds. I think they could go either in the mixture or be sprinkled on top before they are baked.

Thank you very much Mrs. J. O. L.

Question:

Could you please send me some menus and suggestions for an anniversary party? It is my son's 3rd and my daughter's 8th. The wedding decorations be suitable? I might have around 30 or 35 people. I thought we might play court whist. There will be a mixed party of men and ladies, also young and old. Do you think sandwiches, cookies, etc., are best? Or cooked meat, salads, etc. I know I am not asking too much.—W. J. L.

Answer:

The first wedding anniversary is paper. Gifts for it include letter-writing paper, assorted kitchen paper supplies such as serviettes, towels, wax paper, baking cups. Other costlier gifts are books, subscriptions to magazines or newspapers; paper towel rack and paper towels, picnic supplies such as plates and cups of paper, and of course the always-welcome money.

The third wedding anniversary is leather. Gifts for it include belt, wallet, keycase, travelling sets, such as shaving or cosmetic kit or brief case or purse or luggage; make-up sets or manicure sets, picture frames, slippers, books, address books.

For your daughter's benefit got a seven-pound channel cat and enjoyed every bite of it.

There was a mistake in the name of the new caterer last week. All welcome the Rev. L. S. Throop and Mrs. Throop to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Boyle have gone on a trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Curlett and son spent the week-end at Bancroft, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ashford.

Mrs. Stanley Pound has gone to Kingston hospital to undergo an operation. All wish her a speedy recovery. Mrs. Allan Sohle is staying with her children.

DOUBTFUL CONTESTANT

WEXHAMPTON, England (CP)—Jaggers at a pet show were stopped uncertain when they saw a woman on the slippay bench. A reserved brance-box nearby, tagged "miss the Zist," showed the worm belonged to three-year-old Wendy Remnant, who dug it up in her father's garden.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. SEECKMAN

Bride-to-be Signs Thank-You Notes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please inform me as to the correct procedure for signing my thank-you notes for wedding presents? Some time ago I think I remember reading in your column that when first names were signed to these wedding thank-you notes the fiance's name (or the husband's name, if the notes are written after the wedding) should be signed first. For example: "Phillip and Laura."

I have referred to several books on etiquette pertaining to this question, and have read that these notes should be signed only by the person writing the notes, and that the fiance's name (or husband's, depending on when the notes are written) is included in the body of the note. Have I been misinformed? — (L.G.)

Your memory was "misinformed" you, for I have never advised that these thank-you notes for wedding presents be signed by the two names. The bride-to-be (or the bride) is the one who writes these thank-you notes, so, naturally, she signs her name to the notes . . . her name only. But, and also naturally, she includes in the body of each note an expression of the appreciation of "John's" for the kindness of the giver-of-the-gift. For example: "Phillip sends you and Bill his thanks too for your goodness and generosity, and he and I are thrilled with the lovely design of the crystal candlesticks they (or "we") have selected. It's lovely light on our dining table!"

Embarrassing Moment

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm certainly not famous for my memory, and recently I met a lady I took often get me into difficulty as I don't seem to remember faces and realize, with inner panic that I've forgotten the name of the person I'm talking to. Help! And often, I must admit, this happens to me in my best friends . . . but even so I find myself remembering only her or his first name. My sister advises me to do what she does in this situation, that is, start the introduction by murmuring something incoherent and then "hope for the best." But last week, when I tried this, my friend walked off, and the other person to whom the introduction said (a bit too sweetly to be real), "What ails you, what's name is?" What do you advise?—(Miss G.)

My belief is that you'll be less hesitant in the success of the introduction if, when you have forgotten the name, you'll "come clean" and admit it. Said in the graciousness and grace you can muster in your difficult moment . . . "I'm so sorry, but your name has just slipped from my memory." You should not need to add, "Please tell me," but you may have to if the other person isn't on the alert to tell you her or his name. If the first name is given you, you might gloss over the situation by saying, "How dull of me to forget you. But I did want Miss Forsythe to know you came as guests."

As a matter of fact, there's a basis in this procedure too for the one whose name is forgotten; anyone who has "been around much" immediately senses the "embarrassing moment" and at once comes to the aid of the introducer by supplying the name. Then it's pleasant going, all around!

Unique Theatre at Stratford, Ontario Will be Scene of Shakespearean Festival

Amphitheatre effect is shown of seating platforms in the circular auditorium of the new theatre in Stratford, Ontario, where Canada's first Shakespearean festival is to take place, starting today. Chairs will be installed on the concrete platforms around the stage.

By ROBERT TANNER

A small city in Western Ontario, not quite as big as Belleville, is undertaking this summer an ambitious project which is almost without parallel in the history of Canada. In a country where buildings devoted to the legitimate stage are as rare, and confined to the largest centres of population, Stratford with its 18,000 inhabitants is erecting a theatre designed expressly for a dramatic festival of five weeks' duration, a theatre quite unlike any ever built before, yet admirably suited to its intended purpose.

Architecturally a mixture of a Greek amphitheatre and a circus "big top", and with a stage borrowed from Shakespeare's own "Globe" in Elizabethan London, Stratford's new theatre is to be the scene of Canada's first Shakespearean Festival, presenting England's famous Alec Guinness with Irene Worth and a strong supporting team of Canadian and British actors and actresses.

Two plays, "Richard III" and "All's Well That Ends Well" have been selected for presentation on alternate nights, beginning on July 13th. Both will be directed by Tyrone Guthrie, who is famous for his Old Vic productions and for his work at the Edinburgh Festival. Both the theatre itself and the costumes for the two plays have been designed by Tanya Moiseiwitsch, talented daughter of the world famous pianist. Miss Moiseiwitsch is stage, set and costume designer for the Old Vic company as well as being responsible for the set design of many of London's top theatrical productions.

Well Known to Canadians

Alec Guinness needs no introduction to Canadian audiences who have seen him in many screen roles, from a comparatively small part in "Great Expectations" some years ago to his recent series of comedy hits which included "The Man in the White Suit" and "The Promoter," this unusual building is in the form of a circle, with concrete foundation and tiered seating in the shape of a pie with one quarter-size slice occupied by stage and dressing rooms. More dressing rooms, storage space and offices are also built in beneath the auditorium. The plan gives easy access to the auditorium with the audience seated on three sides, no member farther from the stage than 54 feet. This design is calculated to bring the actors into as close contact as possible with the audience and is similar to the Shakespearean theatre of the days of Queen Elizabeth, playing in "Othello," "Macbeth" and "Hamlet."

Shakespearean Authority

Festival director Dr. Tyrone Guthrie is one of the world's foremost authorities on Shakespeare and comes to Canada fresh from the opening of the Old Vic's Coronation presentation of "Henry VIII", which he directed. Apart from his wide experience of Shakespeare, Dr. Guthrie has ventured most successfully into several other fields. Last winter he directed an entirely new production of "Carmen" for the Metropolitan Opera in New York which won great praise from the critics. His activities have taken him as far afield as Russia and Sweden, in both of which he has directed "Oedipus Rex."

The two plays to be presented are well contrasted in style and historical setting. Guthrie's treatment of "All's Well" as a satire on the Napoleonic era, particularly in stylized modern press promises to be very interesting as well as highly amusing in its treatment. "Richard III", a straightforward historical drama, will be played in costume, with Alec Guinness in the title role.

Beauty

Summer Haircuts

Beauticians gather in convention to create coiffures on pretty days and have fun. They say that the same trend will prevail. But the customers who trek into their salons are the ones who make the laws, just as shoppers decide what kind of frocks and hats they're to wear. No expert crystal gazer can say what fashions will be adopted. When time has come women will not accept any outdated mode, either in coiffures or clothes. They want only smart, but they also consider what is becoming.

Hair is more bother in the summer than in the winter. Perspiration makes the hair look and stringy. Swimming is a tax, though one wearing there is always a chance to dry her hair when the sun gets hot and metal curlers must be used to the ringlets in form again.

The short cut is ideal. Here the pin-curling is done at home and when the hair is dry it is used when the hair is shampooed, a brisk brushing between and shoulder.

Hair stylists are talking "directional waving" which means, Apparently, it is a method of retaining the upswept, in creation, based on wave and curl combinations that are changed when beautifully executed. The wide wave lines can sweep over whichever way they will be good in the way of making man look attractive.

Hair is also saved in the days of beauty culture is "shaped" in the hands of the artist. It is Simply a combination of cutting and tapering.

Almost all girls realize the importance of the haircut. It should be one by one will do

Eric the Yuke, Utah 'Scutah' Even-Stephen in Main Bout

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor, ESSO)

Yukon Eric wriggled his one ear, inhaled a mighty breath that stripped seven buttons off his gaily-coloured lumberjack shirt and said: "That eruption of the other day in our home town of Anchorage, Alaska, was not so much volcanic as it was my old man blowing off steam on account of the treatment I'm getting from you southern hoodoughs."

The Yuke scratched the graveyard of his port earlap after the main bout in Memorial Arena last night and said it was far easier to give a Kodiak bear the spoils back than to claim it is to get a decision over these young upstarts who "fight" because they are built like a brick smokehouse (careful, kiddo) they are wrestlers.

The Yuke was referring to the open-stephen decision he received over powerful Don Jonathan, the Scutah from Utah, in the main bout.

That's the way it ended with old Father Time being the final judge and a far better one than the guy in the white shirt and slicked, slimsled and slithered all over the ring in an effort to keep the officials part pay his income tax.

Could be Better

It wasn't the best bout offered the frenzied faithful this year by a long shot, as the local sports critics that both the Yuke and the Scutah could have done better and they did at moments produce scintillating flashes of strength that had every girdle in the arena strained to the stretching point.

"Fracture me you can't hold up 256 pounds of wriggling, squirming, squiggling Yuke in a maybemic design on any available part of your anatomy, now is the time to get in on the first bounce and whirl it above like a spinning dervish and maybe you can't make yourself eligible for membership in the Cauliflower Pirates of Pachydermata.

Wrenched Rite, Ite Did

That's what the barrel-chested Yukemonth from the Valley of the Giants way up thar in Alaska did to powerful young Jonathan in the first fall. It was his famed "Kodiak Krunch" which was taught him by Master Sensei when he was teething on eight-inch pines and gnawing his way out of the family igloo.

It's simple, if you can do it. All you do is pick up the squirming foeman, hurl him aloft, brace your shoulders and him bounced off it with the impact being somewhere around the seventh dorsal. Then you wrench, twist, ain't funny, McGee, to feel your spine shattering and then wonder if the local butcher has any family dog specials.

But 'twasn't all thataway. The Scutah from Utah had something to say, especially in the second fall when he, in turn, whirled the Yuke from above Willy-nilly and on one occasion had him headed horizontally, that is for the Hotel Qui'te third floor. The way that kid gets around, is amazing. As a matter of fact on one occasion Maestro Wali Geroge looked up and saw the Scutah's noggin peering through the window of the top floor.

Yukon did some gentle persuasion on the part of Denny Boy. He copped the nod in the second stanza.

From then on it proved to be feats of strength with the speed and agility of Grafton Invitational 'cb cheers of the audience, a lot of whom were hoping he was the tram-tossed Alaskan hear the birdies. But it ended all square and that's all you can do about it.

Second-Strongers Play for Yanks In Cup Series

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, (CP) — With a United States victory assured, the American and Canadian Davis Cup opening singles matches Thursday, Ham Richardson downed Mervyl Rose of Australia in the first match of the series here 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

For today's singles, Trabert benched himself in favor of Brown, who had been slated for doubles activity only. Manuel Rimmer, 30, will see his first action of the series as he replaces Mayagi.

Ramon the Japanese standout in singles and doubles play so far, will face Richardson in the second match.

The 31-year-old youngster, who ran up a two-set lead against Trabert Thursday before the U.S. captain rallied and won, also sparked the rally that gave the Japanese doubles team the edge.

Displaying a powerful serve, a brilliant backhand and a leaping overhand kill, Kamo broke Trabert's service twice with sparkling volleys in the second game.

Trabert's service powers dominated the rest of the match as he ran off two games at love in the final set.

France, Denmark All Square In Tennis Match

PARIS (AP)—France and Denmark were all square in their European zone Davis Cup semi-final round today with Belgium and Italy each leading two rubbers.

Paul Remy of France defeated Torben Ulrich of Denmark 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 Friday but Burt Nielsen squared it by beating Robert Haillet 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Philippe Washer gave Belgium a lead by whipping Italy's Orlando Sirola 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 3-6, 6-4. Then Jacques Brichant held a 6-4, 1-6, 6-1 advantage over Giuseppe Merlo when their match was halted by darkness.

Yachtsmen Ready For Long Race

HALIFAX (CP)—Canvas taut against spindly masts, 12 ocean greyhounds will set out through Atlantic seas next Wednesday in the 30th running of the New England-to-Halifax ocean yacht race.

Ten United States yachts and two Canadian entries will compete in the 360-mile biennial classic, Eastern Canada's only open 'for deep' ocean yachtsmen this year.

Starting gun will be fired at Newcombe Ledge buoy off Manchester, N. H., and ends in front of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron clubhouse in Halifax harbor.

Protestant chaplain George (Lea) Gillard of the Royal Canadian Navy here, who has been sailing his 36-foot sloop Alastar in the past 25 years, commands the yacht considered here to be a top contender in the 30-metre sloop Grilse.

BREAKS 6-MILE RECORD

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Gordon Pirie bettered the world record for the six-mile run Friday night with a clocking of 28 minutes, 19.4 seconds. The time was 11.4 seconds faster than the recognized world mark of 28:30.8 set by Finland's Viljo Heino in 1949.

London Majors Shut Out Waterloo Tigers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When London Majors win a ball game it's usually the pitcher that does it. Friday night was no exception.—

With Bill Best on the mound the Majors shut out Waterloo Tigers 3-0 in a senior intercounty baseball league game. Best retired the first 11 men to face him and only allowed four hits. He struck out six and didn't walk a man.

His victory put London into a third-place tie with the Tigers.

Bill Hanrahan, newly acquired by Oshawa Merchants, scattered only four hits to shut out Galt Terriers 3-0, in other games the lead-

At Waterloo, Best had only allowed two hits until the eighth when the Tigers threatened momentarily. With two runs out Hirvo Musselman and Bobby Schnurr bit successive singles, but Bruno Bonifacio filed out and the uprising. Bobby Schnurr went the route for the losers.

Hanrahan got cheers from his home fans with 10 strikeouts and only five walks. Galt's best inning was the third when Jerry Cline opened with a single, moved up to steal as was Ted Kaiser. Two singles followed but the next man up, struck out. Oshawa got their first run in the fourth on a walk and two singles and added the winning run in the seventh on a sacrifice and a single.

Kitchener went ahead in the first with two runs scored on two singles and an error and two more singles netted them another run in the fifth. Guelph scored two more in the eighth on a home run by Ken Hamilton with two on and single. Lefty Bill Allen, with the help of Chuck Fedoris in the ninth, got the win in relief after being charged with the loss.

Brantford Red Sox Thomas batted evenly until the seventh when Brantford went ahead with the run scoring triples by Jim Wilkes and Johnny Lockington. They added four more runs in the eighth on three hits and two walks. St. Thomas scored their only tally of the game in the ninth but managed only two runs. Nig Parker scored his sixth victory.

Sport in Brief

WHOPPING DOUBLE

TORONTO (CP)—It took a record - shattering daily double of $1,985.35 to take the play away from Queen's Park Harness which has been winning most of the money to date at Thorncliffe Racetrack's harness racing meet.

The double paid to those one standing Friday but major attention was focussed on 63-year-old Bill Gee, who piloted the 57-year-old Mitchell Bullard of Toronto who had the lucky ticket on the double, largest in Canadian harness racing history.

Bullard, vacationing from a Massey Harris job he's held for 40 years, bought tickets on five horses in the first race and the 14 to 1 shot, Colonel G., owned by Lou Nova Scotia, was the first to finish and gave him a chance in the second race. For that one he picked Fellow Jim, owned by George W. Gigoll of Emmitsburg, Md., and driven by Gee. When Jim scored at 5 to 1, it turned out that Bullard held the only winning ticket.

Herbert's Bobby Herbert won both heats of division one of the Ontario Pace. In addition, his three-year-old filly Mary G. Herbert gave her owner his third winner of the day in the fifth race. In Ontario Pace, second division, Daisy PP. Grattan, owned by Bill Woods of Chesley, was also a double winner, taking the second heat in 2.10 4-5.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Wally Ulrich, big, good - natured guy with golf winnings the last few years were barely enough to provide for his wife and four-year-old son, today was set to wrap up his first big-time tournament.

The 29-year-old native of Austin, Minn., led a 64-man field into the final 18 of the 72-hole medal-play Canadian open championship with a 10-under-par 203, two up on his closest competitors, big Dutch Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., and dark-haired Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill.

Another stroke back was Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, on the mend from a dose of stomach flu that hit him Thursday. Fletcher put together a 36-33—69 to lead the Canadian contingent by a three-stroke margin. Tied with Fletcher at 206 were Kitchener Panthers' downed Guelph Maple Leafs 5-4 and Brantford Red Sox nipped St. Thomas Elgins 7-5.

At Waterloo, Best had only allowed two hits until the eighth when the Tigers threatened momentarily. With two runs out Hirvo Musselman and Bobby Schnurr bit successive singles, but Bruno Bonifacio filed out and the uprising. Bobby Schnurr went the route for the losers.

Latta Defeats Melrose 13-5

Playing on the Melrose diamond Wednesday night Tom Simpson's Latta team won by the one sided margin of 13 to 5.

Scott started for Latta, but some errors by his teammates behind him allowed Melrose to score three in the second and two in the third innings along with a hit by Welsh. McFarlane, Simpson, Machon, Grey and Welsh were best for Melrose.

Latta got one in the first on hits by Stewart, Parks and Glass. They went on a scoring bee in the third inning getting six runs and adding six more in the fifth inning.

Stewart, Glass, Parks and Scott were the best hitters for Latta with Gowe, P. Ray and Empson adding the odd single.

Feature catches were made by Parks and Stewart for Latta.

Lineups:

Latta: Scott, Stewart, Parks, Glass, Ted Ray, Gowe, Flindall, F. Ray, T. Kersey, Reid, Meeks and Empson.

Melrose: C. Machon, C. Badgley, H. Machon, W. Pascoe, D. Milligan, J. Grey, B. Milligan, J. McFarlane, B. Welsh, Weese, Hamilton, E. Milligan.

Hogan Has Magnificent 82 To Annex British Golf Open

By TOM OCHILTREE

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—Ben Hogan has proved, even to the skeptical Scots in this birthplace of the game, that he is the modern day wonder of golf.

The Texas four times winner of the U. S. Open, shot a magnificent 282, four strokes better than anybody at Carnoustie, to win the British Open championship Friday with a par-busting final round of 68.

Through the stretch drive he labored grimly, obviously still hurt from old injuries received in a 1949 auto accident to capture the coveted title in his first try—something no other American ever was able to do.

The great Bobby Jones, winner in 1926 and 1930, was among those also rann on his first attempt. The old master, Walter Hagen, a three-time winner, finished 5th on his first trip and Gene Sarazen, who took the 1932 title, failed to qualify in his first attempt.

The Scots took Hogan to their heart as they saw him limp down the 18th fairway, forget and the love of golf were two qualities highly prized in this north country. Coming off that last green, where he shot a birdie four and with the knowledge that he was going in his ears, Hogan said:

"I'm happy but so very, very tired. I'll not mention the possibility of a playoff. I don't think I can take it."

At that time, Antonio Cerda of Argentina was behind Hogan with a flickering chance to tie.

But Cerda finished with a 286 for a fourth place tie, along with Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., amateur, and Peter Thomson, Australia's promising young golfer.

Next came Roberto de Vincenzo of Argentina and Fred Daly, Sam King former British Ryder Cupper, followed with a 290 and defending champion Lew Worsham of South Africa with a 291.

Lake Trout and Solunar Tables

SOLUNAR TABLES

On the shore of Echo Lake, Vermont, there is a camp which is owned and operated by a friend of mine, George Dopson. This is not unusual. There are many camps here and there about the country which are run by friends of mine.

What is unusual is the way in which this camp is operated. It is exclusively a fisherman's camp. George has known for many years that lake trout are meticulously sincere in their response to the promptings of the Solunar Periods.

Thus, the camp dining room has its meals scheduled so that they will take place between the Solunar Periods. If a major period comes at 10:45 a.m. then dinner is scheduled for eight thirty or thereabouts. The same is true of luncheon coming at the type of time one places it in bit obliterated.

Some of the boys who rent boats there carry their own copies in their tackle kits but most of them don't bother. They simply consult the handy copy hanging beside the boathouse door.

Not being a regular customer at the boat livery, nobody knew that I had anything to do with the Solunar Tables. I was simply another fisherman loafing around the dock when I arrived. I derived a great deal of pleasure from the incidental conversation.

As might well be expected, there were a few non-believers. Everywhere, were in the minority. Should they express themselves as some of them did, always an argument resulted. I was delighted to find how many ardent press agents I had in the Finger Lake area.

At lunch that day in the restaurant, I heard one angler call clear across the room to a friend at another table.

"Hey, Joe! What time does the book say for today?"

My friend had not used the words "Solunar Tables" were never used. All of the fishermen refer to our publication as a book. That's fine.

No Half-way Enthusm

There seems to be no half-way business in the matter of lake-trout fishing. A letter from a lake-trout fanatic who lives in New York City.

gathers to reap the harvest.

I don't bother about lake trout as a rule but there is good bass fishing in the Finger lakes, so one summer a friend and I drove up to Keuka Lake.

Waiches preceedings

There is a famous boat livery on that lake, complete with small hotel and restaurant. That being headquarters for the lake-trout anglers, we went there to rent our boat and also to watch the proceedings.

Hanging by a stout cord the door of the boat livery is a copy of the Solunar Tables. This is an entirely gratuitous service on the part of the management. By the time July rolls around, the copy is mussed, bedraggled and torn. The pages are thumbprinted with engine oil and fish gurry and the type is in some places all but obliterated.

Some of the boys who rent boats there carry their own copies in their tackle kits but most of them don't bother. They simply consult the handy copy hanging beside the boathouse door.

Milwaukee Out Of Int. Hockey

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—The International Hockey League will operate with seven teams next season. Milwaukee's franchise was revoked for a year Friday by IHL governors.

Fred A. Huber, league secretary-treasurer, said: "It is absolutely impossible for Milwaukee to operate on the dates cited by the Milwaukee Arena."

A committee will be appointed to investigate the possibility of re-application in the 1954-55 season.

Marion, O., and Londonville, Ky., were formally approved as new IHL members. Holdover members are Toledo, O., Grand Rapids, Ft. Wayne, Troy, O., and Cincinnati.

The league agreed to a 66-game schedule for each team. The season begins Oct. 14 and ends March 14.

This man fishes both in Maine and in Seneca Lake in New York State. He has found that two things are outstanding during Solunar Periods. After reading his letter, I make the same three judgments:

First, during Solunar Periods you catch more fish. Second, you catch larger fish. Third, the fish that you catch put up a better fight vigorously, whereas at other times both strike and fight are somewhat on the indifferent side.

He goes on to recount his experience with a particular day, May 26th, to be exact. That morning the major Solunar Period was scheduled for 9:20.

Going on the theory that the fish best at dawn and dusk, he was fishing at dawn. Nothing happened. Forty boats were out from the livery that morning and thirty nine were back at the dock by 8:30 a.m. without a fish in the crowd.

Between 9:10 and 11:30 my correspondent hooked four lake trout one of them an exceptionally large one on Table. I was simply another 'clock but had no more strikes after nine o'clock. Is that conclusive does a theory need? He is completely convinced.

In his letter, one thing strikes me quite forcibly. How come, I wonder, that everywhere, were in the minority. Should they express themselves as some of them did, always an argument resulted. I was delighted to find how many ardent press agents I had in the Finger Lake area.

At lunch that day in the restaurant, I heard one angler call clear across the room to a friend at another table.

Hollywood is currently enjoying a renaissance of the screen spectacle, with lavish production, huge casts and stories of broad scope the order of the day. But there is one man in Hollywood to whom this type of production is an old story. Every film-goer recognizes that the grand-daddy of screen extravaganza is the veteran Cecil B. DeMille who, after a motion picture career packed with spectacular triumph, is still bringing epic after epic to the screen. In a day when large-scale production was a risky business, DeMille dared to pioneer — and in so doing, he made motion picture history. He continued to bring stories of vast sweep to the screen until his name became synonymous with the motion picture spectacle. One of his greatest triumphs deals with a love story that has echoed around the world down through the ages — "Cleopatra" — and the overwhelming popular demand comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre, beginning Monday evening with all its spectacular drama and thrills.

Starring Claudette Colbert as the haughty Empiress of Egypt, Cleo, in one of her greatest dramatic roles, "Cleopatra" tells its haunting love story against a background rich in color and excitement. It traces the romance—which develops when Cleopatra falls in love with Marc Antony—and follows the fatal pattern of destiny through which their passion leads. Told against the seething background of ancient Rome and Egypt, full of intrigue and adventure, Cleopatra's combination a compelling love story with scenes of lavish grandeur seldom equalled on film before. Its cast of thousands, its mighty settings re-creating the glory of the period lost in the sands of time, and the unforgettable performance of Claudette Colbert as a Queen who changed the destiny of the world, make "Cleopatra" a screen experience to be enjoyed again and again.

It is significant to note that "Cleopatra" has been chosen for return to the nation's screen to represent the crowning achievement of Cecil B. DeMille's unmatched and enviable record.

On the same program Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in "The Stooge." Matinee Wednesday at 2.00 p.m.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, JULY 12, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—A fruitful day handled rightly. But Mars' aspect warns against irritability, undue aggression. Do not neglect your spiritual needs.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Grand day for mental agility, bright thinking, for delicate and artistic matters. Home, family should bring happiness, fresh courage, encouragement. Pray.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Peak planetary day. Do nothing to deter the good you can do for the unfortunate, our armed forces, church, community interests, your own soul.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—No "moods" that can be blamed on anything! Everything worth while looks mighty pleasant for you who do not neglect usual duties.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Your Sun and many other major planets beneficially aspected today. Promise of a super period ahead, fully, agreeably spent. Do start day at church and ask God's guidance.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Head Taurus and Gemini; you have similar inclinations and are so favored. High intelligence, artistry, finesse, charitable top-ranking.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Cheering, hopeful aspects. Be busy if you must, or relax as health and duties decree, but don't miss the contentment assured through prayer.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Your Mars position now warns that a genial disposition is your ace card to start this fine day rightly. Of course divine services should be a must.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—You may have to plan to save time and cut corners more, even though you may have done this recently. You will achieve.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Don't look to others to give much assistance. Expect this at times; thus do we all need to keep alert.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Work, steady and of good purpose, is for healthy, contented living. Anxiety, pressing too hard, is never wise. Be sensible.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — As the doctor says, "The medicine I prescribe does no good if left in the bottle," and we apply the gifts God gave us, including improving those gifts regularly. Do some reviewing today.

YOU BORN TODAY are a combination of convention and ability, of creativeness certain reticence that tends to withdraw into a shell. You can sway people with your personality and method of presentation of material, could use this gift well in a career. Pray daily; help is given the humorous you love. Birthdate of many noted statesmen and merchants.

UNCONQUERED PEAK

KARACHI (CP)—The National Mountaineering Club of Pakistan, encouraged by the conquest of Everest, will attempt to reach the peak of Trichmir in 1955. The mountain, not yet conquered, is 24,700 feet high.

CAMPBELLFORD

Council Adopts Mutual Aid Plan in Firefighting

CAMPBELLFORD.— Items of business ranging from the purchase of trash cans to the approval of a mutual aid program among county fire departments occupied the town council this week.

The mutual aid program supported by council means that fire-fighting equipment from Hastings, Warkworth and Campbellford will be available, without charge to any of the three municipalities, in the event of a serious fire. When equipment from one town is away fighting a fire in the neighboring municipality, the third municipality or group will be expected to respond by in the event of a fire in the community which is without protection at that time.

Under the new civil defence regulations, this may become law, but until then Campbellford will cooperate with the district deputy fire marshal, K. R. Baird, fire chief of Cobourg, in organizing the mutual aid program throughout the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham.

Campbellford Council also agreed to pay its firemen, six of them with the local company, if and when the need arises. They will receive $5 for the first hour and $2 for each additional hour, or part of an hour, they are absent from the local fire hall. Fire Chief Alex MacDonald will be attending a meeting in Cobourg at which the program was organized.

The annual grant of $25 to the St. John Ambulance Association was approved, and the chairman of the polics and fire committees were asked to organize classes to take the course again this year.

County Weed Inspector Percy Gooding, who had been weed inspector for the United Counties for the past seven years, said he had no complaint to make regarding weeds in town property, and complimented the chairman on the road and bridge committee for the excellent job done on weed control in the town.

Weeds Act Enforced

One or two lots in the town are a disgrace, according to Mr. Gooding. There are both private and town lots which he recommends no attempt to control the weeds. He wants to enforce the Weed Control Act in town and council endorsed his plan. After being notified, if property owners do not control their weeds, Mr. Gooding will lay a charge which brings a fine of from $10 to $50.

Alex. Young of the Co-Op store outlined plans for a proposed building attached to their present building on Mill Street. The matter was left to the property committee to investigate and will be presented to council later.

Councillor Rutherford outlined the need for hard hats for the local firemen. He was authorized to purchase 12, one for each man at a cost of about $12 each.

Police Chief Lockwood asked council to prepare a disorderly conduct by-law. Charges of this nature are laid under the Criminal Code, with the town deriving none of the money obtained through fines.

The police committee report showed 58 occurrences answered last month, with $12 collected in fines under local by-laws and 220 under the Highway Traffic Act and Liquor Control Act. Councillor Ness, chairman of the police committee, asked that a letter of thanks be sent to Percy borough for the help they gave the town, while Campbellford was without a police force for several weeks.

Councillor Burgess reported ordering two containers to be placed at appropriate spots in town for collecting refuse. They are being made locally at a cost of about $240.00 each. If they satisfy council more may be ordered later.

J. C. Birmingham, tax collector, reported that up to July 1, $64,459.82 had been collected in taxes, an increase of some $300 over the same period last year.

A letter was received from the road and bridges employees asking for a 15-cent hourly wage increase. The men now receive 70 cents an hour. The matter was left to the road and bridge committee to bring in a report at the next regular or special meeting.

Garden Chores for Mid-Summer

BY FLORA M. SAVILLE

Keep the spray equipment in working order. You will need to spray those fast growing weeds with 2-4 D if you cannot keep ahead of them with the hoe. Broadleaf and fast growing weeds such as dandelion, plantain, thistle and bindweed are most suspectable to this type of eradication.

You can use one of the liquid fertilizers with your spray gun. The lawn and vegetables and flowers will benefit from applications given two weeks apart of instant vigro. Miracganic or organic fertilizer in granular form will react quickly now with the summer heat and occasional rains.

Every week or ten days, according to the weather, give your vegetables such as cabbage, brocoli and cauliflower, and vine fruit such as melons, squash and cucumbers an application of end-o-pest. This is an all-purpose dust, or solution for chewing or sucking insects or air-borne spores which cause blights.

Give Roses a Mulch

Give your roses a light mulch to conserve the moisture and keep the roots cool. Keep up the light feedings with regular fertilizer, or water-soluable complete plant food. Cut off shoots which come up from the root stock of grafted roses.

It is now safe to remove spring flowering bulbs. Dry thoroughly and store in shallow slatted boxes where there is a good circulation of air, in a dark dry place. The bulbs may be heeled in in the back garden and re-set in the border, or bed in September, or October.

Do you have a clump of violas in your perennial border? If so they will be looking rangy about this time of year. Cut them back hard, give them a shot of plant food, a thorough soaking if the weather is dry and they will put on a fresh show. You may do this three, or even four times each year. The plants should not be ignored from year to year. They should be separated each spring into six to eight divisions. Sow seeds this month if you wish hardy violas for next year. The best types to grow from seed are Blue Butterfly; Chantryland apricot; Lutea splendens, a lovely yellow, and White perfection. Early in the fall these seedlings will be ready to set out in their permanent bed.

Those violas which are best propogated by cuttings are Helle Vine, a lemon yellow; Jersey Gem a violet; W. H. Woodgate, deep blue; Maggie Mott, a pale blue. Buy one of each and increase by cuttings, or root divisions.

Gather Herbs

You should gather herbs now in dry for use this winter. Most of them are at the right stage just before flowering, or just in bud. Wash the leaves of mint well, then dip in boiling water, next in cold. This process helps them to preserve their color. Shake off as much water as possible and spread on a sieve, or tray, or hang up in small bunches in a dark, airy place where there is a good circulation of air. Do not dry in the sun, or the oven, slow natural drying gives the best product. Parsley, rosemary, thyme, tarragon and sage should be washed in cold water, shaken off and tied in small bunches and dried as mint. When the herbs are thoroughly dry, rub the leaves off and store in air tight jars, label the jars before storing.

Suez Canal Zone Trouble Threatens As Briton Missing

British and Egyptian Troops Face Each Other in Ismailia

ISMAILIA, Egypt (CP)—British Tommies cordoned off the strategic Suez canal zone town of Ismailia today and announced they would search all persons entering or leaving the town until a British soldier missing since last Thursday turns up.

Egyptian troops at once took up positions at all government buildings in the town, near Britain's main Suez canal zone base, but the headquarters of Egypt's army said they were only "routine patrols" and would "avoid any friction with the British Army."

There were no immediate reports of any violence although crowds of Egyptians gathered at the British cordons.

British authorities said the missing soldier had been abducted and that they believed at least one Egyptian official had been involved. The Egyptians denied the charge.

Nagub Calls Cabinet

President Mohamed Nagub announced his cabinet in Cairo. Reports were current that a state of emergency had been proclaimed in the capital and in Ismailia, Suez army headquarters in Cairo denied this.

Nagub emerged from the cabinet meeting for 15 minutes to confer briefly with Ambassador Jefferson Caffery. The ambassador said he had talked earlier with Robert Hankey, Britain's acting ambassador, in response to a question as to whether he had been to any good offices to try to calm things, Caffery said yes, he would try.

In London, a foreign office spokesman told reporters the British commander at Ismailia has the full backing of the government. The British cabinet also met.)

Armed For Defence

An Egyptian army spokesman said the Egyptian troops in Ismailia were "armed only for defence" and that the town was "fully under the control of the British forces."

To the British claim that the missing soldier had been kidnapped, the Egyptian spokesman replied with a statement that British soldiers at a railway station in Ismailia kidnapped an Egyptian secret policeman this morning. No other details were given.

Broadcasting from Cairo, Egypt's minister of national guidance, Maj. Salah Salem said Egypt would "kick the British out" of the Suez canal zone and "rivers of blood will flow." He added: "We have made sacrifices, and the British have not arrived yet."

"Britain will bring us into a losing battle," he said. "When we are ready, we shall appeal to all of you to join us."

Will Search Everyone

An Egyptian government communique said the British authorities had searched all persons going in and out of Ismailia and would be searched for arms and those carrying them without a permit would be detained.

The communique said British authorities had given assurances they would not hinder normal traffic and movement "if nothing occurs to resist inspection."

Ismailia's communique said that the British actions were bound to lead to "great trouble."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The weather map has been changing very slowly during the past few days. Thus, today and Tuesday will be rather similar to Sunday over most of the Great Lakes area.

A disturbance over southern Hudson Bay is moving eastward, and some cloudiness and scattered showers will cross Northern Ontario today followed by cooler weather over the James Bay region. Elsewhere, it will continue mostly sunny and warm with a few isolated afternoon or evening thundershowers both days.

Sticks in Thumb Pulls Out Plums From Tricycle

Police and firemen worked to get Henry's thumb loose, but it would not budge. Finally they sawed the handlebar through an inch from the thumb and then wiggled it loose.

While all this was going on, Henry's father was promising the "plums": Ice cream cones, licorice sticks, lollypops and a hot fudge sundae.

"If I'd promised that boy any more to keep him in good humour, I'd have been broke for life," he grinned.

Truck Drivers Vote to Support Other Strikers

HAMILTON (CP)—Nearly 40 members of Local 879 of the General Truck Drivers union Sunday night unanimously to support strike action of the Windsor local in its dispute with the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau.

A strike vote will be taken in Windsor early this week, Union officials say the result is certain to favor a strike. If it does, some 3,000 freight-transport drivers in the Hamilton and Windsor districts will refuse to cross the picket lines of transport companies.

The issue arose following a conciliation board report in May, in which the Toronto and Hamilton locals were offered a wage boost of seven cents an hour for drivers and 11 cents for mechanics.

Another increase of three cents an hour will be added Oct. 1 and a further three cents Jan. 1 next year.

Windsor, which operated through a separate board, sought a wage increase of 15 cents an hour to bring its rates into line with those in Detroit.

The board accepted the report, but Hamilton turned it down on the grounds that the spread-over period is too long.

Operation Tailwind Reports Show Canada's Air Defence Stronger Now

MONTREAL (CP)—Air force officials of United States and Canada at the begin ning of operation Tailwind, a mock war involving units of the air forces of the United States Air Force.

Air Vice-Marshal A. L. Jones, officer commanding air defence command at St. Hubert, Que., said "our defence is stronger than it was last year."

He said:

"Our techniques and methods of operation have been improved and we have more modern equipment."

The two-day operation ended Sunday night and all planes landed and attack were introduced. Both reserve and active units took part in the exercise.

Fighter aircraft were sent into the Bay from air fields in Eastern and Western Canada to intercept the "attacking" bombers.

Anti-aircraft units and the ground observers corps also played a major role in the defence.

The ack-ack units, their radar equipment picking up and tracking down the invaders, relayed the information to fighter units while the ground observers—civilian volunteers who relayed their information to the operations centre—watched courses are plotted—were tested strongly throughout the operation.

"Many 'kills' were scored by the defending fighters but all reports were carefully investigated until researchers evaluate the findings recorded on camera guns carried on all planes.

During the exercise all fighter squadrons were on the alert.

Within minutes after the first warning flash appeared on ground observers the jets were alert ready to intercept the "invaders."

Taking part were two squadrons of Canada's latest all-weather fighter, the CF-100 from North Bay, Ont., together with No. 400 auxiliary squadron, flying Vampire jets, from Toronto, the regular Sabre jet squadron from St. Hubert together with the station staff and "A" troop, 127 battery, anti-aircraft gunners from Pictou, Ont.

RHEE PLEDGES NOT TO OBSTRUCT TRUCE IN KOREA

Sweeping Concessions Won from RoK Leader

SEOUL (AP)—A well-informed source said today President Syngman Rhee has pledged in writing that South Korea will not obstruct an armistice and Rhee himself indicated his country has relaxed its methods but not its objective of unifying the country.

A well-informed source told Associated Press Tokyo bureau chief Sohn Hyong-kwon that President Eisenhower's special envoy won sweeping concessions from Rhee—including the written pledge that South Korea would not obstruct an armistice. Sohn said that Robertson did not wish to embarrass Rhee by disclosing the concessions.

Rhee is reported to have agreed not to block a truce agreement. His order freeing 27,000 PoWs held by the Allies last month stalemated the nearly-completed truce negotiations.

Demand Refused

The envoy, assistant U. S. secretary of state Walter S. Robertson, flew to Korea to see Rhee and demand that the U. S. would walk out of a post-armistice political conference unless he called to make peace in 90 days on unifying Korea, the source said.

In return, Eunson said, Rhee has assured that the U. S. would hold another top-level conference with South Korea—after a truce signing—to work out a joint policy and that the U. S. would defend South Korea if it were attacked.

These assurances, Eunson learned, were in addition to previous U. S. promises of economic and military aid and efforts to unify Korea peacefully.

Optimism for an early truce was strengthened also by an order of the U. S. Defence department to start patching its photographers to the truce conference site at Panmunjom "by Wednesday."

The picture was clouded by hostile Communist reaction to the result of Robertson's 12 conferences with Rhee and Premier Chang Myon's successor at Panmunjom and broadcasts by Red radio Pyongyang in Korea heard before Rhee's latest statement.

The allied and Communist truce negotiators met twice in secrecy at Panmunjom Monday and scheduled another session for 11 a. m. Tuesday (10 p. m. edt Monday).

The Communist broadcasts revealed at the conference hut was a charge by Gen. Nam Il, chief of the North Korean senior Red delegate, that Allied planes bombed and strafed a Communist PoW prison camp at Sunan last Friday, killing five Allied prisoners and wounding 15.

Defence Costs and Tax Cuts Issues Discussed by Speakers

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister St. Laurent twisted Uncle Sam's beard during the week-end while leaders of the Progressive Conservative leader, and M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, were giving it a bit own moustache.

In an election campaign speech at Stampede-fevered Calgary, Mr. St. Laurent implied that the Conservative party got into power in the United States with such "hot air" promises as tax cuts and then failed to deliver the goods.

The prime minister is seeking re-election for himself and the Liberal party he leads in the Aug. 10 contest, emphasizing the implication in his attack the $500,000,000-a-year tax reduction promised by the Progressive Conservatives.

At Jonquiere, Que., Mr. Drew criticized Mr. St. Laurent for saying the Progressive Conservatives and the CCF platforms promised cuts in defence spending.

He said Mr. St. Laurent shouldn't contradict U. S. Secretary John Foster Dulles, Republican critic, and gibers "who have served in uniform and know what military service is."

Mr. Coldwell, speaking at Saskatchewan campaigning at Outlook completed the CCF practice that Mr. St. Laurent's promise of a national health plan—providing the provinces agree—was "typical" of the Liberals' "practice before" at election time.

"They've always stooped to these tactics before an election," Mr. Coldwell told the gathering on the banks of the South Saskatchewan river.

Mr. St. Laurent, in his speech before a Liberal rally, did not refer to the U.S., nor the Republicans by name but at another of his party said later "the U.S. is obviously the country he mentioned."

"Once upon a time in another land," the prime minister said, "a government by party machination of office so long it was apparently willing to try any kind of hot air to blow its way in."

"Well, this political party that polling day had been out of office so long didn't bother about . . . cold facts. Oh no, it just went merrily along promising to reduce the budget and reduce taxes perhaps by the simple expedient of eliminating all the mink coats in that country."

". . . And the people believed them and put them in office . . . They haven't been able to keep their promises to reduce the budget and they are begging the people not to ask them to keep their promises to reduce the taxes they find they need quite desperately to meet the cold facts of life."

Meanwhile, Mr. Drew referred to the prime minister's speech at Victoria Friday in which he called for a "straight answer" from the Progressive Conservatives on how savings could be made.

"The last person to talk about straight answers is the head of the government at Ottawa," Mr. Drew said.

"Let him tell us when he is going to do something about the waste and extravagance that has been found in every department of government subject to an independent investigation. We want a straight answer as to when they will get the horses off the payroll."

Mr. Drew read two speeches in French at Chicoutimi and another at St. Joseph d'Alma, and spoke later in English as he made a tour through the Lac St. Jean Saguenay valley 160 miles north of Quebec. He began a whistle-stop tour of the Maritimes today at Campbellton and Bathurst in New Brunswick. Then he goes to Moncton, N.B., Deer, Alta., today and then will speak in Pembroke, Ont., and Perth to speak at the opening of the Edmonton Exhibition.

Mr. Coldwell flew across five provinces to Moncton, N.B., where he also opens a Maritime tour today.

The election is four weeks from today and it was nominations day in 21 scattered ridings. Nominations in the other 242 constituencies close July 27, two weeks before polling day.

Orangemen Wind Up 3-Day Celebration of 'Glorious 12th'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Orangemen would up their festivities today marking the "Glorious 12th." The celebration developed into a three-day affair this year.

While the big day was the 11th, some Canadian cities continue with the celebrations today. Sunday being the 12th this year prevented many of the gala parades that usually grace the day.

The big wind-up takes place in Toronto this afternoon. The Orangemen fall in behind the symbolic "King Billy" on his white horse, and, clothed in colorful regalia, the Battle of the Boyne where the armies of King James II and Prince of Orange fought for the late-to-law James II in 1690.

Both Saturday and Sunday were bright and sunny in most centres.

Parade on Sunday

Edmonton was one of the few centres to stage the parade on Sunday. Some 300 persons marched to church services.

Sunday at Ottawa 5,000 Orangemen paraded to an open-air divine service at Lansdowne Park attended by 12,000. The colorful-procession was made up of close to 150 city and district lodges.

More than 10,000 marched to the roll of drums and the sound of the fife in Toronto. Some members of 32 lodges participating took the easy, riding in orange-colored taxis.

Is Given Six Months For Escape from Farm

OTTAWA (CP)—William Bailey of Bailey, Ont., today was sentenced to six months in penitentiary after he pleaded guilty in county court to breaking out of the Rideau industrial farm at Burritt's Rapids, Ont., April 7.

Bailey, who had served four months of a one-year term on a shop-breaking charge in connection with an offence in Picton, Ont., was recaptured by police Friday.

Rental, Service Charges Will Be Increased Sept. 1

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department likely will increase rental and service charges for airport facilities across the country by Sept. 1 as part of its new policy, department spokesman said Sunday.

The department is reviewing present charges to private organizations, Hudson and Grover said, for use of government-operated airports in Canada. Aim is to make rental of such facilities self-paying.

Some 400 airports will be affected. Principal ones will be those at Gander, Nfld., Sydney, N.S., Moncton, N.B., Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto, London and Windsor, Ont., Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Lethbridge, Alta.

J. N. Redmayne, manager of the Air Industries and Transport Association which represents individuals and organizations operating private aircraft, said the association had filed objections to the proposed increases.

He said the amount of increase was not known but "any increases are too much for one lump. Even small increases would be easier to bear."

Two Believed Drowned

CORNWALL (CP)—A man and his wife are believed to have been drowned Sunday night when their outboard motor boat exploded and sank in the St. Lawrence River near here. Missing are Alex Cross and his wife, Nora, both 61.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE OF 1949 AIMED AT MARSHAL PLAN

Pat Walsh of Quebec Witness in U.S. Probe

ALBANY, N. Y. (CP) — A Canadian labor leader testified today that the Canadian seamen's strike of 1946 was a Communist strike organized by the Cominform.

Pat Walsh, 37, of Quebec, told congressional probers that the strike was designed to tie up shipping "so that Marshal Plan shipments would not be delivered in time . . . a cd as a blow to the Atlantic Pact."

Walsh, first witness before a sub-committee of the House of Representatives un-American activities committee, said he once was a Communist party organizer.

He said that on Communist party orders he went to work in the Canadian Army to carry out Red plans for breaking down discipline.

Later party assignments took him into veterans organizations and then the Canadian Seamen's Union, Walsh said.

Asked whether a question, Walsh said that during this period his primary loyalty was to the Communist party and not to the Canadian government or the union.

Walsh said he was in Sept. Saguenay valley 160 miles north of Quebec. He began a tour of the Maritimes today at Campbellton and Bathurst in New Brunswick, Deer, Alta., today and then will speak in Pembroke, Ont., and Perth to speak at the opening of the Edmonton Exhibition.

Mr. Coldwell flew across five provinces to Moncton, N.B., where he also opens a Maritime tour today.

The election is four weeks from today and it was nominations day in 21 scattered ridings. Nominations in the other 242 constituencies close July 27, two weeks before polling day.

Rental, Service Charges Will Be Increased Sept. 1

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department likely will increase rental and service charges for airport facilities across the country by Sept. 1 as part of its new policy, department spokesman said Sunday.

The department is reviewing present charges to private organizations, Hudson and Grover said, for use of government-operated airports in Canada. Aim is to make rental of such facilities self-paying.

Some 400 airports will be affected. Principal ones will be those at Gander, Nfld., Sydney, N.S., Moncton, N.B., Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto, London and Windsor, Ont., Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Lethbridge, Alta.

J. N. Redmayne, manager of the Air Industries and Transport Association which represents individuals and organizations operating private aircraft, said the association had filed objections to the proposed increases.

He said the amount of increase was not known but "any increases are too much for one lump. Even small increases would be easier to bear."

Find Life Raft After Airliner Plunges Into Sea

Eight Children Included Among 58 Aboard Big Plane

By ROY ESSOYAN

HONOLULU (AP) — The U.S. Navy spurred a massive search today for survivors of a four-engine airliner which plunged into lonely Pacific waters with 58 aboard.

A huge armada of ships and planes combed the storm - threatened Pacific 320 miles east of Wake Island, but hope dwindled for survival of the occupants of the Transocean Air Lines DC-4M with discovery of a life raft and seat cushions from the airliner.

The plane, bound from Guam to Oakland, Calif., carried eight children under 10 years of age among its 50 passengers and eight crew members. It disappeared Saturday night on the Wake to Honolulu hop.

It was the first commercial transPacific plane crash in that section of the Pacific since the Second World War.

Finds Life Raft

The navy transport Barrett, one of at least 10 ships combing waters where the plane last reported its position, found an abandoned life raft and seat cushions it positively identified as coming from the plane.

The pilot, Capt. William Word of Oakland, Calif., a veteran transPacific flier, reported in by radio Saturday night with no mention of trouble. There were no further messages.

On Vacation

Some of those aboard were civilian workers, their wives and families, on route home on leave in U. S. for summer vacations.

Just before dark Sunday the Barrett found the inflated life raft, with carbon dioxide bottles stamped with the initials "PAL," meaning Transocean Air Lines.

Earlier, weak distress signals were picked up for two hours in the lonely Wake - Honolulu area where the plane disappeared.

Is No Reprieve For John Christie

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, the British home secretary, announced today there would be no reprieve for John Christie, self-confessed slayer of seven women.

KILLED BY MOWER

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The blade of a power mower snapped off, flew 100 feet, struck the side of a window and fatally injured Mrs. Lena Massey, 38. The metal blade whizzed through the window and severed an artery in her neck. She died about 10 minutes later.

Queen Mother Lays Corner Stone For African College for All Races

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia African federation.

(Reuters)—Queen Mother Elizabeth today laid the foundation stone for a Central African university, open to all races, on a hilltop overlooking Salisbury.

"The establishment of a university which draws its students and staff from all races, and where they will share the same teaching and the same facilities on the broad basis of academic equality will be a fitting culmination of all the splendid preparatory work done by so many people," she said.

A few classes for Rhodesia University have already started. The institution will serve students from Northern and Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland—the three British territories in the proposed central

Wants His Girl, Boy, 4, Found Hidden on Plane

SULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—A four-year-old stowaway seeking his girl friend was discovered aboard an airliner here after the passenger door had been shut and the plane was about to take off.

The extra passenger, Gerard Quinn, said he wanted to see three-year-old Patricia Thompson, who had left the city by air a week before.

Gerard told his grandmother once overnight: "I'm going to fly to Johannesburg today," and—pedalled off on his tricycle.

He rode the mile to the airport, parked his tricycle in the parking lot and took a seat in the plane.

Prison Revolt In Fourth Day With No Change

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—Prison officials and 900 convicts remained in virtual deadlock as a revolt of inmates went into its fourth day at the Oregon penitentiary today.

The men, confined to a dozen in baseball field inside the prison walls, seemed about to surrender Sunday night, but after a short restless and abusive after Warden Clarence G. Gladden talked them some soup and bread—their first meal since Friday night.

"Now we've got the warden on the run," came the cries after the soup had been distributed and guards had begun conducting men from the chill outdoors area to the cells.

Gladden then halted the removal in the middle of the field. About 125 had been searched and conducted to the cells before the halt. The warden said they would not be let out of their cells today.

The warden also said there would be no meals at all for the 900 strikers and the food served now in their cells. Nearly 300 in the cells have been there since Friday, when the convicts refused Gladden's call to give up the revolt then. Gladden said all rebels remain locked up, even those normally used to help prepare meals.

Gladden said the remainder would stay in the baseball field—a procedure he hopes by watching them from the walls—until the convicts give assurance there will be no further revolt.

REGENT JUNIORS DEFEAT MARMORA

It was a close game all the way, but 4-4 in the sixth, when the Regents finally broke the tie and went on to win the game.

Gilmour started for the Regents and was relieved by Strachan who finished the game up. Drummond met all the way on the hill for Marmora.

MRS. L. POLMANTER INJURED IN CRASH

Mrs. Lorne Polmanter, R.R. 2, Belleville, was injured Sunday afternoon and taken to Belleville General Hospital following a motor car accident eight miles north of Belleville, on the 6th concession of Thurlow.

The accident occurred, when the car driven by Lorne Polmanter was forced to the side of the road by another car proceeding in the same direction, and collided with a parked car owned by Raymond Crowe of Picton.

Mrs. Polmanter suffered a dislocated hip and was treated by Dr. Hart of Roslin. She afterwards was brought to hospital by Mr. Crowe. Mr. Polmanter suffered bruises. Both cars were damaged. Provincial Police Constable H. Mackenzie of Belleville investigated.

Two Hydro Poles And Car Hit By Veering Vehicle

Damage estimated at $1,400 was done to a county-owned automobile when it went out of control early Saturday evening at the corner of West Moira and Yeomans Streets.

The car, driven by Allan G. Mouse, R.R. 3 Belleville, was proceeding west on West Moira, when it veered off the travelled part of the road and smashed off two hydro poles. It also sideswiped two trees on the south side of the street before it crashed over the south side of Yeomans Street striking a car owner by Earl R. Kitchen, 170 Yeomans Street before coming to a stop.

Damage to the Kitchen car was estimated at $100. Damage to hydro poles and transmission lines was said to be $400. Service was disrupted until 6:30 on Sunday.

Charges are pending city police said today.

Police Chief Receives Letter From Youngster

Police Chief Walter Probert is in receipt of a letter of appreciation from a young Syracuse boy, a victim of a child's disease.

Watching his television set the other evening, the chief heard an announcer request cards or letters for the youngster, Jimmy Davis.

He scribbled a cheery letter and enclosed a police department hockey crest to the youngster and today received the following through the mail:

"Dear Mr. Probert—I was very pleased to get a letter from Canada and I want to thank you very much. I like all sports and am proud of the Midget hockey crest. My mother is going to frame it and hang it in my room. I am feeling better and hope to be able to play outdoors soon. Good bye says I may.

"I just got a collie puppy. Her name is Pat. I am nine years old and in fourth grade at Split Rock School.

"Your friend,
"Jimmy Davis."

Wins Consolation Golf Trophy

Ben Yanover won the Walker trophy in the consolation flight of the club championships of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club on Sunday. He defeated Murray Walker in a closely fought links battle to annex the trophy in its first year of competition.

The trophy was donated by Mr. James Walker for annual competition in the club championships consolation flight.

A strong team represented the club at the third place play-off, a quite trophy played on the Trenton golf links. The team finished in third place with Ray's play behind the Trenton team, which finished in second place; Trenton RCAF in second, and ahead of the Port Hope club which brought up fourth spot.

from one pier to another of the bridge. He made the trip over but on the way back about only four feet from safety, he was swept away by the swift current and his companion was unable to rescue him in time.

Coroner G. O. W. Anderson visited the scene and declared there would be no inquest.

DENIED U.S. VISA

FRANKFURT (CP) — George Solti, Hungarian-born music director of the Munich Opera, has been denied a U. S. visa to conduct the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. The U. S. consulate said he had been denied the visitor's entry visa because his name is on the membership list of the Communist-sponsored German-Soviet Friendship Society.

Mrs. B. Oliver, 100 Years Old, Attends Walk

"Why—don't they pep up the music!" asked Mrs. Benjamin Oliver, who was attending the "Glorious Twelfth" Walk Carnival on Saturday.

Mrs. Oliver should know her "Orange" music for she's been attending Orange "walks" for the past seventy years.

After all, she only celebrated her 100th birthday on February 13th. of this year.

The mild-county centenarian resides at Plainfield with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott. She wishes the dishes every day and still takes a keen liftcrest in current events.

Two other "grand old Orange ladies" of the county also viewed the colorful proceedings. They were Mrs. George Stinson, of Tamworth LODA, who recently marked her 90th birthday and also attended "walks" since she can remember, and Mrs. Effie Oliver, of Belleville, who is 75 years of age.

Cabin Cruiser Draws Admiration At Waterfront

The handsome Chris-Craft cabin cruiser "Say Lynn", out of Erie, Pennsylvania, spent the week-end here.

Crewed by Al. Bonnell, Carl Pletron and Dick Oneelan, of the American city, the smart craft drew the admiration of the waterfront during her pause on the city waterfront.

The Americans were "three buddies," who left their wives at home to take a cruise which took them from Erie to Hamilton to Toronto and here. Omelian is the owner of an Erie boat livery, which looks after over 300 craft of all descriptions.

The boys were loud in their praise of the hospitality accorded them here, especially by the members of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club. They were special guests of the club at its regular Saturday night hop in the clubhouse.

SUEZ CANAL ZONE

Salem denied Sunday night that his government was worrying about the missing Briton and said: "We are keen to see blood, if this is what the British threat meant, because we know independence must be acquired with blood."

The British acted after Egypt rejected an ultimatum demanding the release of Aircraftman A. V. Higden. British officials said he was last seen July 1 being driven away from an Ismailia square by a "well-known local bad boy" and that the British had "good reason to believe at least one member of the Egyptian authorities was in on the abduction."

In its demand on the Egyptians, the British command in the Ismailia area said Lieut. Francis Festing, the British commander in the canal zone, would "take such action as he deems necessary" if the airman was not returned by 9 a.m. today and "measures may be put into force which will cause serious disruption to the Egyptian communities in the area of Ismailia."

Erect Roadblocks

An estimated 300 British troops hastily set up roadblocks at all entrances to Ismailia and after 9 a.m. no civilians were permitted to leave or enter the town. The British platoons were armed first with light machine-guns but later these were replaced by heavy machine-guns.

T. A. Carruthers Smashes Par For Club Title

T. A. Carruthers, playing in the club championship at the Country Club against Jack Ellis, whom he defeated seven up, established a course record of 68 with an eight on each round. The first seven holes were played in the morning when Mr. Bridge was one up but Mr. Carruthers got "hot" on the second round and at the 12th hole, his chances of winning had been eliminated.

A large gallery was following the match and they insisted that Mr. Carruthers finish the second round to see if he could break the par for the course. He was close all through the match that no putts were conceded although it was match play and this required Mr. Carruthers to hole out every hole.

Tommy and the pro at the course, Charles Pinder, had just returned from the Canadian Open where both shot two fine rounds but did not qualify for the last two rounds.

In his game on Sunday Mr. Carruthers played the nine-holes each time in 34. His card was:

Work Is Started On Storm Sewer Project in City

Work began today on the $127,000 city storm sewer project in the MacDonald Avenue area, an official at the engineering department announced this morning.

The work which will shortly cut off traffic from MacDonald and Cherry Gardens area, is expected to last the entire season. Actual site of the construction by the H. J. MacDonald company is in front of Queen Elizabeth School on MacDonald Avenue. The official at city hall said that this will progress north on MacDonald to Bridge Street which will involve the block off MacDonald and Cherry Gardens to all motor traffic.

Second phase of the work which has not been started as well, will commence at the junction of Dundas Street East and Hastings Drive, continuing along Hastings Drive to Clarke Blvd. Here, the sewer will work its way up Clarke, crossing Bridge Street, to Bertram Blvd., and then along various streets in the Parkwood Heights area.

The department requests the co-operation of all motorists in obeying detour and flag signals during construction.

U.S. State Dept. To Stand Firm On Book Policy

WASHINGTON (CP)—The U.S. State Department's stand in the book-burning controversy has been settled after considerable indecision.

Officials of the Eisenhower administration say now there will be no withdrawal from the new position approved by State Secretary John Foster Dulles in the order that books in U.S. libraries overseas be judged on their contents and usefulness even if they are charged with controversy and the authors are Communist.

As might be expected, however, Senator Joseph McCarthy thinks the policy is "completely ridiculous" and he intends to challenge it in the Senate investigations sub-committee, of which he is chairman. McCarthy has called Dr. Robert L. Johnson, head of the International Information Administration, to explain the stand next Wednesday. Johnson has indicated that there will be no backing down this time by the administration.

It was McCarthy's committee which first raised the question of which books should be kept on the shelves of the 189 U.S. libraries in foreign countries. He charged there were 30,000 "Communist books" in the libraries.

Officials of the state department apparently became panicky on hearing this and many books were removed from the libraries. Dulles admitted later about a dozen had actually been burned in Singapore and Sydney, Australia.

There followed a series of 10 directives from the department to try to clear up the confusion which had led to removal even of detective stories because they happen to have been written by suspected Communists.

Finally, directive no. 12 was issued and state department officials hope this will be the last.

MINT LARGE COINS

PARIS (Reuters) — Hundred-franc coins, the largest denomination currently in circulation, will go into circulation Aug. 1. At the same time nickel-plated 10-franc coins will be retired. These coins, about the size of a Canadian quarter but worth only 1-10 much, have already been largely replaced by smaller gold-colored 10-franc pieces.

WOOL TRADE UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — World wool trade was up in 1952 and shows signs of improving further this year, the agriculture department reported. A survey, based in part on U.S. embassy reports, was published in the department's official Foreign Crops and Markets. It attributed the trend to recovery in the west textile industry and in raw material markets.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) —Early sales were too few to establish prices at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: cattle 3,000; calves 500; hogs 225; sheep and lambs 150; holdovers from the week-end 150 cattle.

Good cows $14-14.50; fed yearlings $20.50-21; one choice lot $22. Good to choice veal- calves $21-22 odd; top $23.

Hog prices not established.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned mixed to lower in fairly brisk forenoon stock market trading today.

Uranium and New Brunswick base metals traded a narrow list of issues mostly unchanged prices. Gains by Gunnar and Brunswick were offset by losses for New Larder U and Rix.

In industrials utilities failed to hold early gains, slipping back to mixed prices as B. C. Power A firmed but B. C. Power B eased. Elsewhere in the group banks edged forward but Imperial refining oils lagged in light trading.

Junior producers drew the most attention in the golds ground but eased in two out of three issues traded. Preston East Dome was an extreme loser, dropping 15 cents. Seniors were led lower by Kerr Addison and Hollinger companies slipped.

Base metals were mixed as gains about equalled losses although weakness in key higher-priced stocks, such as Sherritt Gordon and National Nickel, helped produce a small loss for the group. Noranda and Hudson Bay went forward fractionally but Falconbridge gave up 22 cents, the group's worst loss.

Western oils were led to lower ground by Royalite, Jupiter and Devon Ledge.

PRODUCE MARKET

Sales were firm at the egg market and prices were unchanged from Friday. Quotations for graded eggs in fifte cases were: A large 69; A medium 67; A small 59; grade B 67; grade C 42. Wholesale to retail: A large 74; A medium 72; A small 55; grade B 52; grade C 47.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 11-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Friday's noon rate was 99 3-64 cents. Pound sterling $2.79 13-16.

Federal Govt. Will Help Ont. Cancer Centre

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Martin said Saturday that negotiations now are under way for the federal government to make substantial grants to the Ontario Cancer Centre to be opened here shortly.

While Mr. Martin did not announce the amounts act, he did reveal that the federal government will pay 50 per cent of the total cost of the cobalt bombs to be installed.

Ontario Health Minister Phillips charged in the legislature this year that the federal government paid half the cost of the bomb, about $50,000, but left the province to pay the installation and operation $30,000.

Mr. Martin said in an interview that the federal government had paid all costs of the bomb which has been in use in London for some time and that it would pay 50 per cent of all costs of future bombs.

Worm and 'Three-Dollar Pole' Catch Big Bass at Bay Bridge

Using a worm and a "three-dollar" pole, Ken Reid, of Weston Lakeries here, landed what he said to be the largest small-mouth black bass hooked in the Bay of Quinte.

The big fella' tipped the scales at eight and one-quarter pounds, and measured twenty-four and a one-quarter inches in length.

Reid caught the black beauty off the rocks on the west side of the bay bridge between ten and eleven o'clock Sunday morning. Five others, which averaged three pounds, also fell to Reid's worm lure.

The record for small mouth bass in Ontario is nine pounds two ounces, caught last year near Ottawa by an American.

The big fish gave Reid a strenuous twenty-minute battle before he managed to bring it ashore. It "broke water" constantly and Reid knew he had a "whopper." Several nearby anglers dropped their rods and reels and watched the battle.

Unfortunately Reid did not bother to measure or photograph his catch. He brought it up town to the Hotel Quinte and had it filleted. Its length was measured afterwards, and naturally no girth measurement could be obtained.

According to veteran fishermen of the city Reid stood an excellent chance of winning prizes in angling competitions held annually in the province.

Anglers Complain Of Traffic Jam In the Narrows

TRENTON (Special) — Pickerel fishermen who frequent the choice spot below No. 1 dam on the Trent Canal complained about the traffic jam which occurred there yesterday. Some 50 boats —all shapes and types — squeezed into the narrows below the rapids. Tempers were strained to the limit when lines crossed and hooks became snagged on the bottom due to the overcrowding.

"It is difficult to fish in fast water anytime," said one local expert, "but when too many gather in that one place they spoil it for everybody."

Other town river fishermen returned home without tasty pickerel for the table.

Despite the fact that a record number converged on the favorite spot, official finding grounds the more fortunate angler pulled in some mighty fine fish.

After a poor start the fishing suddenly became terrific on Friday.

And the fishermen not disappointed since most of them went away Sunday with full quotas in all varieties.

In the west end of the bay, south-east of the new Murray Canal entrance pike are hitting savagely, both casting and trolling lures. An influx of carp from the other side of the border described a little with a hunger "as big as a man." According to the excited loser, the monster edged in at the narrows, then raced await with the bait, line and all. "They do add insult to injury," the story telley went on, "the big fellow surfaced and rolled his eyes at me, finally giving a broad stomach in final salute."

BANCROFT

Small Turnout Of Orangemen On Saturday

BANCROFT, (Special.) — Due to the large number of Orangemen who "walked" from this district at Campbellford and Tweed on Saturday, the parade at Bancroft was held to small proportions, only the lodges turning out. The parade was formed at the Legion Hall under County Master, W. Higgins as marshal and Maple Leaf, Mount Eagle Valley, Palmer Rapids-Bancroft L.O.L. and Bancroft J.O.L. accompanied by the Madoc town band, the marchers proceeded to the sports field for a program of speeches and field events for the children.

When the parade was dispersed, the County Master acted as chairman and welcomed the Orangemen of the northern part of the county to the village. Wor. Bro. T. Tyson, recve of Bancroft, and Past County Master and Wor. Bro. J. J. Graham also addressed the gathering.

A baseball game was played between Harcourts and Bancroft with the local team winning easily. A long list of field events were run off for the children and they were rewarded for winning by excellent prizes.

The women of Bancroft L.O.B.A. prepared an excellent dinner for the marchers and their families in the Legion Hall before the activities of the afternoon commenced. The weather was ideal for the glorious Twelfth.

Find Footprints, Hope Is Revived For Minaki Child

MINAKI, Ont. (CP)—A set of tiny footprints, found by two Indians 2½ miles southeast of Wade, Ont., today gave hope to searchers starting their second day in the hunt for five-year-old Geraldine Huggan.

The prints, believed to be less than two days old, were found in the previously-uncombed area by Jack Cameron and Cornelius MacDonald, Ojibway trappers and district guides.

Jacob MacDonald, father of Cornelius, thinks the child, who wandered away from her grandparents' summer cottage at Wade, July 5, could still be alive. He said he participated in a winter search two years ago in which a seven-year-old woman boy was found alive after 40 days.

Transport Trailer Turned on Side By Shifting Load

The driver of a heavy transport, Edward Thomas, 41, of Toronto, bound for Kingston, had a narrow escape this morning when the load of coiled steel, stripping, shifted and upset the vehicle as it rounded the curve from Front Street onto Dundas Street East. Thomas was unhurt.

According to the driver, 'the load shifted, turned the trailer on its side before he was aware of what had happened and before he had completely rounded the curve. The cab remained partially upright, dragging the trailer 15 feet before coming to rest against a post in front of Holway's service station. Contens of trailey were spilled out in front of the gas pumps.

Witnesses reported a late model car had pulled away from the exact position, where the truck came to rest and had passed before the accident occurred. Mr. Thomas said he did not see the car as he rounded the corner, but thought he had lost a rear wheel. He estimated the load portion of the truck would be a complete loss due to the fact the frame was badly twisted.

Police expressed amazement that the cab was not turned completely over as well.

Obituary

CHARLES A. STOKLOSAR
Madoc

Charles A. Stoklosar, who emigrated from Poland over forty years ago and made a success in a new land, died suddenly at his home in Madoc on Saturday morning. In the death of Mr. Stoklosar, the village has lost an outstanding citizen, the Sacred Heart of Mary Church a staunch supporter and the business life a man of fine character and genie personality.

He was born in Poland fifty-five years ago, and came to the district of Madoc forty years ago and immediately began to work as a laborer. He gained success and for the greater number of years has operated the marble quarry adjacent to the village and so well was the business established that produce from the quarries was sold across the breadth of Canada. He took an active interest in his community and his church, he was faithful and devout.

Surviving are his wife, the former Helen O'Riordan; one son, Robert A., of Madoc; six daughters, Mrs. Bernard Lynch, of Madoc; Mrs. Fred (Pat) Cassidy, of Madoc; Mrs. Arthur (Catherine) Martin, and Mrs. George (Joan) Sloboda, of Port Credit; Miss Anne Stoklosar, Reg. N., of Peterborough; Miss Frances Stoklosar at home; one half brother, Carl S lockowski, in two brothers in Poland.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

British Medical Scientists Develop Artificial Heart

LONDON (Reuters) — British medical scientists have developed an artificial heart for human beings.

The British Medical Journal publishes details of the heart built from researches by doctors led by D. C. McIroy, assistant lecturer in s postgraduate medical school here.

A journal editorial says Melrose and his colleagues consider the artificial heart machine now might be applied to the treatment of certain forms of heart disease.

It cautions that the step from experiments on animals, the machine has been tested on 36 dogs, to humans is a big one. "The circumstances justifying the trial at the present time are few but the potentialities of the machine may be considerable. It is likely to be a valuable contribution to the advancement of cardiac surgery."

Veterans' Allowance Benefits Outlined by Minister's Deputy

Only one man among 150 or more older war veterans in the Belleville area is enjoying War Veterans' Allowance benefits to which they are entitled under the new veterans' allowance scheme for extra earnings which has been in effect for the past year.

This information was divulged this morning at a conference held by Colonel J. L. Philpott, of the Department of Veterans Affairs with officials of local veterans' organizations and officers of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Attending the meeting were: Kenneth Edgecombe of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association; Edward Lee of the Canadian Legion; E. R. Liddy, veterans' officer of the U.I.C.; Campbell Clifton, Second World War officer of the U.I.C.; H. H. Reed, local office manager of the U.I.C., and Douglas Marshall, superintendent of the Kingston district for the Department of Veterans Affairs.

28,000 Eligible

Colonel Philpott stated that there are 28,000 veterans over 60 in Canada eligible for the new allowances. As yet only 4,000 veterans in the whole country, have applied for new benefits giving the benefits under the new legislation.

In Belleville only one veteran has taken advantage of the amendments to the War Veterans' Allowance Act, which has been in effect since August 1, 1952. Representatives at this morning's meeting estimated that there would be at least 150 older veterans eligible here after Colonel Philpott had explained the new features of the act.

Allowance Limits

All veterans are aware that allowances were raised a year ago to permissible maximums of $50 a month for single men and $90 a month for married men. What very few have yet learned, Colonel Philpott explained, is that under a new section in the Act, older veterans can perform certain types of gainful employment without any reduction whatever, or other profitable types of employment with slight reductions, from their monthly allowances.

And at the present time they remain entitled to the basic protection of the Act for medical care, hospitalization and, provision for the widow in the event of the veteran's death.

The point stressed by Colonel Philpott was that any veteran who is under a W.V.A. recipient need only register with the local Unemployment Insurance Commission office to take advantage of the new scheme. Two types of employment are permitted under the legislation. In work described as "subsistence employment" a veteran, or his wife, can earn up to a maximum of $50 a month and still receive the full monthly allowance. This is work which can normally be done outside of ordinary working hours such as gardening, cleaning, janitor work, baby-sitting and the like.

Second Type

The second type is "intermittent employment" where either the veteran or his wife may take full employment for a period of time and while the income may reach a point, where no allowance is paid during that time the veteran remains a recipient for medical and other personal benefits.

Several examples to illustrate how the two formulas applied in specific cases were cited by Colonel Philpott. Copies of a memorandum setting all phases of the Act in regard to extra employment earnings were supplied to the representatives of the veterans' organizations and will be reported in detail to their members.

Both Mr. Edgecombe and Mr. Lee had specific local cases concerning veterans to discuss and many questions arose after the new legislation were ironed out in the discussion. Uncertainties in regard to hospitalization for single men, for married men with families, and for veterans eligible for D.V.A. "old folks homes", were cleared up to the satisfaction of the local veterans' representatives. One point stressed was that no one is eligible under the W.V.A. Act unless he saw service in a theatre of war.

Special Allowance

Colonel Philpott is a special advisor to the deputy minister of Veterans Affairs on veterans of both wars. A great part of the time he is on tour across the dominion conducting veterans organizations, large employers in industry, labor union officials and employment services. He emphasized that veterans should not be reluctant to deal with the U.I.C. rather than the D.V.A. In Canada there are only 19 D.V.A. offices while there are 460 U.I.C. offices and in each of these there is a special veterans' officer. In registering at the U.I.C. office a veteran would find no delay in receiving his allowance and gained the advantage of more opportunity for casual employment.

The entire working force of Canada is now about 6,000,000, Colonel Philpott stated, and about 20 per cent of these are veterans. His principal work is to see that the "plotters" are given opportunities to work and much progress has been made in this respect in the last few years, he said.

To a considerable degree, efforts of the D.V.A. and his department have broken down employer resistance to using older men. It is stressed that retirement should be based on age but on the basis of the useful contribution a worker may be able to make.

Colonel Philpott commended the local officers of the U.I.C. on the job they have been doing in placing veterans in employment.

BOWMEN MEET

Take a Second Look . . .

No matter where your vacation takes you, Canada's natural beauty is close at hand . . . rivers, trees, prairies, mountains. But behind that beauty is the waterpower, the pulp, the lumber, the minerals, the grain . . . yes, and the factories, too, that the enterprise . . . and the savings of many, many people have moulded into one of the world's great agricultural and industrial countries.

Canada is rich in natural resources . . . probably richer than any of us dreams. While these resources have been here for ages it really has been only within the lifetime of most of us that the savings of Canadians have been used in their development. People of other countries have helped, of course . . . but Canadians may take pride in knowing that it primarily has been their own savings . . . and their own ingenuity that have been responsible.

But getting back to your vacation, we would like to make a suggestion . . . after you admire the beauty of the country take time for a second look . . . take time to realize what the real natural wealth of this country means to you and to all Canadians. If you do we think you may get just as enthusiastic as we are about the soundness of Canadian investment.

When you get home you may want information on some situation which has caught your imagination, or perhaps some assistance in drawing up a program of diversified Canadian investment. If so, we can help you. This is your invitation to write us or to drop in to any of our offices.

STRUGGLE FOR POWER — FOR WHAT PURPOSE?

The purging of Lavrenty Beria, chief of the Soviet Union's secret police, is being universally described as evidence of a struggle for power in the Kremlin.

That is fairly obvious. But there is much that is obscure.

Who are the leaders of the factions? Evidently, Beria headed one group. Malenkov appears to have stage-managed the denunciation of his former colleague in the triumvirate which headed the government after Stalin's death. But what of Molotov? Is he next on the purge list? Or is he Malenkov's ally? Or is he, perhaps, the real master? The British ambassador to Moscow, Sir Alvary Gascoigne, is said to believe that this will eventually emerge as the supreme ruler in the Kremlin.

What groups are backing these leaders? For it is fairly obvious that an individual cannot, with impunity, order the arrest of the chief of such a powerful group as the secret police. Malenkov, or Molotov, or both, must have the backing of some other powerful entity within the Soviet Empire. The obvious choice for this role is the Red Army. Little love is said to have been lost between the military and the police.

But neither Malenkov nor Molotov have had any strong ties with the army. Have they been able to secure the support of the generals—or are the generals merely using them?

More important even than the question of who is directing and what groups are participating in the struggle for power is the reason behind the struggle, the objectives of the leaders and the dreams of their supporters.

It could be, of course, merely a fight for power for power's sake. But, much though we hear of the lust for power, it remains that most men who seek power seek it for a purpose.

This purpose may be of little importance to the world at large. It may be nothing more than satisfying human self-preservation. Maybe those who purged Beria did so because they feared they themselves would be purged by him.

It may be only an effort to find a scapegoat for the incidents which have shaken the Communists' hold on their satellite states. Perhaps Beria is as much the victim of the Berlin revolt as Chancellor Adenauer, Chairman Mao Tse-tung, Premier Klement Gottwald of Czechoslovakia and other European countries as he is of Malenkov and Molotov.

But it could be. It is a possibility that should not be ignored, that Malenkov or Molotov or the Red Army have become thoroughly sick of the endless procession to the prison camps.

Such a feeling need not necessarily spring from humans impulses. Reason suggests that no state can remain powerful while the cancer of terrorism spreads throughout every cell, in factory and on collective farm, from the sunny seas of the Caspian to the eternal ice of the Arctic wastes.

On the other hand, it is even possible that Beria's downfall was a reaction by his colleagues in the Kremlin against a policy of leniency. For instance, Vladimir Semyonov, the new Soviet high commissioner for East Germany who is responsible for supervising the satellite line of "decommunization," is said to be a Beria man.

It is surely obvious that at this distance we are not going to get satisfactory answers to these momentous questions. The experts — the trained men who are or have been closest to the scene — disagree. While the British ambassador in Moscow sees Molotov as the eventual big boss, United States officials believe Malenkov has ruthlessly consolidated his position. Eddy Gilmore, the veteran Press correspondent representing Associated in Stockholm when the official announcement of Beria's arrest was made public, openly wonders not only why it happened but also when it happened. That question of timing is important. If Beria was arrested on the opening some weeks ago, then he most definitely had no hand in recent events in the satellite nations.

It is useless to attempt to predict what will come, but interesting to speculate. Firstly, perhaps most people would agree that the role of the humane man would be unanimous if there were no other contenders for the secret police. If we accept this view, we can rule out the suggestion that Beria was responsible for the overtures made to Germany since Stalin's death.

Who then was responsible? Molotov, the Hammer of the Red Revolution? Or Malenkov, the product of the new regime of mass-slaughter? Perhaps. Or, by phrase it another way, Molotov the diplomat who more than any other Russian since Litvinoff has had the opportunity to meet with the statesmen of the West, or Malenkov, whose only knowledge of what lies beyond the borders of Russia has come out of Communist text-books?

Here is a puzzle indeed. Yet the right answer might provide the key to the entire situation. In one sense, the men of the triumvirate may be said to have represented the three phases of Soviet rule. There was Molotov, by training a revolutionist, presumably still dreaming of world revolt. There was Beria, dedicated to that task of repression without which the regime could not exist in unaltered form. And then there was Malenkov, whose primary interest, at least officially, has been the attempt to build an industrial giant out of what a few short years ago was a feudal land.

And yet all these speculations are useless, because they attempt to solve the puzzle by conceiving each man as a type while in fact Molotov, Beria and Malenkov are individuals and like every individual must be a conglomerate of conflicting motives and beliefs. Perhaps Molotov, the old Bolshevik, seeks peace in his waning years. Perhaps Beria, sickened by dreams of his victims, sought to undo part of the harm he had done. Perhaps Malenkov, freed from the drudgery of planning industrial expansion, sees himself in the role of a new Lenin.

And perhaps, behind it all, there were no aspirations, no plans for the future — nothing but fear, naught but the big dog eating the little dog before the little dog grew too powerful.

Ex-President Enjoys Self

(New York Times)

Ex-President Truman's final remark as he helped the ballboys run eleven pieces of luggage into his car at the Waldorf-Astoria on Sunday at 6:10 A.M. was that he and Mrs. Truman had had a "happy week" in New York City. Mr. and Mrs. Truman then proceeded westward, with Mr. Truman at the wheel and Mrs. Truman apparently thinking of something else. For the former President, like other baffled drivers, had to make a pedestrian bow to get into the Holland Tunnel. Moreover, Mr. Truman, in his natural exuberance at his present situation in life, "perked along" in such a manner on the Pennsylvania Turnpike later that Patrolman Thomas Stampler of the State Police had to warn him for cutting in front of vehicles trying to pass him. Mr. Truman was, however, in Stampler's terminology, "very nice about it and promised to be more careful."

There can be no doubt that Mr. Truman is having a grand time of it not being President. It is the kind of grand time that perhaps can be had only by persons who have been President and then have had the good fortune to stop being President. Being President gets a person's name in the newspapers; it gets him free rent and a reasonably good salary and expense allowance. But it is hard work and full of worries. There is no evidence that ex-President Truman has the least touch of envy for

Oldest Log Cabin

(Los Angeles Times)

The log cabin is so firmly associated with the American frontier that most people, I suspect, would guess that the first one was built by the Pilgrim fathers soon after they landed on Plymouth Rock in 1620.

A few better informed individuals might know that the log cabin was actually introduced into America late in the 17th century by the Swedes who settled in Delaware.

My own guess would have been a bit nearer 10,000 miles off, as a DC-6 flies, before I came upon it in the surrounding forest in Japan. I had been told that I was to visit the Shoso-in, but I had been visiting too many things to be asking questions.

I expected it to be a restaurant, but instead I saw just what the name, as I later learned, indicated — a storage building. It has been standing in its solitude for at least 1,250 years and probably for much of every time it had been entered since the year 787. It was a genuine log cabin of great cypress timbers which had been split into a rectangular shape but left with the bark on. The American pioneers were to lay theirs a thousand years later. A good two inches of its external surface had been weathered away during the centuries, but it was obviously good for another 1,200 years and longer.

It was the sort of log cabin however, that any American settlement of pioneers would have envisioned. On the enormous cypress pillars, nine feet above the ground, its 3,500 square feet of floor space was roofed with tile. In a strange mixture of incongruous touches, it seemed to me that Daniel Boone and his family could have played tennis under its 30-foot ceiling with room for cooking pots at one end and spectators at the other. Only the Japanese could possess either to assault them or to smoke them out. It had already, by its history, resisted war and fire; and lightning had struck it in 13 42 without doing serious damage.

Actually, it had been built originally as two separate cabins which were connected in a later era, and it was used as the treasure house of the emperors. Some of the treasures date from the period before the cabin was built, and Boone Dalhia in 749 and many others have been added since. The relics are grouped in three rooms, of which one is opened for two weeks in the fall.

The Shoso-in is one of the sacred buildings of Nara and before the end of the month I suppose I will possess of the highest rank and by the most distinguished foreigners.

New Paint Job Means Peace

(Ottawa Journal)

It isn't often that we are able to "guess at war" or peace with such certainty as we enjoy just now, so we rush out with the following prediction without delay:

Russia will not declare war on Canada for at least five years.

This assurance is based not on some secret information still less on the grouping of the stars or the fortunes disclosed in the tea leaves in our cup. Not at all.

We are considered the Russians are not going to declare war on Canada for at least five years because you must know why, it is because this week they have started painting the Russian Embassy up on Charlotte street. The painters are there even now, painting in the leisurely way of painters but painting nevertheless.

Now there are a lot of things we don't like about the Russians, and particularly about the Russian leaders. The gangster methods are not lit waistlines. The powers that be in the Kremlin would never hesitate for a moment to order a nice painted if they knew that Canada was going to bomb the city to smithereens or at least have to call their Russian employees home. Not with the cost of painters what it is today.

So run along, everyone, and have a good holiday and never mind the Russians. They are safe back den. Put your money into a canoe or a new paint job. They'll probably want to get five years' wear out of this coating.

This Slander Denounced

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Canada is a proud name. But the Rev. Father Turney of St. Michael and All Angels' church in Toronto considers that one of one Canadian in 10,000 knows how the proud name originated. What has aroused Father Turney's immediate indignation is a story in a United States magazine suggesting in all innocence, that the original meaning of Canada was "nothing there." Father Turney and his friends are not easily ruffled about such matters, will nevertheless consider this an insult to their intelligence as authority for its derivation the magazine cites the legend of a Spanish adventurer who, some 350 years ago, found himself on the coast of what is now Nova Scotia. The frustrated Spaniard angrily turned his ships away and presently told his men he considered he had said to have baptized with a scornful "Aca Nada," which is to say, "nothing here."

Although this names a good story it is hardly conclusive. The Spanish word Canada was current among the Iroquois long before Jacques Cartier for the questionable Spaniard looked the other way. In 1535 Jacques Cartier, seeking the passage to Cathay wins, sailed up the St. Lawrence river. Two Iroquois Indians, guides, Tignogny and Domagaya advised him that he was now entering the village of Stadacona "out of which flowed a deep dark river," and that the surrounding country Canada, where their village nestled in the shadow of a mighty hill. Cartier, in his manuscript journal, mentions in passing that "three times the Iroquois used the word" and mentions in passing that "there was also another very fanciful notion suggested for it, one from the Portuguese, another from Spain, and one even from Sanskrit." Canada may originally have meant "village," "path," "road" or "settlement," but it seems pretty certain that it never meant "nothing here." Father Turney's 10 per perhaps apocryphal Spaniard would have done well to have taken his name.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE LIGHT OF IMAGINATION

People without imagination stand on the sidelines and watch those who have, march proudly down the highway of life. It is what has made this Western World the envy and admiration of the rest of the world—the old world.

Here we have pioneers—people with vision, hope and the light of imagination that has taken them to discoveries that stand out as actual miracles of achievement, cook with imagination, as well as with pots and pans and stoves. They create dishes that pots like to write about.

I get from a book by Robert Updegraff, entitled "Yours to Serve", an interesting statement. He wrote: "It is said upon good authority that more than half of the visitors of the Chicago Century of Progress in 1933-1934 were earning their living in industries that were not in existence in 1893 when the previous World's Fair was held in the same city."

Imagination is what has furnished the greatest boom in new industries, new inventions, and added years to the average life span. And those who do are alive themselves. They are happy. They are secured. They say: "Stand aside. I have an idea." And people do stand aside for those who have ideas, for they know if they don't they will be pushed aside!

Television, Cinerama, Air Conditioning, Refrigeration—what opportunities there are cropping up everywhere! Ten years from now unimagined things will be here and like antiques in comparison. Who knows? Maybe in the light of imagination will throw its beams

SPARE ME THE RAT P OISON PROPAGANDA

Dr. Brady

Five pounds of sterotyped, mitigrapped or printed propaganda, recognizable at a glance, slides directly from the mail chucker in the health factory every week. Probably most of the writers concerning that pay for it squander surplus that way rather than paying it to the Income Tax.

In the past year or two a prodigious quantity of this subsidized semi-fraudulent stuff deals with "rat poison."

For example, a "reprint" from a thrown-away "magazine" purports to present reasons why municipal drinking water should not be fluoridized. A quick c. o. reveals this frightful suggestion:

"Suppose that this diluted rat poison gradually ruins my kidneys and thus sends me to my grave. Will it be any comfort to me if my dental association says that with perfect teeth? As an American I prefer to be treated decently as a rat...."

It has been the general practice in America for the past forty years to chlorinate municipal drinking water, that is, to add from one-fourth to one part of chlorine gas per million parts of water, in order to make the water safe to drink. Yet if one inhaled more than a few drops of chlorine gas per million parts of air, one would be overcome by it.

Yet one, unchlorined, they enjoy extraordinarily good health because their food is not refined and because they have then the world's finest teeth for the same reason. So why should we fear the silly practices which are so popular among American morons?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One thing progress, does not mean is comfort. It probably does mean discomfort. Progress has given us a thousand gadgets. But a thousand gadgets is poor compensation for the comfort, the ease and fitters which progress has saddled us with. Take the little matter of getting packed up for a holiday. In my boyhood and I am not so much older, we set all our stuff in trunks and a couple of dunnage bags, plus maybe a wooden box with handles on it for the bottled fruit and preserves; and then telephoned the express man.

He called with his horse and wagon the night before our departure and took away the trunk and bags. And that was all. No more worry. Forget it. When we arrived at the train depot, there was our baggage waiting for us. Comfort.

With nothing to carry but a couple of small valises, two or three flashlights, a few boxes of children's toys and a cardboard box with our lunch in it, we were comfortably down to the station and boarded the train. In perfect comfort though possibly not in perfect safety—certainly a little hot and sticky we proceeded with numerous interesting jolts, long halts, blowing of whistle and hissing of compressed air brakes, to our happy destination, where baggage and all else awaited us. Comfort. Only since labor, sans lifting, hoisting, fumbling.

But see what progress has given us: the motor car, and into the motor car, sans effort and labor, carrying out the luggage and stowing it this way and stowing it that way. We sweat and strain, body all achin' and racked with pain, trying to get the suitcase, heavy cartons of provisions, hat boxes, overnight bags, apart bag, not to mention paddles, tops, pressure cookers and all the other little items, stowed inside, so as to leave room for the passengers. Is there any doubt in this? Is there comfort in the thought, as we drive, cramped, in the steaming fumes over the holiday highways, that all this junk will have to be unloaded when we get there, and carried laboriously up the hill to the cottage?

Let us turn ourselves over to progress, of course. But don't let us delude ourselves that it is making us comfortable. It is not. It is only making us pack-rats in a race.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

DIVINE PROTECTION

There was once an army officer whose reputation for bravery was the talk of the whole regiment. In the midst of battle, he would jump to the ramparts and direct his men, apparently oblivious to every danger. On occasion his men cried out in terror and bade him come down from his perch, but he only whistled up and said, "No use tellin' me to come down, boys. It's all part of dyin'; he's one of them happy Christians."

Of course he eventually came to a tragic end, the story does not relate. I should be willing to lay a wager that he died in his bed, old age. Some time ago a woman of great religious faith was telling me how, since she became a Christian, she had had the complete elimination from her experience of painful and annoying little accidents which she had had in her old days. One might call this quite remarkable, but I am quite sure that it was the result of the deepening of her religious faith. In general it certainly can be said that those who have strong religious convictions go from triumph to triumph, and even through their occasional experiences of defeat they thoroughly clearly appear to be surrounded by a host of spiritual protectors.

The Bible does not promise any such thing as that every man's process of God puts just such mental providences as this upon our existence.

Big Swim Pool Used by Navy For Research

OTTAWA (CP)—If National Research Council scientists went in for swimming on the job, they have Canada's biggest swimming pool to do it in.

As it is, they use their pool—450 feet long, 25 feet wide and 10 feet deep—to solve problems of naval design for the Royal Canadian Navy and for civilian shipbuilding firms.

They use the pool to find out how a new ship design frash from the drafting-board of the naval architect will behave in the water.

Scale models of the new ships are either towed along on the glass-smooth 700,000-gallon pool or fitted with electric motors complete with scale-model screws and allowed to run themselves.

Radical Designs

The specifications of a new type of flat-bottomed tug which will soon be chugging across Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories were drawn up from data calculated at the NRC tank. So also were specifications for a new car ferry which will ply between Islands of the Pacific Coast and for a new type of lifeboat which may some day brave the gales of the North Atlantic.

Calculating ship specifications is more complicated than specifications for aircraft or submarines. An aircraft flies wholly in the air and a submarine moves wholly under water and either type of craft meets only one type of resistance. But a ship which runs part in the water and part out meets both a water drag and a surface friction drag.

The rig the NRC uses to tow the models is therefore fitted with a variety of instruments, many of local design, for recording the two types of drag. The rig operates by electric current from overhead trollies, trued to within 1-100th of an inch.

Realistic Conditions

Everything possible is done to simulate the action of a ship making its way through the water. When the NRC scientists found a test model failed to develop the bow-wave turnfasence of a life-size ship, they tried fixing a copper wire near the bow.

The device worked—The extra obstacle created the necessary artificial turbulence and the recording instrument recorded the sort of data it would record had it been installed on a full-size ship.

The testing pool is the property of the NRC's division of mechanical engineering which also operates supersonic wind tunnels for aircraft research, an engine laboratory and a low-seperature laboratory.

More Miners In Timmins Area Go Out on Strike

TIMMINS (CP)—More than 350 gold miners struck over a wage dispute at Preston East Dome mines this morning, bringing to eight the number of mining properties shut down in the last two days.

The hardrock workers, members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), walked off the job at 8 a. m. Pickets were set up immediately.

The walkout swelled the number of striking miners in the Porcupine mining area here to about 725. Workers at Broulan Reef and Hallnor gold mines quit Saturday morning. Five properties operated by Broulan were closed and picketed.

The strike affects only three of 10 operating companies in the area, 10 miles east of Timmins. The three companies run the eight struck properties. There were fears that the walkouts may spread to some other mines.

The strike at Preston, a junior producer in this rich gold-mining area, was sudden but not surprising. There has been unrest there since last March when the company refused to accept a wage recommendation by a conciliation board.

Workers started picketing the property after the night shift finished. There were no incidents.

The tieup at Broulan and Hallnor came at 8:30 a. m. Saturday, picketing the three gates leading to the mine. Hallnor workers, who must cross the Broulan property to get to their shafts, refused to cross the picket lines.

The Broulan Reef Company, which operates both the Broulan and Reef mines, also runs four other struck properties under operating agreements: Bon-Wit, Hugh Pam, Bental and Bannerman. The Broulan local embraces employees who work at these properties.

Weddings

BAILEY—STAPLEY

Blue delphiniums, pink roses and Sweet Williams interspersed with fronds of fern, the chancel rail and adorned the altar of Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, June 27th, for the marriage of Marian Helen, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stapley, to James Franklin Bailey, of Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bailey, of Stirling. The rector, Canon C. B. Creegan, officiated.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the choir of six members, who rendered appropriate selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal floor-length gown of white nylon net over satin, featuring a redingote of Chantilly lace with long sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands, a standup collar, with small buttons extending to the waistline. The fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap of matching lace over satin. She carried a white Prayer Book created with red Sweetheart roses and white satin streamers knotted with tiny rosebuds. Her only adornment was a three-strand necklace of pearls, the gift of her bridegroom.

Sisters of the bride, Miss Lillian Stapley, as maid of honor, and the Misses Dorothy and Marjorie Stapley as bridesmaids, were the attendants. The maid of honor was attired in pink, and the bridesmaids in blue. All wore nylon net over taffeta with lace bodices and matching boleros, picture hats and gloves. Their shoes were of matching shades interwoven with silver, and they carried nosegays of pink and white 'mums, bachelor buttons and pink Sweetheart roses with streamers of pink and blue satin ribbons.

Mr. Gerald Bailey, of Stirling, twin brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Mr. Ray Mabel and Mr. Glen Nubel, acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the Parish Hall of the church where a buffet luncheon was served to approximately sixty guests. The bride's mother, wearing pink sheer with white trim and white accessories, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in blue crepe with white accessories.

For the wedding trip by motor to Niagara Falls and the Muskoka district, the bride chose a navy Sengaline suit with white and navy accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will make their home in Belleville.

MACLEAN—SOMMERVILLE

On Friday, July 3, Hope United Church, Toronto, was the setting for the marriage of Mary Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. M. Sommerville, Toronto, to Donald Gordon Maclean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Maclean, Belleville. Rev. C. M. Curtis officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown of lace over gleaming satin with full gathered skirt of lace appliqued on net, with a bustle back. A pale bonnet trimmed with lily-of-the-valley held her fingertip veil, and she carried a cascade of pink roses.

Mrs. Donald McLean was matron of honor and Miss Jean Christopher was junior bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in long dresses of apple green-brocaded silk with matching portrait caps and carried nosegays of yellow roses and poms.

Mr. Donald McLean, Toronto, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Dawson Maclean, Belleville, and Mr. R. Clarke Sommerville, of Cobourg.

The reception was held at the Guild Inn, where the bride's mother received the guests gowned in light blue shantung with navy accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds, assisted by the groom's mother wearing navy blue with navy and white accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds.

After a wedding trip to Muskoka and the Adirondacks, the bride and bridegroom will live in Toronto.

Guests were present from Nova Scotia, Rochester, Cornwall, Ottawa, Kemptville, Smiths Falls, Brockville and Belleville.

MULVIHILL—EVANS

White lilies and ferns adorned the altar of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, July 4th, at 2:30 p.m., when the Reverend J. J. Buckley united in marriage Mary Constance Irene Evans, of Belleville, R.R. 1, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Evans, and Frank Edward Mulvihill, of Belleville, son of Mrs. William Mulvihill, of Arnprior, and the late Mr. Mulvihill.

Mr. Bob Lucy, soloist, rendered "Ave Maria", "The Lord's Prayer", "Beautiful Mother", and "Panis Angelicus".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her gown of white nylon net fashioned with lace bodice buttoned to the waist, long, bouffant-like sleeves ending in V points over the wrists, and skirt of satin with overskirt of tulle extending into a slight train. Her full length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses.

Mrs. Claire Tierney, of Deep River, sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor, was gowned in ballerina nylon net over taffeta in ballerina length, with matching headdress. Mrs. Dorothy Blanchet and Mrs. Florence Lavender, of Toronto, sisters of the bride, as bridesmaids, wore similar gowns of pink net over taffeta in ballerina length, with matching floral headdresses.

Little Misses Diane Blanche and Rose Anne Lavender, were flower girls, sweet in their pink taffeta frocks, with scalloped hems in ballerina length, caught up with pink roses and blue bows, with pink flowers in their hair. All the attendants carried nosegays of white daisies.

Mr. Ray Mulvihill, of Arnprior, brother of the bridegroom, assisted as groomsman, while Messrs. Fred Evans, brother of the bride, and Frank Mulvihill, brother of the bridegroom, both of Belleville, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at Maple Haven, Trent Road, where the bride's mother, wearing navy blue crepe with matching gloves and white accessories, and assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in blue and white flowered crepe with white accessories, received the guests.

For a two-week' wedding trip, the bride chose a light blue nylon dress with natural color shortie topcoat, and white accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Mulvihill will reside at R.R. 1, Belleville, upon their return.

38 Christ Church D.V.B.S. Pupils Graduate to Senior S. School

The Daily Vacation Bible School held at Christ Church was brought to a successful close, recently following an intensive five-day Bible study, with an enrolment of approximately 150 and daily average attendance of 101.

Each morning the children met at 9:00 in the Parish Hall, later proceeding to the church for devotions and story period under the direction of Canon J. B. Creegan. Children were chosen each day to carry the banner with its lettering, "Christ Church Daily Vacation Bible School".

On each consecutive morning, the Scripture was read by the following children, in turn: Lynn Fuzzen, Mary Dawkins, Ted Blaker, Bobbie Blaker, Linda Lennox, Karen Flindall, David Lennox, Jim Fisher and Marilyn Rendorp.

Following the devotional period, the children retired to the parish hall for handicraft work which included the making of card scrapbooks for the children in hospital. These were compiled by the younger children, while the older children painted plaster paris plaques, directed by Marilyn Elliott and Barbara Payne.

The stories concerning the Great Christian Family and Fellowship, were most interestingly told by Canon J. B. Creegan, Mrs. L. R. Blaker, Mrs. E. Hickey, Mrs. P. Rosier and Mrs. H. V. Fisher. Flannelgraph was also used each day to demonstrate and impress the stories. Others assisting included Mrs. A. Bongard, director of the D.V.B.S., Mrs. Lionel Blaker, Mrs. Harold Clarke, Mrs. H. Pitt, Mrs. R. Lennox, Mrs. F. Bateman, Mrs. W. McCormick, Mrs. J. Cooke, Mrs. F. Mason, Mrs. J. Fletcher, Mrs. A. Matthews, Mrs H. J. Fisher, Mrs. F. O'Connor, Mrs. R. Roulet, Grace Carr, Marilyn Elliott, Betty Alsclow, Barbara Payne, Pat McLaughlin, Judy Ross, Margaret Moody and Patsy Vaughn.

On the closing day, the children were awarded crowns with stars, a star for each day of attendance and a special treat of ice cream and chocolate milk.

Special appreciative thanks to all those who donated cookies, ice cream and the chocolate milk, as well as to each and all who were in any way, assisted to make of the Bible School a success.

The following 34 beginners have been graduated to the Senior Sunday School and duly welcomed and presented with pins and diplomas by Mr. Ray Lennox:

Picnic Outing Marks John Geen's 87th Birthday

The events of the day, in charge of his daughters, Mrs. Archie Reid, who is visiting here from California; Mrs. Charles Irvine, and Mrs. Sherry, consisted in swimming for the younger members, while the older members enjoyed reminiscing about "the good old days".

A bounteous dinner was supplied with birthday cake holding the limelight. Following the repast, and the singing of "Happy Birthday to You", Mr. Geen was presented with several fine gifts including a radio, for which he expressed his appreciation and thanks.

Among those present were: Mr. C. H. Geen; Mr. and Mrs. George Bullis and daughter, Norma, of Hawkesbury.

Woman's Touch Added to Hotel In Far North

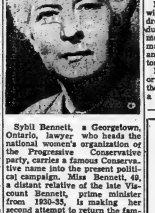
Mrs. Kuefeler is a combination chef, hostess and upstairs maid at the hotel on busy Alaska highway at Slake Lake, 130 miles north of Edmonton.

The Kuefelers decided to go into the business three years ago when they lived at Galahad in Central Alberta. Mr. Kuefeler, a traveller, stayed at hotels on his business trips and took a liking to them.

So they bought a modern nine-room hotel complete with hot and cold water. Well water is not used in Slave Lake because it contains too much iron. Instead, water is chilled from ice which is cut up 15c.



Biggest Job

Mrs. Kuefeler's biggest job is supervising the meals served from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. she tries to serve special dishes in a way that will appeal to loggers, fishermen and mink ranchers in the district.

Slave Lake is becoming a popular tourist centre. Visitors are treated to long twilights and enjoy hotel meals in Lesser Slave Lake where the sandy beach and hard sand bottom make good bathing. The natives speak highly of the whitefish in their lake.

Many of the 2,000 people in the town are seasonal workers. A good number of them either live or eat at the hotel, so at busy times of the year Mrs. Kuefeler is kept hopping.

P.C. CANDIDATE

Sybil Bennett, a Georgetown, Ontario, lawyer who heads the national women's organization of the Progressive Conservative party, carries a famous Conservative name into the present political campaign. Miss Bennett, 49, a distant relative of the late Viscount Bennett, prime minister from 1930-35, is making her first campaign in the 1949 general election in her home constituency or Halton she lost to the Liberal candidate by about 1,500 votes. For this year's election she got an early start with a nomination last summer, and since then has made a door-to-door canvass throughout the riding. (CP Photo.)

Blue Jeans, Stove-pipe Trousers Invading Wardrobe of Women

By MUREL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—Blue jeans and stove-pipe trousers are invading the wardrobes of British women leaving on summer vacations—and the fashion designers are already unveiling the sports clothes for the still-months away winter season.

Whether seaside mountain or lake is the chosen destination, one thing sure to figure largely in the wardrobe is the beach suit, consisting of shorts, "bra" and matching blouse, and, perhaps, one of the new shorts coats.

Slacks and, to a large extent except for beach wear and sun bathing, shorts are quite out of date this year. Their place, already usurped by blue jeans last year, has been taken this year by stove-pipe trousers.

And, looking ahead, that goes for the winter, too. The latest ski suits now being designed for next winter have a strong influence on Miss 1953's craze for the stove-pipe trousers.

Matador Trousers

A variation of this style, for wear at the smartest resorts, winter or summer, is seen in matador trousers—close-fitting and embroidered with gold or silver braids of damanie—or a combination of all of them—round the waist and down the outside of the legs.

One striking suit, designed for after-ski wear by Teddy Tinling, designer of tennis star Gussie Moran's famous lace panties, is in brilliant yellow and embroidered with white straw and diamanie.

A beach suit features an all-black wool jersey two-piece, "laced" together at the waist with a black cord. Secured by Rizla, the upper part consists of a short-sleeved sweater and the lower part is a pair of rather short, close-fitting jeans.

A full straw skirt made on a model imported from Italy can be worn with a beach suit, concertina-ing it into a dress for street wear, restaurant-going or even for an informal cocktail party.

Popular Shortie Coat

A variation of the converted beach suit is a short, full-length coat which reaches to just below the thighs and is worn with shorts or just ordinary mattress ticking.

Both of these materials are widely used for afternoon and cocktail dresses and one of the smartest cluster cocktail sets at Ascot race meet was made of blue striped mattress ticking, shower - proofed and fastened with large red buttons.

For the chilly evening by the sea or aboard ship, a practical and at the same time smart sweater has a ribbed sleeve from the wrist to within about two inches of the elbow, giving the effect of the fashionable just-below-the-elbow sleeve while providing the required warmth.

SHOW AUTOMATIC DEVICES

OSLO (CP)—A large exhibition demonstrating advantages of automatic devices in industry was held here recently. Called "automatica," the show featured all kinds of automatic production controls, safety devices and business machines.

SHOOTS HIMSELF

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A Congressman shot himself in the House of Deputies, witnesses said and is in grave condition. He is Deputy Plinio Gaya who is reported to suffer from cancer. Witnesses said he shot himself in the house antechamber in front of a group of other Congressmen.

Cherries-Canned, Frozen and Jammed

By Mary Moore

Some of you are up to your elbows in cherries. One girl writes saying that "pickers are coming today and I've been watching for your method for canning and freezing cherries all this week. Please send to my home."

I'll give you the various methods of processing cherries in the order in which the D.O.S. calls to save come.

Canned Cherries

Syrups to use: For sweet cherries thin: 1 cup sugar to each 3 cups boiling water. For sour cherries medium or medium-thin 1 cup sugar to 1 cup water or 1 cup sugar to 1 1-2 cups water.

Cold Pack: Wash cherries before stemming them, then stem and pit. (It is not essential to pit cherries.) Pack into hot sterile jars. Cover with boiling hot syrup (cold water also), leaving 1-2-inch headspace. Put on new sterile rubbers, tops, and seal to within 1-8 turn of tight. With spring-top sealers are used do not spring down the lower ball. Process in boiling water bath—pints 20 minutes, quarts 25 minutes. If processed in oven temperature should be 275 deg. Fahr.—30 minutes for pints, 35 minutes for quarts. If processed in pressure cooker, have 1 inch water in bottom. Stand jars on rack. Adjust lid securely. Keep petcock open until steam is escaping audibly. Close petcock. Bring pressure to 5 lbs. and pressure-cook 5 minutes.

Fast Frozen Cherries

Sweet—Select fresh, large, firm cherries of uniform ripeness and color. Cherries should be as ripe as possible without being overripe. Wash, stem and pit (if pits are left in they give a pronounced almond-like flavor.) Ascorbic acid is used to retain red color. Buy ascorbic acid in tablet or powder form from drug store. Allow 1-4 teaspoon to every 3 pints fruit. Crush tablets to measure them, then dissolve in 2 tablespoons water and stir this through 3 pints of fruit. Now make 40 per cent sugar syrup by mixing 3 1-4 cups sugar with 2 cups water, boiling until dissolved and chilling. Syrup should be made and chilled before fast freezing preparation is begun. Pour syrup over prepared cherries. Place prepared cherries in liquid-tight containers filling firmly but do not crush. Add chilled syrup to cover the topmost fruit. Seal containers and freeze at once.

Sour—Wash, stem and pit. Coat with ascorbic acid solution (see above). They are usually dry-packed using 1 part dry sugar to each 4 parts fruit by weight.

Cherry Jam

Wash, stem and pit sour cherries. Weigh 2 1-2 lbs. and mash these with potato masher. Add 1-2 cup water and bring slowly to boil, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Add 7 1-2 cups sugar and 1-4 teaspoon almond extract. Bring to hard boil for 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add 1 bottle liquid pectin and stir for 5 minutes with sterile spoon. Pour into sterile jam glasses, covering at once with new hot paraffin, add second coat when cold.

Sugarless Dark Cherry Jam

(This is a favorite with the diabetic patients.)

One quart dark sweet cherries, 3 tablespoons gravel, 2 1-2 teaspoons cerlo crystals, 2 1-2-grain saccharin tablets or 4 saccharin tablets, dissolved in 1 teaspoon boiled and slightly cooled water. Wash cherries well and pit them with hand pitter and mash them with potato masher in saucepan. Simmer over low heat, to boil off excess juice, for about 20 minutes, then add all remaining ingredients except saccharin or sucaryl. Boil 3 minutes, stirring, remove from heat, stir in sweetener, then pour into small sterile jars and seal. Sugarless jams should be sealed in sealers not with paraffin.

Sugarless Canned Cherries

Use sweet or sour cherries. Prepare exactly as for canned cherries (see above) but omit sugar. Boiling water only is used to pour over fruit. Keeping quality of canned fruit does not depend on its sugar content—but on sufficient and sterile processing and air-tight containers. Observe all sterilizing directions. Do not worry if fruit is not quite as colorful—for some packing sometimes "bleaches" out the color:

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Titled Life Is One Long, Bitter Quarrel—Is "Love" Such a Boon After All?

One day last week, in this column, I tried to tell an inquiring teen-ager something about the texture of true love.

What I said, in effect, was that if two people are really in love, they trust each other; they have the same basic principles of right and wrong, and the same moral standards of what is and what is not. I said that they are companionable; that they have common interests and like the same sort of friends, and I said that they are tolerant and patient with each other's faults, and do not try to make each other over.

Now I have just heard from a married woman with three children, who apparently is no better informed on the subject of love than the teen-ager. For though her married life is one long bitter quarrel, in which she and her husband repeatedly accuse each other of infidelity and devote themselves to thinking up ways in which they can hurt each other, she believes they may still be in love, and wants to know what I think. It seems incredible that anyone could ask such a question under such circumstances, but here is the evidence:

"My husband and I are always fighting, and always trying to get even with one another for things each has done or said. When he does something to hurt me, I just have to hurt him back, even though I love him, and he does the same, even though he says he loves me and I believe him.

"I don't think we trust one another. For example, though I have never known that my husband has two-timed me, and even though I believe he is telling the truth when he says he hasn't, still, when he wants to go to town by himself, I think he is going some place where he shouldn't. Then it turns out that he really did go where he told me he was going.

'Love Is Kind'

"We have talked about getting a divorce, but when I say he has got to give me money to bring up our three children, he always says he won't do it, because how does he know they are his children. I tell him I can prove it by the doctor, and he says doctors could lie, or that they wouldn't even know. I get so mad when he talks this way that I could kill him, because the things he says are lies.

"What do you think—do we love each other, or not?"

It would be very dangerous, and perhaps unfair, arbitrarily to tell this woman that she and her husband do not love each other. But I certainly cannot see how it would be possible for anyone to tell her anything else. Not once in her letter does she suggest that they ever have any happy moments together. On the contrary, everything she does say indicates that their relationship is diametrically opposed to the kind of relationship I had in mind in answering the teen-ager mentioned in the beginning.

All I can say is that if this wife really believes, as she says she believes, that she loves her husband and her husband loves her, then the spark of love that is still burning is all but smothered under the debris of antagonism, suspicion and resentment piled upon it. I would say, further, that the only thing for both of them to do would be to seek the help of some marriage counselor near them, who, by inquiring into their life together in detail, could first make sure whether or not such a spark is still actually alive and, if so, could show them, if they really wished to be shown, how to fan it into the steady flame of real love again.

POOR CATCH

GRINDSTONE, Que. (CP)—Fishing to date has been poor this year, Magdalen Island fishermen report. The mackerel yield has been only 1,000 barrels, compared to the average of between 10,000 and 13,000 barrels.

GOOD MANNERS

Your Vacation Voice

What a charming voice she has!" . . . "She has 'a delightful voice. It's a joy to hear her speak." . . . The first thing I noticed about her was her lovely, soft voice; then I knew I'd like to know her." I hope, I hope, that such an "enthusiastic and admiring comment is made about your voice by your co-vacationists. For a soft, appealing voice . . . "music to the heart" . . . is not only a precious possession to you, but a joyous and refreshing experience to everyone you meet.

True it is that vacation relaxation has a way of revealing itself in our voices . . . for better or for worse. "For better" when into the vacation-spots come contented people who naturally have a pleasing voice, or who wisely have made it their pleasant business to acquire a pleasing voice.

But, alas, "for worse" when we listen to the uncontrolled voices of those who consider that they cannot, simply cannot, have a good time unless they talk loud or even shout. While ordinarily these people might speak in at least a fairly modulated voice, in vacation time, relaxed-time, they are too apt to talk too loud, to shout. When ordinarily they would laugh, in vacation-time, relaxed-time, they guffaw.

And true it is too that the people who feel that they must scream and guffaw in order to have a good time . . . particularly on a beach . . . are generally the ones who have the dull habit of constantly repeating, over and over, perhaps even worse only one or two) of current, or worn-out slang words phrases. Apparently they feel that these words and phrases ("O.K." is the greatest-under) I repeated enough, form a devastatingly witty background for conversation. This is really no way to make a good impression. Please take along with you on your vacation a pleasant voice, a pleasing voice, a voice that truly reveals charming things about you!

She Should Have Given The Page Boy a Tip

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last evening I had a date to go to the movies with a boy friend of mine. Since he had a business appointment before our date, he was not positive that he could arrive on time, so we decided to meet in the lobby of the hotel a few doors from the movie. I had waited a few minutes when I was paged and my friend was telephoning me to say he would be fifteen minutes late. When he arrived, he explained his tardiness, and then said, 'Oh, I must give you the tip for the page boy. How much was it?' Was my face red! I didn't know that I should have tipped the page boy. My friend tactfully dropped the subject when he saw my embarrassment. Now, Mrs. Beekman, should I have given the page boy a tip, and if so, how much?

Rosette

Yes, you should tip the page boy who summons you to the telephone . . . ten or fifteen cents. (The tip usually is a quarter in a large hotel where the boy has to page several public rooms, perhaps two dining-rooms and several corridors.) !

Women's Institute

BAY OF QUINTE W.I.

The Bay of Quinte Institute held its July meeting on the 8th at the home of Mrs. Yeteman.

It was Historical Research night, and the convener was Mrs. R. Bonisteel. The topic was "Trenton's Centennial" on which a paper was read by Mrs. Glen Stickle. Mrs. Casey Ketcheson gave a paper on the editorial page in the Courier Advocate on Trenton 100 years from now.

The attendance was not large on account of sickness and it being such a busy time on the farm but everyone enjoyed it.

It was decided that the executive and conveners were to attend the conference of "The Associated Women of the World", held in Toronto at the Maple Leaf Gardens in August, and the tickets left over will be drawn for by the other members who wish to go. It is impossible for all members of Institutes in Canada to go as there will not be enough room; for Institutes are coming from all over the world, so each Institute has been given a number of tickets depending on the number of members in that Institute.

The next meeting will be held in the form of a picnic.

Two contests were held, and won by Mrs. Albert Yateman.

Refreshments were served by the conveners and Mrs. Ross under tons of debris.

Stickle thanked Mrs. Yateman for the use of her home for the enjoyable evening.

SIX WORKMEN KILLED

MONCALVO, Italy (AP)—A new warehouse in this north Italian village collapsed today, killing six workmen and injuring three others. Another man is believed buried under tons of debris.

Women's Activities

EGGLETON W.M.S.-W.A.

Members of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A., and Mission Band met at the church on Thursday afternoon for the July meeting. The Mission Band, vice-president, Allan Reide, presided.

The Scripture lesson was read by Shirley Prest.

Grace Clarke sang a solo with Joanne Reide playing her accompaniment on the piano.

Readings were given by Thelma Prest, and Annamae Clarke.

The chapter, from the study book on "Africa" was given by Mrs. Maurice Clancy.

Meeting was closed by Mrs. Flichett.

Sandwiches, cookies, and candy were then enjoyed.

Women's Activities

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

The Woman's Association of Johnstown held their July meeting recently at the home of Mrs. John McEwen Sr., on Thursday afternoon, as the president, Mrs. E. Bush, was not able to be present until later, the vice-president, Mrs. Jack Ferguson, presided for the meeting.

Mrs. Maurice Mallory read the Scripture found in John 4-21. The lesson explanation was given by Mrs. Alva Meyers. Dues were paid, also the strawberry festival money.

Several short readings were given, "A Little Bit of Everything", by Mrs. John McEwen Jr., "Sunday Isickles", by Mrs. George Puttenham; a missionary story was read by Mrs. Earl Stickle, "Story of Mexico"; "Dominion Day" by Mrs. George McLean, "Toothless Myrtle", by Mrs. Ken Stickle, and "The Red Seal", by Mrs. Maurice Mallory.

The next meeting will be held at the church as it is now a busy month, (the month of threshing).

A contest was held and was won by Mrs. Ernest Bush.

Pearson Speaks As CBC Opens Service to Poland

MONTREAL (CP)—One of the surest ways to promote international friendship and understanding is to have a free exchange of views and ideas on all subjects.

This was the opinion expressed by External Affairs Minister Pearson in a recorded message for delivery at the inauguration of the CBC's international service shortwave broadcasts to Poland. The CBC now has foreign services in 16 languages, beamed from two 50,000 watt transmitters in Sackville, N. B.

In his message Mr. Pearson said: "One purpose of the Canadian broadcasts to Poland is to tell the Poles something about their fellow countrymen who have made for themselves a free and prosperous life in Canada and have made a valued contribution to our national life.

"At the same time, Canada will be broadcasting truthful, unbiased information about world events. Information which should help the Poles to maintain a true and undistorted perspective.

"We earnestly regret the existance of the Soviet-imposed barriers preventing the relationships which formerly existed between the people of Poland and the people of Canada and other Western countries.

"If these broadcasts succeed, even in a modest degree, in surmounting this barrier and re-establishing the contact between the peoples of Poland Canada, in reminding the Poles of the strong common tradition of Christianity and enlightenment which continues to link the Polish people to the free world . . . then they will have more than justified their existence."

Stoppage Ended

SARNIA (CP)—A two-day work stoppage that affected almost 2,000 construction workers on major industrial and commercial building projects ended at noon Friday when 150 members of the Electricians Union (AFL) withdrew their pickets.

Bruce Blackwell, business agent of the electricians, said a meeting with contractors had resulted in "enough encouragement that we decided to play ball and resume negotiations."

He said all the electricians would be back on their jobs on Monday and new meetings would likely be held with contractors.

Other construction workers took no part in the walkout, but respected the picket lines formed by the electricians.

JOHNSTOWN

JOHNSTOWN.— Mr. and Mrs. Hoskins and Darwin, of Winnipeg, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Slingerland were Wednesday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harry, all motored to Brighton to call on Mr. and Mrs. Harry's daughter, Mrs. Don Sharpe and Mr. Sharpe.

The Hastings County Farmers and Junior Institute held an executive meeting at Stirling Hall on Monday evening.

Johnstown and Stockdale held a ball game on Thursday evening with Johnstown making the highest score.

"Wedding of Year" in Norfolk Stars U.S. Couple

The little Norfolk seaside resort of Hunstanton, Eng., had its own wedding-of-the-year recently with two Americans in the "starring role." The bridegroom was Reis Leming, U.S. Air Force corporal, who was hailed as hero of the flood which devastated the community and many parts of Britain last February. The bride was Mary Joan Ramsay, 21, Leming's childhood sweetheart, who came to England at the request of community which wanted to see them married. The young couple, greeted above by townsfolk who turned out to see them married in a small Catholic church at Hunstanton, will honeymoon at Ayr, Scotland, and will live in Hunstanton, until they return to the U.S. next year. Cpl. Leming was given the George Medal for bravery because of his rescue work during the floods. — Central Press Canadian.

INDUSTRIALIST DIES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ronald Lorraine Cliff, a native of St. Mary's, Ont., who became one of British Columbia's most successful business men, died in hospital Friday. He was 71. Mr. Cliff sold lumber interests to the Powell River Company in 1950, and previously disposed of a milk condensing business to the Borden Company. He was president of Western Canada Steel and its associated companies.

One of Two Fugitives Caught in Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—Police Friday apprehended Wally Piche 38, one of two prisoners who escaped earlier in the day from a work gang at Stony Mountain penitentiary.

Piche was caught in a stone quarry not far from the prison, about 15 miles northwest of Winnipeg police said the other escapee, James Monbourquette, 25, a recent arrival from the St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary Montreal, is thought to be hiding at a nearby dump.

SHORT-LIVED WALKOUT

OSHAWA (CP)—Some 500 workers staged a surprise walkout at the Dupiate Company plant here Friday and crippled production at the General Motors feeder plant for nearly two hours. The men were reported to have walked off the job in protest against a breach of grievance procedure. J. Reid, plant manager, said the walkout was unexpected, but claimed the matter was settled and normal production resumed.

37 Lodges in Centre Hastings Fly Banners at Tweed Walk

TWEED (Staff) — Traditionally Orange Centre Hastings converged on this mid-county village on Saturday with an estimated 4,000 taking part in and watching the first "Glorious Twelfth" here held in twenty years.

The shrill of the fife and the rataplan of bass and kettle drums interspersed with the plbroch of the bagpipe echoed in the streets and on the fair grounds as thirty-seven lodges of the district paraded in colorful panorama behind gay banners.

Themed-bedied "King William" garbed in scarlet tunics and mounted on the time-honored white horses, punctuated the long parade with County Marshal Geo. Moffitt of Marmora, at the head. Other marshals were Duncan Gilmour, Moneymore; Wilfrid Phillips, Madoc, and Albert McTaggart, Tweed.

L.O.L. Sulphide, 1203, was the host lodge and many tributes were paid its members and Worshipful Master Nelson Howard for the fine organization resulting in the success of the "Walk."

Weatherman Favors Orangemen

The weatherman favored the Orangemen. Brilliant sunny weather prevailed all morning as the lodges gathered with over 1,000 sitting down to dinner in the community park at noon. The sun shone down on the colorful scene during the parade and addresses in the afternoon. But scarcely had the voice of the last speaker faded away when the deluging rain swept over the village. The day's festivities ended with a dance.

Several speakers addressed the crowd following the parade. The Rev. F. C. Beazer, Carrying Place, scheduled as the guest speaker, was unable to be present. The speakers included, beside County Marshal Moffitt, W. E. Tummon, former member of parliament; Reeve Clarence Graham, of Tweed; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., Hastings West, the Rev. W. Pace, Tweed United Church; Archie Sinclair; ex-county warden Harry Coulter; Mr. A. MacMurray, Albert College; Harold Varty and Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative candidate for Hastings South.

Formed at Grounds

The colorful parade formed up in the fair grounds shortly after one o'clock and moved out to the village where crowd-filled streets greeted the procession. While the greater majority of the bands "walked," a few were mounted in decorated trucks.

An outstanding feature of the parade was the uniforms of the L.O.B.A. and junior lodges. Garbed in white dresses and varicolored hats or berets and carrying parasols of different shades, the ladies drew rounds of applause from the crowd. It was mentioned by one or more speakers that the men's lodges could take a page from the book of the ladies as far as uniforms and colorful paraphernalia were concerned.

Selby Lodge, 2231, headed the parade behind County Marshal Moffitt, followed by the Napanee Lodges, J.O.L., 289, and L.O.B.A., 235. Then came Maribank, 2285; Lime Lake, 1115; Marmora, J.O.L., 34; Marmora, 319; Harmony, 600; Stirling Lodge, LOBA, 635; Stirling L.O.L., 119; District Master Centre Hastings G. Welcomes Visiting Lodges

County Marshal Howard in the opening address welcomed the visiting lodges and expressed his appreciation of the large turnout with special mention of the ladies lodges. He urged regular church attendance, saying the Orange Order is closely linked with the Bible and the church.

Reeve Clarence Graham extended the official welcome of the village in a brief address. He paid tribute to Sulphide Lodge, the host organization, for its efforts in bringing the colorful "Walk" to Tweed for the first time in two decades.

Archie Sinclair, L.O.L., Tweed, urged the assemblage to remember what the "Twelfth" stands for. The Orange Order, he said, was founded on the word of God, one that will stand forever. No other organization is more closely connected with the church than the order. Canadians, he said, should thank God they live in a country where freedom lives under one flag, the Union Jack.

The Rev. W. Pace, Tweed, said that "building of bridges" in all walks of life was the key to success. Religion, he added, was the bridge by which people can aid their fellow man through love. Fraternal organizations bridge the gulf between nations. He said unless people make God the cornerstone of civilization the churches and the Orange Order will be lost.

Mr. Harold Varty, Tweed, hoped another twenty years would not go by before the "Twelfth" was celebrated in Tweed. He suggested that the Order pay for a scholarship of a student of the Christian ministry and also suggested that the "Twelfth" be held on the Saturday nearest the date in future so that many members who have a five-day week could attend.

Special Tribute Paid

Special tribute was paid to the LOBA lodges and their smart appearance by Mr. W. E. Tummon, Foxboro, former member of parliament. "The day seems to have gone when the men took pride in their appearance. The ladies today have shown the way the Orange Lodge should be turned out."

Mr. Tummon reviewed the history and origin of the Orange Order. "Many of Wellington's soldiers at Waterloo were Orangemen," he said, "and a number of these later migrated to Canada where they helped organize the order here."

"We are living in peculiar times," Mr. Tummon said, "which somehow remind us of the days of the Romans when they tossed the Christians to the lions. Some 12,000 ministers of the gospel have been liquidated behind the Iron Curtain."

"The Orange Order has sworn to maintain religion and the churches and there never was a time when that declaration should be maintained than the present.

"Orangemen," Mr. Tummon said, "who do not live up to this [illegible] their obligations."

Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., told the assemblage that he was impressed with the stand taken by President Dwight Eisenhower when he "fired" one of his aides for his statement regarding 5,000 Protestant ministers being connected with Communism." He commended Tweed for having such outstanding Orangemen as Mr. Sinclair and stated he had always been very proud of the Orange Order.

Mr. MacMurray, of Albert College, a dynamic speaker, said he would like to take advantage of the suggestion that a student of the ministry be subsidized by a scholarship. He visualized the "Twelfth" celebration being held in Belfast, Ireland.

He stated that it was his firm belief that Jesus Christ would come again. "He has pledged His Word and will keep it."

Power from Atomic Energy Is Economical Possibility For Canada Says Engineer

OTTAWA (CP) — Power from atomic energy is an economical possibility in Canada, says a member of the chemistry and engineering division of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., at Chalk River, Ont.

Not only that, adds J. N. MacKay, but Canada "soon should be in an excellent position to carry out its development."

Writing in Professional Public Service, published monthly by the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, Mr. MacKay says present-day reactors cost a lot of money but the price can be brought down with suitable development. The new reactor at Chalk River probably will cost $30,000,000.

"The definite requirements for atomic power could be developed in five years with a full-scale effort, costs might be comparable to steam power.

Could Reduce Cost

"Taking various factors into consideration, it seems reasonable to assume that an atomic-powered steam generating station producing 300,000 kilowatts of heat could be designed and built for years from now for $20,000,000."

Total capital cost for such a project would mean the equivalent of $200 a kilowatt compared to $375 for hydro-electric facilities in Ontario and $160 for modern steam plants in the United States.

"Development based on these figures, no one is going to build atomic power stations if hydro power, with no fuel costs, is available. However, the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario will have nearly run out of useful hydro sites when the Chalk River power development is completed, at which time there will be a demand for just about equal the new supply. Their new steam stations, designed at peak load stations, are soon expected to carry a good deal of the base load, so at least competition with steam and not hydro power should be considered."

Economic Situation Fluid

Mr. MacKay says it's reasonable to assume that the years ahead more rich deposits of uranium will probably be found in Canada. If not, means will have to be found to work the lower-grade deposits to compete with the steadily rising costs of coal. Steam power plants predict a feel of one kind or another.

"It should be borne in mind that the demand for power is expected to exceed the possible supply in this continent some time between 2975 and 3000, unless entirely new sources of power are developed."

DE VALERA AIDE PASSES

DUBLIN (AP)—Frank Fahy, a long-time speaker of the Irish Republic's Dail (parliament), died Sunday. He was 75. Fahy was a member of Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's ruling Fianna Fail party. His death reduces the overall majority held in the Dail by de Valera to one.

Royal Romance Rumor Aired In Sunday Papers

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's mass - circulation Sunday newspapers have re-opened the controversy over the rumored romance of Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said court, ecclesiastical and political circles are studying the constitutional issues that would arise if the Princess and the divorced air ace married.

Townsend, former equerry to the Queen, takes up his appointment as air attache in Brussels on Wednesday, two days before the Princess and the Queen Mother are due to return from a tour in Africa.

The Express said it is believed that senior ministers would be opposed to a marriage because of political difficulties which would arise; the Church of England would be equally opposed due to the church's attitude to the remarriage of divorced people; and court officials are hoping that the Princess would not seek to contract a controversial marriage.

In a front-page feature article, The People (Labor) said it now is clear that the group captain is being exiled.

The People, commenting on Townsend's new post, said "it would have been difficult for officialdom to have found one more unsuitable for a man of his abilities—and one more calculated to humiliate him." As there is little air activity in Belgium, his job would be a dull, routine sinecure, the newspaper said.

Australian Sunday newspapers also developed column by speculation and gossip from London Princess Margaret's rumored romance.

The Sydney Sun Herald quoted a Buckingham Palace spokesman as telling its correspondent that the reported romance with Townsend was "a nonsensical story with no truth whatsoever."

Border Remains Closed to Cattle, Hogs from Alberta

OTTAWA (CP)—An agriculture department spokesman said today the department has not yet completed a diagnosis of a shipment of Alberta cattle and hogs that was refused entry to the United States.

The 396 swine and 41 cattle were held up at New Westminster, B.C., last week when some animals were found suffering from a foot condition. They are being examined for vesicular exanthema, a contagious disease.

The department official said it is not known when the diagnosis will be completed. It is being conducted by the department's health of animals branch and animal diseases research institute.

Work on A-Gun

LONDON (Reuters) — The News Chronicle says today British navy scientists are working on an atomic gun for warships.

Great progress has been made with the difficult initial problems of mounting such a weapon aboard a ship, the paper says.

The scientists are trying for a range in England for the Fulcombined Conference. More than 50 British university professors and lecturers are attending the first session of the conference which lasts until July 30. The second session will begin Aug. 2.

Western Powers Confronted With Intensified Indo-China War as Korean Conflict Eases

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western powers are confronted with the prospect of intensified war in Indo-China as the conflict in Korea slacks off toward a probable armistice.

This fact stood out today as foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France neared conclusion of Washington talks. Final discussion and firm decisions, if any, were still to be made on such diverse issues as Soviet policy, possible Big Three and Big Four conferences, and Far Eastern problems.

The three were scheduled to resume full sessions this morning. The closing meetings will be held Tuesday. More two-way talks between the U.S. and France and the U.S. and Britain are also set for today and Tuesday.

Sharp Increase

At one such meeting Sunday at the home of Secretary of State Dulles, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault told Dulles there has been a sharp increase in the amount of supplies being received by Communist forces in Indo-China from Red China, beginning about three months ago.

U.S. officials noted that this timing coincided roughly with resumption of serious efforts for a truce in Korea.

At the same time, Bidault laid before Dulles, with scope, a increased U.S. assistance, a plan developed by the French commander, Gen. Henri Navarre, for going on the offensive against the Communists in Indo-China.

Informants had the impression that if the French carry it out they may expect favorable U.S. consideration of requests for more dollar aid.

The meeting between Dulles and Bidault followed a similar session Dulles had Saturday with the senior British foreign minister, the Marquess of Salisbury. Lord Salisbury had a sore throat Sunday but aides said he would be on hand for today's discussions.

DUKEDOM FOR CHURCHILL

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—The Sydney Sunday Telegraph says in a story from London the Queen has offered a dukedom to Sir Winston Churchill—it is "becoming increasingly obvious Sir Winston must retire soon." The newspaper says one title under consideration is that of Duke of London.

FINDS ANCIENT RUINS

NAPLES (AP)—A leading Italian archeologist announced Sunday the discovery of ruins of an ancient Roman city, which he termed "the most important archeological discovery of Roman antiquity since Pompeii." Prof. Amedeo Maiuri said his workers uncovered the ruins at Bata, 11 miles northwest of Naples.

Burmese Govt. Say Red Troops Now in N. Burma

RANGOON (AP)—A government spokesman has acknowledged that Chinese Communist troops have filtered into North Burma from Yunnan. Intelligence sources reported Saturday that Communist soldiers had hoisted red flags over Burmese villages 25 miles from the border in Wa State.

"The Burmese government has been aware for the past three or four weeks of 'infiltration' of Red Chinese forces in the northern Wa State of Burma," the spokesman told reporters. He called the reports "fragmentary" and said the "government could not comment on the seriousness of the situation at this stage."

He conceded, nevertheless, that the whole matter is "delicate" and added that the government is "closely watching developments." He said he assumed diplomatic representations would be made, at the proper time.

The announced purpose of the Reds, intelligence informants here said, is to "protect" Burmese from the depredations of Chinese Nationalist guerrillas. The nationalists fled into Burma after the Communist victory in China.

(If finally confirmed, this would bear out fears voiced at the United Nations last April, when Burma appealed to the UN to get 12,000 Nationalist Chinese out of the country. The Burmese said they feared Peiping would use the presence of the Nationalists as an excuse to invade and take over all of Burma.)

Two Divisions Hit Allied Lines On Korean Front

SEOUL (AP)—Two Chinese Communist divisions—about 20,000 men—smashed against Allied lines on the Korean western front in the night, the U. S. 8th army announced today.

Details were lacking.

The 8th army said only that "heavy fighting" between seven of the Communist divisions were attacking between Saipen's ridge and the Pukhan river.

The pla ced the heavy new action between Kumhwa on the central front and Red-held Kumsong, a distance of about 13 miles.

Another four Communist battalions were attacking near the Pukhan river itself.

It was not known immediately whether the full front was in action. It is nearly 40 miles from Kumhwa to the upper Pukhan, scene of repeated heavy fighting in recent weeks.

The Red attack was launched at 9:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. EDST) and built up rapidly in size.

Two full Communist divisions total nearly 20,000 men and the four additional battalions attacking near the Pukhan river raise the count to possibly 24,000 men.

U. S. Sabre jet fighter-bombers and light bombers apparently delayed Red massing movements during daylight hours by bombing and strafing Chinese troops.

Sabre pilots Sunday scored their biggest MIG victory of July by shooting down seven of the Russian-made fighters.

On the ground, South Korean infantrymen, in a pre-dawn counter-attack, won back an outpost northwest of Finger ridge and scattered a company of Red troops who had held the east-central front position since Friday.

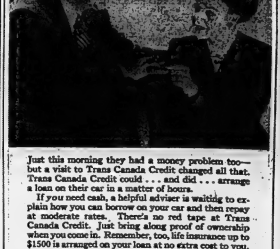
Bar Red China, East Germany, From Sugar Talks

LONDON (Reuters)—An international conference called to stabilize world sugar prices today refused to admit representatives of Communist China and East Germany to its deliberations.

A Russian proposal to admit Communist China was voted down 15 to 5 after the United States argued that membership in the United Nations was a prerequisite for participation.



A Polish proposal to admit East Germany was turned down 23 votes to 2 on the same grounds. The United States also contended East Germany was adequately represented by the Russian delegation.

The conference is aimed primarily at stabilizing prices on the international market on beet sugar, cane sugar and molasses.

It has been convened by the United Nations at the request of International Sugar Council which considers that a commodity agreement offers the best means of dealing with present world sugar market difficulties.

Soldiers to Vote Where Stationed Wives Where They are Residing

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's record peacetime armed forces, now serving in six foreign lands, may bring some delayed-action changes in the pattern of election results which include Aug. 10.

Every one of the 105,000 men and women in uniform—including the first 16-year-olds to vote legally since Confederation—will be entitled to vote wherever they are stationed.

But their ballots won't be added to the civilian totals in ridings of their choice until a week after election day because the counting of the ballots begins on the day after civilian polling day and will not be completed until the following Saturday.

Produced Upsets

Service votes have produced belated upsets before, notably in 1917 when 14 candidates elected by civilians were ousted by men in uniform and in 1945 when the then Prime Minister Mackenzie King was rejected in Prince Albert after seemingly being elected.

This year the numbers in uniform are 7,000 stronger than in wartime 1940, so it is quite conceivable that some close ridings will be affected by the soldier vote.

Along with the forces in this delayed poll will be roughly 8,000 war veterans still in hospital and an unknown number of reserve-force personnel taking summer training away from home.

The system under which the forces will cast their ballots in Korea, Japan, France, Britain, Germany and Belgium as well as in military bases in Canada is basically the same as that which came into use in 1940 and was later used in the 1942 conscription plebiscite and in the 1945 and 1949 general elections.

But there are a number of differences between the 1949 and 1953 elections. For one thing, probably three times as many people in uniform will be entitled to vote this time. There are 40,000 regular troops in 1949 but only those 21 years of age and older could vote—unless any of those under 21 had been in the forces in 1945, a tiny category.

All Are Eligible

Now, since the regular forces were placed on active service in September, 1950, every member is entitled to vote regardless of age. This even goes for some hundreds of 16-year-old apprentices in the army and navy.

For the first time, election officials will have a list showing the accepted home address and constituency for each man and woman in uniform before June 21, 1953, a cut-off date accepted by Parliament. Those enrolled before then have three choices.

They can vote in the constituency they lived in before enlisting or in the constituency where their ordinary home is located or in the constituency where their wife or next-of-kin lives. But the choice is put down in writing before the election and is binding.

This system was devised to avoid repetition of the 1949 situation in Annapolis-Kings when the service vote upset a civilian victory for George Nowlan, Progressive Conservative. Mr. Nowlan protested and investigation showed that a considerable number of servicemen stationed in the riding wrongly had voted in that riding instead of for their home ridings. Mr. Nowlan won on a recvote.

In 1949 there were no lists such as there now are. Each man was put on his Soucr to say where his normal place of residence was. He had had a period of some months to change it if he wished.

The second category this time embraces the men who have enlisted since June 21, 1952. Their ballots will count in the ridings they lived in at the time of enlistment.

How Wives Vote

Like any other civilians, the wives of servicemen will vote in the riding where they reside. Thus it will be quite possible for a soldier to have his ballot count in one riding, his wife's in another.

Another big change is that Canada now has roughly 20,000 men abroad or at sea compared to a handful in 1945. Two special voting territories are being established to take care of them, one for Europe with headquarters in London, one for the Far East with headquarters in Kure, Japan.

The same three territories as in 1949 will exist in Canada, the west and north with headquarters in Edmonton; Ontario and Quebec with headquarters in Ottawa and the four Atlantic provinces with headquarters in Halifax.

In each of these territories there are a special civilian returning officer and a chief assistant and six civilian scrutineers named by the political parties. A military liaison officer will work with them and each unit will have its own military deputy returning officer who, for the first time, can be of rank lower than a commissioned officer.

Voting will extend during the full week preceding election day. The serviceman, unlike the civilian will be able to peruse a list of candidates in his riding which includes their political affiliations. Elaborate precautions will be taken to see that the secrecy of the ballot is maintained.

Special Precautions

The soldier's ballot goes into an unidentified small envelope, then is put in a large envelope bearing his name, his riding and his address. These two sealed envelopes are sent, one inside the other, to the special returning officer of the voting area in which the soldier is serving.

On And. 11 in London, Kure and the three territorial voting headquarters in Canada the sealed envelopes are to be separated according to ridings by the civilian scrutineers and the small unidentified envelopes then are put in the ballot boxes. Once all envelopes for a riding are put in the ballot box for that riding, the box is opened and the ballots counted.

The totals for each riding are forwarded to electoral headquarters here and from there the ridings themselves are informed of the total military result affecting them.

As for men in ships at sea and in remote northern outposts and the like, their ballots will get into these five regional headquarters too, even if they have to be flown. Some probably will be flown. The ballots for one ship were flown from the Panama Canal in 1949.

Latest Epithets For Beria

LONDON (Reuters) — Lavrenty Beria, the man whose secret police imposed silence on the Soviet people for the last 15 years, has been the target of the latest flood of invective from all Soviet newspapers and spectaculars since his arrest was announced Friday.

In addition to the usual routine name-calling, some of the latest epithets are:

Ideological Judas
Degenerate renegade
Foul Back-stabber
The thrice damned
Rotten human splinter
Despicable bandit
Base rogue
Contemptible villain
Bourgeois adventurer
Arrogant careerist
New Tito
Restorer of capitalism
Apostate and traitor
International imperialist agent
In addition, the frequent term "enemy of the people" has been embellished by the adjectives:
Impudent, accursed, mortal, infamous, petty, monstrous, glaring, vile and criminal.

No Major Change In Soviet Policy Seen by Viennese

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—Four week-end developments have convinced Western experts here that Lavrenty Beria's downfall means no change in the major outlines of Soviet policy. The Reds, they say, will keep up their present "soft" approach to the enslaved satellites and the West, but their long-range aim still is to weaken and then destroy the West.

Vienna diplomats, described by recent visitor Adlai Stevenson, U.S. 1952 presidential candidate, as some of the best-informed experts outside Russia, said Beria's arrest is important, but that it is only one move in a far more significant and dangerous Kremlin game.

Part of Plan

"The new Russian rulers are still out to win the world," said one high-ranking Western observer. "The soft-kick is a temporary attempt to deceive two groups of people, the Western powers and the enslaved masses, of communism. Beria's arrest is part of this plan.

"When the time is ripe, Russia can and will throw it all overboard and the West had better watch out."

No Change in Policy

Meanwhile, these experts said, these developments show there will be no change in the policy of trying to win friends by niceness:

1. Hungary's communist leader former premier Matyras Rakosi, announced Saturday night that there is to be no let-up in the new velvet glove policy toward Hungarian workers.

2. Moscow's communist party newspaper Pravda declared that Beria had obstructed agricultural plans designed to improve the food situation and had failed to remedy legal injustices.

3. The Soviets ended martial law in East Berlin.

4. Communist Bulgaria agreed with Yugoslavia to set up a mixed commission to investigate border incidents.

Allowed Arrest

All these developments occurred after announcement of Beria's arrest. Between the time of his seizure, supposedly June 27, and the announcement, the Ukrainian communist party announced a major short-term program for raising living standards.

None of these events, diplomats here believe, would have taken place had Russian Premier Georgi Malenkov plans for a revision of the new tactics that followed Stalin's death.

Diplomats here believe Beria's arrest does show signs of a basic struggle for power in the Kremlin. But, like other one-time Russian powers, he now is apparently being used as a scapegoat for all the errors and ruthlessness of the

Nominations Made Monday In 21 Ridings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first of two official nomination days for the Aug. 10 federal election came up today.

In 21 of the 263 constituencies, candidates had until 2 p. m., local standard time, to file their official papers and post their $200 deposits to be sure of having their names on the ballots for voting four weeks from now.

Today's nominations were in the large scattered constituencies where distribution of ballots to deputy returning officers will be a slow process.

Nominations in the other 242 constituencies will take place two weeks from today, Monday, July 27—two weeks before the vote.

An unofficial compilation by The Canadian Press of nominations at constituency party conventions showed 55 candidates likely to be in the field in the 21 seats—30 Liberals, 13 Progressive Conservatives, 11 CCF, seven Labor-Progressives and three Social Credit.

More were expected to enter the fight before official closing time.

Five of the constituencies are in Newfoundland. One is Bonavista-Twillingate where J. W. Pickersgill, former clerk of the Privy Council appointed to the cabinet last month, is running as a Liberal. The seat was held in the last House by Gordon F. Bradley, whom Mr. Pickersgill succeeded as secretary of state.

One of three Ontario constituencies is Port Arthur where Trade Minister Howe is seeking his fifth term. He has held the seat for the Liberals since 1934.

Two other constituencies are in Quebec, one in Manitoba, three in Saskatchewan, three in Alberta, two in British Columbia, the single Yukon seat and the new Mackenzie River riding in the Northwest Territories.

Privy Council Still to Hear Several Cases

LONDON (CP) — Canada's connection with the judicial committee of Britain's Privy Council is the same situation as the song which had ended but whose melody lingered on.

Canada cut off civil judicial appeals to the Privy Council in 1949, establishing that the Supreme Court of Canada henceforth would serve as the final appeal.

The Privy Council however, still hears about eight or more Canadian appeals a year, under the decision that cases in process prior to January, 1949, could be taken to the Privy Council for appeal purposes, if necessary.

No one knows or will estimate the number of Canadian cases still to be heard. Officials of the administrative part of the council court know officially how many probably will be heard this year. They can only guess how many are to come.

So far this year, the privy council has disposed of five cases, granted leave to appeal in one ase and isscheduloiytrot cdem case and is scheduled to try to if possible.

Man Admits Setting Fire That Killed 15

WILLOWS, Calif. (CP)—A remorseful, depressed young man who had never been in trouble before confessed Sunday that he set a forest fire which killed 15 persons last week.

Stanford Patton, 26, told police he needed money to feed his pregnant wife and three children and set the blaze in the hope of getting a fire-fighting job.

But authorities who had known Patton for 20 years as a quiet youth were puzzled by his action. He was held in jail here pending charges.

Patton's admitted objective was accomplished when he went to work Friday as an assistant cook with the crews fighting the fire he had touched off.

The blaze appeared to be under control until it burst up a steep gulch, trapping 15 members of a fire-fighting party.

A BEAUTY!

"That," said "Buster" LaBarr, manager of the Quinte Hotel, Sunday afternoon as guests looked out in wide-eyed astonishment, "was about the best specimen of black bass I have ever seen."

Unfortunately, by the time this reporter arrived, the biggest smallmouth to come out of the Bay of Quinte had been filleted and nothing remained by the huge head, bony structure and the wide flaring tail.

It was the beauty caught by Ken Reid off the rocks near the bay bridge Sunday afternoon which tipped the scales at eight pounds four ounces. It was the biggest specimen we have seen since Ed. Riley, Lockport, New York, tavern-keeper, hauled "Old Black Josephine" out of the cool water of White Lake in Algonquin Park a few years ago. This old girl weighed eight pounds two ounces, soaking wet.

Reid, we were informed, had a red letter day with a three-dollar pole, hooks and a can of worms. Besides the eight-pound beauty he hauled in four or five smaller ones which averaged three pounds. Not a bad day, in any fisherman's life.

It seems too bad, Reid was a trifle hasty in having the big fish filleted. Riley won over $200 in cash prizes with his eight pounder for the biggest bass of the year, and it is a fairly safe prediction that nothing will be caught in the province that will beat Reid's beauty. Five will get you ten, it will be the prize weight in its class.

Mr. Reid should have had the fish photographed and entered in the various provincial angling contests. At it is, he can secure certificates of identification as to the weight of the fish, for George Butcher can vouch for the accuracy of the swirl-dupels since he superintended the weighing.

He took the fish to the police station where Sergeant Doug Ellis went near goggle-eyed when he saw in and thence to the Hotel Quinte where it was weighed and cut up.

Veteran fishermen of the city shook their heads when asked if they could remember a smallmouth that could equal or top Reid's fine specimen. Many recalled five and six-pounders hooked in the bay in this area but none that we talked with could remember an eight-pounder.

Mrs. George Butcher, of the Hotel Quinte staff, another witness of the day's big haul, also vouched for the weight. "It just goes to show," she said, "that a fish is not fussy what he eats when he's caught in the bay. He'll go for either a nice, juicy worm and an old-fashioned pole, while probably down the 'road' a bit were fellows with fifty-dollar casting outfits."

Anyway there it is. The bass measured by "Buster" LaBarr and this reporter, was 24 and a quarter inches in length, but due to the fact it was filleted, no girth measurement could be obtained. However, it is a mark for bass fishermen to shoot at, and this department is of the opinion the Bay of Quinte beauty will prove the record fish of its kind for the 1953 season. The provincial record is 9 pounds two ounces.

SOFTBALL!

Softball teams of the city and district revel off for league titles and OASA playdowns representation this week. Bobcan which were edged Saturday night 8-5 by Wooler in an exciting twelve-innings battle will meet Northern Electric for the Lahatt trophy. Glen Roy juniors draw an automatic entry to the OASA junior "A" playdowns in an effort to retain their title of All-Ontario champions won last year. Point Anne finished in first place in the league standing with the fine record of eleven victories and one defeat, that one suffered at the hands of the Glen Roys. CNR Diesels and Frankford will, in all probability, play a best-of-three series with the winner meeting Point Anne.

COMEBACK KID!

It happened at Pittsburgh's Forbes' Field, the day of the big trade. Ex-Pirate Clyde McCullough was walking past the bleachers when a fan called. "Hey, Clyde, when are the Cubs going to send you to the minors?" McCullough turned and addressed the heckler: "I spent four years in the minors right here in Pittsburgh," he replied. With that he doffed his cap in salute and continued on to the bullpen.

NOT INTERESTED!

Alben Barkley was telling of his visit to a Louisville book shop, where he noticed the proprietor trying to sell a lady a copy of "Kentucky Cardinal". The lady said that although proud of pride in her fellow Kentuckians was deep, she was not interested in reading about one who had become a St. Louis baseball star. "But this cardinal is a bird," said the dealer. The lady replied: "I'm not interested in his private life, either."

Braves Defeat Cards Twice As Phillies Plaster Pirates; Cleveland Drops Pair to Sox

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ask almost any National League manager what he thinks of Milwaukee Braves and he'll shake his head in wonder and tell you they should have folded long ago.

Yet since the Braves are just 1½ games behind the Brooks and creating more noise than a dead Indian should.

St. Louis Cardinals had a good opportunity to help burn Charley Grimm's tomahawk slingers Sunday but they succeeded only in digging a grave for themselves. The Braves won a doubleheader from the Cards 10-1 and 4-3 and knocked the Redbirds right into fourth place.

Philadelphia Phillies took over third place by whacking the helpless Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 and 6-5. In other games, the Dodgers turned back New York Giants 4-3, and Cincinnati Redlegs won two games from Chicago Cubs 7-4 and 7-3.

In the American League New York Yankees whipped Washington Senators 6-5, but saw their lead sliced to five games when Chicago White Sox mauled Cleveland Indians twice 14-2 and 9-1. Boston and Philadelphia split a doubleheader, the Red Sox winning the first 9-5 and losing the second 4-1. Detroit Tigers won the first game of their twin bill with St. Louis Browns 8-7 but the Browns came back to win 9-2, beating Ralph Branca in his American League debut.

The Braves made it easy for Johnny Antonelli to notch his eighth victory of the season in the first game by slugging five Cardinal pitchers for 15 hits, including a grand-slam home run by Ed Mathews.

The nightcap was a different story. The Cards scored three runs in the first inning but they had to be rescued by Bob Buhl, who held them scoreless the way while his mates were notching the winning and winning runs in the seventh.

The doubleheader enabled the Braves to shave a half-game off the Dodgers' lead. The Brooks snapped an eight-game winning streak for the Giants when they rallied in the 9th off relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm in the bottom of the 10th. Wilhelm passed Bobby Morgan to force in the winning run.

Robin Roberts hurled the Phillies to their first-game triumph for his 14th victory of the year, tops in the majors.

The Yanks had to win their game the hard way. They had a 5-3 margin going into the ninth, but Jackie Jensen hit a home run off reliever Bob Kuzava to shave the deficit to one run. That called for Allie Reynolds to take over the mound for the Yankees. He gave up a triple to Keith Thomas and game-tying fly to Gil Coan.

In the home half of the ninth, Gene Woodling singled Mickey Mantle home with the winning run. Yogi Berra hit two home runs for the Yanks.

Hamilton Whips St. Kitts 9-8

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tigers have taken on a new form in the senior Ontario Lacrosse Association League.

Tigers, who have been playing an on - again - off - again game throughout the season and who have never been near the top of the league, made a reversal in form Saturday night when they stopped leading St. Catharines Athletics 9-8.

Tigers, who have been playing four-goal rally the final six minutes of play. They had been behind 7-4 at three-quarter time. The addition of several players from the recently disbanded Brampton Excelsiors is helping Hamilton considerably.

In the only other game of the night Toronto-Orillia West Yorks defeated Peterborough Petes 15-13. The Terriers were behind 6-4 after the first quarter, 10-7 at the half and 12-11 going into the final stanza. They rallied for four goals in two minutes to win the victory.

Playing at St. Catharines, Tony Capula and Barney Welch led the Hamilton attack with two goals each. Singletons went to Al Dowday, Al Parsley, Bob Rankin, Doug Dr vidson and Jack Sibbald. Gerry Davies scored twice for St. Catharines with the other goals scored by Norm Corcoran, Al Frick, Jim Bradshaw and Max Woolley.

At Orillia, George Master was top marksman for the Yorks with four tallies. Other scorers were Tony Damico with three, Elmer Lee with two and Stu Scott, Leo Teatro, Ken Croft, Bruce Webster, Frank Facto and Steve Kapasky with one each.

Don Campbell with four goals, led for Fergus. Don Gear managed three while Jack Hill and Ron Landon each got two and Bob Dobbie and Bill Allum one each.

Galt Terriers Trim Elgins; Panthers Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The dogs came out of the doghouse Saturday night.

Galt Terriers, who haven't won too many senior intercounty baseball games this season, had the home fans cheering with their 13-7 win over St. Thomas Elgins. The victory came as a result of a 15-hit spree that included three home runs and 2 triple.

Big Jeep Jessup, who relieved starter Zeb Eaton in the third inning, held the Elgins to only two runs.

Bob Penney of London Majors pitched the only shutout in Saturday night's activity. He allowed five hits as third-place Majors trounced Waterloo Tigers 6-0.

In other games, sixth - place Guelph Maple Leafs downed leading Kitchener Panthers 7-3 by tapping a sixth-inning Panther rally. Second-place Brantford Red Sox recorded a 3-2 victory over Oshawa Merchants.

Galt went its game on home runs. In the sixth, Rightfielder Ed Sierla and third baseman Gerry Bushman homered to score three runs. In the eighth, shortstop Mike Ponarelli clouted a two-run man on for another two runs. Three Elgin hurlers fanned the Galt attack. Don Summers was charged with the loss.

London made the most of nine hits off three Waterloo hurlers. George Arias singled with the bases loaded to knock Marty Philp from the mound.

Johnny Clark came in and stopped the attack although it cost him one run. Philp was credited with the victory.

Brantford gained its three runs on three hits and an error in the third. Oshawa got two back in the fourth, but couldn't manage a rally for more.

Merchants used three pitchers, the loss being charged to starter Ted Stone. Southpaw Alf Gavey went all the way for the Red Sox.

Canadian Ladies Defeated By British Golfers

HOLLINGWELL, Eng. (Reuters) —England beat Canada four games to three with three halved in an international women's golf match on this Nottinghamshire course Sunday.

The foursomes ended all-square with one game each and one halved but the English women narrowly carried off the singles 3-2 with two halved.

In the foursome Miss Stewart and Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria lost 3 and 4 to Miss Frances Stephens and Miss A. Phillips. Miss Marg Gay of Waterloo, Ont., and Miss B. Davies of Victoria lost 3 and 1 to another English pair.

In the singles Miss Stewart was defeated one up by Miss Stephens. Miss Gay also lost one up to Mrs. R. E. Garrett.

Other members of Canada's team are Miss Dainty Chisholm of Montreal, Mrs. Graeme Pyke, Hudson Heights, Que., and Miss A. MacKenzie of Toronto.

Barrie Flyers Will Operate

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Hap Emms, coach of Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit, announced Sunday night that his team will represent Barrie again this season.

The announcement ended speculation that the Memorial Cup champions would fold and Emms coach another team.

The Flyers have been operating without a sponsor for the last two seasons, ever since a disagreement with Maple Leaf Gardens over Sunday hockey. Since Barrie is within a 50-mile radius of Toronto, the Maple Leaf hockey organization can control sponsorship here.

'Royal Serenade' Takes Rich Stake

The Irish five-year-old, owned by Albert Ranchers, came through to whip Calumet Farm's Fleet Bird. Calumet's Silly, A Gleam, was third.

Time for the mile - and - one quarter was 2.00 4-5, compared with the track record of 1.58 4-5 set by another Irish horse, Noor, in winning this same Gold Cup in 1950.

Royal Serenade, second choice in the betting to Royal Vale, paid $3.30, $3.10 and $3.10. The Calumet entry paid $3.50 to place and $3 to show.

Douglas Wins Canadian Open With Blazing 'Birdie' Finish; Defeats Ulrich by One Stroke

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Dave Douglas, a seasoned tournament player, got hot fly at the right time and did left a blazing trail of three straight down-to-the-wire birdies that gave him a 69 and a one-stroke victory over title and $2,000 first-place money. His medal every one of them.

The lanky 33-year-old shotmaster from Newark, Del., started the final 18 of the 72-hole medal play tournament over the Scarboro course four strokes off the pace, on whittled it with a three-under-par first-nine 33 and topped it with two birdies on the 16th, 17th and 18th for a brilliant five-under-par round of 67 and a total of 277. He won by one stroke over Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., whose sensational putter cost him the big money and the Seagram Gold Cup. Ulrich took $1,500 second-place money.

Dutch Harrison, an old-timer in the game who has gained a measure of the title in 1949, ended with 278 for third-place money of $1,300 and Kitchener's Bill Mehlhorn made his fourth-place tie with Gardner Dickinson of Panama City, Fla., the best Canadian showing since Bob Gray of Toronto was runner-up in 1941.

Fletcher shot 71 Saturday to give him 277 and Dickinson got one under in his final 18. Each received $900.

As leading Canadian in the four-day championship which attracted more than 180 Canadian and American amateurs and pros, Fletcher also won the Rivermead Cup and an extra $300.

Low amateur was Toronto's Phil Farley who ended with 282 finishing on rounds of 72-73-69-71.

Douglas and Ulrich were paired over the 6,806-yard course Saturday prepared for anything and they got it early from Douglas who played in a threesome directly behind Ulrich. He birdied the par first three holes, added another in the sixth, bogeyed the eighth and went out in three-under-par 33.

Ulrich made it in 34 with birdies on the fifth and sixth and was coasting along until the roof fell in on him at the 15th with his well-trapped green. His tee shot ended on a road to the right and his chip shot skidded about 25 feet behind the pin leaving him a difficult downhill putt.

His gently-stroked putt hit the edge of the cup and slowly curled into a trap. He was about eight feet in front of the cup on his second and took two more for his six.

Even with this big six Ulrich was one stroke to the good after 15 holes and, as it turned out, the 18th showing.

Defending champion Johnny Palmer of Redlands, N. C., who holds the open record with 283 set at Winnipeg St. Charles last year, ended well down with 294. Henry Martell of Edmonton, winner of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association tournament at Quebec City the week ago, received 900 for his 296 showing.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver finished in a three-way tie for 24th with 286 and received $216.67. Leonard was runner-up in this year's CPGA.

Brockville Wins Eastern Rowing Regatta, Trophy

By CRAIG SWAYZE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BROCKVILLE (CP)—High winds and rough water failed to stop a determined bunch of Brockville Rowing Club rustlers here Saturday as they outclassed the largest field in the 33-year history of the Eastern Rowing Association Regatta and captured the Comstock Cup, emblematic of the regatta championship.

Stroking steadily over the choppy St. Lawrence river course, which twice became so rough that races had to be postponed, the crews-out from the host club piled up five wins, five seconds and three thirds for 67 points.

Lachine, Que., and Ottawa, the two other ERA clubs competing, garnered 41 and 28 points respectively.

St. Catharines led the four visiting Central Ontario Rowing Association sculling clubs competing, one second and a third in the five open events on the 15-race program.

Hamilton Leanders copped a brace of wins but Hamilton Olympic came through for them in the senior singles.

Only Brockville, Lachine and Ottawa counted points toward the Comstock trophy.

Brockville picked up most of its points in the lightweight events. Brockville's lightweight eight took the 145-pound eights and the high school eight while its light four gained firsts in the 155-pound fours and the high school 135-pound fours.

St. Catharines' big eight, stroked by Greg Murphy, lived up to expectations in the senior open eight event, by finishing first over Hamilton Leanders, Toronto Dons, Lachine and Brockville in that order. Off to a slow start, the St. Kits entry took the lead half-way down and held it to the finish.

Biggest race of the day was the 155-pound eights, an open event, when St. Catharines pulled off a double victory with its heavy crew finishing first and its lightweight entry second. Argos took third in this race with Brockville fourth, Dons fifth and Ottawa last.

Although the water was choppy all day long, a sudden squall in the afternoon forced an hour-long postponement in the races. Several singles scullers failed even to get up the course against the waves.

Another hour's postponement before the senior eight race gave the river time to quiet down and both the eight and the senior singles were rowed over a fairly calm water.

Highlight of the evening's presentation of cups and medals was the dedication Brockville's new $7,000 memorial shellhouse. A tablet bearing the names of the 27 BRC oarsmen who lost their lives in both World Wars was also unveiled.

Frankford Sport

FRANKFORD.—Frankford Juvenilles went down to defeat at the hands of Stockdale by a 16-10 score in a Sidney and district softball fixture at Frankford school grounds Tuesday night. Stockdale assisted by the stellar pitching of Ron Wannamaker, who went the route with Frank Terry catching. Bob Lott started for Frankford but was the loser to Whitney in the third, who finished the game with B. O'Brien receiving.

Second Shutout

Glen Miller Royals suffered their second shutout Friday at the hands of the "Frankford Juvenilles" when they dropped a 13-0 game. Whitney sparked the Juveniles with his one hit pitching and picking up four hits as well to lead the Frankford boys at bat, with O'Brien catching.

Melarky went the distance for Glen Miller and was nicked for twelve safeties with his youngers charge playing well, with but two errors, and playing against older, and more experienced players, the team showed real sportsmanship, although taking a severe drubbing and will make real ball players with more experience.

'Tom Fool' Easy Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Greentree Stable's Tom Fool easily won the 65th running of the Brooklyn Handicap Saturday, defeating four rivals in the mile-and-one-quarter event at Aqueduct Racetrack. Belair stud's Golden Gloves was second and the King Ranch's High Scud was third. Gold Gloves led until the final half-mile, when Jockey Ted Atkinson put Tom Fool in the lead and drew away to win by a length-and-one-half.

There was no betting only and the winner returned $2.50 for $2.00.

Toronto Club Sweeps Track Field Honors

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Track and Field Club ran away with the honors in the men's and women's sections of the two-day Ontario Track and Field Championships here Friday and Saturday.

Six Canadian records were broken, one tied and one Ontario mark beaten.

Final standings in the men's division gave the Toronto club 389 points, more than three times as many as the second-place Toronto Secondary School's Association, which was third with 119 and Hamilton fourth with six points.

Ottawa Lions were fifth with two Canadian records. He won the juvenile boys' one-mile run in 4:35.3 minutes, beating the standing mark of 4:40.9 by 7.6 seconds. Saturday he added 220-yard dash off the Canadian record of 2:03.5 in the juvenile boys' 880-yard dash with a time of 2:01.7.

Chuck Hardy of TTFC knocked seconds off the Canadian junior boys' 220-yard spring Saturday running the distance in 22.5 seconds.

Mary Teplicky of EYTC ran the juvenile girls' 60-yard dash in 7.8, four-tenths of a second better than the Ontario record of eight seconds. There is no Canadian record in this division.

Norm Williams of the TTFC tied the Canadian junior men's 220-yard low hurdles in 26 seconds.

On Friday the TSSA team won the boys' midget 440-7 and relay in 46.7, bettering the record of 47.2. The TTFC entry broke the record of 3:38 minutes in the junior men's one mile relay with a time of 3:36 and the junior women's 440-yard relay in 53.6 seconds, topping six-tenths of a second off the mark of 54.2.

The times will not go into the books as records until the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada considers them at its fall meeting.

Royals' Turn For Top Slot In International

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal's back on top again as a result of the week-end International Baseball League victories. But, Buffalo Bisons who have toppled them twice in recent days are only two percentage points and a half-game behind.

The Royals were on the wrong end of a 4-3 count Saturday against Ottawa, but took both ends of a doubleheader from the Athletics Sunday, 9-5 and 3-2.

Buffalo went down to a 13-0 defeat at the hands of Baltimore Baltimore Orioles Saturday, but Jack Wilson hit three homers and batted in five runs Sunday as the Bisons whomped the Orioles 11-4 to make up their total of three.

Third-place Rochester Red Wings were edged 6-5 by Jacobs Syracuse Chiefs Saturday and Art Hartley, who had lost eight straight to the Chiefs, came up with a shutout against them Sunday for a 4-0 victory.

Fifth-place Toronto Leafs downed cellar-dwelling Springfield Cubs 7-3 Saturday and then split with them Sunday, Toronto winning the first game 4-1 on a three-run outburst in the fourth frame and Springfield taking the nightcap 4-2.

In the opener at Montreal, Art Ditmar was knocked from the box in the fifth inning and charged with his 12th loss in 13 starts. Leftie Tom Lasorda of Montreal ran his personal score up to 10 wins in a dozen starts.

In the second contest, Sandy Amoros scored fellow-Cuban Chico Fernandez for the winner. He had homered—his 14th—in the first.

Reliefer Ronnie Lee got the win and Ed Burtschy was tabbed with the loss.

At Baltimore, Ken Chapman greted Dick Starr, Orioles starter, with a round-trip wallop on the first pitch. Ernie Nevrel went the route for the Bisons, Starr was replaced in the fourth after Wallace's second homer with two aboard.

Hartley of Syracuse hadn't beaten the Wings since 1949 and now has a 2-8 record against them. He allowed only one runner to reach third base; walked three and struck out three.

SUPERTEST FAST PICKUP

Canadian Team Wins Empire Trophy At Bisley for First Time in History

BISLEY, Eng. (CP)—The Canadian team competing at the National Rifle Association annual meet has won the Empire Trophy for the first time since it was introduced in 1907.

Canada won the trophy, donated by Australia and previously won only by British and Australian teams, with a score of 1,838 Sunday. New Zealand was second with 1,795, Australia third with 1,790, Britain fourth with 1,772, followed by the British West Indies with 1,718.

The eight-man Canadian team was led by Lt.-Col. Ross Johnson, 48, of the King's Own Calgary Regiment with 234 of a possible 250. He also was leading individual scorer with 49 of a possible 50 on the first day's 200-yard ranges and a perfect 30 at 600 yards.

The Canadian team: Lt.-Col. Sgt. W. Kayes, Montreal 217; Maj. A. M. T. Spittal, Victoria, B. C. 226; S. Sgt. G. Kay, Hamilton 222; Capt W. J. Newell, Winnipeg 227; Maj. R. W. Hampton, Ottawa 224; Camp Hordes, Cut, 237; Sgt. C. C. Wilson, Ottawa 233, and Capt. M. Morgan, Kingston, Ont. 220.

Members of the five competing teams fired 10 shots each at 300, 500, 600, 900 and 1,000 yards, eliminating the usual 900-yard range to speed up the competition.

The Empire match took place only if an Australian team is entered and has been held only 13 times since 1907. Australia has won the trophy six times, including the last match in 1948, and Britain has taken the honors five times.

'Argyle Grattan' Wins 14th Start

TORONTO (CP) — A record crowd of 7,128 at Thorncliffe Raceway Saturday saw Argyle Grattan, owned by Dun C. Campbell of Alma Craig, Ont., win both heats of the 2.06 1-3 for the mile.

The win gave the five-year-old gelding a record of 14 wins in 15 starts this season and $2 in 63 races during the last two years.

In the second heat the favorite led from the start and was never headed in 2:06 4-5.

American Stars Rout Japanese In Cup Series

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United States Saturday scored its third straight 5-0 rout over Japan in three years in the first North American Zone Davis Cup tennis tie of 1953.

In the final two singles matches Saturday, the U.S. intercollegiate champion, Ham Richardson, defeated Kosei Izumo of Japan 6-4, 6-2, 4-1 and 6-3 and eighth-ranked Tom Brown crubbed Japan's third - ranked Masanobu Kinoura 6-0 and 6-1.

The United States plays the British West Indies in Jamaica in the next round of the Cup playoffs.

RECORD RULED OUT

LONDON (CP)—The 4:02 mile run by Roger Bannister on June 27 was thrown out of the record books Sunday by the British Amateur Athletic Board.

It ruled the race was not in strict accordance with the competition rules.

Bannister, 24-year-old medical student, ran the 4:02 mile—third fastest on record—in a speed race at Motspur Park. There had been no advance notice of his attempt on the four-minute mile and only some officials and 200 youngsters who had been tipped off in advance saw the race at a Surrey schoolboys' track and field meet.

The highest official rating of a bridge player is that of life master. Less than 500 are so far listed in this elite class. They are supposed to be the cream of the crop of the nation.

In the recent national championships was a division made up of such players exclusively. In this contest were 54 of them at the 14 tables playing 28 boards, two against each set of opponents.

Play was in duplicate; each table playing the same hands. In this manner could be compared what each pair did with exactly the same hands. And the results are truly revealing.

North would be in three notrump. There must be something wrong with any good pair that would be in such a contract. Let's see what these alleged partnerships did with a spread hand.

Nine tables were in three notrump. This means that five pairs were wrong in their bidding methods. Or uncertain of the bids made by their partners. Or were not sure of their values.

Four went no higher than two no-trump. One stopped at the very modest level of one no-trump. No matter how you look at it, only a very few pairs of players rated the best in the world.

Only half the declarers took more than nine tricks. Only a few managed to accumulate 11 tricks. So, even in the play of the hand, only half of them do not get the most out of them.

Simplest play should take four clubs, two hearts, two diamonds and ten tricks. Careful play should take another trick in spades for a total of 11. But only half took more than nine.

In the heat of contest it is possible to muff a trick or two, in a problem deal, and by ordinary players. But here we are speaking of the players who are considered the best in the world.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE—"Hans Christian Andersen"—Danny Kaye, Farley Granger, Jeanmaire — In Technicolor — Last Times Today. 2:00, 7:25, 9:55.

AT THE CAPITOL—"Cleopatra"—Claudette Colbert, Henry Wilcoxon — 1:00, 4:40, 8:20. "The Stooge" — Martin and Lewis — 7:30.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Girls in the Night" — Joyce Holden, Glenda Farrell — 2:35-7:35-9:40.

ODEON THEATRE, TRENTON — "Cloudburst" — Robert Preston — 2-7-9:25 — "The Long Memory" — John Mills — 1:30-5:30.

AT THE DRIVE-IN — "The Blue Veil" — Jane Wyman, Charles Laughton — "Thief of Bagdad" — technicolor — show starts at dusk.

AT THE CAPITOL—The role of history's most famous Queen and charmer is Claudette Colbert's in Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount production of "Cleopatra" which is being brought back by overwhelming demand to the screen of the Capitol Theatre starting tonight at the Capitol Theatre for a three day engagement. On the same program Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in "The Stooge". Matinee Wednesday at 2.00 p.m.

AT THE BELLE—Making her screen debut as the sister heroine in Hans Christian Andersen, is Jeanmaire, dynamic French ballerina who took New York by storm a few years ago with her versatile dancing talents. In her first picture since "Moulin Rouge" and "Lili" films, she also stars Danny Kaye and Farley Granger. A special treat is added in the color short by Walt Disney, "Alaskan Eskimo". Today is the final day for Hans Christian Andersen.

Rocky Marciano Will Defend Title Against Roly La Starza in September

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano has decided to fight again this year and will defend his world heavyweight title against Roland La Starza in New York, probably at Yankee Stadium in late September.

There never has been any reluctance, of course, of Rocky to defend. Al Weill, his manager, preferred to take his time before he allowed himself to be persuaded by Jim Norris, who runs the International Boxing Club, Weill also picked the opponent, as was his privilege under New York state rules, at least as long as it was a legitimate challenger. Rocky still has four months to go before the six-month rule forces him to defend. Only in such a case can the New York commission insist on a specific challenger.

New York's Bob Christenberry is left on the outside looking in. The best he can hope for is a crack at Marciano next summer, if Rocky doesn't lose the title to La Starza. In the meantime, Philadelphia promoters are trying to make a Charles - Harold Johnson match for Connie Mack stadium.

Charles most certainly will be steaming mad about his plight. It wouldn't surprise me a bit if there is an open break between the Charles camp and the IBC.

There is one person at least who is sure the Starza is the best of the championship, and that is La Starza himself.

In 1950, when both were unbeaten, Rocky won a highly disputed split decision by means of an eight-count knockdown in the fourth.

Attempts to make a rematch were sidetracked while Rocky won the title and defended it.

Sport in Brief

PATRICK SIGNS

SEATTLE (AP)—Murray (Muzz) Patrick, prominent member of the famed Patrick hockey family, signed Saturday as coach of Seattle Bombers of the Western Hockey League.

Patrick, 38, had been sought by New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, but said he decided to remain in this area because "my family and I love the northwest and we're going to stay."

Patrick, manager-coach of the now defunct Tacoma Western League club for the last five seasons, also spurned offers from Victoria, Calgary and Toronto to take the Seattle job.

OPEN WINNER

KINGSTON (CP)—Anne Sharpe of Lookout Point, Ont. won her fifth Ontario golf tournament Saturday when she defeated Shirley Woodley of Toronto, one-up, in the 8-hole final of the Eastern Ontario Ladies' Open Championship at the Cataraqui Club.

The Eastern Ontario Championship was the follow-up of an 18-hole medal round for the International Ladies' Golf Cahmpionship won by Miss Woodley with a 42-48 for an 82 gross. The 16 low gross scores in the International medal round qualified for the Eastern Ontario championship.

Quinte Tennis

Quinte B's were defeated 4-1 by Point Anne in a Bay of Quinte Tennis League match played at the Quinte Courts Wednesday evening.

Result: Point Anne 8-1, 6-1.

Result: Quinte 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Result: Point Anne 6-2, 5-3.

Result: Point Anne 6-3, 11-9.

Ladies' Doubles—Patsy Brearley and Mary Jane McNally, Quinte B vs Shiela Bowler and Maureen Bowler, Point Anne.

Result: Point Anne 8-6, 6-0, 4-6, 12-10.

HEAT EXPLODES MUNITIONS

MADRID (Reuters) — Eight members of the Spanish air force were killed and several injured, three severely, when an ammunition dump exploded at Funtiro, near Palma de Majorca in the Balearic Islands. The explosion was believed to have been caused by the heatwave there.

SEVERELY INJURED

HAMILTON (CP)—George Reed, 41, of 367 Catharine, in St. Joseph's hospital here today with head and chest injuries, suffered when his car went out of control on No. 5 highway, six miles west of Smithville, early this morning. His condition was reported as "fair."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, JULY 14, 1953:

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — May be necessary to double guard on personal interests, family relatables. Don't grow careless, remember the unsound, unscrupulous are always near us.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Solicit good advice to carry on your affairs, work out problems better. Don't be too proud or stubborn. Tact, please!

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Good outlook in most endeavors that can stand being analyzed. It would be wise to review things before acting, especially in romance. June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Make no blind promises in business, personal matters. Stability, astuteness essential more than ever. Be alert!

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Be wary of things that just "fall" your way, or of people anxious to please you. Pray for God's guidance, help.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—You may be asked to do something you know isn't in order but are tempted to accede. Don't! Avoid doing more than is necessary.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Venus, your planet, denotes balance. Day has sociable outlook. Fine! But don't let it lead you astray. Happy medium best.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Some unfriendly aspects, indicate you better not act on impulse, hearsay. Be especially concerned about financial affairs.

November 24 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—May need added impetus to carry you over certain spots that impede your road to objectives. Some help, gains possible.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Seek assists to benefits that you are missing through lack of concentration, astute handling of affairs. Get on the ball!

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Less friendly aspects than you may hope for, but wake up talents, gear yourself to move forward. Act!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Don't build your house of hopes on sand. Be concrete, knowing and able. Push forward, but not with nervous haste.

YOU BORN TODAY: are truly domestic and romantic. Interesting, sensitive; also emotional and imaginative. Often think you are being wronged; often take things too seriously, become offended too readily, suffer a happy medium for your sake and those around you. Have stubbornness.

INDUSTRIALIST MOVES

GLYMPTON, England (CP)—Canadian industrialist Garfield Weston has bought Glympton Park, a 10-bedroom house in Oxfordshire, from the estate of the late Alan Good. The Westons formerly lived in Marlow, Buckinghamshire.

See Forest a Aid Paying Off

Harold E. Stassen, mutual security administrator, illustrates with a chart the present status of strategic resources in foreign countries as he asks the Senate Appropriations Committee in Washington to bar any further cuts in foreign aid funds. Stassen said the recent anti-communist riots in Eastern Europe indicate the aid program is paying off with "dramatic" results. — Central Press Canadian.

African Prince to Give Up Circus Job for Government Post

Prince Karl-Karl of Ashantiland, Africa, shown calmly eating a flaming torch as part of his performance in a Vienna circus, will give up his fire-eating job in Austria to go back to his native Africa and become minister of the interior. Karl-Karl was spotted at the circus by Foreign Minister Nee Otiinkrung of Ashantiland, and after some discussion, the fire-eating prince agreed reluctantly to stop eating fire and take on the government job. Karl-Karl has four wives and fourteen children waiting for him at home. — Central Press Canadian.

ANCIENT COIN

SWALECLIFF, England (CP)— The British Museum has acquired an ancient coin believed to have come from a wreck in the Thames estuary. It is a small gold piece of the Merovingian mint, Cologne, bearing the name of Gaucemar. It is thought to date from the 7th century.

COWS PRODUCE MORE

LONDON (Reuters)—Cows in Britain are producing more milk than before the war, Agriculture Minister Sir Thomas Dugdale said in Parliament. Over the last year the average yield has been 600 gallons a cow a year, he said. This compares with the pre-war figure of 545 gallons.

CAMPBELLFORD

56 Lodges Take Part in Biggest Walk in Years

CAMPBELLFORD — Members of Orange Lodges from many parts of southern Ontario converged on Campbellford on Saturday, to create one of the worst traffic jams ever seen in this town. A dozen extra policemen were unable to cope with the crowds which thronged the streets, and filled the fair grounds to overflowing.

An estimated 2,000 members of lodges, and adherents, attended one of the largest Orange walks ever seen in Campbellford. Fifty-six lodges took part in the parade, and several brass bands, four pipe bands and dozens of fife and drum bands supplied music for the marchers.

During the afternoon, a number of speakers were heard at the fair grounds, including R. Sanderson, Grand Master of Ontario East; Dr. Fred G. Robertson, M.P.; Mr. Olfa Taylor, Cobourg; R. J. Locke, Mayor-of Campbellford; John Prosser, County Master; W. H. Farrow, County Chaplain and others. The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow was scheduled to speak to the gathering, but he suffered a heart attack on Friday evening, and at the present time is in hospital.

The celebration was a double one, and not only commemorated the 323rd anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, but also the 100th anniversary of the incorporation of Campbellford LOL number 526.

Women supporters of the Campbellford Lodge and also of the Petherick's Corners Lodge served meals to the celebrating Orangemen. The meals were served in the main building at the Agricultural Grounds, when hundreds of hungry marchers and their families enjoyed the food that had been prepared.

On Saturday night, a dance was held in the main building at the grounds, and dancing to the music of Jack Russell's string orchestra lasted until nearly midnight. A bingo sponsored jointly by Campbellford Lodge No. 526 and the Canadian Legion Branch 103, was held in the Legion hall during the evening.

Chatfield Area Invaded By Snakes Each Year

CHATFIELD, Man. (CP)—The Chatfield area, 75 miles north of Winnipeg, lays claim to the most prolific snakes in the world—and the healthiest.

Every spring, harmless garter snakes turn the town into something between a hangover and a nightmare but it doesn't seem to worry Chatfielders.

A few snakes were reported in town this year but nothing to what it was three years ago. First signs of the invasion were reported on the highway where numerous snakes, apparently sunning themselves on the gravel, were killed by cars.

Three years ago an attempt was made to wipe out the reptiles with chemicals but it had no noticeable effect.

"We just had to learn to live with them," said A. B. Martin, municipal clerk at Inwood, a nearby village.

Chatfield postmaster Ed Hoborough is something of a local authority on snakes. He said it is a poor year for snakes due to the lack of sunshine.

Rock clefts and blasting holes in the area tend literally to become snake pits. Mr. Hoborough visited one of these, about three miles north of Chatfield. He reported it was a mass of writhing reptiles.

ASSEMBLY TO BE CALLED

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs minister Pearson president of the United Nations general assembly, said Sunday night he expects to call an assembly meeting on the signing of a Korean armistice—looked for in the next few days—but not before that. Mr. Pearson said in an interview he is not planning to call an immediate general meeting of the UN in response to a request for this from Prime Minister Nehru of India.

LUTHERANS ELECT

EDMONTON (CP)—J. E. Bergbock of Saskatoon Friday was re-elected president of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Western Canada.

RAID DICE GAME

TORONTO (CP)—City and provincial police arrested 47 men Saturday in one of the largest gambling raids in recent years. Investigators said a squad raided the Diamond Boxing Club and found $3,000 in the possession of the occupants and seized about $200 in play along with dice, cards and chips. Charges of keeping a common gaming house were laid against 11 of them. The remaining 36 were charged as found-ins. All were remanded to July 17.

UNIONS TEXTILE PROTECTION

MONTREAL (CP)—Edward C. Cluney, acting Canadian director of the Textile Workers Union of America (CCL - CIO) urged the Canadian government Sunday to provide greater protection for the textile industry. In a prepared statement, Mr. Cluney said that for the last two years a "destructive flood of imported textiles and textile products" has resulted in "serious unemployment" in the Canadian industry.

EATON'S

We Must Buy... Before We Sell!

Most Canadian shoppers know that Eaton's sells a greater variety of merchandise than any other retail organization in Canada — everything that today's customers want, from fashions to furniture, piece goods to pianos! But we're shoppers too. In fact we're one of the biggest and most consistent customers this country has — because we must buy before we sell!

Eaton's buys in every part of Canada —from large industries, small factories and individual artisans, in cities and towns and villages from B.C. to Newfoundland. And wherever we buy we help contribute to the well-being of the community and the prosperity of its citizens ... we help to keep factories busy and men and women working and earning.

If you could see our "shopping list" for 1953, chances are you would find your home town among our sources of supply ... and you might be surprised to learn how much we actually spent here in one year alone. Yes!

What is this science of ELECTRONICS all about?

IT'S THE GREATEST SINGLE STEP YET TAKEN into tomorrow's world

Electronics has revolutionized the whole art of communications.

Electronics that first gave us radio—and then television—can now flash words and pictures around the world at the speed of light. One application is the micro-wave that gives us the television hookup and allows hundreds of telephone conversations to be carried simultaneously on one carrier beam. It is also the power that allows plane to talk with plane and prospectors in the inaccessible northland to keep constantly in touch as easily as we speak with a neighbour by telephone.

Electronics has made radar possible—and the pilotless aircraft and the guided missile that seeks out its target and tracks it to inevitable doom. It can guide planes in the sky and ships at sea and bring them safely home. Another application is the electronic brain that can compute, in minutes, mathematical complexities that would take skilled mathematicians days or even years to calculate on paper.

ELECTRONICS SPEEDS THE PACE OF INDUSTRY

Canadian General Electric, as you would expect of Canada's largest electrical company, is vitally involved with the science of electronics. It was the first company to build television sets in Canada. It pioneered in two-way radio communication. It installed the country's first synchrotron—popularly called an atom smasher—at a Canadian university. It was the first company to manufacture electronic tubes in Canada, including sub-miniatures and picture tubes. It is already producing an ever-lengthening list of electronic products for industry.

Today a group within the company is engrossed in studying the limitless possibilities of transistors, the tiny electronic devices that can amplify electric signals a hundred thousand times. Not confined to any one industry, new electronic devices and controls are being used by the mining, pulp and paper, and textile industries, in steel mills and manufacturing plants, and new applications are being found every day.

Step by step for more than sixty years Canadian General Electric has gone forward with Canadian industry and has been proud to grow with Canada... today it is still in the vanguard as this country moves smoothly into the electronic age.

4 CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE NEAR BANCROFT

Big Chinese Drive Imperils Defences Of Allied Forces

Actual Depth of Penetration Is Subjected to Censorship

His Description Of Store Robber Too Accurate

DETROIT (AP)—Harold Cantwell's first venture as an amateur detective ended successfully or not as a failure, depending on which way you look at it.

Police arriving at the scene of a store burglary saw Cantwell standing close by and approached him to see if he could provide any clues to the robber.

"Yes, sir, he broke through that window and escaped. He was about my size and had on dark trousers and a white T-shirt." The talkative Cantwell said.

Police interest in him was aroused when they noted the description of the bandit fitted Cantwell perfectly. After questioning him at length, they finally searched him and found some loot on him.

Cantwell was jailed on a burglary charge.

Little Hope Of Any Survivors In Pacific Crash

HONOLULU (AP)—Rescuers today pulled burned and mutilated bodies from shark-infested waters 350 miles west of Wake Island where a Transocean Airlines passenger plane crashed Saturday night with 38 aboard.

Fifty passengers—nine of them children—and eight crew members presumably perished in the crash.

The Navy transport Barrett recovered 11 bodies, two of them children, before dark Monday night and had sighted three others.

The bodies recovered included a boy, a girl, four women and two men. The sex and age of three others have not been determined.

Hope for survivors dimmed today as the Barrett reported sighting the fifth and last raft carried by the ill-fated DC-4 plane. The raft was empty.

Little Hope Held

The Barrett's medical officer said after viewing the scorched and mutilated bodies:

"There is little hope of any survivors."

Dispatches from the Barrett indicated the search was continuing with sharks. The rescuers reported they could not retrieve the last three bodies because "the waters were sharky."

The ship said earlier that it was unable to estimate how many bodies were in the immediate vicinity but that parts of some had been sighted.

The airliner, bound from Guam to Oakland, Calif., was last heard from at 10:28 p. m. Honolulu time Saturday, when it reported its position as 325 miles east of Wake. It apparently plunged into the sea minutes later without a chance to send out a distress signal.

Condition of the bodies indicated the plane plunged in flames or exploded soon after crashing into the sea.

There were several family groups aboard, including a young couple expecting their third child.

RAW WATER WASTE

NIAGARA FALLS (CP) — City council Monday night ordered a restriction on the use of water for sprinkling lawns and for car washing in an effort to cope with an acute water shortage.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office at 9.30 a.m. Synopsis: With no significant changes apparent on latest weather charts it would appear that little change in the prevailing weather is to be expected for the province during the next 24 to 36 hours.

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SEOUL (AP)—Tens of thousands of Chinese ripped through South Korean lines as far as four miles in Central Korea today in a mounting onslaught that imperilled Allied defences.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, said after a first-hand look at the grave situation that RoK defenders were yielding ground, "but the defence readjusts itself to the new situation."

The actual depth of the penetration was being subjected to heavy Red censorship.

Between 60,000 and 70,000 Chinese aimed their sudden assault—the mightiest Red offensive in more than two years—at main-line positions on a 20-mile front at Kumwha to the Pukhan river.

Troops from eight Chinese divisions were identified in the fierce battles in the wake of some of the heaviest Red artillery barrages of the war.

Strike at Midnight

Four Red divisions—about 40,000 men—struck first in rainy darkness just before midnight. Units from the four reserve divisions were fed into the battle as needed, U. S. officers said.

Gen. Taylor, in a statement issued after he returned from a visit to the front, said:

"The attack was not unexpected and the defence is extracting a very heavy toll of casualties from the Communists."

"Our troops have behaved extremely well," he said, "in spite of the weight of the enemy pressure and the unfavorable weather. Some ground north and east of the Kumsong river is being yielded as the defence readjusts itself to the new situation."

Other Withdrawals

There were other withdrawals across the blazing 20-mile eastcentral front.

The Eighth Army said earlier that the Chinese had driven at least two miles southward to threaten the Kumsong-Kumhwa road network below Kumsong.

The Chinese made their deepest penetration where they went around flanks of the Allies' bulge into Red lines between Kumhwa and Lookout Mountain.

The penetrations at both ends of the front could endanger a big segment of the line.

Associated Press Correspondent Robert Gibson said the Chinese sent probing units as deep as four miles behind Allied lines Monday. Some Reds were chopped down in cross-fire as they tried to get through.

Disregard Cost

Reports streaming from the RoK Capital Division at the west flank, said the Chinese, after breaching the Allied lines, were driving on without thought of cost.

The Navy said down two Chinese divisions pretty badly," Henderson's report said.

Henderson's report said there could be no doubt Evans was responsible for the death of both his wife and baby.

Henderson said he was satisfied that Christie gradually came to the conclusion that it would be helpful in his defence if he escaped to the murder of Mrs. Evans. Christie's defence was insanity.

COMMUNISTS SAY TRUCE DELEGATES GETTING NOWHERE

Red Fear of RoK Plans Hampers Negotiations

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and communist armistice delegates met for 39 minutes today and then called it quits until Wednesday after their negotiations apparently marked by Red fears that South Korea will launch a truce only for a limited time.

Official secrecy shrouded developments inside the conference hut, but the communist Peiping radio said the U. N. Command has accused "has placed another time-bomb in the way to an armistice in Korea."

While the delegates talked, the war thundered in its highest pitch in months. More than 60,000 Chinese smashed into four South Korean divisions on the east-central front.

The Chinese force teams called another meeting for 11 a. m. Wednesday (10 p. m., EDT, Tuesday).

Tuesday's communication, the United Nations Command reported in a routine report, the enemy first lodged a charge that an Allied shell landed in the Panmunjom neutral area on June 27. They charged Monday that Allied planes bombed a war-prisoner exchange area north of Pyongyang July 10.

The UN command has not yet replied to either protests.

Probe Decides Timothy Evans Murdered, Too

LONDON (Reuters)—An official probe decided today that justice was done to a man who was hanged for murder three years ago and that mass-slayer John Christie lied when he claimed he himself was the guilty man.

The lorry driver Timothy Evans lived in the same house where Christie strangled at least six women and three years ago killed his wife and baby daughter, buried most of the baby's death and hanged.

Christie's sensational confession at the trial of Evans in 1950 was responsible for Mrs. Evans' death sentence being commuted to life up an official probe into the Evans' case.

Reporting today, the day before Christie is to be hanged, the committee declared: "Evans was not a murderer, and there was no miscarriage of justice.

Lies Behind Bars

The report, drawn up by a prominent lawyer, J. Scott Henderson, said that Christie's confession was "not only unreliable but untrue."

Christie is behind bars on Rillesdell Island in the Glenn Ridge area of the Sea of Japan. The Huron was refloated after three hours, when U. S. carrier planes flying a protective umbrella.

The heavy cruiser's commander's hull below the waterline was crushed and large segments were twisted out of the forward section.

A destroyer and a landing ship were escorting the Huron to safety, the Navy added.

Canadian destroyers, operating three at a time in Korean waters for three years, had escaped heavy damage previously.

In the fall of 1952, the Iroquois was hit by a Communist shore battery. Three men were killed and three wounded—four casualties reported so far by the Canadian Navy in the Korean war. The ship received slight structural damage and continued on operations.

Because of their patrol work and bombardment close inshore as well as myriad islands and reefs, Canadian destroyers have run aground on numerous occasions, but without difficulty and with only slight damage.

Political Leaders Concentrate Campaigns in West, Maritimes

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock assorted subjects as Dominion-provincial tax relations, pipelines and artificial rubber manufacture as Canada's political leaders concentrated their campaigns on the Prairie and Atlantic fronts.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, contended in a talk at Campbellton, N.B., that the Liberal government isn't living up to its tax obligations with the provinces.

The federal-provincial tax arrangements, first undertaken in 1943, gave the signatory provinces annual payments based on population and national production in return for rental of their income, corporation and inheritance tax fields to the senior government.

Mr. Drew attributed to Prime Minister St. Laurent a statement that the government would not now relinquish its personal taxing powers. This, said Mr. Drew, went far beyond promises made by Ottawa in 1943.

"It's a question which goes to the root of the integrity of the present government," he said during his first stop on a Maritime tour of the Maritimes.

At Edmonton, Mr. St. Laurent was pledging his government to back development of an all-Canadian pipe line to move Alberta natural gas to Eastern Canada.

He addressed a Liberal rally here after the opening of Edmonton's 75th exhibition and contended he could carry on his argument that the West should use Canada because only the Liberal government had sufficient support right across the country to provide strong, stable government to speed Canada's economic development.

The only alternative would be a coalition government comprising parties with different and contradictory philosophies which could provide the administrative strength needed at Ottawa.

The subject of artificial rubber launched at Moncton, N.B., where CCF leader M. J. Coldwell launched his Maritime campaign. He referred to Mr. Drew's promise of a $500,000,000-a-year tax cut and then said:

Can Save Money Claim

"Mr. Drew says he can save all that money. He says, too, that if his party is elected it will institute a national health program without affecting social services, build the St. Lawrence Seaway and the South Saskatchewan irrigation and reclamation project. That work will cost at least $2,000,000,000 and yet he can save $500,000,000 yearly. I wonder how good his arithmetic is!"

Both Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Coldwell ran into some heckling. In both cases, the heckler, or hecklers, were escorted from the meeting halls.

At Ottawa, L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister, said "confidence" in the convertibility of sterling "are on the-way to comeback." Canada had been working along these lines for months with other Commonwealth nations and the United States, he said at Calgary rally.

Mr. Pearson said of Mr. Drew's promise to take constructive steps to break the pound-dollar barrier: "The only way Mr. Drew's big sounding words will break is the sound barrier."

In a radio broadcast over the CBC Dominion network from Windsor, Ont., Health Minister Martin said:

Karns Title

"Mr. Drew's party, by its performance in the last Parliament, has rightly earned the title of the most extravagant and spendthrift Opposition we have had in all Canada. If the government had not resisted Mr. Drew's many attempts to increase expenditures, it would have been impossible for it to reduce taxes by $1,500,000,000—a better record of tax reduction than that of any country in the world."

Another Edmonton platform speaker Canada Mr. St. Laurent was Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor - Progressive (Communist) party. He said Social Credit "stands for making Canada economically dependent on the U.S., with complete political dependence the inevitable result."

Today, Mr. St. Laurent was in Saint John, N.B.; Mr. Drew at Fredericton and Saint John, N.B.; and Mr. Coldwell at Summerside, P.E.I.

H.M.C.S. Huron Runs Aground Off Korea, Is Badly Damaged

TOKYO (AP) — The Canadian destroyer Huron, veteran of duty on the Communist-northeast Korean coast Monday and suffered heavy damage, the Navy announced today. There was no casualties.

The Navy reported the warship went aground on the tip of an uninhabited island in the Genja area of the Sea of Japan. The Huron was refloated after three hours, when U. S. carrier planes flying a protective umbrella.

The heavy cruiser commander's hull below the waterline was crushed and large segments were twisted out of the forward section.

A destroyer and a landing ship were escorting the Huron to safety, the Navy added.

HOLD NO PARLEY WITH RUSSIANS UNTIL NEXT FALL

'Big Three' Ministers Agree to Delay Meet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Big Three Western foreign ministers wind up their Washington conference today with indications of agreement that any high - level meeting with Russia should be delayed at least until next fall.

A high British official said his government would prefer to wait until after the German elections Sept. 6 to avoid possible embarrassment to West Germany's government.

Diplomatic developments reported that the British acting foreign secretary, the Marquess of Salisbury, had presented this position to Secretary of State Dulles and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and that the three were in substantial accord.

Germany probably will figure largely in the small communique of the Big Three session—probably with the same statements of support for German unification and fresh backing for the projected European Defence Community under which West Germany would be armed.

Final Session Today

A final session of the U. S., British and French foreign policy chiefs was scheduled today following a meeting of Dulles and Lord Salisbury on Britain's dispute with Egypt over the Suez canal.

Will Try Again To Start Debate About Princess

LONDON (AP)—A Labor party member served notice today he will try again to get the House of Commons talking about Princess Margaret's reported romance with a divorced airline hero. The Princess' private politely has refused him up Monday.

Commander Geoffrey Rughes said he will file another question in the House of Commons addressed to the air minister. Officially he wants to know why the ministry is assigning a new air attache to the British embassy in Brussels.

The new attache is Group Capt. Peter Townsend, 38, a divorced man and until his transfer an Buckingham Palace equerry for nine years. It has been reported that the Princess is in love, and some British newspapers have speculated he is being sent to Brussels to get him out of the country before the Church of England opposes a divorced person remarrying, particularly with royalty.

Neither Townsend's name nor Margaret's was mentioned in Commons Monday, but Hughes asked why the air attache was being sent to Brussels "where there already is a considerable diplomatic station."

Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd replied that the present attache in Brussels is being replaced and "in the view of Her Majesty's Government, it is necessary to have such an officer in that post."

Hughes said later he thought the government was supposed to economize on such attaches.

Mystery Blasts Probably Caused By Jets Breaking Sound Barrier

SARNIA (CP) — Two mystery blasts which startled this petrochemical city today may have been due to United States Air Force jets planes breaking the sound barrier.

Maj. J. B. Selkregg, director of public relations at the U. S. airbase at Selfridge Field, Mich., said in a telephone interview with the Sarnia Canadian Observer that there was a possibility a flight of training flight over the Sarnia area about 10:10 a. m.—the time the blasts were heard. He said one plane reported breaking the sound barrier.

When the explosions were first heard, Sarnia police attributed it to a plane crash on an Indian reserve at the outskirts of the city.

However, an intensive ground and air search of the area failed to turn up any trace of a plane. The blasts sent a flood of rumors through the city. Polymer Corporation limited officials denied reports that the blasts had occurred within its plant.

Horseshoe Lake Scene of Tragedy Late Monday Eve

Children Believed Trapped When Cottage Catches Fire

Trapped in a blazing cottage four miles northwest of Bancroft four children were burned to death shortly after ten o'clock Monday night.

The dead are Mary Bernice MacRae, 14; Donah Jean MacRae, 8; Donald Roderick MacRae, 9 months, and Norman Cheeseman, 11.

The cottage, located on Horseshoe Lake, just north of Highway No. 28 extending from Peterborough to Bancroft, was owned by Donald R. MacRae, father of the MacRae children, who resides at 34 Hilldale Avenue, Mount Deonia, Ont.

The names of the parents of the Cheeseman boy were not immediately available. They reside at 42 Hilldale Avenue, Mount Deonia, but police stated this morning that the Cheesemans were located on a fishing trip east of North Bay and notified by police at Deux Rivieres.

Found in Bedroom

Provincial Police Constable J. C. Hawking, Bancroft, who investigated the tragedy, said the bodies of the four children were found in the bedroom of the one-storey cottage. It was reported from the living room by a partition.

The body of Mary MacRae, the oldest girl was found on the bed while the bodies of the two small tiny three were found on the floor. The body of the fourth children had relived and were overcome trying to make their escape.

Origin of the death blaze has not determined. The only possible source of flames was a coal-oil lantern, which was found on the floor but in such a position as to confirm the theory that had dropped there, when the table burned from underneath it.

The MacRaes had gone to Maynooth five miles away at approximately 7:30 Monday night, leaving the children in the cottage.

Found Cottage Burning

On their return about two hours later, they found the cottage a blazing inferno.

Frantic, Mr. MacRae rushed to the window of the bedroom and drove his fist through it to smash the glass.

He was met by a rush of flame, that burned him severely about the face and hands. The lacerations of his hand were caused by the window glass. He was driven back and forced to watch the cabin with the children restricted to flame ruins.

The cottage with its contents is a complete loss. It was purchased by MacRae, a truck-driver for a Toronto daily newspaper, some years ago.

The bodies of the four children were removed from the smouldering embers early this morning and taken to the Hatton Funeral Home, Bancroft. An inquest jury will be taken to a funeral home in Bancroft.

A terrible shock awaits the parents of the four Cheeseman boys, who are away on a fishing trip.

However, another son, a few years older than the dead boy is reported to be in a boy camp, and by this morning and took charge of his brother's arrangements.

He will be met by a car, after where his parents were, other than in the Maitawa area.

In respect to the Cheeseman family, the names of the dead children were not released by the provincial police or cable services until ten hours after the tragedy.

Police learned that crackling of the flames aroused Verna Zammit, 15, who lives with Dennis, who was sleeping in an adjoining cabin. She was burned about one hand trying

Police Doubtful But Girl Proves She Is Burglar

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—A nine-year-old girl who banged on a steel safe with a hammer in an attempt to open it was held for juvenile authorities as a confessed burglar.

Sheriff's officers were more than surprised, they wouldn't believe her confession at first.

"We were extremely doubtful that the youngster accomplished the three burglaries alone," said Hal Doss, chief criminal deputy.

"Having conducted a diversity gation, we are convinced she did enter all three places."

Picked up after the burglary of a private residence, the child told officers of two more burglaries. In one, the child said, "I used a hammer to pound on that big thing in the corner to get it open."

She failed, but took other articles, in a roller rink, she escaped with shakes valued at $30, a bill fold, candy and souvenir coins.

Gasperi to Form Italian Cabinet

ROME (AP)—Alcide De Gasperi today formally accepted the task of forming a new eight-ministry conservative government for post-war Italy.

The 72-year-veteran premier said he probably would present this new cabinet to President Luigi Einaudi tomorrow.

De Gasperi, prime minister for the last eight years, resigned June 29 as required by election of a new parliament early last month.

SEEK ENFORCEMENT

DUNNVILLE (CP) The Grand River conservation authorities, which it considers representatives from rural and gun clubs in Brantford, Dunnville, Caledonia and other centres along the river, Monday night recommended that provincial laws against dumping of refuse be enforced immediately.

to open the door to the MacRae cottage.

Police said another possible cause of the fire was an overheated stove.

Dr. O. W. Anderson, coroner, said the cause of death pending out of asphyxiation and no inquest will be held.

Home-Made Gun Buried in Skull, Boy of 15 Walks Home, Doing Fine

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) The barrel from a home-made gun was buried three inches in the skull of a 15-year-old boy Sunday.

Today the youth was reported "doing fine" in a hospital here.

Bill Shriver's pipe-gun backfired in a field. He walked home, supporting the three-foot, half-inch pipe with his hands to prevent it from pushing against the right eyeball.

Neighbors found the youth and called his grandparents, who were having visiting, and the fire department rescue squad.

Firemen found the boy sitting calmly in a chair.

"I don't know how we're going to get you out," they said.

"That's easy," young Shriver replied. "I'll walk through." And he did.

Billy made the gun from galvanized pipe, blocking one end with a homemade stock. He had apparently been sighting the gun when a charge of black powder blew the stock off and forced the pipe back.

Freighter Sinks At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 7,869-ton freighter Jacob Luckenbach plunged to the bottom of the Pacific Ocean today after a fiery early morning collision today, but all crew members were rescued, the U. S. coast guard said.

The outbound Luckenbach, reported by the coast guard, headed for the Far East from the Oakland, Calif., army depot, collided with the 6,449-ton Hawaiian Pilot, inbound from Hawaii, in dense fog about 18 miles southwest of the Golden Gate. There was no immediate report on how badly the Hawaiian Pilot was damaged.

AR PARKED FOR TWO ONTHS MOVED AWAY

An automobile that was rapidly becoming a landmark outside 1 Queen Street, has a change of scenery this morning.

The vehicle had been parked outside the residence for the past two months with apparently nobody wanting to claim it.

The police on request of the resident had the mechanical orphan towed to a garage yesterday.

It was claimed the former resident of the house who is believed to have left for Newfoundland two months ago, disposed of the car to a Trenton resident.

But since he left, no one has turned up to claim the property.

Increased Rural Hydro Rates Cause Concern

A large number of residents of Thurlow township met tonight in Prince of Wales School to discuss the latest increase in rural hydro rates, which it was felt was causing hardship in the district.

A committee was appointed to start a petition with a view towards making representation to the chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario. The signatures of over 500 users were obtained.

As a result a delegation consisting of Mr. J. H. Armstrong, district member of Thurlow township council, Mr. Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East and Messrs. W. G. Latchford, W. Ross, J. B. Leslie and J. B. Durrant, are journeying to Toronto today to present the petition to Mr. Saunders, Commission chairman.

U.S. Visitor Likes City

What visitors to this country think of the city is usually interesting. What a visiting newspaperman thinks of Belleville was learned Monday afternoon from Charles Olson, newspaperman of the St. Augustine Record in Florida.

Mr. Olson, who is visiting with his wife had a number of complimentary remarks concerning the city and district. He and his wife are staying at the home of W. C. Springer, Bridge Street. Mrs. Springer is Mrs. Olson's uncle.

In an interview yesterday, the visitor said he had heard considerable about Belleville before he saw the city. He said his life's ambition visits to Florida, had told him a great deal over the past six years and as a result he was extremely anxious to see some of the places he heard so much about, for the first sight.

The photographer will be in the city until Thursday and plans to visit all the places he has heard so much about. So far as he has seen, Mr. Olson is amazed at the size of the residential area in Belleville for the amount of industry here.

"It is one of the most pleasant cities I have been privileged to visit," he said.

He also does photo-engraving on his own paper. Photo-engraving is the process whereby the pictures taken from the film are prepared for reproduction on newspaper pages.

G. Lummiss Accepts Post in Toronto Twp.

No Communism in Russia Says Rotary Club Speaker

There is no communism in Russia: Russia does not want a Third World War: a revolution of the Russian people is unlikely, along with a number of other surprising opinions were voiced by a retired member of the British Foreign office, Lieut.-Colonel Robert C. Thompson, at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club in the Hotel Quinte Monday.

A native of Edinburgh, Scotland, and a long time member of the British Foreign office, Colonel Thompson was involved in much secret service work both during two World Wars and following the last war, directed the recovery of most of the German Archives.

Communism according to the speaker is simply an article for export. The real power is totalitarianism. "It is a completely totalitarian government, not surprising, as the country ruled by the government, but by a group of ten men, watched the scene, and who give orders to the government. The government, in turn, re-issued the orders to the people as if it were first hand," Colonel Thompson stated.

Cannot Count on Revolt

The Western world must not count upon a revolution of the Russian people, the speaker warned. He said, "Such wishful thinking would be costly. The Russian people are completely disorganized, and therefore is the last thing these people want. If within two weeks they were to be told that Russia was at war with us, we know it, a state of chaos would exist. Therefore to base thinking is completely foreign to anything we have ever known. They take the world calmly, think differently and consequently, get different results."

In his travels throughout Germany, Colonel Thompson had occasion to speak with many of the Russian soldiers. He noted, as a whole the Russian soldier had a great deal of admiration for his native land.

Speaking of the Balkan States, he suggested the Soviets did not get a prize when they overran the adjoining countries. Russia travelled throughout most of these territories before Russian occupation, and Colonel Thompson ed them as having poor living conditions and hardly any people possessing democratic governments. "With the annexation of these territories, Russia has not gotten herself any white-robed angels," Colonel Thompson said.

Commenting on recent developments and referring to the removal of Beria from the Russian cabinet, the speaker felt this to be a change for the better. In his opinion he feels it is a striving upon the part of the Russian rulers to put new men into positions where a new policy may be carried out.

Thinking Entirely Different

In concluding, Colonel Thompson cautioned members to remember that Russian thinking is entirely different from our own way of thinking. "Remember that they react to situations in a manner foreign to the people of the Western Democracies," he advised. He also reminded that Canada has become a world power. In the event of hostilities we must not undersell their country. "Do not take a back seat, Canadians, in anything, but everything."

There were many visitors present from the United States at the meeting. Two Rotary guests from Hot Springs, Arkansas, were hosted by Art Francis as the two Rotarians were visiting in Belleville. Russell Lindsay and Dick Dongoby, both from Ohio, received attendance pins.

The club's newest member, Jack MacIntyre was introduced to members. He will be invested at a later meeting.

Colonel Thompson was introduced by his cousin, Jamieson Bone and the thanks of the club were extended by Stan Barber.

Kowie Family Proving to Be Good Fishermen

MARMORA:— (Special): — The Kowie family and their "in-laws" are proving a fishermen of the first water.

Take young Michael. He with his brother's in-law Albert Clark and John Woolyin, both of Toronto went boating in quest of minnows for bait.

Near Grape Island they tossed over a line and a rock bass promptly grabbed the bait. A larger fish apparently of the white bass promptly grabbed the bass and both were hauled in by Mike.

The "snooper" proved to be a muskie weighing 13¾ pounds.

Mr. Chuck took it out and before they decided to call it a day they had hooked two black bass weighing approximately five pounds each.

Last Sunday Richard Kowie, brother of Michael hooked himself a nine-pound pickerel in the same vicinity.

Beets were ranging between 15 and 20 cents a bunch. Beans were down to 15 cents a quart.

Gooseberries were selling for 20 cents a quart or 35 cents for a basket. Peas were quoted at 75 and 85 cents a basket unshelled or 75 cents a quart shelled.

Cherries were quoted at various prices, $1.25 and $1.50 a basket for Montmorency; $1.50, $1.75 and $1.95 a basket for Bing cherries.

Blueberries were at the Saturday price of 50 cents a quart or $2.50 a basket.

Carrots were 10 cents a bunch. Asparagus was two bunches for 35 cents. Onions were three bunches for a quarter. Cabbage and lettuce were selling for 10 and 15 cents each.

Currants were 25 cents a quart box. Radishes were two bunches for 15 cents.

Obituary

MRS. ALICE LOUISE YERKS

The funeral of Mrs. Alice Louise Yerks was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel on Saturday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. R.A. Rowley, who also said the committal prayers in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were R. McMurray, O.R. Brenton, Charles Eschelbeck, old Woodley, W.B. Vandervoort and William Taylor.

EDWARD MELVILLE CLARKE

In ill health for some time, Edward Melville Clarke, retired Customs and Excise officer, 133 Albert Street, died in Belleville General Hospital early Monday evening.

He was born in this city, 57 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William F. Clarke, and except for his years overseas with the original Second Battalion of the First World War, he has continuously resided in this city. He was well known and highly respected in the community.

The late Mr. Clarke was a sportsman of the highest degree and his greatest love was angling. He was an ardent angler and frequently leisure time on his favorite stream or lake. He was a delightful companion on a fishing trip and he fished not for the love of catching them but for the pure joy of being out in the open. He also took a keen interest in baseball and basketball and could be seen at all the games at the arena or the ball park.

After graduating through the public and high school in this city, he entered the civil service and working through the grades eventually became Collector at Belleville, a position he held for many years. Short time before he retired after serving for 33 years in the First World War he joined the Second Battalion and served overseas during the entire conflict with credit to himself and his country. He was an active member of the Canadian Legion.

Colonel Thompson was introduced by his cousin, Jamieson Bone and the thanks of the club were extended by Stan Barber.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Gordon (Lola) Williamson of Belleville, Miss Dianne Clarke at Napanee, one sister, Miss Agnes Clarke in Belleville and two brothers, R. Clifford Clarke of Belleville and Fred M. Clarke of Toronto.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

POLICE COURT

Two Plead Guilty To Drunk Driving In Police Court

Allan G. Moase, R.R. 3, Belleville, pleaded guilty to drunken driving in magistrate's court this morning in a sequel to an incident Saturday evening when the car he was driving careened off the road at the corner of West Moira and Wcomans Streets and overturned in front of the home in the vicinity without hydro service for some hours.

The car driven by Moase smashed off two hydro poles, sideswiped trees and finally crashed before it finally crashed into a parked car owned by Earl R. Kilpatrick, 192 Sidney.

The accused told court that some arrangements were being made to reimburse institution for the damage and Magistrate T. Y. Wills remanded the case until Friday for further investigation of the total damages occurred.

Moase Remanded

In another case of drunken driving, Archie Crossley, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to seven days in jail, to date from his arrest last Saturday. His car will be impounded and licence and driving permit suspended for a six months. Crossley was arrested while driving east on Dundas St. No damage was involved.

Francis Donahue was sentenced to six months in the reformatory on each of two charges, which will be served concurrently. Donahue was arrested July 3 after police had been notified by neighbors that a drunken man had been seen entering and leaving a home on Highland Avenue. He was in possession of a man's purse and was charged with intoxication and breaking and entering.

House Unlocked

There was no money in the purse and the home had been left unlocked. It was Donahue's first conviction for drunken driving within a year. The woman identified her purse and two magistrate Wills severely lectured the accused for having put the public to unnecessary trouble and expense in bringing prosecution witnesses to court. While refusing defence counsel's argument that no criminal intent was indicated in the offence the court took a lenient view in making the sentences concurrent on the two charges.

Towermen Assist In Field Exercise

Towermen on Department of Lands and Forests fire detection towers participated in the first operational exercise of the R.C.A.F. Ground Observer Corps which got under way last Friday.

The corps, an adjunct of the R.C.A.F. under the Air Defence Command, is made up of a network of trained aircraft observers responsible for relaying necessary information an approaching aircraft to proper military authorities. Such reports augment radar and other devices, and lie in the attack form an effective link in the defence organization.

Towermen in the Tweed district recently appointed official observers include M. Dewey, Wickers; M. Moore, Bancroft; E. McRae, Cashel; J. Higman, Tudor; H. Whitmarsh, Grimsthorpe; J. Perry, Myers Cave; R. McMurdock, Donnah; L. Mountney, Ashby; R. McPherson, Malawatchan; T. Smith, Raglan and G. Fraser, Tweed Radio. O. Goodman, district ranger at Bancroft, Mr. Mulvihill, chief ranger, Dacre and T. Dunphy, deputy at Pivena are chief observers and regional observer is A. Leman, district forester at Tweed.

Observers relay reports on any aircraft sighted, over tower radios to main headquarters at Bancroft and Tweed where they are phoned to the ground observer corps filter station at Barrie. Each post has a code name which enables operators at the filter station to plot the location of planes and record information.

Bell Telephone operators and connecting companies co-operate in getting calls through as quickly as possible as soon as the familiar "Aircraft Flash" comes over the wire.

IN MEMORIAM

GOW. — In loving memory of our dear father, Joseph Gow, who passed away July 14, 1952.
One year has passed on dear father
Since God took you to rest
You left us a home that is lonely
For you lived your very best
You were good and kind to everyone
And died beloved by all;
The happy days we spent with you
Are the days we love to recall.
When we are sad and lonely
You comfort us still
In our hearts there exists a longing
If you only could come home
We'll keep your seat in happy
Over on the Golden Shore
Where we hope to meet you
Never more to part
By the grace of the President, William Ross.
PAT PHILLIPS,
Secretary.

GOW. — In loving memory of a dear father, Joseph Gow, who passed away July 14, 1952.
The world may change from year to year
My life from day to day
But love and memory of you
Shall never fade away.
I see you and think of you
And of the way you died.
And that you never had goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
Sweet memories are golden never
I never part with your dear name;
And only those who lost can tell
The heart ache without a farewell.
—Ever remembered by wife Ethel, daughters.

TORONTO STOCKS

Volume for the first hour totaled 556,000 shares, about 200,000 below Monday's pace.

Although golds showed a majority of losses, there were no large offerings and price changes were limited to 10 cents. Broulan Reef and MacLeod eased slightly but Preston East Dome recovered 10 cents of recent losses.

Industrials turned in the largest loss among the groups listed on the exchange's indexes, declining more than three-quarters of a point. Weaker sections were steels, agriculture and textiles.

General Motors lost 1.54 points in the manufacturing companies section.

Uranlums and New Brunswick base metals were down with Anacon and Nesbitt Labine touched for small losses.

Base metals were mixed within a narrow range as gains by Noranda and Sherrit-Gordon were balanced by losses for International Nickel and Brifund. Western oils showed few price changes.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Early trade was active with prices steady after Monday's advance at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: cattle 605; calves 115; hogs 110; sheep and lambs 35; supplies from Monday 600 cattle.

Choice weighty steers $29-31; medium light 18-18.50; good heifers 19; good cows up to 15.

Good to choice, veal calves 21-23; common to medium 15-20.

Hog prices were not established. Lambs were $30 for good ewes and wethers and $29 for bucks.

PRODUCE MARKET

Sales were firm at the egg market and prices were unchanged. Quotations for graded eggs in first cases were: A large 69; A medium 67; A small 59; grade B 47; grade C 42. Wholesale to retail: A large 73; A medium 71; A small 65; grade B 55; grade C 50.

Butter solids: first grade tenderable 58 cents; non-tenderable 56½-56¾.

Producers Agree to Refrain From Bidding on The Exchange

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ontario Cheese Producers' Association has agreed for the present to refrain from bidding on the cheese exchange, it was learned Monday.

This in effect removed an unofficial support price for cheddar cheese midway between two prices set by the federal government—at 30 cents flour price and a 30-cent "end" price.

The agreement followed a meeting of boards of association and federal agricultural officials and representatives of the cheesecoop ceasing companies. It is expected to result in lower cheese prices and quicker sale of the 180,000 pounds of cheddar now coming onto the market every week.

Under the Agricultural Products Co-Operative Marketing Act, the federal government provided that the floor price for cheddar must be full basis, or 30 cents on the average price over the preceding three years. This worked out at much

Barbers Scarce As Long Training Now Required

Is there a barber in the house? That isn't exactly the way you have heard it before but the paraphrase is apt in more ways than one.

In Belleville, and throughout the province, there is a greater lack of barbers than at any time in the memory of the oldest tourneyman in the trade. And curiously enough, one of the main reasons for the shortage is that the qualifications for a barber's certificate are high. In the time required for training and apprenticeship, approaching the demands upon young men entering the professions.

Jack Stairs, local barber, who is official examiner in this area for the Ontario Department of Labor, states that the shortage is acute everywhere. Under today's provincial regulations it is necessary for a young man to put in the required 1,440 hours government training school at Queens Park in Toronto and serve two years as an apprentice before he is eligible for a licence. Then he must pass both written and practical examinations before receiving a licence.

Mr. Stairs states that in the last two years he has not examined more than a dozen men for licences. There are, however, a number of apprentices in the city and the neighboring centres in his district. These men will not relieve the shortage as they are, of course, presently engaged in the trade.

The high standard of standards for barbers in Ontario began in the middle 1930's with the passing of the Industrial Standards Act. Since then the requirements have become more exacting. When new legislation was passed about ten years ago for individual examinations of all licencees such veterans as Mr. Stairs, who has been barbering over 30 years, were required to pass the tests to get licences.

Shorter hours for barbers, and the Wednesday closing, have also been factors in placing heavier demands on the trade.

LIFTS TRUCK, SAVES SON

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—A 165-pound father tipped over a pick-up truck with his bare hands to save the life of his 14-year-old son. The boy, Thomas Johnson, was pinned face down under two feet of water by the 2,000-pound truck after it skidded off a road and overturned on the bank of Young's river. The 5-foot, 8-inch father, Howard Johnson, 42, managed to tip the truck from its side back onto its wheels.

Conservatives To Hold Picnic At Searles Beach

Plans for a "Monster Picnic" for the riding of Hastings South were formulated at Progressive Conservative headquarters here last night.

The picnic is slated for Saturday, July 25, and will be held at Searles Beach, Oak Lake, in the afternoon.

The plans were laid at a meeting of riding poll-chairmen with executive, including social evenings and meetings in various parts of the riding.

Jury Hall, Ameliasburg, Belleville, and Bill House, Jr., Trenton, were named co-chairmen of the picnic committee. They will be assisted by Mrs. Strong, Trenton, and Mrs. Wallace Hall, Belleville.

Orliff Lloyd was named chairman of transportation. Speakers will be announced later. Mrs. Gandale Lee Grills, Harry Rollins and Oliver Sandercock, Mrs. John Lennox was placed in charge of advertising with sports and prizes being left open before he is eligible for a licence. Then he must pass both written and practical examinations before receiving a licence.

At one time there were many barber schools operating in Toronto. At the end of the war the Department of Veterans Affairs set up special schools in several centres but these have been closed for a number of years. The school operated by the department of labor is now the only one providing training in the province.

Mr. Stairs states that in the last two years he has not examined more than a dozen men for licences. There are, however, a number of apprentices in the city and the neighboring centres in his district. These men will not relieve the shortage as they are, of course, presently engaged in the trade.

East Berlin Folk Swamp Cut-Price Relief Market

BERLIN (AP)—Hundreds of hungry East Germans made the last to communist claims of ample food today, storming across the sector border to take advantage of a West Berlin food-relief program.

The West Berlin newspaper Der Abend said employees of some big East German plants halted work for several hours in protest against Communist rejection of American food aid. A factory dispute arose with Communist bosses in many Thuringian factories.

A spokesman for workers in the Eisenach motor plant was quoted as saying he "can't eat the promises of food from the Soviet Union."

Only three days after their East government scornfully rejected a U. S. offer of $15,000,000 worth of food, the communists made a mass rush to buy privately-donated stocks sold along one part of the border at a special reduced rate of exchange.

The relief market opened in the borough of Kreuzberg, with West Berlin city funds supplementing private donations of milk and fruit. Within three hours the stocks were gone, though the price was reduced to persons from the immediately adjoining East Berlin neighborhood.

Resume Sale Wednesday

Kruesberg's mayor Willy Kressman said the relief market will resume operations Wednesday, with potatoes in stock instead of milk and fruit.

The eastern government admitted the falsity of the communists' claim they could handle East Germany's food problem without foreign interference. Premier Minister Otto Grotewohl broadcast a frantic appeal for the "entire population" to turn in the fields and help farmers harvest the sorely-needed crops.

There was no evidence, however, of any immediate turnout resulting from Grotewohl's appeal and the government's admission of a food scarcity and a "serious shortage" of labor.

The private relief program in Kruesberg was only a local campaign, and German and U. S. authorities still studied suggested ways of getting the U. S.-offered food stocks into East Germany despite the Soviet rejection.

INTERNATIONAL MEETING

STOCKHOLM (CP)—About 1,300 members attended the sixth congress of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women here this month. Delegates visited social welfare institutions and modern housing developments.

Recover Canopy Blown Off Jet

TRENTON (Special) — The canopy of a T-33 jet on Friday blew off the cockpit during a wert to east takeoff from RCAF Station Trenton.

It was believed to have landed somewhere about halfway between Belleville and Trenton. The canopy was said to be intact, and dangerous because of an explosive charge used to eject the cockpit cover in case of difficulty, with the force of a 20mm cannon.

The pilots also lost their helmets.

F.O.R.W. Smith of the Flight Instruction School spotted the canopy from a plane, while flying north of the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

A ground search party was led in and the canopy was recovered. It was slightly damaged.

German Diplomat Sent to Confer With 'Big Three'

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government announced today it has sent a high-ranking West German diplomat to meet with the big three foreign ministers in Washington.

The announcement said Herbert Blankenhorn, political director of the foreign ministry, left secretly Sunday.

Knew His Politics

HAMPTON, N.B. (CP)—Judge Donald V. Wilde asked Nicholas Cashol, 58, an Austrian applying for naturalization, if he knew the difference in the jurisdiction of the governments at Ottawa and Fredericton.

"Yes, sir," Cashol replied. "The government at Ottawa, she Liberal; the government at Fredericton, she Tory."

The application was granted.

Indians Digging Seneca Roots To Get Extra Money

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP)—Indians in this area are digging seneca roots to make into cough mixture for sale to the mail sun dance, and to attend the stampedes throughout the province.

Harvesting seneca root, the base of many caught remedies, brings in the most money in the shortest time, just when the Indians have spent their regular money. Every member of the family can join in the work.

An energetic Indian squaw can dig up to 20 pounds a day in a good spot, for an income of $40 to $50 a week while it lasts.

Thrives in Marshes

Seneca is a small plant with a tiny blue flower and a root covered with gray bark, and is found in abundance in the area, 150 miles southwest of Edmonton in the foothills. The plant thrives in wet bush lands. One field 20 miles south of here, on land that used to be muskeg, is the best in the west and thousands of pounds are harvested there each summer.

Before the second World War, much of the raw root went to Russia and Europe, but now most of it is sold to manufacturing plants in Canada and the United States.

The most popular tool for digging up the roots is a section of an automobile car spring fitted with a smooth wooden handle.

A few of the older Indians still brew a bit of this herb for various remedies, but the younger generation refuses such bitter medicine.

Indian Specialty

This is one Indian field that the white man has not invaded. Few if any of the local residents would know seneca if they saw it. Few besides the buyers and the local merchants even know seneca is a local crop.

The fur buyers who handle the seneca would much prefer to purchase beaver pelts, but the Indians are far too busy to dry seneca root, a long tedious process, so they sell it green.

Vacation Time Is Reading Time With Library's Summer Offer

Have you read any good books lately?

It isn't the season for bookworms, to be sure, but for a lot of people vacation time is the time to catch up with a lot of good reading they have been promising themselves for months, and even years.

That's why the normally quiet summer period at the County Public Library is a busier-than-usual centre this week as 2,000 or more Belleville citizens prepare to embark on holidays next week with shutdowns in most of the major plants starting this week-end.

Miss Olive Delaney, librarian, reports that there is an upsurge in book borrowings and it is a summer trend that has been aided and abetted by the local library with a special concession is made to summer campers and holidaying folk that permits them to withdraw as many as eight books at once and they need not be returned until September 15.

The innovation was introduced last summer, Miss Delaney said, and was instantly popular. There is every indication that twelve-at-a-peachable source, however, said librarian, and his mission had been hurt particularly by a news story last Saturday which quoted Rhee as saying that his country would be by an armistice for only 90 days.

The report said the story was one written by Scripps-Howard correspondent Jim Lucas;

Robertson Flies to Report To Eisenhower

TOKYO (AP)—U. S. Envoy Walter S. Robertson left today by plane for the United States to report directly to President Eisenhower on his 16 days of secret talks with President Syngman Rhee on a Korean armistice.

It is reported he took with him a signed pledge by Rhee agreeing to abide by an armistice in Korea if one can be arranged at Panmunjom.

Robertson was not too happy with what he called "many misrepresentations". he said he had noted in news reports during 12 secret talks at Seoul.

"However unintentionally such misrepresentations may have been made, they were none the less real," he said in a statement read to reporters.

Robertson did not specifically mention what he called "press misrepresentations." A conference with Rhee was arranged.

Juvenile Baseball

"Cuffer" Noakes Elliott Motors baseball sponsored a game with Batawa Combines last night by a 13-2 score.

Morris Archer held the Trenton team to two hits in a hot hurling exhibition. Archer struck out 9 and gave up but four. Archer whiffed nine and Moore twelve.

The win gave the Motors a five-one record for the season. They meet Wellington here tonight.

How would you build a 200-foot television tower without a single construction worker leaving the ground.

Here's how Bell Telephone Company did it. They made eight 600-foot tower sections out of aluminum tubing. Then they placed the first section within a base on the ground, next they hoisted that section and fastened another section underneath it. They kept on repeating the process — raising the completed part of the ground by means of a hand winch. One test tower was dismantled and re-erected on another site, all in one day. Just goes to show that we live in an age of speed — and aluminum, Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

ON DEPRESSION AND PROSPERITY

Without in any way entering into the current political debate on the responsibility for the depression in the thirties and the prosperity we are enjoying in the fifties, we should like to make a few observations. We shall endeavor to make these observations factual, without the least tinge of opinions, personal or otherwise.

It might appear commendably unnecessary for any newspaper to give a factual account of Canada's economy during the past few decades, for a much more complete and authoritative account can be found in history books. The difficulty is that few people read history books. They depend on their memories — and their memories are likely to be colored by their personal experiences, which may not have been typical of the personal experiences of their fellow-Canadians. Moreover, there are many of the elector-ate who have no personal experiences of the events which are being described, in which case they are voting in political darkness today. These electors have no memories of these events, because in those days they were far too young to be voting up impressions.

Any factual account should begin at the beginning, should start at the root, so to speak, instead of beginning the description at the point where the first branch appears. The difficulty is to ascertain how far back into the past the roots of the depression of the thirties reached. There might be some controversy as to where to go back to the early days when Jacques Cartier first sighted the shores of Canada — and a fairly strong case could be made out for going back at least as far as the days before the first Great War. For the purpose of this editorial, however, we shall start at 1926, a year which has frequently been cited as "normal", although there are formidable grounds for the argument that this decade was the most abnormal.

But in 1926 Canada had emerged from the post-war depression and was neither gaunt with hunger nor stuffed with riches. There followed the "boom" years, when the value of 1929 stock market prices were still jumping gaily upwards and in our neighbor to the south there was talk of two cars in every garage and a chicken in every family's pot — which was later to prove a mistake, however as regard the prosperity of the late twenties as identical to the prosperity of the early fifties. Jobs were already hard to get, less than black day in the fall of 1929 when Wall Street, paper fortunes were wiped out and yesterday's millionaires found themselves on the breadlines or jumped from skyscraper windows.

The depression which set in was world-wide. Here in Canada a Liberal Government under William Lyon Mackenzie King, was in power. It was replaced in 1930 by a Conservative regime under R. B. Bennett.

The worst year of the depression was probably 1933, but conditions had improved little by July 1935 when the Bennett Government had to go to the people in 1935. "It was defeated.

Now Liberal speakers are blaming the Bennett regime for the severity of the depression in Canada. Conservative speakers can reply that statistics show that the proportion of the unemployed, related to the total population, was about the same in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

We suggest that these figures reveal nothing. Canada's economy is the same as the economy of the United States and of Britain. Should the difference in our economy have resulted in a higher proportion of unemployed or a lower proportion? We don't know. We don't think that the average politician knows and we even doubt whether the average politician knows.

Furthermore, even if the economies of the three countries were identical, the fact that the proportion of the population unemployed in the three nations was identical would prove nothing. It might either indicate that the policies of the three countries were equal-ly effective — or equally ineffective.

After Mackenzie King was returned to power in 1935, the depression did not immediately disappear. True, there was an improvement in economic conditions in Canada. There was also an improvement in Great Britain and in the United States but unemployment was still rife. It was the same common cause — or from wholly different causes. There is not much doubt that one factor in Britain's recovery was the policies of Adolf Hitler. Likewise, it may be argued that the policies of the Roosevelt administration in the United States and of the Mackenzie King administration in Canada improved conditions, but these two policies did no good whatever — or even did harm.

There is not much doubt, however, that these three countries were forced into employing prosperity in 1939 when Hitler invaded Poland. What happened after that is known to most voters. Workers in all three countries were kept busy and we doubt whether there are jobs for man can really be said to have been prosperous years. There were plenty of jobs — but there were few new cars, few new homes and few luxuries of any kind.

It was not until the destruction of wealth ceased that prosperity came to Canada. The expected depression did not materialize. Instead every year saw our national income climb — and this climb was not only in the dollar value of goods produced, but in the volume of our national production.

It is possible to argue that this was the result of, or in spite of, the policies of the government in power in Ottawa. We shall not attempt to even assist the voter to reach an opinion. We have just endeavored to state facts without political bias, leaving the voter to judge for himself.

What of the future? Times will either be good or bad on average. If they are good, the government in power will claim the credit, the opposition will maintain that government policies had little to do with continued prosperity. If times are bad, or even average, the government is certain to maintain that there was nothing that it could do about it, while the opposition is just as certain to maintain that different policies could have preserved prosperous times. Obviously, in each case, one of these contradictory arguments will be right and the other wrong — but we doubt whether the average person can ever determine who will be able to judge their accuracy. And when it comes to economists, we recall an observation by G. D. H. Cole of the University of Oxford, England, an economist. If memory does not trick us, Mr. Cole observed in one of his books that there were only half a dozen economists who would admit that they really understood the theory of money — and no two of them could agree about it.

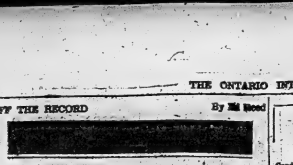
RULES FOR MOTORISTS



I think with every car should go
This simple set of driving rules:
"Round corners always slowly go,
Especially where there are schools.

"Be courteous and turn aside,
That pass you safely others ride,
And never trust the right of way.

"Don't hurry! You have time to spare,
And haste is made at fearful cost.
Enjoy this car by taking care.
To save a minute, lives are lost."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ONE DAY AT A TIME

I have lived long enough to watch thousands of people and note the mistakes they made at different things and circumstances. I have learned most, however, from those who have lived a day at a time. When you begin to split a day apart and make it do the work of two or three — or more — you complicate everything and all too often that one bright, promising day ends with little or nothing accomplished.

One day at a time. One life at a time, as Thoreau suggested. One task at a time. There are sixty minutes, and no more, in every minute. You can't run a horse race in any of them and get anywhere. The race track is the place for horse racing! In this business of work and living, efficiency, not speed, is what counts. One day at a time — and no worry.

I have noted the working of people who are always trying to crowd more than one day into their allotted twenty-four hours. They get confused that they lose most of the value of that one day. Home work, what a familiar complaint! Isn't it enough to have accomplished a day's work? Said a popular writer recently: "Lucky us, after our day's work is done, we can sit with our feet up and our brains vacuous, sucking in the fare offered by television."

There is nothing so solid as a day of twenty-four hours. It can't be stretched! Why can't we get used to the fact that we have but one day at a time, and make it count? No yesterdays mixed in. No tomorrows.

Among the last words uttered by the great Cecil Rhodes were these:

Pretty Picture For Authors

(London Free Press)

Struggling Canadian authors, generally supposed to be an ill-paid and unsung lot, will presumably cheer from the pages of the latest American literary agent that "no author of any actual ability" is starving nowadays.

Agent Curtis Brown Ltd. brands as poppycock the belief that unrecognized literary genius is starving in garrets. In this business of authorship one soon discovered by commission agents like himself, and indeed, suggests Brown, is usually handsomely more literary scouts than authors these days.

This conjures up a fascinating picture of an efficient corps of agents pursuing a diminishing number of scriveners, a consummation devoutly to be wished by the latter.

"So much to do, so little done." Yet this man had time enough to found a Society for Checkless Spending! Said John Dryden: "Tomorrow, do thy worst, for I have lived to-day!" That a wonderful event may the new day become. Make it a holiday of delight and accomplishment.

African Disaster Near

By BASIL DAVIDSON.

Condensed from the New Statesman and Nation

The day before I left Johannesburg, South Africa, a flying squad of Swart's police went to a beer hall because they had "received a report that a native there had fire-arms."

They encountered resistance, withdrew under a hail of stones, and opened fire. Five natives were taken to hospital with bullet wounds. After the brief distractions of last April's general election, the Transvaal is not in the time in getting back to normalcy.

It is normalcy with a difference. Latterly the stones have tended to be sharper and the bullets more frequent; and the sense of a fatal dynamism, of a flood-tide leading on a disaster which transforms the nature of a daily life which is still-for the whites—luxurious and easy-going.

The skin that covers the inner conflicts and revolts of South African life is now very thin, and getting thinner. Under the surface there is little in daily life that remains under the grasp of a legal system whose nature tends more and more to make a mockery of law.

The other day when glancing through a Johannesburg daily's court records, I came across this case which is a potent comment on South African conditions.

It involved a man and woman who were arrested in a four months had labor under the act which makes illegal sex relations between persons of different racial peans. The case was appealed because the woman was white in fact that she was, by birth, a European.

The appeal failed. For some time prior to her arrest she was shown to have been living "as a non-European" — a circumstance which caused the magistrate to rule that she was legally a non-European in spite of having two white parents because she "appeared" to be a non-European. Your "race" in South Africa is what is appears to be, not what it is.

For the few whites prepared to make a stand against the rising tide of racialism, and for such nonwhites, the law comes straight out of Mein Kampf.

Native leaders can not enter a crowded shop or take a hair cut during crowded hours without opening themselves to the risk of arrest for attending a "gathering."

The acts passed last February, designed to crush the passive resistance movement against racial discrimination, raised the terror of dictatorship to a level excelled only by Hitler.

The Criminal Law Amendment Act provides for imprisonment up to three years, $2000 fines, or whipping for any person convicted of an act "committed by way of protest, or in support of any campaign against any law."

The same penalty is provided for anyone who simply suggests a protest.

The first prosecution under this act was a certain Arthur Matlala, who was sentenced to three years. He was prosecuted for acts allegedly committed while he was free (and was gazetted by the government).

Wherein lay the alleged incitement?

In Matlala's possession police found a copy of Folwer and Fowler's "Concise Oxford" dictionary for matriculation classes. "Oxford" was found to have used that deal with the French Revolution had been marked in red and blue pencil. Among the words and passages describing how the people of Paris had attacked the Bastille."

World Needs Green Hair

(Hamilton Spectator).

A woman in Miami is asking for divorce on the grounds, among others, that her husband dyes his hair green. We are inclined to decide this thing without even hearing a bead of emerald hair may be somewhat trying to have around the house (particularly if it clashes with the apple green of the living room drapes), we can't help feeling that the wife should have got the greater good of humanity ahead of her personal tastes.

The world could use a few men with little courage to dye their hair green or to go off on some similar tangent from the all-too-perfect circle which is the approved pattern of life. It could use a leavening of non-conformists. It is getting altogether too conformist. In fact it is getting right-stuffy, and the Party Line and if-you-don't-agree-with-me-you-should-feel-like-a-heel attitude of McCarthyism are symptoms, not causes, of its stuffiness.

Ourself, we have always harbored a secret wish to come to town in green hair and affect a pink sweatshirt. We never shall; we are stuffily conformist from our mousey locks to the soles of our conventional oxfords. But, darn it, we might gain the courage of his green hair.

Herring Sheds Bones in Heat

(The Times of London)

A boneless herring is in process of evolution in order to keep up with changing weather conditions. The fish-eating birds are out in their warmest since the fifteenth century. Fishmongers will take comfort from this report, reached them in a less than flattering dose as a reminder that the weather of the day should be looked at suspicion as the perspective of a long years.

There were, it was agreed, there may be more but, meanwhile, the chances seem to be that the world is getting warmer, not cooler. The Arctic ice cap began receding more than a generation ago, and there has been talk that, much farther back in time, glaciers had given way to the sea after advancing and retiring and were on the melt. The North Sea England now has a swelling north and the sun has scored victories over glaciers from New Zealand to the Alps.

The more these leisurely records are studied, the more evidence of them seem to be—even if we may happen to be shivering at a temperature considerably less than ourselves luckily people. The rainfall of southern England and the pundits assure us, probably as much again in Roman times as now. The average winter temperature of an English winter has been a fraction higher than the mean of the Fahrenheit scale.

Birds nowadays build desirable residences, rear their eggs and bring up their chicks in them, at spots which, in the days of independent cock and hen would have dismissed as being no more comfortable than the inside of a refrigerator.

Atlantic fish are, if the reports may be relied upon, also reaping the benefits of this speed-change. Under the influence of warmth, a lower average number of vertebrae than a dozen per segment is found adapting to ichthyologists.

Laymen may suppose that the fish is merely economizing in spine down which to send a shudder. Others may suppose whether their old herrings are shaking their heads and muttering "ne'er cast a clout" as they do so. Fishmongers will look forward to the day when crews of trawlers working in the Arctic waters in tropical kit, will be able to haul in nets full of already-cooked fish.

As Scotland and Canada are believed to be in this fashion for long-term warmth, why should we not expect naturally smoked salmon? The days may be long to have seen stranger things.

An island which has been the kindly host first of the woolly rhinoceros and then of the sun-worshipping Celt is capable of versatility. Who knows that it will be up to Hitler's "Atlantic Wall" automatically described as the "old, old sophistries of June" may be leading up to a heat wave this week-end.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Dr. Brady

The expectant or nursing mother requires a daily ration of vitamin B complex as well as one of Calcium and D to supplement her diet, but be sure you get the good and the right kind. Seldom if ever can anyone get all the vitamins and minerals he or she needs from a "well balanced" diet alone. This applies especially to the expectant mother because (1) whims or disturbances of appetite and digestion are likely to narrow her selection of foods and (2) the growing fetus seizes what it needs regardless of the nutritional requirements of the host, and for this reason the expectant mother needs more of the nutritional essentials than she would require if she were not pregnant.

Inadequate daily intake of Calcium and D accounts for the rapid softening and decay of the teeth of the poorly nourished expectant mother — and most middle class and well-to-do Americans are poorly nourished, that is, they suffer from malnutrition, what we now call subclinical deficiency. But Ca and D deficiency accounts not only for poor teeth but also for increased neuro-muscular irritability — the simple — customers call "weak nerves."

Inadequate daily intake of B Complex accounts for excessive morning sickness, persistent vomiting, polyneuritis, anaemia, and retardation of the second stage of labor, failure of lactation.

Reader F. H. M. writes:

My mother, following Dr. Alice B. Stockham's "Tocology" lived for food that contained little or no bone forming material (calcium, phosphorous, vitamin D), to prevent suffering in birth, since the diet made the baby's bones resemble gristle.

I arrived 10½ inches long and, barely alive. Mother immediately changed her diet to include foods containing phosphate of lime.

(Average length of newborn infants is 20½ inches; and average gain in length (height) in the first year is nine inches; in second year 4 inches; third year 3½ inches; in the fourth year 2½ inches).

I lost some permanent teeth before I was eleven. At 25 my upper teeth were replaced with plates and at 40 I had a full set of dentures and was glad to be rid of the last of my own teeth which only were trouble and pain nuisances . . .

(F.H.M.)

Tocology, say Webster, is the science of obstetrics or midwifery. Dr. Stockham followed by F. H. M.'s mother was loco, not only in spots a book exists I hope it may not fall into the hands of any prospective mother and I hope, too, that the "Dr. Alice B. Stockham" named as author was not a Doctor of Medicine.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The oldest joke in the world may be the one about the fellow who builds a boat in his cellar and then can't get it out the door. No doubt the physicians had that joke. But the funniest part of the joke is that this year of grace possibly four thousand men will perpetrate it, pile west right ahead and built boats in their cellars or their garages, and then had to take them apart to get them out.

It must be that many for the whole of America, because I know of two cases right within a mile of my orbit. After making the most careful measurements, a very nice neighbor went ahead and built a punt in his cellar during the spring. Nothing ambitious, just an ordinary flat-bottomed, straight-sided punt. From time to time, he took measurements of the growing punt, and compared them most carefully with the door of the cellar on the way and of the door leading out into the garden. All was well.

He finished the punt to the last beautiful T, caulked it, gave it a thorough undercoat and two fine coats of the best marine paint. He attached all the hardware, cleats, thwarts, rowlocks. And then he got his larger neighbors over to give him a hand at carrying it out of the cellar. It was at the last few inches of beer for the launching into the side door that it got stuck. They got it no further. They had to dig a hole in the cellar floor at the foot of the stairs, or to haul it out of a large chunk of the ceiling that hung over boats in their cellars. The punt was doubtless the Phoenicians did. He took the boat apart. And he reassembled the ravaged pieces out in the back yard. And it does not do to say that they fit, as it did down cellar.

There is more to the size of a boat than the width of doors and stairs. There is also the height, and all sorts of forbidden angles. Geometry has to come into the building of a boat, and the method of mine found out in building a sea flea in his father's garage. He got the sea flea assembled, built, sanded, enamelled and fitted with every conceivable gadget.

Then, rather than injure the craft, he had to take the side out of the boy's garage. Every formal relations exist, for the time being, between father and son.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

NOTHING TO GET CONCERNED ABOUT

Everyone will admit that we live in a great age, but anyone who has read history knows perfectly well the fact that human beings are constantly making mistakes and we can be sure that our generation is making just as many as past generations have made.

For instance the medical science of 1953 has been almost entirely repudiated by the modern medical world. Within the life time of all of us over 45 years of age, basic concepts in the realm of medicine have changed. Psychology today is no more like psychology fifty years ago than the sun is like a mountain top.

Of course there mupst be change, and change sometimes indicates progress. But not always. The fact that each age is so sure of itself in conclusions and is later proved incorrect, is one reason why we should not put too much stock in the claims of people which many people make, especially the academic people. Preachers — and speakers today assure us that we are just about to lay hold of certain secrets which will improve humanity to an unprecedented extent, clean up most of the world government, bring world peace, establish science-faith truths that will outlast the ravages of time.

We are making just as many mistakes as past generations and I as guard against pride—especially intellectual pride.

Loyal Orange Assoc. Takes Part in Laying of St. Paul's Centennial Stone at Stirling

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — Over six hundred members of Orange Lodges in Hastings County converged in Stirling last Sunday morning. The parade was headed by Stirling Municipal Band and members of 34 men's lodges, eight women's lodges and Belleville Juvenile lodges took part.

Much Preparation

Rt. Wor. Bro. Fred C. Bateman, immediate past Grand Master of Ontario East has spent much time in past months preparing for the laying of St. Paul's centennial stone on July 12th. Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's has given valued assistance and both were well rewarded for their efforts when over 800 people had a part in the service. The whole church was reserved for visitors and at an early hour the gallery was filled with friends of the order. A.P.A. system carried the service to the church lawn where a field was well filled and a large number of Orange brethren and others were seated under the trees on the spacious church lawn and heard the service well. It will be a day long to be remembered in Orange history.

Several Officers go to Ottawa

The absence of Rt. Wor. Bro. Richard Sanderson, Havelock, was regretted but he is in Ottawa attending a divine service in preparation for Monday commemoration.

Bro. Bateman and several grand lodge officers left for Ottawa Sunday afternoon.

The church was a bower of beauty and the large basket baskets of Orange lillies as a special benediction on this most important occasion.. A memorial basket of flowers was placed on the holy table by the Stirling Ladies' Auxiliary in memory of A. Arthur Gordaker and her son, Coolidge Ashley.

Special Music

Printed programs were used and contained the words of that famous Orange hymn "O Lord of Hosts."

The senior choir augmented by several members of "The Royal Junior choir filled the choir loft and they rendered Elgar's "Lads of Hope and Glory." Mr. Wes. Aylsworth contributed a vocal solo "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave" from Handel's composition of "Judas Maccabeaus."

Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of the church, presided and seated on the platform with him were Rt. Wor. Bro. Fred C. Bateman, of Ontario East, and Rt. Wor. Bro. F. Beazer, Carrying Place, Grand Chaplain of Ontario East.

The processional hymn, "Onward Christian soldiers, was followed by the chaplain and of color party carrying the nylon Union Jack and lodge articles as well as those to be placed in the Centennial cornerstone.

The flag bearers were Rt. Wor. Bro. Lorne Hagerman, Bawdon township, Deputy Grand Lecturer of Ontario East and County Master Bro. Gordon Moffat, Marmora. The National Anthem was sung as the Color party and worshippers stood at attention.

Visitors Welcomed

The pastor of St. Paul's welcomed the visitors from many points with a friendly welcome to Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Patterson who have returned from a holiday to Vancouver and other western points. The first visitors at St. Paul's on Sunday morning were from Niagara Falls.

The Stirling lodges and all visiting brethren were warmly welcomed to this historic service as well as all Grand Lodge officers.

Two name plates for the endowment fund record were dedicated, that of Mrs. Wm. H. Hesaman, who died in 1939, and Mr. Wm. H. Hesaman, who died in 1952.

The grand chaplain, Mr. Beazer, led in reading the Psalms, and offered a gracious prayer of blessing and thankfulness.

Messrs. George Carlisle, Claude Tucker, Cecil Macklin, Harry Hesaman, Bryce Philp, Russell Rupert and Carleton Wright gathered the offering and two of these used the old, historic Methodist collection boxes.

Following the rendition of "The Social Orange Hymn," Rt. Wor. Bro. Fred C. Bateman, who is a shining example to all lodge members, as he attends church regularly every Sunday, spoke briefly.

Congratulates Minister

He congratulated Mr. Baker on the success of his Centennial services and felt it was a high honor to have a part in laying the 1853-1953 Centennial cornerstone, which marks 100 years of Christian service in Stirling and district.

Brother Bateman paid special tribute to Mrs. Baker for her splendid choice of organ music and to St. Paul's choir and soloist. He was very grateful to all who had taken part in ceremonies and pointed out that all the work of the Orange order is taken from the Word of God. He was proud to be called an Orangeman as it was the sole purpose of the lodge to aid in the promoting of equal privileges to all.

He referred to the 163rd. commemoration being held in Ottawa on Monday. Bro. Bateman especially thanked the members of Stirling Lodge, No. 110 and Stirling L.O.B.A. No. 655, who had prepared lunch for the visitors at the close of the service.

Special Message

Rev. A. E. Baker gave the message, based on the Bible passage found in Judges 6: 14 — "Go in the might and thou shalt save Israel; have not I sent thee?" The preacher thanked the Orange Order for their outstanding achievement, freedom of worship and equality to the race.

Mr. Baker also voiced the opinion that this generation was in danger of forgetting that what we enjoy today did not come to us as a matter of course but the sacrifice of our forefathers. The cause of Orangism has survived all these years. Because it is constantly reaching to eternity.

The preacher pointed out that "Liberty does not mean to do as we please, but rather it means to do as we ought." Obedience to the Holy Word that is set down for our guidance. God selected Gideon to save Israel and said: "I have chosen you," and today God is calling all true men of men to go out with his strength and bring peace to this land of ours. Men of vision and personality are needed today as never before.

Christian people should not tolerate the evils in our land today and the Orange Order without God is unthinkable.

All Protestant people should strive for one flag, and one school and a true harmony all across Canada.

Stresses "Coronation Oath"

Mr. Baker referred to the Queen's Coronation and read "The Coronation Oath". He felt this should be copied and placed in every public school so that this generation would be familiar with the wording and meaning of it.

When the Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland presented the Queen with a copy of the "Holy Bible" it was a living symbol of "Equal right to all and special privileges to none".

In closing Mr. Baker admonished his large audience to "Fear God and honor the Queen."

The Color party, choir and Orange members filed out to the church lawn as all sang "O God of Bethel."

A pulpit was placed on the large platform adorned with baskets of orange lilies and here the closing service was held. The flag were placed in front and the breeze as Stirling Band played "Faith of Our Fathers Living Still".

Reaffirms Loyalty

Bro. Fred Bateman spoke briefly and said in part, "Under the guidance of Almighty God we are here assembled for the purpose of laying the cornerstone of this church, but before performing that ceremony, I feel it incumbent upon us to state that the Loyal Orange Lodge is formed of persons desirous of supporting to the utmost of their power, the principles and practices of the Christian religion and to maintain the laws and institutions of this country. Our order promotes laudable and benevolent purposes and is firmly pledged to promote constitutional

58 Feared Lost as Giant Airliner Lost in Pacific Ocean

Searching planes and ships have found empty life rafts as well as bodies after the crash of a giant DC-6B airliner between Wake Island and Honolulu. Fifty-eight persons were aboard, and it is believed all are lost. The airliner, of the type shown here, is one of the largest on commercial runs in the world. — Central Press Canadian.

freedom. The Orange Lodge lays no claim to exclusive loyalty but the whole association is bound together as one neighborhood.

"It is named after that immortal prince and aims to conserve the privileges that we enjoy today."

Roads Scrubbed

The Grand Chaplain, Mr. Beazer offered prayer and the Grand Secretary, R. W. Bro. Morgan Brown, Peterborough, read the scroll which contained the list of Grand Lodge officers for 1953 for Ontario East, as follows:

Immediate Past Grand Master, R. W. Bro. Fred C. Bateman, Stirling.

R. W. Master, Bro. Richard Sanderson, Havelock.

Deputy G. M., Rt. Wor. W. J. Magladry, Ottawa.

Jr. Deputy G.M., R. Wor. Archie Miller, Brockville.

Grand Chaplain, R. W. Bro. Rev. F. Beazer, Carrying Place.

Recording Secretary, R. W. Bro. D. J. Sutherland, Ottawa.

Grand Lecturer, R. W. Bro. Morgan Brown, Peterborough.

Treasurer, R. W. Bro. C. H. Wood, Kingston.

1st Lecturer, R. W. Bro. W. A. Milligan, Cornwall.

Deputy Lecturer, R. W. Bro. Lorne Hagerman, Tanner Lodge, Rawdon.

Assistant Grand Secretary, R. Wor. Bro. LeeRoy Hesney, Olivers.

Auditors, Rt. Wor. Bro. Georgs F. Heid, Belleville; and Rt. Wor. Bro. W. S. McFaul, Ottawa.

Grand Organizer, Rt. Wor. Bro. H. A. Graham, Kingston.

Placed in Container

Copies of the Orange Sentinel, St. Paul's annual report, the Stirling News-Argus, the Ontario Intelligencer, the United Church Observer and coins of the realm were placed in a metal box by Bro. Bateman and set in the proper container in the church building.

Mr. Harold Hagerman, Recording Steward of St. Paul's United Church, gave a concise oral address and presented Bro. Bateman with a trowel on which was inscribed:

"Presented to F. C. Bateman I.P.P.M. Ontario East, Loyal Orange Association, officiating at the laying of the Centennial corner stone of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling on July 12th, 1953."

In Bro. Bateman's reply he thanks he said, "I accept this trowel and shall ever regard its brightness as an emblem of faith, its point of Hope and its guard of Charity." He then declared the Centennial stone duly laid.

Over 900 voices joined in singing the Doxology and the words of "Praise God From Whom all Blessings Flow" reverberated all over the village of Stirling after which Mr. Beazer pronounced the Benediction.

Following the service over 400 people were served a plate lunch in the church dining hall and on the church lawn by members of the Stirling Ladies' Auxiliary.

Time did not permit us to gather the names of all the various officers who were in attendance, however, District Master Bro. Cecil Holland, Marmora and Bro. Arthur Holden, Havelock, Grand Chaplain of British America were among those present.

Representatives (nearly all dressed in white) were present from seven L.O.B.A. groups, Havelock, Warkworth, Norwood, Marmora, Madoc, Eldorado, Stirling, also members of Belleville Juvenile lodge.

Large Representation

About two dozen L.O.L. organizations were represented. They were from Belleville, Shannonville, Malone, Madoc, Tweed, Eldorado, Frankford, Trenton, Wooler, Wallbridge, Plainfield, Peterborough, Norwood, Queensboro, Springbrook, Tanner, Stirling, Brighton, Wellman's, Beulah, Marmora, Thomasburg, Smithfield and Warkworth.

The memorable service closed on the prayer of the lodge hymn: The heads that guide endue with skill; the hands that work preserve from ill; that we who these foundations lay, may raise the topstone

HOLD NO PARLEY

A high British official, who may not be named, said Britain is determined that an agreement with Egypt must cover two major requirements.

These, he said, are permission for British forces to return to Suez in event of war and arrangements for adequate maintenance of the extensive military installations at the base.

Dulles, Bidault and Salisbury held Monday's session under unusual secrecy restriction. They limited disclosure to a report that they went over policy papers nailing down understandings reached in their discussions here. The British and French ministers, it was reported, then referred the documents to London and Paris for final consideration in advance of today's meeting.

Most of the discussion of the conference has been concerned with the closely-related problems of Western policy toward Germany and Western estimates of the behavior and policy of the Soviet Union.

Any moves toward achievement of German unification must involve Russia since it is one of the occupying powers along with the three western nations.

While unification is a problem for the occupation powers, it is an urgent political issue in Germany. Out of this fact is derived the reported opinion that it would be better to avoid action on the problem at the four-power level until after Germany's September elections.

COMMUNISTS

Although there was no announcement concerning the full dress truce talks, communist correspondents outside the hut said the negotiations were "getting nowhere." Their comments usually reflect the official communist line inside the conference.

Alan Winmington of the London Daily Worker indicated the Reds were asking a series of questions aimed at getting more clarification on assurances South Korea will abide by an armistice.

It seemed clear that the communists thus far were far from satisfied with President Syngman Rhee's statements on his two-week-long secret talks with special U. S. envoy Walter S. Robertson in Seoul.

Called "Time-Bomb"

Peiping radio, quoting a New China news agency dispatch from Kaesong, Red truce headquarters, said:

The Robertson-Rhee talks, instead of providing definite guarantee for the implementation of the armistice agreement, have placed another time-bomb in the way to the armistice in Korea."

Winmington said the UN command seems to be trying to take a middle course. He said the UN wants Rhee in on an armistice but has failed to give any "solid assurances" that Rhee's government and army will not wreck the truce.

The communist correspondent said Rhee apparently has agreed only to observe a cease-fire until 90 days after a post-armistice political conference. Winmington contended that Rhee insists that peaceful unification of Korea cannot be achieved in such a conference and that the South Korean president would block it anyway.

Weddings

AUCOIN—CALBURY

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, July 4, at 10:30 a.m., at the R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, Ont., by Padre, Flight Lieutenant Gignac, when Hazel Josephine Calbury, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Calbury, became the bride of R.C.A.F. Thomas Aucoin, of the R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Aucoin, of Clare Bay, Nova Scotia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively attired in a navy blue suit with corsage of white and pink roses. She was attended by Miss Marleene Donovan, of Belleville, who wore a grey suit and corsage of white and pink carnations.

Mr. Roger Langmaid, of the R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, attended the bridegroom.

Following the reception which was held at the bride's home where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a mauve taffeta gown, and corsage of yellow roses, the young couple left for Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, the bride wearing her wedding suit and corsage. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Aucoin will reside at 10 Purdy Street, Belleville.

Guests were present from Shamonville, Toronto, and Trenton Air Station.

RICE—WILTSE

PICTON—The Meeting House of the Society of Friends, Wellington, was the scene of a lovely wedding at two o'clock, Saturday, July 11, when Olga Marilyn Wiltse, became the bride of David George Bee. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gordon Wiltse, Main Street, Wellington, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Andrew Bee, Mortimer Avenue, Toronto. Baskets of Shasta daisies and delphinium flanked by white standards of gladioli and ferns decorated the church, while the windows were framed by baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums.

The Rev. Burton S. W. Hill officiated.

Mrs. F. Brimley, Sr., played the traditional wedding music. The soloist, Miss Elizabeth Puley, Toronto, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a pretty picture in a gown of frosted white nylon tulle over skirts of net, fashioned with a draped, sleeveless bodice and short, fitted jacket with tiny buttons to the petal collar. The skirt fell in stiff folds, revealing a deep border of the accordion pleated underskirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a bonnet trimmed cap. She carried white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Colleen Moore, of Napanee, was bridesmaid. Her gown was of embossed nylon organza with an overskirt of green nylon net and matching embroidered taffeta jacket. She wore a crown of roses and lily-of-the-valley, and carried mauve gladioli.

Mr. Gordon Bee, of Dresden, was groomsman. Ushers were Murray B. Wiltse, brother of the bride, and Donald Hall, Toronto.

The reception was held at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, where summer flowers were used in decoration. The bride's mother received in grey and blue checked taffeta with blue and white redingote and navy accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses. The bridegroom's mother chose rosewood crepe with bolero matching lace and navy accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses.

Following a honeymoon to the Adirondacks, New Hampshire and Ulica, N.Y., the bride donned a sheath dress of blue and white silk tweed under a princess style coat of blue corded silk, blue velvet hat, white gloves and bag. Her corsage was of deep red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bee will reside at Weston, Ontario.

The bridegroom gave his bride a strand of pearls.

Guests were present from Guelph, Picton, Galt, Toronto, Dresden, Brighton, Cobourg, St. Catharines and Weston.

WICKENS—MARRIOTT

Christ Church, Chippawa, was decorated with tall standards of gladioli in various colors of white, pink and blue, for the marriage on June 27, at three o'clock, of Helena Mae Marriott, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Marriott, of Chippawa, to Mr. Irvin Clayton Wickens, formerly of Ivanhoe, third son of Mrs. Miles Thompson, Niagara Falls, and the late Mr. Thomas William Wickens. The Rev. John Gerrard performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of nylon net over gleaming satin with a full gathered skirt of lace and net. The form fitting bodice of lace over net and satin was accented by a Sweetheart neckline. Her fingertip veil of embroidered net fell from a tiara of pearls and her unusual shaped bouquet was composed of Sweetheart roses and carnations.

Mrs. Vera Marriott, sister-in-law of the bride, as matron of honor, was dressed in blue satin and net with matching jacket.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. Joy Wickens, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Miss Marion Clarke, were dressed similarly to the matron of honor, Mrs. Wickens choosing shrimp and Miss Clarke, yellow. Their bouquets were identical creations in a fan-shape to match their gowns.

The best man was Mr. Carl Wickens, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Messrs. Harold Dewberry, Harold Burns and Clayton Marriott.

A reception for 175 guests was held at the Rapids Hotel. For receiving the guests, the bride's mother wore light orchid nylon sheer with orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother was in dusky rose plisse and lace with corsage of pale mauve orchids.

For travelling, the bride wore a pink gabardine suit with white and blue accessories, and an orchid corsage.

Guests were present from Marmora, Ivanhoe, Belleville, Toronto and Kenwood.

After a brief honeymoon, the newlyweds will reside at 1138 Deseronto Drive, Niagara Falls, Ontario.

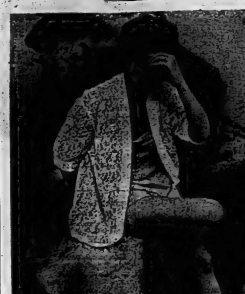
GARDINER—BATES

Melrose United Church, Melrose, was the setting on Saturday, July 11, at 2:00 p.m., for a pretty summer wedding, when the Rev. L. W. Scott, of Shannonville, united in marriage Elizabeth Cameron Bates, of Melrose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Bates, to Allen Kenneth Gardiner, of Brantford, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gardiner. White hydrangea, standards of ferns, pink roses, bluebells and delphinium formed a lovely background for the ceremony.

Mrs. Arnold Reilly, pianist, provided the wedding music and the soloist, Mrs. Richard Martin, rendered the "23rd Psalm", "The Lord's Prayer", and "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in white slipper satin, fashioned with molded bodice, with sculptured neckline curving in a yoke or lace with small, turnback collar. The full, hooped skirt was appliqued with floral lace. A small coronet of seed pearls and rhinestones held her embroidered nylon net veil, and she carried a white and gold organ Bible adorned with Regal lilies, maidenhair, fern and red rosebuds.

Miss Lola Gardiner, of Brantford, was bridesmaid, attired in a powder blue organza taffeta gown, with full hooped skirt, and matching bolero and floral sandeau. She carried a basket of roses, sweetpeas, and baby's breath.



Mr. Robert Emmett, of Brantford, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Desmond Gardiner, of Brantford, and Mr. Ronald Bates, of Melrose, were ushers.

The bride's mother, wearing royal green with pink accessories, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in powder blue with white accessories, received the guests at Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road.

For travelling to Western Ontario and points in the States, the bride chose a navy blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner will reside in Belleville.

Seashore Novelty

By ALICE ALDEN

It's about time to replenish the beach wardrobe, adding something to our resort clothes later on. That might well be the newest innovation from abroad, with backless beach jacket. It does sound far-fetched perhaps, but somehow when worn with a bathing suit or beach costumes the effect is charmingly right. This one is of white cotton lace, a cardigan edged with ribbon. As shown here over a royal blue terrycloth bathing suit, makes for a striking color and fabric combination. Rene Collard, a newcomer to the fashion world, designed this jacket.

James O'Neill Celebrates His 93rd Anniversary Today

One of the city's highly respected and oldest residents, Mr. James O'Neill, is today celebrating his 93rd birthday at the home of his daughter, and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Haslip, 9 Grove Street, with whom he resides.

Mr. O'Neill, a retired farmer of Thurlow township, is enjoying the best of health, walking his daily walk to Front Street, where he meets old friends and spends some time reminiscing about old times. He still is keenly interested in the daily happenings, and especially in political matters as he is a staunch Liberal. For a hobby he is a zealous reader, possessing fine eyesight.

There are three children, two girls and one boy, Mrs. David Haslip, of Belleville, and Mrs. Joseph Buckley, of Read, Ont., and Vincent O'Neill, of this city.

The residents of the city join with his family and friends in extending to Mr. O'Neill many happy returns of the day, and wishing him a joyous 100th anniversary.

30 Debutantes Learn to Curtsy Before Queen

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Thirty Canadian debutantes went to a diplomat's home Monday. The royal couple to curtsy to a queen.

The Canadian girls got their briefing to make sure nothing goes wrong at Thursday's presentation party in Buckingham Palace, where they will be among 300 young women from the Commonwealth who will curtsy in the presence of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh. The royal couple will be seated on twin thrones on a raised platform.

Lt.-Col. J. M. Hugo, reception and entertainment secretary at the Commonwealth relations office, addressed the Canadian debutantes on the proper way to curtsy. He had one special tip—watch that invitation card.

"Don't lose it, and don't crumple it into a ball," he said. "Some girls are so flustered they screw the cards up into a pulp. That won't do, because the lord chamberlain must be able to read what it says."

Col Hugo said the proper place to make the curtsy will be denoted with a "tiny mark" in front of the Queen's throne. There will be a similar designation before the duke's chair.

There was some animated woman's talk about hats and veils, and it was finally decided that it would be right to wear a hat and a veil, but not a veil by itself.

The Canadian debutantes will be looked after by Mrs. Norman Robertson, wife of the Canadian High Commissioner.

Mrs. Robertson was also hostess at Monday's briefing, given in the High Commissioner's official residence in Upper Brook Street, Mayfair.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

Bridegroom May, If He Wishes, Wear Civilian Clothes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Neither my fiance nor I have been to the kind of wedding we would like to have, and we very much need your help on the preliminary plans. My fiance is in the service, as a matter of fact, an officer. But his only brother, who will be his best man, is now out of service, and the two ushers, whom we think will be enough to seat the few guests, are also civilians. We want a small wedding in the church to which we both belong, as lovely as possible with our simple plans, and in good taste, even though informal. I would like to wear a "real bride's dress," perhaps of dainty white lace, waltz length, a shoulder-length tulle veil, wrist-length sheer lace gloves, small bouquet of stephanotis and one other white flower I still haven't decided on. My one attendant, my sister, as maid of honor, wearing a pink-waltz-length dress.

Now our problem: Would it be proper for my bridegroom, who will be the only man in the wedding party in military service, not to wear his uniform, and for all the men not to wear formal day attire? That is, for all the men, including the groom, to wear blue business suits, as similar in shade as possible? Or would this be inappropriate to our other plans?

Myra S.

All your plans are in excellent taste for your small, simple church wedding. And, if your bridegroom wishes (it is his decision) it would be quite all right for him to wear a civilian blue suit, and for the best man, and ushers (and your father or whoever is to escort you up the aisle) also to wear blue suits. This, like all your other plans, would put the emphasis on the informality you wish to achieve and also on the memorable charm of your wedding, which I am sure you will achieve. Good Fortune to you!

What Fee To The Minister Who Officiates At The Funeral

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

It is very important to me to know the answers to these two questions. (1) What is the average fee given to a Protestant minister for an average funeral held in a medium-size church? (2) If this fee is given by check (as I should think would generally be most convenient), is the check made out in the name of the minister or of the church?

Martha B.

(1) For the average funeral the minister usually is given from five to twenty-five dollars. Naturally the amount varies with the circumstances.

(2) The check should be made out in the name of the minister, not in the name of the church.

Individual Registration Cards Are Handy Here

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister says that when you register in a hotel, you write your street-address as well as your name and city. I thought you wrote only your name and city—this is what I have always read. Who is right?

Ada

Formerly, hotels used the hotel register, with space only for the guest's name, city and state, giving the history and using the Bible Story in connection with the story of the Dominion.

But today practically all hotels, even small resort hotels, use individual registration cards (usually enclosed in a leather frame, which the desk-clerk turns toward the guest for registering) . . . and these cards, more seldom, have a special line for the street-address. Very convenient this is, too, for future reference, and for the forwarding of mail (or any article the guest may have left in the hotel).

Freeze These Desserts Or Eat Them Now

By Mary Moore

I've been thinking. It was hard but I held myself at gunpoint and did it.

The result for this strenuous exercise is this: some of you own home freezers and are very ambitious about it. Or, lovely people, you are going to make up and store in it, then spring on your guests when they turn up unexpectedly.

It is all very commendable and efficient but there are so many who do not have freezers I want to give those readers some recipes too.

So my brain wave produced the idea of giving you recipes that could be made up and stored for future use in the freezer or used as soon as they are made for lovely cold summer desserts.

Fair enough isn't it? and I'm happy to begin:

Chocolate Cake Roll

It is a chocolate cake made like a jelly roll, using ice cream for the filling.

One-half cup sifted cake flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 teaspoon baking soda, 3 tablespoons cold water, 1 pint each mint ice cream and strawberry ice cream (or 1 quart of any ice cream you desire), Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and salt three times. Place eggs in a deep bowl and gradually add 3-4 cup sugar while beating constantly, and continue to beat until the mixture is thick and lemon colored and very much increased in volume. Add flour mixture all at once, and stir until just mixed. Add vanilla. Melt chocolate and remove it from heat and add immediately the 2 tablespoons sugar, soda and water and stir this until thick and light. Fold into batter at once, blending well. Have ready an oblong pan 15x10x1 inches, lined with wax paper and greased again. Bake exactly 15 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. Remove from oven and turn out at once onto a clean towel. Let cool. Spread one-half of the cake with the mint ice cream, the other half with the strawberry ice cream. Roll up as for a jelly roll. For good appearance trim off one-half inch of crusty ends. If to be frozen wrap in moisture-vapor-proof paper and freeze at once. If to be eaten on the day it is made it may be eaten at this stage but is better if placed in tray of refrigerator and frozen solid and then removed directly from the frozen compartment without thawing. Freezer life of cake is 2 months.

Frozen Lemon Torte

This is a dainty and refreshing lemon dessert—ideal for summer meals.

Crush vanilla wafers and measure 2-4 cup. Place a greased or buttered refrigerator tray with these crushed crumbs — using only half of them. In top of double boiler mix together 3 beaten egg yolks, 1-4 cup lemon juice, grated rind of 1 lemon, 1-8 teaspoon of salt and 1-2 cup sugar, and cook, stirring, over boiling water until thick. Cool. Have chilled 1-2 cup evaporated milk, and beat it in a cold bowl with rotary beater until whipped. Beat until stiff the left over 3 egg whites. Fold both of these whipped ingredients into the cooled lemon mixture. Pour over the wafer crumbs and cover evenly with the remaining crumbs. If to be frozen for future use wrap in moisture-vapor-proof paper and fast-freeze. If to be used currently, freeze in refrigerator for 4 hours. Cut in squares with slices or in squares. Freezer life of this torte is 1 month.

Three-in-one Ice Box Cookies

One cup butter, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup white sugar, 1 egg, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 cups stirred but not sifted flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup chopped walnuts, 1 cup chopped dates, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream the sugars into it until light and fluffy. Add eggs and whipped ingredients to the cooled gether the flour soda, and salt and gradually stir in until mixed. Divide dough into 3 portions. Leave one part plain. Melt the chocolate in double boiler and add it to one part, stirring it in thoroughly. Add nuts and dates to third part. Shape each portion of dough into a long 2-inch wide roll. Wrap in moisture-vapor-proof paper and fast freeze if to be kept for future use. If to be used currently, wrap in double thickness of wax paper and chill until hard. To bake, slice dough in 1-8 inch-thick slices and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 10 or 12 minutes.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

Must A Deserted Wife of 22 Be Lonely Forever?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Four years a year ago, my husband left me and went to live with another woman who has money. Because I still love him, and because of my church, I have continuously refused him a divorce.

During this past year, I have gone out only with my family and girl friends. But now, through my job, I have become friendly with a young divorced man who has been very kind to me, and has recently asked me for dates. I would like to go, because I feel very lonesome at times, but my parents object. They say if I did that, I would be no better than the woman with whom my husband is living.

Do you think there would be any harm in going to a movie or dancing with this young man? I thought my husband would ever change, but he shows no sign of it, but after waiting a year, I am beginning to think I am living in false hope. And because there is out of the question, I am wondering if my social life will be as lonely as this past year.

Shall I go out on dates, or just keep on waiting for my first husband returns? I am only 22 years old, and because I am a R.C. I have been married three years.

S.M.

Dear S.N.:

Before making up your mind that you must live alone and lonely life forever, I think you should talk this whole problem over with your priest, if you have not done so already. It would seem to me incredible that the R.C. annulment of 22 should have to carry out the role of deserted wife for the rest of her days.

It would probably be wise to wait a while longer to see whether your husband does come back, and there might be a chance of working things out so that you could resume your marriage and, because you are both so young still make it a success. But if, after a reasonable waiting period, he has made no move toward such an end, then I would think that some solution could be worked out for you.

I doubt if it would be wise, just at this point, for you to start going with young men. I realize how hard it must be for a young woman to be out of normal association with men, of her own age, but, at the same time, it would be better to wait until your affairs are straightened out, so that you know just what is going to happen and can tell how to plan your life.

Right now, I believe that the talk with a representative of your church is the first and most important step.

Beauty

Get Out Your Tape-Measure

Says a famous dress designer: "There are optical illusions concerning the femine figure. They are created by the lines of the clothes that are worn. Every woman should make a critical analysis of her shape which will keep her from making mistakes when selecting the items of her wardrobe. We know that the wrong makeup is used and the hair is dressed will apparently change facial contours. making wide faces look thinner, thin faces fuller. Well, there also are means of improving the appearance of the body, camouflaging defects.

The actual size of the figure is less important than its proportions. A woman of small frame may be overweight at a much lower figure than one of large frame. If little cutie takes on 5 or fifteen pounds over normal, her measurements will definitely change.

The height of the figure is sometimes measured in terms of the head, from crown to chin. Seven and one-half beads is considered average and fine if it, and you qualify.

And here is something else; it is not alone the actual height of a woman that makes her appear tall but also the proportion of the head to the body. A small head with a hairdo piled high on the top of it makes its owner appear taller than the woman with a large head and flatted out coiffure.

In the ideal figure the distance around the shoulders or tops of the arms should be the same as the hip measurement in that of only dien and very young girls the hips are considerably narrower. It is better to have the shoulders wider than the hips, than to have the hips wider than the shoulders.

If you are in the skinny bracket, your arms may be smaller above the elbow than below. If they belong to the weight-watcher cult, bowing over every pound gained the upper arm will be much larger than the lower one.

The calves, ankles and feet should be in proportion to the rest of the body. If the torso has expanded beyond pleasing lines, and feet and ankles are very small, a woman will look top heavy. She should select shoes that make her feet look a bit larger. But will she? She won't. Plumpies are particularly proud of their small feet.

TRINITY UNITED W.M.S.

MADOC — Trinity W.M.S. members held their meeting at the summer home of Mrs. Frank Dafoe on Wednesday evening.

A short program was enjoyed with Mrs. Bennett conducting the worship service who took as her theme "Our Country's Birthday," giving the history and using the Bible Story in connection with the story of the Dominion.

A reading with responses was read by Mrs. Bennett; Mrs. P. H. Nayler giving the response. A reading, "A Young Boy's Prayer," concluded the worship service. Mrs. Empey gave the highlights of the branch meeting held in Kingston and offered prayer for the missionary, Miss Cline.

Business period consisted of the minutes of previous meeting and receiving correspondence. Plans were made for the annual summer bazaar to be held on July 18 in Mrs. Nickle's Store. A story, "The Purple Door," read by Mrs. P. H. Nayler, assisted by the members, closed the meeting. The remainder of the evening was spent socially with refreshments being served by the hostess. Miss Marion Mutton of Peterborough was a guest at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton of Toronto spent a few days with the latter's mother, Mrs. F. Dafoe.

RAWDON

'Childhood Allergies' Topic Heard At River Valley W.I.

RAWDON — Mrs. Rose Bush, 1st vice pres., was in charge of the July meeting of River Valley Women's Institute.

The school house was nicely decorated with summer blooms and Mrs. J. B. Donohue played the ons.

About 30 women from Seymour East W.I. were guests, paying River Valley a return visit. There were about 30 members of River Valley W.I. in attendance and the illness of the president, Mrs. Edward Heasman, was regretted.

Mrs. Chester Sills, West Huntington, was the guest speaker, gave a most informative talk on "Childhood Allergies." She outlined various things that cause allergy and said almost anyone may be sensitive to one or more allergies. Every baby cannot stand to be out in the sunshine and mothers may use their best judgment. Some are sensitive to too much heat, or too much cold or too much sunlight.

Only the best of an egg should be given to young children. The speaker stated that asthma is more prevalent in the hilly Quinte district than in any other part of the country.

Standard allergies are often inherited such as hay fever and asthma.

Then there is the supposed kind of allergy that can be overallows or eats; house dust is the affected area . . . actually hate is only the pain! InfraRUB soothes sore tissues, brings comfort fast.

Allergy Treatments

The speaker told of various forms of treatment that will give relief in some cases, particularly asthma. Wind and weather carry ragweed to all over the country and some people suffer with acute respiratory attacks.

Mrs. Sills gave a dissertation skin allergies and warned mothers not to use ointment prescribed for some other child as this could prove dangerous. She admonished her audience to follow the medication with their doctor; to not put a child on a diet for three months; do not let a school child hold down two jobs; do not spend more than 30 minutes visiting a maternity patient.

Mrs. Sills said there were splendid booklets available and always remember that the earlier that an allergy is treated, the better it is for the patient.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen voiced thanks on behalf of the audience to Mrs. Sills for her interesting message on such a worthwhile subject.

Coronation Issue

The slater institute, Abbot's Leige, Bristol, England, forwarded 140 copies of the Coronation issue of "Home and Country." These were passed out to the members. The donations contained a family portrait of the royal family suitable for framing; a photograph of Queen Elizabeth II and a royal story as the Queen Mother presented Prince Charles Edward Windsor's Institute, and exclusive pictures were taken with royal permission for this special issue of "Home and Country."

Five dollars was voted to Stirling Agricultural Society for prizes. There are two tickets for "Canada Day" available.

The August meeting will be held on Thursday, August 6th and it will be "Children's Day" with the school teachers in charge. Each member is asked for a cent prize for a boy or girl.

Mrs. George Heasman presided over the assembly singing which included "A Smile is Quite a Funny Thing."

Mrs. George Ingram, Seymour East, read a poem by Edgar Guest, "The Making of Friends," and Miss Patsy Wallace concluded a vocal solo with Miss Marilyn Hall at the piano.

Mrs. Will Ashby, River Valley, gave the story of the "Watermelon." Misses Joanne and Grace Heasman sang "The Land of Glee Tomorrow."

Mrs. Will Wallace, president Seymour East, W.I., brought greetings.

The hostess institute serve bountiful refreshments and were tendered a vote of thanks for hospitality.

Certificates of Achievement for completion of two projects were awarded to thirty-six members.

Many Old Homes Being Torn Down in Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—One by one Calgary's old downtown houses are falling into the hands of the wrecker or mover.

The reasons are high taxation and a growing need for commerc- ial sites and parking space. The process has been accelerated in the last two years.

High taxes make it uneconomical to have residential buildings on any space which could yield more time by rental as a bus- ness block. Although some of the old homes have doubled and treb- d earnings when broken down to apartments, the returns still n't overpay.

So great is the need for parking sites, particularly around larger wns, that it is profitable to tear building down. Real-estate ex- rts say the process will con- ue as long as Calgary's park- ing problem is so far from solu- tion.

Old buildings are not an entire loss. Bungalows are not too hard to move but two-storey homes pre- sent more of a problem.

If they are of sound construc- tion, they will stand the strain of hoisting. If necessary, the roof is removed to permit the house to pass under the wires.

One difficulty which may lead to wrecking rather than removal is scarcity of lots. Moving a house is a slow process and movers pre- fer a shift less than two miles if possible. The problem lies in the lack of suitable lots within that radius of the centre of the city.

Cost of moving a house and set- ting it up again on a new site is rarely under $5,000. A lot costs about $2,500 and a basement has to be built.

70 Candidates Listed in Early Nominations

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seventy candidates officially op- posed the Aug. 10 federal election fight Monday, filling papers and paying $200 deposits in 21 of the country's 263 constituencies.

The general nomination day for July 27, two weeks in advance of the vote, Monday's nominations were in large scattered constitu- encies.

Liberal government candidates are contesting all 21. Progressive Conservatives entered the fight in 15, CCF in 13, Social Credit in nine and Labor - Progressives in eight. There were three Independ- ent entries—two of them in the new constituency of Mackenzie River which takes in Mackenzie district in the Northwest Territor- ies.

There were no surprises. Trade Minister Howe moved into an an- nounced contest at Port Arthur where he is seeking his fifth term. He is opposed by Pro- gressive Conservative, CCF and Labor-Progressive candidates.

James G. Fisherwill, ne secretary of state, has a Progressive Con- servative opponent in Scarboro- Twillingate, the Newfoundland seat held by his predecessor in the cab- inet, Gordon Bradley.

Resigned From Party

Mr. Pickersgill's opponent is Ed- ward Russell, a former cabinet minister in Newfoundland's pro- vincial Liberal government. He re- signed and left the party after a row over fiscal policies.

John G. Diefenbaker, prominent Progressive Conservative, faces Liberal, CCF and Labor-Progres- sive opposition in a four-way race in his constituency, a Tory seat in the last House. Mr. Diefenbaker, former member for Lake Centre, moved to Prince Albert because of boundary changes in redistribu- tion.

One woman entered the field, Mrs. Grace Sparkes, Progressive Conservative candidate in Burin- Burgeo in Newfoundland. She is women's editor of the St. John's Daily News.

There are 11 candidates for five Northwest seats with nomina- tions Monday, five candidates in Yukon-Mackenzie, six Saskatch- ewan seats, 13 in three Alberta seats.

Three entered the field in Cari- boo, B.C., and four in Mackenzie River.

Three candidates filed in the Yukon and four in the British Co- lumbia riding of Skeena.

Islanders Show How to Live Happily Together

By EDWARD SAYERS

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reu- ters)—On little dots of palm-co- vered land spread through 1,000,000 square miles of tropical waters, wiry, neat - naked Gilbert and Ellice Islanders are showing how to work together, make money and live happily.

Co-operation such as they are using can be an important means in expanding the economy and raising the living standards of the 4,000,000 people whose territories belong to the South Pacific com- mission set up by the United States, Britain, Australia, France, The Netherlands and New Zealand to provide for the betterment of their territories.

Most of the thirty-seven islands in the group making a total of only 130 square miles, are low, flat coral atolls, barren and sandy, where virtually the only growth is the coconut palm, the pandanus and a coarse edible tuber called babai.

But for the Second World War, the islanders would still be selling their copra, source of coconut oil, to British and Japanese firms which traded to the group and con- trolled the wholesale and much of the retail business.

After the war, Japanese firms were out of the picture and British firms did not resume opera- tions. New methods had to be found to organize the gathering and marketing of copra.

The co-operative societies were rebuilt and the islanders were taught how to operate them as island units. Goods were supplied on credit until the societies could become going concerns.

About 6,000 tons of sun - dried copra were produced each year for export. Twenty-seven registered co-operative societies serve 13,000 members and registered custom- ers in an area with a total esti- mated population of 60,000.

The societies own two 60 - foot motor vessels, six sailing ships, three launches, three punts, seven trucks, docks, warehouses, stores and other capital equipment.

Nearly 60,000 Orangemen Walk In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Nearly 60,000 Orangemen from 600 Ontario, Que- bec and New York state lodges paraded through Ottawa Monday in grand climax of a two-day cele- bration—largest ever held here to mark the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

Crowds lined the parade route to watch the 80 bands and thousands of colorfully clad marchers pass in the four-mile-long spectacle.

Almost a dozen "King Williams," mounted on white horses, high- lighted the parade which was led by Denzil Hill, past grand master of the Orange Young Britons of Ontario East.

Following him in cars were of- ficers of the Grand Lodge, includ- ing Richard Sanderson of Have- lock, Ont., Grand Master of On- tario East; Deputy Grand Master J. E. Magladry of Ottawa, parade marshal; J. D. Sutherland, Grand Secretary and Leroy Heaney, dep- uty grand secretary, both of Ot- awa.

Others in the official cars were Archibald Miller of Brockville, Ont., grand marshal; Rev. F. J. Beezer, Carrying Place, Ont., grand chaplain; grand officers of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent As- sociation, led by Mrs. William Mil- ler of Cornwall; Grand Lodge of- ficers of the OYB led by Gordon McCormick, Toronto, grand mas- ter; J. A. Corrigan, Ottawa, past grand master of Ontario East; and the masters of the counties of Car- leton and Ottawa, Thomas David- son and W. D. Wellman.

Project Finished One Year Ahead Of Schedule

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—A bar- rage dam forming part of the west Bengal state's $31,000,000 May- urakshi irrigation project has been completed a year ahead of schedu- le, and thousands of laborers virtually unassisted by heavy ma- chinery are at work piling up 10,- 000,000 feet of masonry in the con- struction of another dam.

The over-all project provides for the storage of water in the heart of the picturesque countryside of the Santhal hills.

The main dam will connect two hills, where the hill stream of May- urakshi flows through a narrow valley to irrigate the district of Birbhum in Bengal.

The project will irrigate 600,000 acres in the monsoon season and 120,000 acres during the cold wea- ther season in the districts of Birb- hum, Murshidabad and Burdwan, in west Bengal, and 30,000 acres in the monsoon season in the Santhal Parganas in the state of Bihar.

Although new land to be culti- vated is limited to 20,000 acres, the assured supply of irrigation water to more than 730,000 acres is expected to increase the yield of rice by 300,000 tons a year and other crops by 60,000 tons. Capital outlay is expected to be recovered in two years from agricultural pro- duce. In that time the project also will enable west Bengal to be- come self-sufficient in food.

12-Week-Old Strike at Quaker Oats Settled

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Contingent settlement of the 12-week-old strike of some 425 employees at the Quaker Oats Co. of Canada plant here was announced Sunday by William Triggs, president of Local 233 of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL).

Triggs said the employees voted 251-48 to accept a company compromise offer as soon as a similar offer plus union security is negotiated by some 130 employees at the Quaker plant in Saskatoon, who are members of local 418 of the same union.

The compromise offer accepted established the basic wage rate at $1.39½ an hour effective Jan. 1 and provided for a modified swing shift applicable to some 80 employees in the flour mill. A company offer of a 40-hour week was also accepted.

Previously the company had offered the wage increase effective July 1 and the union had rejected any form of a swing shift.

The Saskatoon employees, who went on strike last April 22 with the Peterborough local, have been seeking union-security benefits in addition to the wage and hour agreements.

Local President Triggs said the men would return to work as soon as the Saskatoon workers had worked out an agreement with the company.

Testimony About Charges of Police Complicity Halted

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France (AP)—The court today called a halt to testimony about charges of police complicity in the $850,000 jewel robbery of the Aga Khan and his wife in 1948.

A ripple of disappointment ran through the courtroom when presiding Judge Yahan Portolano rejected the request of Pierre Bertaux, former chief of French security police, for permission to testify further concerning a one-time subordinate's charges that he helped one of the robbers escape capture and that he very possibly shared in the loot.

The sensational charges were made last Friday by Georges Valentin, chief of France's judicial police and stole the limelight away from the 12 men on trial for the robbery. The court decided today that more of the conflicting testimony by the feuding police officials would shed no new light on the guilt or innocence of the men on trial.

Bertaux followed Valentin to the stand Friday, described him as a disgruntled subordinate angered because he was pulled off the important jewel robbery case, and said the charges were not new and he had been cleared of them.

Meanwhile, the trial proceeded with routine testimony and some depositions from witnesses unable to appear.

Contracting Firms Should be Helped Says the Times

LONDON (Reuters)—The Times today says help should be offered to British contracting firms trying to establish themselves in Canada with a view to taking part in the St. Lawrence Seaway work and other big Canadian development projects.

"The seaway may provide the impetus and a unique opportunity of its own," the paper says in an editorial. "But the important objective is that British firms should be able to establish their position in Canada so that they can participate in Canadian development at large."

Since the war, The Times adds, many British contracting firms had built up a large business in many parts of the Commonwealth, "but Canada has remained a closed book."

Escutcheon Will Get New Home In Que. Museum

QUEBEC (CP)—An old wooden escutcheon showing the coat of arms of King Louis XI of France will get a new home soon when it is moved from the city council room to the Quebec Provincial Museum here.

City fathers who arranged the move with Gerard Morisset, museum director, figure that after 325 years the shield has enough historical importance to warrant "safe-keeping against the threat of fire."

The city, however, will not drop its property rights over the heavy four-foot shield. A little plaque to be attached to the base will read: "This blazon is the property of the City of Quebec."

In exchange, the council will receive a copy of the shield, the copy to be made from the original which was carved in 1737 by Noel Levasseur of Quebec.

An earlier copy was sent to Hastings, England in a trade for the original. The reason is explained on a plaque at the base of the original which says: "This shield of the king, taken from one of the gates of Quebec at the capture of this city in 1759 and offered to the City of Hastings by General Murray, first British governor of Canada, was graciously returned to the City of Quebec by the Hastings city council, July 18, 1925."

A red and gold crown tops the painted sculpture which is wreathed by laurel and acanthus leaves. In the centre are three fleur-de-lis on a blue field surrounded by a gold-colored chain holding the Cross of St. Louis.

"Must be Alert to Opportunity," Says Dulles

CAMPBELLFORD

Utilities Seek Hook-up With Ontario Hydro

CAMPBELLFORD — The Campbellford Public Utilities Commission held their regular meeting in the council chambers on Thursday evening with all members present except Commissioner Newman.

Secretary A. J. Meyers reported he had called on the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, explaining to him the proposed plan of joining the H.E.P.C.

Mr. Goodfellow was keenly interested and suggested a meeting between board members and officials of the H.E.P.C. Mr. Meyers and Commission Board Manager P. C. Denyes met with H.E.P.C. officials last month but the chairman of the H.E.P.C., Robert Saunders, was still in England at the time.

Wages or hours of work for P.U.C. employees were not discussed but Hydro officials suggested rates which, would be increased if Campbellford became a Hydro town. Nothing concrete was decided at the meeting.

Ross Striker, an official of the H.E.P.C. and a former resident of Campbellford, gave his opinion that could see no reason why Campbellford rates would have to be increased because the board had such a comparatively large amount of money on hand.

Manager Denyes reported in the wage demands of power house employees. They are willing to accept a 44-hour week but did not know how this would affect the water works department employees. The new system would require three men inside which would leave no one for outside work. The matter was left over until a satisfactory position system for employees could be found.

The board made their usual grant of $75 for the annual picnic for P.U.C. employees.

Mr. Denyes was instructed to contact the Confederation Life Insurance Company and request them to make suggestions in reference to a pension plan for employees.

No action will be taken on any discussions reached as a result of the P.U.C.-Hydro meeting until C. U. Peeling, an engineer who has been commissioned to investigate the local situation, makes his report. Mr. Denyes was instructed to secure prices and information on a new turbine generator for the number two machine at the local plant. The Board adjourned after the passing of the pay sheet.

GLOBAL GET-TOGETHER!

Don't look now, but if you happen to be around Memorial Arena next Friday evening you'll notice a distinct League of Nations touch to the ring goings-on.

Heading the parade is the sensational Senegalese Bobo Brazil, whose koko-bonking has rattled the grey matter or the pieces where it is supposed to be, of many a top-ranking pachyderm, and opposing him is Hans Schmidt, the Dunedin deer Demon, or is it the Hamburgian Hoi Dog?

Then in the semi-final is a refreshing breath of Ouide Ireland, the breens from Killarney, Timothy Geohagen, whose manly beauty has caused many a quiver to the hearts of the colleens of Cork, and Dan Pletchos, said to be a Swede from Svenska.

Robert Duranton, handsome young boulevardier from the shadow of the Arc de Triomphe in gay Paree, appears in the opener and screws from him is the "Terrible Pole," Tiger Zyrec, whose hurdle-hair moustache is the only spot of blemish adornment from his neck northward.

Schmidt is said to be a counterpart of the ferocious Hans Schmot, Terrible Teuton, whose green-stepping nation used Prussianism to such good effect in the last fracas, at the clutches of furry a couple of seasons ago. Schmidt has fought the best of them in cities like Toronto, Buffalo, Rochester and points south, and used wrot, and has a reputation that would make the nattes of such muslers as John Katan, Nanjo Singh, the Masked Marvel, and other "heavies" of the ressin' trad, look like kale'd cherubim in comparison.

But he'll have to be tough to subdue the ebony-hued Bobo, who has a large following in Toronto. The Senegalese is a fast, aggressive type of battler whose devastating bobo'swith his nog-gin' has given more than one toughie a distinct case of flat feet. It should be an exciting brawl.

SOFTBALL PLAYOFFS

The District Softball League playoff got under way last night with Wooler tangling with the Glen Roy juniors at the CNR Recreational Park.

Tonight the league-leading Point Anne team plays host to Herbie Hexn's Northern Electrics with Frankford being the guests of the CNR Diesels at the CNR park. Tomorrow night the Glens go to Wooler while the Diesels visit Ergadville in the second of the best-of-seven series.

Point Anne clashes with Northerns in their second tilt at the Alemite Field on Thursday with the third game if necessary at Ox Point on Friday evening. Saturday, if necessary Frankford will be here as guests of the Diesels in the now-old game.

While the powerful Ox Pointers who suffered but one defeat during schedule play, are heavily favored to take the loop title, anything can happen in this game of softball. And Mike Whalen's men are not taking any chances. They'll be out to cop the initial wrench with everything they have in their power. By the same token the "Ole Clucker" has his Short Circuit Cockeyes steamed up for the fray and they're ready to go all out to grab this all-important first tilt.

It is the same way with the Diesels and M'sieu Cy Young has his railroaders all ready with a full head of steam and with Frankford in no mood to be trifled with, tonight's fray at the CNR Recreation Field should be a thriller. The village lads are no pushovers by any stretch of the imagination and the Diesels will have to keep rolling to knock off the honors.

It is a brand new league now with the boys all starting from scratch and spotlight teams shouldn't and likely won't figure things are in the bag, for there's many a slip 'twixt the skirt and the undies.'

A bulletin received today from Frank Feaver, secretary of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, reminds league and club secretaries that all players' certificates of the OASA must be signed not later than July 15. The OASA section of these certificates must be mailed to the secretary, 338 Maple Avenue, Hamilton, by July 25. The first two sections of the certificates should be retained. Players' sections must be carried by team managers at all times.

Feaver also reminds affiliated associations that all winners must be registered by certain dates. In the case of the Belleville District Softball League it is August 15.

The OASA executive meets on Saturday and Sunday, July 25 and 26 when the playoff draws will be made. All umpires for playoff games must be registered with the OASA and will carry a 1953 identification card issued by the OASA.

Bowling News

Up in Trenton on Saturday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Argue, Mrs. Harold Cross and William Holway, in the mixed rink tournament, won third three-game high score, while two other rinks from the Belleville club, Mrs. C. A. Mott, Mrs. Gordon Vince, Garn Dodds and "Davey" Davison and Mrs. Reita Lloyd, Mrs. Gerald Clapp, Jack Smith and Claude D. Vice failed to edge into the payoff berth.

Mr. Argue had three tough games with the second especially rugged. On the last end of that game, the Belleville rink was down deep coming home and when Mr. Argue went to bowl his last shot, the rink was lying three. Cliff made a perfect shot to take out two of the opposition bowls and laid five to win. The third game was also hard with the rink winning by a margin of two shots.

Kingston took most of the honors at the tournament as that club had nine rinks at the tourney, but the high honors of be found went to popular "Bill" Finlay of the host club. With his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith he won high three-game count and first prize. In second place was Mr. and Mrs. James Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith of Kingston, while the Belleville rink was third. The rinks of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smart and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hinton and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dooley, both of Kingston, were tied for fourth high score and they equally divided the prizes. Mr. and Mrs. Swaf field and Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnson won the one-game high score.

On Friday afternoon three rinks journeyed to Stirling with Mrs. Nora Kyle, Mrs. T. Thompson and Mrs. J. Scott winning the three-game high count while Mrs. W. Gilbert, Mrs. C. L. Hyde and Mrs. George Watkin won the one-game high. On the same day at Perth-borough Mrs. C. A. Mott and Mrs. Gordon Vince failed to make the payoff in the women's doubles.

Records Say 2nd-Place Teams When All-Star Game Played Rarely Finish Flag Winners

By BEN FELICIAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

Recent baseball history...shows the chances are slim that either Chicago White Sox or Milwaukee Braves will win a pennant this season.

The Sox and the Braves are the second-place teams as the flag chasers await the outcome of today's all-star game. The Braves tail Brooklyn by a-game-and-a-half. Chicago is five behind New York's Yankees.

In 1951 New York Giants moved from second to the pennant after the all-star break. The Yankees did it in the American League in 1950. In each of those other first five seasons the National League winner already was in first place when the all-star game rolled along.

During that same spell the Yankees were the only team that climbed from lower than second. In 1951 they were third behind Chicago and Boston when the all-star game was played. In 1948, 1949 and 1947 the Yankees of the league team in first place when the vacation came finished first.

Stayed Late

This year the all-star game is being played later in the season than ever before. It will be two weeks later than a year ago.

Briefly, here's how the last five seasons have gone, after the all-star break:

1952: American League—Cleveland, the pennant winner, was in first place, slipped into third on the end of July and then climbed back. The Athletics pulled into first in late July, were tumbled to finish fourth, Boston, in fourth at the break, ended second.

National League — The Braves were in first and stayed there. St. Louis climbed from third to second and Brooklyn jumped from fifth to second before settling to third.

1951: American League — The Yankees were in third behind Cleveland and Boston at the all-star break and it stayed that way until September when the Yankees took over.

National League—Brooklyn slightly faltered briefly after the all-star game, then resumed the lead. The Cardinals shot into first, but slumped in a hurry.

1950: American League—The Yankees were in third, their low point of the year. The White Sox fell from first to fourth before the end of July. Cleveland moved from fourth to a second-place finish behind the Yanks. Boston moved from second to first, then trailed off to third.

National League — Brooklyn strayed back from second to third in the next week, then rallied for slight victory over the Giants.

1952: American League —The White Sox were a close second to the Yankees, but hit the skids and fell to sixth after the race was over. They recovered to finish third. Cleveland edged up to second, but couldn't catch the Yankees.

National League — The only change from the all-star break to the end of the season came when the Phillies, who were fifth, replaced the Cubs at the bottom of the first division. Brooklyn was second, followed by the Giants and the Cardinals.

Brantford Sox Take Over Lead In Intercounty

Brantford Red Sox slugged their way to the top of the senior Intercounty Baseball League Monday night.

The determined Red Sox were bound that they position for several weeks and finally managed the chore with a 5-3 victory over St. Thomas Elgins. The 1-0 loss by Kitchener Panthers last night to Oshawa Merchants also helped.

The Sox held the lead earlier in the season but were rooted out by London Majors who subsequently fell to Kitchener. Brantford now leads the Panthers by two games.

Elsewhere in the league Waterloo Tigers bolstered their grip on fourth place by shading Guelph Maple Leafs 4-2. Sixth-place Galt Terriers also won, defeating 14-1.

At Brantford, George Copeland was the star of the night. He allowed the Elgins only two hits and fanned nine. Teammate Luther Clifford belted in three runs. Tommy White, who took over the mound from Wally Hogge in the second, took the loss for the visitors.

Bud Fipplemeyer hurled the Oshawa shutout. Bill Allan was the loser and star of the game was his choice chiefly to his wildness. He walked 10 batters in the route but put him on second. Butch Lawing grounded out to Hugh McGillivary who flagged down Allan for three-out of Jones. However in his bid for a double play, Allan threw wild at first. Bob Ryba stole home from second before the ball was returned.

Waterloo rode along smoothly until the seventh inning when starting pitcher Dick Sposato weakened and three relief men took turns on the mound to preserve a 4-1 edge. The Leafs got one run in the seventh and another in the ninth. Ed Drapcho allowed the Tigers only five hits but was charged with the loss. Sposato got the win.

Galt Terriers attacked three opposition hurlers for 17 hits in its quest for victory and clinched the issue in the eighth off a squeeze play with Johnny Russian on third and Art Gratton at bat. Bob Pontarello then doubled for two home runs. Ted Sermanski started for Galt but lost control in the third and Zeb Eaton finished. Jack Brumm, the London Majors' ace, the loser.

Royals Rout Bisons 6-3; Leafs Win Pair

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals turned on their distance - hitting power Monday night in the opener of a four-game Buffalo series to salvage their International Baseball League leadership from the Bisons.

Homers by Ken Wood and Rocky Nelson, clouted in the ninth, paced the Royals to a 6-3 victory over the hard and extended their sweep to two-back lead to 1½ games.

Earl Mossor scattered eight hits in the opener of a pair of twin-bills with a five-run rally against three setbacks. The blast of Mossor included a round-tripper by Ken Chapman—his seventh—and a pinch-homer by Leroy Zernik.

Homers also played a big part in Rochester's 3-2, 10-inning conquest of Syracuse Chiefs. Pilot Harry Walker of the Red Wings smacked two of them, his second deciding the game. He hit his first in the sixth.

Rookie Lefty Niles Jordan won his second straight decision, but before he was given a scare by Syracuse outfielder Johnny Blatnik, who tripled with the bases loaded in one and about to send the game into an extra inning.

Toronto Maple Leafs took a day-night doubleheader from the Athletics at both ends 5-3 and 6-4.

Leafs won the afternoon game in the 10th inning on Ottawa error, intentional pass and a crashing double by Hal Ketler, after coming from behind.

A six-hit pitching job by Vic Lombardi enabled Toronto to win the night contest. Joe Taylor homered for Ottawa.

ADOPT NEW RULE

CINCINNATI (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and the major leagues, acting in joint session Monday night, adopted a rule which limits all players' delivery except from Oct. 1 to Dec. 1.

The rule eliminates the possibility of St. Louis Browns' or any other franchise being moved except during that period.

The makers also turned down a bid by the Pacific Coast League to cut the player limit to 23 men. The National League voted in favor of the change, but the American League and Commissioner Frick voted to retain the present 25-man limit.

Belgians, Danes Clash In Davis Cup Play

LONDON (AP) — Belgium and Denmark will meet for the European zone Davis Cup championships and the right to meet India, the eastern zone representative.

The Belgium-Denmark tie must be completed by a week from today. The winner of the Asia-Europe zone championship then will meet the winner of the American zone eliminations.

Belgium scored the biggest upset so far by defeating Italy in Brussels Monday, 5-2, while Denmark defeated France, 4-1, at Paris.

Jackie Brichant of Belgium notched the deciding victory when he toppled Italy's No. 1 player, Fausto Gardini, 12-10, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4. Before that, Philippe Washer downed The Chinese armed their attack. The Danes went into their final day's play against the French leading by 2-1, and Kurt Nielsen and Torben Ulrich wrapped it up, although they both had to go more than the regulation three sets. Ulrich scored the deciding victory when he stopped Robert Haillet, 6-4, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4. Nielsen then defeated Paul Remy, 13-10, 1-6, 6-4, 6-0, 6-4.

Has your engine lost its new car pep? Re-power with...

The Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years

TCP®, a Shell-discovered additive now blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, actually re-powers your engine by stopping short circuiting of spark plugs and controlling pre-ignition. Gives up to 15% more power . . . increases spark plug life up to 150%.

Today's driving—often at low speeds in traffic and around town—increases the amount of combustion deposits, which actually short-circuit spark plugs and cause pre-ignition of the fuel-air mixture.

Because these deposits accumulate in all engines both old and new—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP is essential to keep your engine delivering full power—because the TCP additive actually stops the power-crippling effect of these deposits.

Today, Shell Premium with TCP is available in this area, but only from your Shell Dealer.

Major Leagues Finest Fifty Paraded Today at Cincinnati, With Nats Strong Favorites

By JOE REICHLER

CINCINNATI (AP) — Baseball's greatest performers—the National and American Leagues' finest 30—are on display here today as the rival circuits clash in the 20th annual all-star game at Crosley Field.

Besides the capacity crowd of some 30,000 on hand to see the all-stars in the flesh, millions of television and radio fans were prepared to watch and hear the nationals seek their fourth straight, which would match the longest streak compiled by the American League in 1946-49.

Despite victories in 12 of the 19 previous July encounters as well as 32 of 46 World Series engagements, the American League was an 8-5 underdog against the hard-hitting Nationals. Never before was the junior circuit such a decided underdog.

Even manager Casey Stengel, who has hung World Series defeats upon the Nationals' doorstep in the last four years, sized up his dubious chances with the baseball on: "They say the other guy has all the players."

"The other guy," of course, is Charlie Dressen, who was making his debut as pilot of the Nationals. Dressen, who wouldn't conquer Casey and his Yankees in October, felt he could do it today because "I have the best pitcher and the best hitter in baseball on my side."

By the "best pitcher," he meant Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phils' standout righthander, whose 14 victories outrank the other all-stars. As expected, Dressen nominated Roberts to hurl the first three innings. He was to be opposed by Billy Pierce, Chicago's fine little southpaw, whose record of 10-5 was slightly inferior to Roberts' 14-6.

The starters may not be much more than three innings under the rules. Both Dressen and Stengel were coy about announcing their second and third pitchers.

Logic pointed to Dressen following up with Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's splendid southpaw, Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati's Ken Raffensberger or Max Surkont, St. Louis' Gerry Staley or Pittsburgh's Murry Dickson were the expected duke to follow. Hoyt Wilhelm, the Giants' knuckleball relief ace, would be used only in a tight spot.

Veteran Johnny Sain of the Yankees, well-liked by Stengel, figured to get the second pitching assignment for the American League. Cleveland's Bob Lemon or Mike Garcia would be the third pitcher.

There appeared to be little question that the American League pitchers faced the more difficult task. A look at the batting and slugging marks show that the National League squad held a wide margin over Stengel's hitters in all departments with the exception of doubles. The figures:

	NL	AL
Batting average	.303	.286
Home Runs	219	139
Runs batted in	963	773
Triples	32	47
Doubles	364	283

The tipoff on the national's awesome power was the fact that Enos Slaughter, the Cardinals' great outfielder playing his 10th all-star game, was placed in eighth spot in the batting order.

Ed Mathews, Ted Kluszewski, Roy Campanella, Gus Bell, and Stan Musial are their top power hitters.

Although outshone by the National League sluggers, the American had a fairly imposing lineup of its own. With fellows like Al Rosen, Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer, Mickey Mantle and Gus Zernial in the starting array, it becomes an "anything-can-happen" team.

Glen Roy Jrs. Down Wooler By 11-3 Score

Glen Roy Juniors downed Wooler 11-3 at the CNR Field in the first game of the City-District Softball League quarter finals.

Wooler went into the lead in the second inning but then the Glens exploded with six runs in the fifth of the third and were not bested for the rest of the game. They insured the game in the fifth with two more and got three more in the sixth.

John Batchelor was best at the plate for the Glens with a perfect night, getting four singles and a double in five trips.

Radnor helped his own cause by banging out a pair, while Barclay and Bob Green each touched the ball for two safeties. Carr put the wood to the ball for a long home run. Jones, Goyer and Day connected for one single apiece.

McColl, Richards and Putman were the hitters for Wooler, getting a pair apiece while Simonett got the other lone hit for the losers.

Radnor went all the way on the hill, for the Glens, getting five on strikes and walking none. He was relieved by McColl who struck out three and walked two.

Turfman Claims British Bloodlines Best on Any Racetracks in World

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — A horse named Anhajo won a two-year-old race in California, and the result rippled thousands of miles across the Atlantic.

In London, turf enthusiast Ronald Barnett picked up his racing paper, cheerfully noted the details and chalked up first-round success in an experiment designed to prove the pre-eminence of British bloodstock.

Anhajo is one of three Irish thoroughbreds air-shipped to the United States last year. Barnett sent them to support his pet theory—that British horses, given a proper start in life, can race the legs off American steeds on their own home grounds.

Needs Breaking In

Barnett claims British bloodlines still are the world's best. All you have to do, he argues, is fly the horses to the other side early enough so they can be "broken" there and brought up to facing the American way. Many transatlantic turf invaders have failed in the past because they couldn't get used to the changed conditions, such as dirt tracks instead of turf.

So Barnett sent Anhajo and two other yearlings to California last year to be handled by Willie Molter, a leading American trainer. "It cost me plenty of money to do it," says Barnett, "but from what has happened so far I think I may get it all back with interest."

Anhajo, a brown colt by Stardust out of Inkling, gets his name from the family of jockey Johnny Longden—the first two letters for his daughter Andrea, the next two for his wife Hazel, formerly of Winnipeg, and the last two from Longden's first name, Lauder, raised in Taber, Alta., is a friend of Barnett.

Flying First

In the first race of his life on June 11, the imported Irish racer was pitted against the Calumet Farm's fancied Seamus in a $5,500 two-year-old race at Hollywood Park. The Irish youngster was left lagging behind at the start but was a flying first at the finish, covering the five furlongs in the fast time of 59 1-5. His next effort may be in a fantastically rich juvenile race at Garden State Park, N.J., this fall.

Anhajo, as befits a horse seeking to boost Anglo-Irish bloodstock, carries chauvinistic silks for the London-born Barnett—"white with the red rose of England front and back."

Barnett, an internationally-minded aviation executive, has had a $45,000 offer for Anhajo, but rejected it. The overture came from Ray Bell, ex-Wyoming cowboy who two years ago raced the fleet Windy City II. This year Bell has a two-year-old called The Pie King which looks as though it may be one of the top baby racers in England.

Quebec Aces Buy Powell

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League have acquired centre Ray Powell, 27, in a straight cash deal with Providence Reds of the American Hockey League, business manager Punch Imlach announced today. No amount was disclosed.

Powell last year scored 17 goals and had 41 assists for 58 points with Providence.

A native of Timmins, Ont., Powell now lives in Kelowna, B.C. He played half a season with Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League in 1950-51, scoring seven goals and 15 assists for 22 points in 31 games.

Sport in Brief

BISLEY, England (CP) — A sharpshooting Canadian, a New Zealander and a Cambridge University undergraduate tied with 30s, the highest possible score, Monday in one of the principal service rifle competitions at Bisley, National Rifle Association meet.

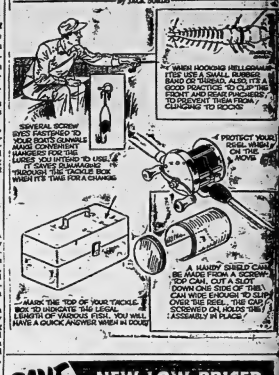
Firing 10 shots at 500 yards in the competition for the "dark mall" prize of £30, the top-scoring competitors were Lt.-Col. Desmond T. Burke of Toronto, Rifleman N. E. Palmer of Nelson, N.Z., and J. Trelawny of Trinity College, Cambridge.

Col. Burke, 49, raised one of Canada's top shots, won the king's prize at Bisley in 1924.

The three are scheduled to fire off Thursday for a decision.

TORONTO (CP) — Tarpon Springs, Fla., may become the winter home of Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club.

Frank Selee, the International League club's general manager, said Monday the trip he made last week to Florida was to sign a contract for spring training at Winter Haven, but it resulted in a deal to pitch camp at Tarpon Springs.



He said Leafs didn't sign a new contract at Winter Haven because the city doesn't have a ball park and cannot build one in time for 1954 spring training.

MANCHESTER (CP) — Rain washed out the fourth day's play in the third England-Australia cricket test match at Old Trafford Monday, leaving England only a maximum of six hours play left in the final day's action on Wednesday.

Australia has a first inning total of 318. England with 126 on board for the loss of four wickets, still need 43 runs to save a follow-on.

Guilty of Manslaughter

GLAMORGAN, Wales (Reuters) — A 17-year-old baby-sitter was found guilty of manslaughter here Monday for strangling the child she was watching after he cried and swore at her.

After the verdict, the judge gave some advice to the attractive redhead, Sylvia Langman.

"They can be very upsetting when they start bowling. I have children of my own," the judge said. "I should try to forget it if I were you."

He told her he was going to send her to Borstal for training.

Sylvia had pleaded innocent to a charge of murdering three-year-old Alan Caprin, but guilty to the alternative charge of manslaughter.

The judge placed her on probation for two years on condition that she go to her home for six months.

Junior Jumble

(News of interest to 4-H Clubs and Junior Farmer Clubs of Hastings)

(By A. O. Dalrymple)

Recently, a comprehensive pamphlet outlining the 4-H Club movement in Canada has been prepared, and is now available to 4-H Club members in Hastings County, as well as throughout Canada, and I quote in part, as follows, from that pamphlet:

"The 4-H Club movement in Canada is a nation-wide program designed for rural boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 years. The individual 4-H Club is composed of young people participating in farming, homemaking, and community activities. Guidance is given by extension workers from the Departments of Agriculture with assistance from sponsoring organizations and voluntary leaders.

Objectives of the 4-H Clubs—basically the purpose and objectives of 4-H Club work are the same as those of extension work for adults. Both are concerned with making rural life more attractive and influencing farm people to adopt improved practices. 4-H Club work helps rural youth:

(1) To develop pride in ownership.

(2) To accept and discharge responsibility.

(3) To develop a scientific attitude towards the farm and home.

(4) To develop a desire for greater usefulness.

(5) To reach their fullest development as Canadian citizens.

(6) To create better homes for better living and to unite parents and young people in a common interest.

The principle of 4-H Club work is to "Learn to do by Doing." As a member of a 4-H Club each boy or girl is personally responsible for a project. This is located on the home farm. Also, each group elects its own officers and plans and conducts programs based on the needs and interests of the members. Regular meetings with training in parliamentary procedure and support of community activities are important features of their programs. Like Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, 4-H Club work is a large international movement, and now embraces rural youth in some 18 countries.

The official emblem in Canada, as in a number of other countries, is the green 4 leaf clover with the letter "H" on each leaf to symbolize equal training of the 4-H's which stand for Head, Heart, Hands, and Health. The 4-H Pledge is:

"I pledge—

My Head to clearer thinking,

My Heart to greater loyalty,

My Hands to larger service,

My Health to better living,

For my club, my community and my country."

The National 4-H Council of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, Incorporated in 1933, is the national organization through which the entire 4-H Club program in Canada is co-ordinated. The council's membership includes the various departments of agriculture and a large number of prominent business and agricultural organizations.

In addition to leadership and assistance rendered in developing the 4-H movement across Canada, the council provides annually a national 4-H Club week. During this event, which is the climax of each year's program, proficiency winners representing each province in Canada compete in national competition.

The trip to national 4-H Club week is the highest award a club member can achieve. It provides an "adventure in citizenship" for carefully selected club members and as a result is building a closer relationship and better understanding among Canadian farm youth."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Be not discouraged over your uncertainties with tough hands. It is no different with the greatest experts of our day. If you are in a fog with such hands, so are they, it seems.

At the last national championships was a title match confined to life masters; 54 of them at 16 tables. You should have seen how many different results these top players had with every hand.

Look at deal number two shown here:

NORTH
♠3 7 4 2
♥10 8 5 3 2
♦None
♣Q 8 7 4

WEST
♠K
♥A Q 10 8
♦A Q 10 5

♥J 7 6 4
♦9 6 3
♣J 6

SOUTH
♠A J 9 6 5
♥9
♦K J 7
♣A 10 9 3

You need not be much of a bridge player to realize that these cards are difficult to work into a sound best final contract. More than ever is this so when the competition is tough.

However, in a group of the most talented players listed, there should be some definite indication of uniformity. Not only should this be so in the bidding. It should be so in their play.

Of three south players who reached four spades, two went down to defeat. One stopped at three spades that made. Three of the east and west pairs were in three no-trump, one going down.

One pair was doubled at six diamonds; down two. One was doubled at five diamonds; down one. Four were in three or four diamonds and made five. One was doubled at five diamonds; down one. Four were in three or four diamonds and made five. One was in four hearty; down three.

So, you see, when the going is not smooth, the best of the best do not all take the same number of tricks.

East and west were not vulnerable in this deal. Yet, one pair let south play it in a makeable contract of three spades. Even a poor prune of a pinochi would know enough to go to four diamonds.

It must have taken a great deal of brilliance to reach a slam in diamonds with two aces missing. A beginner is not brainy enough. Not always so but is the biggest bridge shot.

Stratford Opens Shakespearean Drama Festival

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STRATFORD (CP)—The Stratford Shakespearean Festival, one of the world's dramatic events of the year, opened Monday night.

Even before the premier performance of "Richard III" starring Alec Guinness and Irene Worth, Festival officials were optimistically talking about extending the five-week run to six, and after the enthusiastic reception by the near-capacity crowd of about 1,200, that talk should certainly increase.

Financially the Festival, first of its kind in North America is also assured of success. Nearly 60 per cent of the tickets have been sold, the figure necessary to break even on the minimum bigget.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 15, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — This should be a productive day in any useful activity, especially for advancing through clever, honest endeavor. The unusual favored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Favorable Sun, Moon and Uranus rays now to encourage those who work hard. But there is a warning from Mars not to be irritable, easily angered.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Not so stimulating for mental tasks, but day has advantages for many practical interests. Excellent Moon and Sun rays help healthy advancement.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Can be a peak day for you with your Moon and the Sun meneficially aspected. Mars stresses need for patience. Military moves under extra favor.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Pleasant, reassuring outlook for manufacturing, building, welfare, and our war effort. A good day indeed!

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Similar indications to Gemini. Don't be readily upset, take restrictions sensibly and strive the harder.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Both favorable and unfriendly configurations. A day to test your innate stability, ability to manage affairs under pressure. Be calm.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Extra caution stressed in investments, finances in general. Is an upswing time for useful trades, professions; domestic interests.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter's tendencies today not too helpful. Restraint, restlessness, extravagance. Proceed thoughtfully, carefully.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your Saturn not inauspicious and the Sun and Moon benefic so you should have a well-rounded day, particularly if you have faith in your ability.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — You have more than an edge of helpful rays. Do get all benefits available. Sun and Moon stress loyalty, enthusiasm, faith in you.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—While extra care is urged handling liquids, drugs, oils, etc., in water sports and sea travel, day generally is soundly responsive, to right kind of effort.

YOU BORN TODAY: Bright mind, splendid memory, ability to recount anecdotes and stories, but may spend valuable time with trivial things when you should be improving education or the quality of your work. Seek God's help and determine to use rightly your good qualities. Birthdate: Henry Edward Cardinal Manning, theologian, writer; Rembrandt, great Dutch painter.

FINDS VALUABLE VIOLIN

ANTWERP, Belgium (Reuters) Gustaf Jung found a violin in his attic here which may be a genuine Stradivarius. It carries the inscription "Antonius Stradivarius cremonensis faciebat anno 1720" and the "trade-mark" of the famous violin-maker, two circles with a cross and the initials A. S.

Blew to Pieces

TAYLORSVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Boyd Adams picked up his .22 rifle and walked out into his mother-in-law's back yard to shoot a rabbit for dinner. He aimed at a big pullet and fired.

Results:

A nearby storage building blew to pieces. Window panes in the farm house were blown out. Chimney were shaken and damaged. Adams was tossed 30 feet. Windows in Taylorsville, 2½ miles away rattled.

The bullet had ricochetted and left five cases of blasting dynamite in the storage building.

The pullet? Unruffled.

British Maintain Tight Controls In Suez Region

ISMAILIA, Egypt (AP)—The British Army maintained tight traffic controls around this strategic Suez Canal zone today but no incidents were reported.

Seeking traces of an airman they believe was kidnapped, British troops continued to search thoroughly all Egyptian civilians at checkpoints.

The Egyptian population still was excited over the new flare-up in the British-Egyptian crisis following Egypt's rejection of a British demand that the missing airman, Lac. A.V. Higbee, be returned.

The British set up their rigid controls Monday morning, charging Higbee was last seen five days ago with an Egyptian officer and the Egyptians know more about his disappearance than they are admitting. Egyptian officials denied any knowledge of Higbee.

Egyptian authorities at Ismailia said they had detained Arabs well into manhood and that the population was showing a "spirit of discipline."

Port Said, northern terminus of the canal, police declared a "state of emergency" and placed patrols roamed the streets.

At Kataya, half-way between the two centres, Egyptian officials reported a British patrol opened fire on a group of Egyptians a gravel Monday and wounded some of them.

An editorial in the weekly Moslem brotherhood Newspaper Al Da Wa said the Egyptian people welcome a holy war against the British. It said the British "should be prepared not only for the disappearance of one single officer, but should be prepared to see their soldiers flagged and hanged from trees."

3-Toed Monster Has Residents In a Dither

NEW HAMBURG (CP)—George Thomas, police chief of New Hamburg, says he'll "shoot the three-toed monster full of lead" the next time it leaves the swamp to make love. And that can't be too soon for the 1,500 village residents.

The chief said Monday the mysterious animal, which has given residents the willies since the last few weeks, gets the urge to mate every so often. "That's when I'll get it."

Thomas says he isn't sure what kind of an animal he will be dealing with. But he is convinced this southwestern Ontario village has something unique on its hands that part of the country.'

Thomas has been going on since Chief Thomas took a shot at it last Friday night as the Nith river last week. He said it was about 2½ to three feet long, about six inches high, resembled a bear and had a long body and tail. The three toes about inches long, he thinks, and had three distinct claw marks.

Thomas said:

"I think that is not a bird. The animal has been seen by citizens here at least a dozen times in the past two years. It's always seen around the same time of the year and that is why I think it is answering the urge to mate; to prawl around and spawn."

He didn't say what the "three-toed monster" would mate with.

The chief said he is not joking. It's some kind of an overgrown lizard which emerges from the swamp around the river."

The yarn has grown to such proportions that it's now the talk of the dinner. "Some of them are scared to death, so I'm not up rap on the door," Thomas said.

A few residents and visitors look for the monster during the week-end. There were no traces of it.

DECIDE AGAINST STRIKE

LONDON (CP)—More than 300 of London's 350 carpenters Monday night voted overwhelmingly against going out on strike today. The vote was taken on a proposal for gaining committee to continue wage negotiations with the London Builders' Exchange. The single original request was for a 60-cent increase over their $1.70 rate.

Reinforcements Arrive for Nationalist China's Army

Anti-communist Chinese soldiers and their commanding officer, who had been interned in Indo-China for the past four years, are shown on their arrival in Formosa. At top, Gen. Huang Chieh (centre, in civilian clothes) is shown in Taipei, where he was met by Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo (right), elder son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, newsmen and Nationalist officers. Bottom, a group of the 20,000 repatriated soldiers line up for inspection. They will become part of Chiang's army. — Central Press Canadian.

Jr. Farmers Will Hold Field Day

FRANKFORD — The "Junior Farmers" are invading Frankford this Wednesday for their annual field day, which will be held at the school grounds.

Competitors from the townships of Sidney, Lynden, Thurlow, Rawdon, Madoc and Hungerford are entered in the big day that will include softball, track events, tug-of-war and other field sports for both boys and girls.

The program will start at 10.30 a.m., with first round ball games then at 1.30 p.m. second round softball elimination games and track events. The final contests for all events will take place at 7.30 p.m., and winners in the boys' and girls' events will be presented with their prizes.

Refreshments will be dispensed at a booth on the grounds. Hot dogs, soft drinks and ice cream will be the menu.

Frankford Community Hall will be the scene of a big dance to start at nine o'clock when everyone will gather for the end of an annual outing which has become one of the most enjoyable events in the life of district Junior Farmers.

TWEED

BRIDE TO-BE HONORED

TWEED — A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. G. Du O'Connor on Monday evening in honor of Miss Verla Vandusen of Belleville, who will become the bride of Mr. Merril Dales, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Dales on Tuesday, July 14.

About forty Tweed friends of Miss Vandusen were in attendance. The bride elect was presented with a beautiful corsage. Later in the evening she opened many lovely gifts which had been placed beneath an umbrella effect banked with Canterbury bells and pink and white streamers. The living and dining rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Following the opening of the gifts, refreshments were served by all the guests. At the conclusion, refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. C. R. Porritt, Mrs. H. Emerson, Mrs. H. Foster, Mrs. C. E. Way and Miss Jennie Wright.

Miss Marion Woodcox of Belleville spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Woodcox.

Mr. F. J. McNair, a former business man of Tweed, now of Trenton, renewed acquaintances with friends here early this week while en route to the Maritimes. Mr. McNair will also visit New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Arthur and Carol of Toronto, spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Curry and relatives in town.

Mrs. Ann Bowers, Thomasburg, and Mrs. Hester Wagar spent last week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orson Stothers, Marlbank.

Lyle Silverthorn of Trenton is spending his holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Silverthorn.

Mrs. W. T. Duquette of Winnipeg has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Fred LaBerge, for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Farrar of Trenton called on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Silverthorn and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Silverthorn, and Mr. Mrs. J. W. Silverthorn, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Freiday and baby daughter and Miss Marian Tucker spent last week-end at Palmerston, visiting with Mrs. Freiday's daughter.

Miss Lois Plane, Belleville, is visiting this week with her aunt, Mrs. Don Woodcox.

Four-Power Meet To Unite Germany Sought by West

Britain, France and U.S Ask Autumn Parley With Russia

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain, France and the United States posed an immediate challenge to Russia today to join in a four-power foreign ministers meeting aimed at reuniting East and West Germany.

The call for a session next autumn on Germany, and on completing an Austrian independence treaty, was agreed upon by British, U.S., and French foreign ministers in a five-day conference which ended with issuance of a communique Thursday night.

Notes from all three western governments were prepared for dispatch to Moscow within 24 hours.

The proposal on Germany represents initiative by the West to put squarely up to the Kremlin—in the face of its internal Berlin purge and in the light of anti-Communist unrest in East Germany—a challenge to do something definite about one of the worst sources of tension.

State Secretary John Foster Dulles of the U.S., the British acting Foreign Secretary, the Marquess of Salisbury, and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault also called for restoration of "real liberty" to the Soviet satellite peoples of Eastern Europe and announced that if these countries achieve freedom the door to unity with the present free world being created in Western Europe is open to them.

Far East Problems

On far eastern problems, the three ministers announced that economic embargoes against Communist China would be continued indefinitely after an armistice and that the policy of keeping Red China from the United Nations would continue pending further consultation.

Britain and France joined with the United States in pledging to work for peaceful unification of Korea.

The three warned Red China against using prospective peace in Korea to serve aggressive ends elsewhere in Asia. They also said that, if the Reds help in an armistice with a new attack on South Korea—the United States, British and France will join to go to war.

They said also they had considered measures for meeting the war against communism in Indo-China.

Could Bring Parley

If Russia accepts the bid for a foreign ministers' meeting on Germany and if this meeting results in steps toward German unity, U.S. officials said it could lead to a Big Four conference at the Eisenhower- Malenkov -Churchill level.

Pending the proposed autumn session, Dulles said, there appears to be no plan for a conference with the Kremlin at the top level.

Information was that the foreign ministers had removed many of the problems which would have come up at the postponed session among President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel at Bermuda. The understanding likewise was that though this meeting could still be held, there is no longer an urgent need and no plans were worked out for bringing it about.

Jailer Escapes With Prisoner From Red Zone

BERLIN (AP)—A woman jailer in full peoples police uniform reported to West Berlin police early today, with her female prisoner.

Police said the East Zone police-woman made a successful getaway from Eberswalde prison, 25 miles north of Berlin, in the Russian zone.

The police said the jailer was to have taken her, prisoner to the dentist, but sneaked instead into West Berlin.

Egyptian Paper Charges British Plotted Revolt

CAIRO (Reuters)—The Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram says it has obtained secret British documents revealing a plot to overthrow the Naguib regime. A British military spokesman described the report as "absolute nonsense."

Al Ahram said the documents, dated last March, called for a "chain of plots and criminal measures", of which the British Traffic cordon around Ismailia since last Monday is one link. British authorities ordered a check-up of all traffic to and from the Canal Zone. They also banned shipping six days ago of a British aircraft.

The newspaper published a photostatic reproduction of an alleged British Intelligence document dispatched from the Canal Zone to London. It asked for £45 million to finance Egyptians, especially students, "who are willing to change their views here."

The British spokesman said "no official message would be sent in that form."

Meantime, British and Egyptian authorities said all is quiet in Ismailia although the British checkup is continuing. Egypt has denied any knowledge of the missing airman's whereabouts.

Might of Britain's Air Force Shown Queen in Last of Coronation Reviews

ODIHAM, England (CP)—The might of Britain's Royal Air Force — including top-secret jet bombers and radar-controlled guns — in assembly lines—thundered in split-second precision over the Queen today in her last armed services Coronation review.

For over an hour the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh shaded their eyes and craned their necks as a majestic procession of 151 planes —including 36 RCAF Sabre jets— flashed overhead in the sunshine, in a paper-thin shantung-thatter coat of air force blue and the Duke in the uniform of marshal of the RAF, inspected row on row of planes and men.

Overhead two jet fighters, skywriting in vapor trails, traced out "ER" for Elizabeth Regina.

Twelve RCAF Sabres and their Canadian crews figured in the ground review. The Canadian contingent from RCAF fighter wing at North Luffenham, England, was commanded by Wing Cmdr. Desmond Lindsay of Arnprior, Ont. Others included Flt.-Lt. Wilbur Kelly of Peterborough, Ont., and Flt.-Lt. Walter Low of Ottawa.

Rain, which poured down when Elizabeth and Philip arrived at the field, gave over to bright sunshine as airmen marched by the reviewing stand.

Almost 25,000 spectators jammed into the airfield's enclosures for the spectacular review, the biggest in the history of the RAF. Earlier many of them had lined the road from the Odiham rail station to greet the Queen and Duke as they arrived.

THURSDAY'S MEET TO MAKE OR MAR TRUCE PROSPECTS

Is Distinct Possibility Of Breakdown in Talks

By SAM SUMMERLIN

PANMUNJOM (AP)—An authoritative source said today a showdown is coming between Allied and Communist truce negotiators Thursday in a secret session which will "make or break the talks."

"There is a very distinct possibility of another breakdown in the talks," the source said. He added that the veil of secrecy will be lifted from the negotiations if there is a breakdown.

There were strong indications the showdown session would come over the demands for the recapture of non-communist pilots claimed the UN last month, and iron-clad guarantees from the United Nations that South Korea would honor a truce.

The source said Thursday's negotiating session "will be the showdown. The meeting will make or break the talks."

The source, who could not be identified, gave his estimate of the truce situation after the Chinese Communist radio claimed the UN command negotiators "asked out" of Wednesday's meeting.

But Peiping radio made it clear there would be another meeting at the customary hour of 11 a. m. Thursday (10 p. m. EDT Wednesday).

Russia Prepared To Participate In U.N. Aid Plan

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters) Russia today announced readiness to take part in the United Nations technical assistance program for underdeveloped countries and promised 4,000,000 rubles in 1953.

The Soviet delegate, Amassasp Arutiunian, made the announcement at a meeting of the United Nations economic and social council here.

Russia had shunned the aid scheme since its inception.

The Russian donation would amount to approximately $1,000,000 at the artificially-pegged rate of exchange.

This first indication that the Soviet Union had any intention of contributing to the organization as the United States introduced a resolution in the council requesting Eisenhower's call for an international fund for the development of under-developed countries "can be achieved through savings by international supervised world - wide disarmament.

MAY RELAX RESTRICTIONS

VIENNA (AP) — Austria said that Czechoslovakia plans soon to relax restrictions governing the two countries. An Austrian commission said Czech foreign minister Vaclav David had notified this country of Prague's plans to revise its border traffic policy.

Four Children Die in Cabin Fire

Two-of four children burned to death in a summer cottage fire at Horseshoe Lake, near Maynooth, Ont., are shown in a happy moment before the tragedy. Mary Bernice, 14, Ivan and Donna Jean MacRae, eight, centre, shown with sister Yvonne, were left in the small wooden cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacRae of Toronto, while their parents went to get supplies. Mr. MacRae, arriving back at the height of the blaze, was badly burned trying to force his way into the cabin. A neighbor's boy, Norman Cheesman, 11, and Donald Roderick MacRae, nine months, were the other victims. — Central Press Canadian.

Political Talk in July Heat Ranges from Taxes to Sterling

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The heat was on Canada's political leaders Tuesday. Prime Minister St. Laurent bore the brunt of it.

Temperatures bubbled up to the 90s in Saskatchewan but the 71-year-old prime minister walked among sweating crowds at the Yorkton Fair, shaking hands with young and old.

Even in seaside New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, where George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and M. J. Coldwell, CCF head, were campaigning for the Aug. 10 federal election, the mercury neared 80.

The political talk in the July heat was of dollar-sterling difficulties, trade and tariffs, and a national health scheme. After listening to discussions on such generally dry subjects, listeners made for ice cream parlors, soft drink stands and beer parlors.

Refers to Statement

At Saint John, Mr. Drew referred to a statement made at Ottawa the previous night by External Affairs Minister Pearson that Canada is working with other Commonwealth countries and the United States on plans for sterling convertibility.

The Liberal government's "convention on economic common sense comes a little late," Mr. Drew said. The Progressive Conservatives two years ago had called on the government to take steps to break the dollar-pound barrier, but the government had "sneered" at the suggestion.

"Now they admit it can be done. I congratulate them on the fact they have finally accepted reality."

Made More Promises

Mr. Drew promised during his 50 minute speech that a Progressive Conservative government would act immediately to reopen British markets for Canada's basic products.

Earlier, at Fredericton, Mr. Drew said the federal government should give financial backing to hydro development "in every province where federal co-operation is required."

Chinese Renew Savage Drive After Lull on Korean Front

By JOHN RANDOLPH

SEOUL (AP)—The Chinese tonight renewed savage attacks on the east-central Korean front with two-prong, 2,000-man assaults south of Kumsong.

The attack broke a day-long lull in the biggest Red offensive in more than two years.

The new assaults—backed by tanks—was believed aimed at a key Seoul-Wonsan highway.

It was preceded by Chinese probing assaults in the sector that began at dusk.

A combination of stubborn South Korean resistance, driving rain and a blistering curtain of Allied artillery fire had temporarily stalled the massive Red offensive by 11 a. m. today along a 20-mile front.

But an hour-long lull hung over the Kumsong bulge where more than 80,000 Reds ripped into Allied lines in a two-day offensive.

Many Build-Up

As sturdy ROK troops braced themselves against attack in the approaching Red offensive, Allied light planes reported sighting numerous company and battalion-size build-ups. Some of the sightings were made in the Kumsong river area, where the ROKs withdrew Tuesday to the south bank under orders from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Earlier today, the 8th army commander flew to the front for the second straight day and said the line had been stabilized.

The size of the gains was restricted information by order of the 8th army. But while solid, they did not seem in themselves any real peril to the Allied position, frontline reports said.

Red infiltration units were reinforcing the Allied main line.

Light spotter planes that flew through rain and low clouds reported the Reds were shutting artillery, supplies and fresh infantry toward new-occupied positions.

Allied air power—grounded by the rain and mist through most of the furious fighting—waited for clearing weather to roar northward toward the swarming Chinese.

Marciano Signs To Defend Title Against La Starza

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano today signed to defend his title against Roland la Starza of New York at the Polo Grounds, New York, on Sept. 24. It will be Marciano's second defence of the title he won from Jersey Joe Walcott last September.

Contracts for the 15-round championship bout were signed at the offices of the New York state athletic commission.

Julian D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club which will promote the bout, said the possibility of home and theatre television would be explored.

Marciano will receive 43½ per cent of the gate receipts and La Starza 17½ per cent. The contract has a six-month return bout clause. It ported as much as four miles behind the Allied main line.

ORDER NEW TRIALS FOR SIX ALLEGED MAU MAU HEADS

Kenya Supreme Court Quashes Convictions

KITALE, Kenya (Reuters)—The Kenya Supreme Court today quashed "Burning Spear" Jomo Kenyatta's hard labor sentence and ordered the controversial native leader to be tried again on charges of running the Mau Mau anti-white terror cult.

The Supreme Court also ordered new trials for five other African leaders convicted with Kenyatta along with Kenyatta this spring.

The court held that Ransley Thacker, special magistrate who sentenced the men to seven years hard labor, had no jurisdiction to try them.

The men were arrested last October a few hours after a state of emergency was declared in Kenya because of Mau Mau attacks.

All the accused pleaded innocent.

Unofficially 757 Nominated For Election

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The number of candidates for the Aug. 10 Dominion election reached 757 Tuesday, it is shown in an unofficial compilation by The Canadian Press.

When official nominations close Monday, July 27, in 242 of the country's 263 constituencies the total will exceed the record of 564, set in 1945. The number now is nearly 81 short of the 1949 total of 842.

Nominations closed Monday, four weeks in advance of the election, in 21 large, scattered constituencies where it takes more time to deliver ballots and other election material to remote polls.

Two constituencies — Queens in Prince Edward Island, and Halifax — have two members each, bringing to 265 the number to be elected across the country. There were 262 seats at stake in 1949 and 245 in 1945.

So far, the Liberals have nominated 257 candidates in 256 constituencies. In the Toronto constituency in Ontario, the party has two candidates. Each has a mention of the last House, one for Glengarry and one for Prescott which were contained in the redistribution, and each was selected by a nominating convention.

The Progressive Conservatives have 209 candidates, the CCF 141 and Social Credit 56. The Communist Labor - Progressive Party has 39 candidates, compared with 19 in 1949 and 58 in 1945. There are six others, mostly independents.

Already, 29 women have entered the race compared with 11 in 1949. The Labor-Progressives lead with 10 women candidates, the CCF has nine, Progressive Conservatives eight, Liberals two and Social Credit one. Most of the women—21 are in Ontario.

Penelope the Platypus Believed Preparing for Platykittens in Fall

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bronx zoo chuckled itself into near-incurable certainty" today that Penelope, its duckbill, has become the centre of a platypus baby.

Maybe even two.

The blessed event, an excited zoo spokesman thought, occurred Tuesday night. It won't be confirmed probably until October 1st.

The thing about platypi kittens is that they don't come to like being born in zoos. In fact they like it so little that it's been recorded only once before—in Australia in 1943.

It goes like this:

Mama-to-be and papa-to-be go scouting. Papa-to-be (Cecil, in this case) may even hold her tail in his mouth as they swim around in circles.

Then mama digs a nesting chamber in her tummy.

(Platypuses live in tunnels and like to swim.)

Then she lays eggs, anywhere from one to three.

Five days ago Penelope holed herself up and limited her entrance to her tunnel. Presumably she was expecting.

The cautious zoo promptly made sure Cecil couldn't get near her. No telling what he might do.

Platypiots are shy young things. They like to stay nice and comfy in the nesting chamber for four months.

The platypus, or duckbill, is a delicate animal with a tail like a beaver's and a bill like a duck's. It is about 18 inches long.

Communist-Led Bastille Day Parade Cause

Store Windows Shattered, Cafes Turned into Shambles

PARIS (Reuters) — Seven persons were killed and more than 100 wounded when some 2,000 North African demonstrators clashed with police after a communist-led Bastille Day parade in Paris Tuesday night.

Six of the dead were North Africans and the seventh was a French Communist trade union leader. They fell when police opened fire to disperse the mob of demonstrators, brandishing clubs and knives.

Among the wounded, for which the highest estimate was 135, were 40 police and 95 policemen.

Three police vehicles were overturned and burned. Several private motor cars were wrecked. Store windows were shattered and sidewalk cafes turned into shambles of broken chairs and glasses.

The fight, in the vast Place de la Nation in pouring rain, lasted about half an hour.

Remain on Guard

Strong police pickets remained on guard all night but no further incidents occurred. When calm was restored, hundreds of Parisians came to celebrate their national day by dancing amid the debris of the battle.

The Communist party reported later that "Fascists" had joined its headquarters in central Paris. Non-Communist sources said a passing group of French parachutists, who had marched in a great parade down the Champs Elysees in the morning, were greeted with shouts of "assassins" by Communist guards. The parachutists took missiles from a building site and bombarded Communist party headquarters while the guards retaliated by hurling bottles.

All sections of the press today deplored the riots, left wing papers blaming the police and right wing papers demanding stern measures against the Communist party. Some called for better living conditions for the big North African population in the capital.

Cow Particular, Eats Only Cash, Spurns Cheque

FARMERSBURG, Ind. (AP)—Farmer Jack Hayden needs the answer to a $300 question, which of his 30 cows ate the greens?

Hayden's wallet slipped out of his pocket a bit fee the cows Tuesday. When he found it an hour later in the big manger, 13 crisp green 20s were missing.

A $700-cheque from the sale of some pigs was still in it, though. The cow apparently considered it indigestible as well as non-negotiable.

Hayden would slaughter the culprit to get his money back, but which one?

East European Rebels Honored By Socialists

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (Reuters) Socialists of 33 nations today observed one minute's silence in memory of East European workers who recently "gave their lives in the cause of freedom."

Morgan Phillips, chairman of the Socialist International and secretary of Britain's Labor party, requested the tribute at the opening of the international's four-day conference here.

The 133 delegates took over the House of Parliament during the conference, called to work out a common attitude towards the international situation, colonialism, European co-operation and relations with Asian Socialists.

They heard a welcoming address by Premier Tag Erlander, who is chairman of Sweden's Social Democratic party.

Phillips, commenting on recent upheavals in Eastern Berlin, said the fall of Lavrenty Beria, Russia's No. 2 man, constituted an indictment by the Soviet regime against itself.

In a wide review of international affairs, he commented that the United Nations had not made a great contribution towards the aim of independence and liberty, was "in danger of being undermined by the growth of power bloc-ing, with Senator McCarthy as grand inquisitor."

He concluded his speech with a call for a four-power meeting to test "the new situation in Europe" by dealing with the question of treaties for Germany and for Austria.

LONDON (CP)—Nurses in London's Woolwich area are to be equipped with medicine cases about one pounds lighter than the present model. The nurses' little black bags now weigh about five pounds when empty.

CONSTRUCTION SLOWED

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—The value of building permits taken out during the first six months of 1953 was down 20 per cent from the same period last year. Officials said excessive rainfall during the spring was partly responsible for the construction cut.

Two Princesses From Holland To Visit Canada

THE HAGUE (AP)—Two Dutch princesses are on their way to the United States and Canada for a visit and vacation with a Canadian couple.

They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Feaver of Ottawa at their Cape Cod summer home.

Crown Princess Beatrix, 15, and Princess Irene, 13, took off from Soesterberg airport Tuesday night. Their parents, Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard, saw them off.

"I like it this way," said Princess Beatrix to her parents. "This time you are seeing us off instead of you seeing us."

NEW GYM FLOOR IS BEING LAID

As a result of a joint meeting of the executive and the property committee of Y.M.C.A. last Thursday, carpenters have today started to lay off the old gym floor of the Y.M.C.A. to replace it with new maple flooring.

The property committee of the Y.M.C.A. consisting of Messrs. Gilbert B. Reid, chairman; John W. Deacon and Gerry B. Hyde, have for some time been exploring the possibility of replacing the forty-year-old gym floor that, at the recommendation of the physical education committee in spring, had come to the stage where, with its continuous use by the increased program of physical education activities, was considered as unsafe. Special gifts by friends of the Y.M.C.A. have now made the replacing a reality.

The new gym floor will be lined for basketball, volleyball, badminton and for floor-hockey.

Kiwanians Had Blood Typed At Luncheon

Members of the Kiwanis club had their blood typed at the regular meeting in the Kiwanis centre on Sunday.

Typing was part of a plan to prepare a list of the blood groups represented in the club. Presidents Frank Creegan said this would be an aid should there be an urgent need for a particular blood grouping as there was recently.

There was also a slight amount of business at the meeting and a minimum program due to the absence of Kenneth D. Box, hospital administrator, was on hand to direct the proceedings. Dr. Hans Lucke, assisted by a nurse from the hospital, typed the members' blood.

Midget Baseball

Roger Hill, starry southpaw of the Houston's midget baseball team, entered the local minor baseball hall of fame last night when he tossed a no-hit game against Point Anne. Houston's won 11-2.

Horwood worked on the mound for the Pointers giving up twelve hits.

Houston's committed six errors good for the Point's two runs while Point Anne erred five times.

Candidates Work At Terrific Pace In Hot Weather

The "hottest" federal election campaign in the memory of the oldest electors is now in full swing in South Hastings. And whatever the political climate may stir up before it ends less than a month hence on August 10, the weather man can be counted upon to make it one of the most exhausting seasons on the hustings.

Both the old line parties have their organizations functioning in high gear. The sitting member, Frank S. Follwell, who is again the Liberal candidate, and Lee Costello, nominated by the Progressive Conservatives, have their main headquarters established in the city and both have campaign offices in Trenton and other centres in the riding.

In this campaign emphasis will be on personality campaigning. Both men are at it early and late. There will be no set speeches. Nor will only have public meetings in election campaigns fallen in popularity in recent years, it is the consensus that this year in the heat of July and August a set speech delivered in either party could attract more than a corporal's guard indoors.

Council, Staff Honor Retiring Deputy Clerk

Gordon Lummiss, deputy city clerk since 1949, was presented with an engraved silver platter before members of the executive and finance committee of the council in the chambers Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Lummiss is leaving the city to take up a position with the Toronto Township on July 20.

The presentation was made by the various departments at city hall were also present.

Deputy Mayor Charles L. Hyde, made the presentation in the absence of Mayor Ben Mac. Mr. Hyde complimented the city clerk upon the splendid work done during the past four years and offered the best wishes of city council, and that he hoped Mr. Lummiss would be happy and successful in his new duties.

The deputy mayor offered the platter as a token of appreciation for the services which Mr. Lummiss had rendered. The platter was engraved "Presented by Deputy Clerk Gordon Lummiss by the Belleville City Council, 1953."

Later, on the same afternoon, the city hall staff gathered to make its presentation. Harold Bateman, comptroller, presented the gift, a silver table lighter, on behalf of the employees. Mr. Bateman also presented regrets at Mr. Lummiss' departure, wished him luck and happiness in his new undertaking and urged him to make frequent visits to Belleville and the city hall.

Bowling News

Five teams of women's doubles journeyed to Brighton on Tuesday afternoon to take part in a tournament with Mrs. Edna Jackman and Mrs. Blanche O'Connor winning one of the honours in high priced. Other rinks to make the journey but who did not participate in the prize money were Mrs. Gordon Vince and Mrs. C. A. Mott, Mrs. Reila Lloyd and Mrs. J. Scott, Mrs. John Shaw and Mrs. L. Gerow, and Mrs. Nora Kyle and Mrs. H. Thompson.

The greens were in excellent condition and the women of the host club served refreshments between the second and third games.

In order to boost the membership of the local bowling club, another "Citizens' Night" will be held at the greens on Thursday evening. During the recent membership drive, eleven new men members were secured while the women's section was increased by thirteen. Some of the members of last year are not bowling this season and it is hoped that these bowlers will many new ones will be out on Thursday night.

It is the wish of the membership committee that every member of the club bring at least one new person or an old member up to the greens where a "Guest Night" will be held. The member bringing a guest will be responsible for his entertainment during the night and the women of the club have promised to serve a tempting lunch at the conclusion of the games. There will be no club games on Thursday night but a real good time is expected.

A member of the Anglican Church, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ethel Hutchison of Tyendinaga three brothers, Murney Maracle, Raymond and James on the Reserve, and four sisters, Alice, Martha, Minnie and Carmel all of Tyendinaga.

CAMPBELLFORD

Three Injured In Car Collision Near Warkworth

CAMPBELLFORD — Three men were injured when two autos collided head on on Highway 30 near Warkworth and Hastings. About half a mile south of Cuff's Corners. Most seriously injured was Dr. R. B. Brintnell of Warkworth, who was a passenger in a car driven by Dudley B. Sawtell, 45, of Leaside. Sawtell was coming up a curving hill when he encountered a car travelling in the opposite direction and driven by Lawrence Stewart Jones of R R 3 Warkworth. Jones suffered possible fractured ribs. Dr. Brintnell has a possible fractured hip while Sawtell suffered undetermined minor injuries. All three were rushed to Belleville General Hospital by Bennett's ambulance. Provincial Constable Constable Archie Eadie of Campbellford is investigating and charges have yet been laid. The injured were attended by Dr. Roy Jolliffe of Warkworth.

GIVEN THREE YEARS

KINGSTON (CP)—Pte. Henry Duval of Kingston was sentenced Tuesday to three years in penitentiary when he pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and car theft.

Police said Duval, stationed at nearby Rockcliffe barracks, had broke into a garage at Prescott, Ont., and stole a car and some tools.

CIGARETTES FOUND

PALERMO (Reuters) — Twenty thousand packages of U.S. cigarets, enough to last an ordinary smoker all his life, were found in a grotton on the coast near here, where they had apparently been hidden by smugglers, police reported.

Eligible Voters In Riding Show 3,000 Increase

Growing population in Belleville and Trenton during the last year has been reflected in enumeration figures for the federal riding of South Hastings.

An increase of over 3,000 eligible voters since 1949 in the riding is reported by Felix Rashotte, returning officer. The present enumeration of electors totalled 34,219 as compared with 31,109 in the last federal election.

Mr. Rashotte reports that the major increase is accounted for in Belleville and the suburban township.

Trenton's eligible voters have increased by roughly one thousand.

As a result, fourteen additional polls, some of which are divided, will be established in Belleville and five new polls will be necessary in Trenton.

The forthcoming federal vote on August 10 the urban electorate will have a margin of roughly 1,000 voters over the rural areas. The returning officer's staff tabulations will be available at office in the Robertson Block. Information on the speech will be held before Mr. Collins in the council chamber at the city hall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

BANCROFT

Four Injured In Car Crash

BANCROFT — Four people were injured and damage to the extent of about $1,000 occurred, when three vehicles were involved in a collision on 62 Highway three miles east of Bancroft Saturday afternoon. The injured are Mr. and Mrs. E. Douglas of Belleville, Robert Mountney of Bancroft and nineyear-old Gail Collins of Belleville, a grandson of the Douglases.

They were treated for facial lacerations and bruises by Dr. S. S. Lumb and Mrs. Douglas was retained in the Bancroft Hospital.

The Douglases were proceeding south driven by son William Douglas in a light truck when they were in collision with a car driven by Hubert Mountney, Mountney, going south had apparently turned out to pass a car driven by Felix Rashotte of Bancroft. The impact forced the Mountney car into the vehicle driven by Rashotte.

O.P.P. Constable Ray Hooker investigated.

Heavy Docket In Police Court

BANCROFT — For being in possession of a rifle and light one Basil Bourcier of Coe Hill, Thomas Fulton of Fort Stewart, was fined $15 and costs in court here.

Fines of $15 and costs were levied on Edward Rumlaki, of Marysmith, Douglas G. Lake, of Stirling and Archie Keyhoe of Ormsby, city, Belleville Peasants of Highland Grove, and Archie Wardy of Tuttle paid $10 and costs for a similar charge.

Convicted of careless driving charges were Lloyd Kent and was fined $20 and costs.

Three charges of drunkenness resulted in fines of $10 and costs against Walter Holmberg of Whitney, Melville Pearson of Highland Grove, and Archie Keyhoe of Ormsby.

Leo Baumhour of Coe Hill, paid a total of $20 and costs for driving under the influence and having adequate brakes on a vehicle. Robert Parks of Bancroft was fined $5 and costs for having inadequate lights on a vehicle.

Reduction In Hydro Rates Not Possible —Saunders

On July 14th in a discussion with representatives from the College Hill Area of Thurlow township who met with him to review the latest increase in rural hydro rates, Mr. Saunders, chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, stated he could see no immediate possibility of a reduction under existing arrangements.

In reply to a question regarding the feasibility of increasing costs to municipalities so that funds might be provided to permit a reduction in rural rates, Mr. Saunders pointed out present legislation and contractural agreements prevented this. It was not possible to transfer money between from municipal electrical utilities to the rural account; neither was it possible to reduce annual surpluses from operation which in some cases amounted to more than 50 per cent of the Municipal Electrical Utilities' Assets.

Mr. Saunders suggested the Thurlow township council should be approached with a view to having a plebiscite submitted to the electorate for a majority vote.

Mr. Saunders pointed out his suggestion, if carried out, would result in a reduction to hydro rates not only in the College Hill Area but throughout the entire township. He thought could not likely be intermediate between present rural rates and those applying in the city of Belleville.

MARMORA

Muskie Hooked After Pickerel Got on Line

MARMORA. — Forrest Dennis, well known Crowe Lake guide reported that he captured a fine muskie in those waters on Monday afternoon.

While trolling Morris Ruben, of Verona, Pa. Using a single hook with worm as bait, he got a fair-sized pickerel on the line.

The greedy muskie then grabbed the pickerel but in turn became hooked and thus freed the other fish. In a short time, the pickerel which must have been injured in the clash with the large fish, floated to the surface dead. The muskie measured 42 inches in length and weighed 20 pounds.

G. A. Freeman Is Nominated For Director

Word was received on Tuesday by the secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, D. W. Kingdon, that the name of G. A. Freeman has been placed upon the ballot form for possible election to the National Board of Directors of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Four Chambers of Commerce nominated Mr. Freeman. A minimum of three nominations are necessary to have a name placed upon the ballot illegal.

Nominating chambers besides Belleville were: Port Hope, Wellington and Brighton. The notice on Tuesday, received by Mr. Kingdon, came by telegram from the general manager of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Don Morrell.

Actual election will take place by mail approximately three weeks before the Canadian Chamber's annual meeting, which is scheduled for September 14-17 at Edmonton, Alberta. The candidate will be notified before the meeting and if elected will go there for the first directors' meeting.

The Kingston Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade will vote for their candidate of their choice, but only three representatives may serve upon the National Board.

Mr. Freeman is presently a director of the Chamber and is having also served in this capacity in previous years. He is a real estate, life, is the president and general manager of the Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Co. of Canada Limited and has been a resident of Belleville for the past 26 years. At one time he served as regional director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce for this district. The nominee is a member of the Rotary Club of Belleville, Ontario, U.S., and has been with his company for 38 years.

Engineers to Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Engineers from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission and the New York State Power Authority will probably meet within the next two weeks to begin preliminary co-ordination work on the St. Lawrence power project, Robert H. Saunders, commission chairman, said Tuesday night.

Mr. Saunders held a conference with Chairman Moses of the New York agency during the weekend and offered the power authority all the St. Lawrence information gathered by the commission.

Mr. Burton will come to Toronto later this month for further discussions. The New York agency has to wait for 40 days before its licence from the Federal Power Commission takes effect.

Mr. Saunders said he is still hopeful that a start can be made on the project before winter.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Early sales were steady at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: cattle 300; calves 152; hogs 135; sheep and lambs 30; holdover from Tuesday 500 cattle.

Choice light steers $28; good to choice fed yearlings $20-21.50; cows continued to meet pressure with early sales draggy at barely steady prices with bids 50 cents lower.

Good to choice veal calves $21-23; common to medium $15-20.

Grade A hogs $23.50; dressed sows $23.

Lambs were $30 for good ewes and wethers with bucks $29.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned firmer in active opening stock market trading today.

Industrials brightened in more active trading to show gains ranging to $1.

New Brunswick base metals and uraniums failed to add to their gains of Tuesday after profit-taking was overcome by leaders such as Sudbury Contact and Brunston, Coswest, Rix and New Larder showed the best advances.

Leading industrials forward were utilities, liquors and manufacturing companies. Canada Machine, Steelman, Weston Preferred and Gatineau preferred stood out with gains ranging to 1¼ points. Canada Cement preferred was a weak spot in constructions.

Golds were mixed. Favorite junior producers of recent sessions, Preston East Dome and Madsen, ran out of steam and hovered close to Tuesday night's closing prices. Seniors and holding companies eased.

Higher-priced base metals drew their first substantial support in days as Hudson Bay, International Nickel and Smelters picked up fractions. Lower-priced issues eased with East Sullivan and Golden-Manitou down but Ontario Pyrites higher.

Gridoil sparked the advance in western oils, jumping 40 cents at $7.50. Calgary and Edmonton joined in with a quarter-point rise while Canadian Atlantic added pennies.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 25-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 99 9-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.79¾, against $2.79¾.

CheeseExchange

At the meeting of the Belleville Cheese Exchange in the city hall, Tuesday evening, a total of 19,567 cheese were offered. Of this number, 8,539 were colored; 9,662 white and specials 1,346.

Buyers purchased 592 colored at 27 9-16 cents and 5,984 boxes went for 27 1-2 cents. The remainder of the colored, 1,833 remained unsold. The buyers bought 1,193 of the white at 27 3-8 cents. The remainder of 1,148 boxes were unsold. There were also 61 specials held. The association bought a good portion of the white cheese and a smaller quantity of colored.

The factory and the number of cheese are:

THE HALCO DUAL FURNACE

Patent-Pending

BURNS OIL BURNS COAL BURNS WOOD

NO ADJUSTMENTS NECESSARY
TO CHANGE FROM ONE FUEL TO ANOTHER
FOR HOMES, STORES, FARMS, SCHOOLS, CHURCHES, FACTORIES ETC.

YOU ARE NEVER WITHOUT HEAT

THE OIL FURNACE WITH THE INCINERATOR
THE COAL OR WOOD FURNACE THAT ALSO BURNS OIL

FEATURES :

(1) Completely automatic highly efficient oil heating system.
(2) Highly efficient coal or wood burning system that can be used for regular heating or in emergencies such as:
(a) Oil shortage or breakdown in delivery due to storms, etc.
(b) Hydro breakdown, Burner breakdown, etc.
No adjustments are necessary to change from one fuel to another.
(3) The oil furnace with the incinerator — while the oil fire is operating the other section can be used for burning boxes, garbage, papers, etc.
(4) In rural districts where plenty of wood, etc., is available it can be burned while people are around to tend it. At night when the wood burns out and the temperature drops, the oil comes on automatically.
(5) A superbly engineered heating system with extra heating surface that saves you on fuel consumption.
(6) Plus Air Conditioning.

Pastures Helped By Recent Rains, Fall Wheat Good

Many farmers from the Hastings area have completed haying but many more have a large acreage to handle yet, says the weekly farm report. It was also reported that pastures, with continued rains, are much above average and the fall wheat is promising.

Northumberland county has notified all fair progress being made in storing the heavy hay crop. More hay than usual has been baked, according to the report. Yield of peas for canning is also in progress with an average crop in prospect. The picking of early cherries and raspberries is also underway.

The peak of the pea pack season was passed in Prince Edward county at the week-end. Most of the factories have been running to the limit of their capacity to keep ahead of ripening. The over-all yield of peas has been brought to approximately average by cool rot and late planting. Good progress has been made with hay, with many almost completed.

POPULAR CAFE

LONDON (CP)—The Cafe Royal on London's Regent street, once a haunt of such writers as Oscar Wilde, George Bernard Shaw and W. B. Yeats, has been sold for a reported £350,000. It was started by Deniel Nicol of Burgundy in 1864.

Security Head Fired

LONDON (AP)—The chief of security forces in Lavrenty P. Beria's home republic, Georgia, has been dismissed.

Moscow radio announced the dismissal today. It may be the start of a systematic purge of Beria lieutenants in key Soviet posts.

The man fired in Georgia, D. G. Dekanozov, had taken his job only three months ago. The post is that of minister of state security. Moscow announced in April, when he was appointed, that his predecessor as minister of state security had been arrested.

Dekanozov was a former deputy foreign minister of the Soviet Union and once was ambassador to Germany.

Beria himself is awaiting trial as a traitor.

THE AIR AGE HAS ARRIVED

The airplane is here to stay. Any lingering doubts that any person may have had on that score ought to have been dispelled by Gerard Quinn. Gerard, in case you did not notice the name, is the young man who is farmer at Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, because he wanted to see his girl friend.

How, you may ask, can his action possibly enhance the prestige of the flying machine? If Sabre jets and flying box-cars, shattered sound barriers and regular transoceanic flights, flying clubs and bush pilots, have not convinced a person of the permanence of the airplane, what additional evidence can be adduced from Gerard's choice of a vehicle in a search for his lady-love? After all, lovesick swains have done some foolish things in the past—and will do other things just as foolish in the future before this old world grows cold and ceases its dizzy spinning through space. In fact, if there is any thing which does not glorify the permanence of air travel, it is a stowaway lover. Such a distraught human being might even decide to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel, if that could shorten the distance between him and the moon of his delight, but would that prove that barrels were assumed of a permanent spot in the marine exploits of the future generations?

Ah, but Gerard is a very special type of stowaway. He is just four years old. And when a four-year-old walks into a strange place, just the way they handle pop hops into any car which happens to park on the street, it proves that the younger generation has acquired complete confidence in air travel. The airplane has come of age. The proof is not in mighty exploits by skilled aviators — but in the calm acceptance of a child.

COURTS ARE SLOW

We have all heard the phrase "speedy justice." Generally it is used in a commendatory sense. There may be some of us who are a little fearful, at times, that speedy justice is not always compatible with justice. But, there is no denying the fact that a certain amount of speed is necessary if justice is to be obtained at all. It is not the only ingredient missing from the picture in some cases which have yet to be heard by Britain's Privy Council?

Canada ended civil judicial appeals to the Privy Council in 1949, but it was decided that cases in process prior to the beginning of that year could be taken to the Privy Council for appeal purposes, if necessary. So far this year the Privy Council has dealt with one case. No one will estimate the number of cases which will still be heard.

This means that these cases have been before the courts for over four years. Is not that too long? Cannot something be done to speed up the functioning of our courts?

SUCCESSFUL EMPLOYERS PREFERRED

The Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph has conducted a survey on the farm labor problem and has published its findings in a booklet.

Farmers and farm workers agree on the three most important items if a farmer is to hire and keep good help. Reasonable and regular hours, good food and living quarters and good wages were mentioned — in that order.

There is a lesson here for other employers—and other workers, too.

A similar survey in industrial plants would probably not pick reasonable and regular hours as the most important point for the establishment of amicable employer-employee relationships — but that would only be because the urban worker is a rule, has always enjoyed them.

Good food and living quarters, too, would not rank so high in the opinion of the city worker — but only because these are necessities he can provide for himself if his remuneration is adequate.

This means that the importance of the third point, good wages, is accordingly enhanced.

There may well be a time, too, that urban workers would give greater prominence to a factor which farm workers placed in fourth place. This is the importance of good equipment and management. The man who work on the farm want to work for a successful farmer.

This is highly significant. It shows a pride in their work and the feeling of pride is practically a guarantee of good workmanship. True, there may be a purely selfish angle to be considered. Perhaps the farm hand thinks that his hours are more likely to be reasonable, his living facilities adequate and his pay good if his employer is financially successful. Perhaps the desire to see the most work done with the least effort-is a sign of laziness in a few, as well as an indication of a progressive spirit in the many. But on the whole the stress which farm laborers placed on good equipment and good management is an indication of an eagerness to see the work done properly.

It was significant, too, that the farmers themselves under-estimated the importance of good equipment and management in keeping their employees happy — and over-estimated the importance of working with their employees, particularly at undesirable jobs. The truth of the matter is that few workers like to see their boss slaving away at a distasteful task, or undertaking a job which a boy could do. If the boss still does that kind of work, what hope is there that they will eventually rise above it?

The same thing holds true in the city, in factory or office or store.

THE PATIENT BOOKS

My books have waited long for me,
As if they knew would come the day
When I would turn to them and be Content with them at home to stay.

Neglected all have been, and some
With wisdom's treasures that I need
Have waited for the day to come
When I should have the time to read.

I stared at them from day to day,
In paper, cloth and binding fine
And said: "If patient you will stay,
I'll surely read you, time by line."

"Stay home. Avoid the busy town,"
The doctors say. "It's rest you need."
So, dusty books, I take you down
At long last I have time to read.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE DAYS

20 YEARS AGO

JULY 15, 1933

The first of a number of free band concerts by the Belleville Citizens Band will take place this evening on Court House Ave.

Fast sailing races were held off Victoria Park Wednesday afternoon in a fine breeze; all the boats finished within the time limit. The results were in the following orders: A class: "Volunteer" owned by Kenard; "After You", owned by Callaghan; "Joan", owned by Boulter. Time: 1 hours and 34 minutes. B class: "Scrapper", owned by Keller; "Mary Lou", owned by Spence; "Gypsy", owned by Lee. Time: 2 hours and 13 minutes. C class: "Toots", owned by Pepper; "Zephyr", owned by Cartwright; "Dolphin", owned by Pringle. Time: 2 hours and 19 minutes. D Class: "Ken Wallace", owned by Slater; "Isabel", owned by Dolan; "Bobbie Boy", owned by Smith. Time: 2 hours and 4 minutes. After the races first and second prizes were awarded for each race.

Mrs. James Quinn, Miss Mary Quinn and Mr. Stanley Quinn, of Tweed, spent yesterday here with relatives.

Sixty-four airplanes of the Italian Air Navy, with General Italo Balbo in the lead, en route to Chicago's Century of Progress Exhibition, passed over Belleville this morning.

30 YEARS AGO

JULY 15, 1923

According to the report submitted to the city council by Chief Hanley the police have a deficit of $20,000; the monthly expenditures exceed the receipts by $2,000. Last year the city council granted the hospital $9,000, and it is stated the grant this year will be increased.

Mr. Allan Swayne of the staff of the Union Bank here, is spending his vacation at Bath.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Prentice, of Montreal, are visiting friends in Foxboro and Cannifton.

Constable Morris of the local police force, was the plaudits of the crowd on Front St., Saturday afternoon when a great risk to himself he stood in the path of a runaway horse. He succeeded in grasping the bridle but was thrown to the pavement. Constable Morris held on to the bridle and was successful in bringing the horse to a stop. The damages was mostly confined to the constable's uniform. Constable Morris is comparatively a new man on the force and he won the compliments of Chief Kidd for his good work.

40 YEARS AGO

JULY 16, 1913

Mr. Walter Hanna is home on a visit to his parents, Chief of Police John Newton and Mrs. John Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Plewman and child, of Hamilton, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Peterson, Commercial Street. (Note): now Highland Ave.

Miss Audrey Matthews, of Sine, is visiting friends in Calgary, Alberta.

Ex-Ald. F. M. Clarke has been appointed manager of the city waterworks system, dating from July 1st. He has practically managed the department since the first of the year.

Dr. Moore, of London, Ontario, an old Belleville boy, is home on a visit.

Mr. Ernest Hagerman, of London, Ontario, is visiting friends here.

Mr. Arthur Sprague is home on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sprague, William St.

50 YEARS AGO

JULY 15, 1903

Miss Pearl Fleming is visiting friends in Cornwall.

Mrs. F. C. Mirfield and Miss Corlette, of this city, are at present in London, England.

The Rev. Mr. W. P. Dyer, of Albert College, Mrs. Dyer and family are spending some time at the old St. Lawrence camping grounds at Brockville.

Prof. Courtice, a popular teacher at Albert College for the past few years, has resigned.

Mr. H. F. Gardiner, editor of the Hamilton Times, and a son of the Rev. Dr. Gardiner, of this city, has been appointed principal of the Institute for the Blind at Brantford. We extend congratulations.

Mr. W. B. Deacon's new shirt factory is indeed a fine appearing building and we congratulate him and wish him well. There is much life in the hanks of the Moira for many manufacturing establishments and if other people had the same faith in Belleville that Mr. Deacon has there would be more manufacturing plants erected here.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

USE THE TRUE GUIDES

Oh, that whistle! We know what it means and what it means. The traffic officer is bidding us slow down and turn in to the curb.

Yes, we went through a red light. We certainly wouldn't have done so intentionally, but the trouble was we were following the guy in front. He was halfway across the street when the light turned, and instead of watching the light we watched him. He had to keep going or the intersection would have been blocked. But we didn't have to keep going. We should have been watching the traffic light.

Most trouble in life comes from following the guy instead of obeying the traffic light? On the highway it is the patriotic respect for law that everybody should have. In the realm of everyday living it is that sense of decency that should keep us from giving way sometimes to loose moral behavior. It is the course of action which our conscience tells us alone can satisfy that peace of mind.

For the Christian it is the teachings of the Bible. It is the presence in the heart of that spiritual power which was definitely made available to all of us when the overwhelming historical circumstances amid which our religion was born took place in Palestine and from there spread to the rest of the world. It is man's only hope of security and joy.

Don't follow the other fellow. We have infallible guides. Use these.

Pretty Slippery

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

It has been announced that Canada's grease making capacity has been increased by 15,000,000 pounds annually. People will be thinking we are getting to be a pretty slippery country.

A Ham Husband

(Chilhan News)

A woman in Indianapolis, Indiana, was granted a divorce after she told the court that her husband insisted on buying all the groceries, always brought home ham, which makes her sick.

Pig Dressed For Its Trial

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

A special jury of three men sat in court in Greenwich, Conn., last month to try a dozen dogs accused of biting local citizens. It spared the dogs' lives, but imposed virtual life sentences by ordering them confined to their owners property for as long as the animals live.

Although research does not disclose that a pig was ever actually tried for a crime in Pennsylvania, many dumb creatures have faced judges to answer for misdeeds during past centuries.

In the Middle Ages, it was not uncommon for dogs, cows, pigs, bees and even a moth to be haled before the bar of justice as though they were human offenders. In the 14th century a pig was even dressed for its day in court like the human prisoner, with gloves, pantaloons and a vest.

It seems to have been kind of man's late quirks frequently in those days. In 1379, three sows were charged with attacking a French swineherd, and upon a finding of guilty, were executed.

The prosecutor also asked that the court condemn several litters of piglets because they had squealed their approval of the attack, but there was no record of a pardon.

Another French tribunal found a cow guilty of murder in 1546 and ordered it to be hanged. The cow was hanged in public, then burned at the stake.

Horses, too, were sometimes tried for their errors, beheaded and then mutilated. The French court records of the time, however, show that they received a fairer trial: they were duly summoned to court and were provided with counsel.

One of the earliest cases of animal trials was recorded in 824 AD, when the Council of Worms declared that a bear and a whole swarm of bees which had killed a man with their stings. The bees were acquitted.

In 1540, in the Spanish city of Gilimanza, a pig was subjected to trial for having chewed holes in a tapestry of "priceless and luxurious weave". At the end of the legal trial, the judge sentenced the pig to be "hanged by the neck."

As late as 1906 a Swiss court ordered the execution of a dog which was accomplice in master on a robbery.

The robbery victim was killed, and the court said that the dog deserved death because it had been the chief culprit without which neither the robbery nor the murder could have been committed. Its master was sentenced to prison for life.

Humans May Live Forever

(Vancouver Sun)

Writing in Look magazine, Hyman Goldsmith, research supervisor of the New York Times, says science is on the threshold of discoveries that may make it possible for human beings virtually to live forever.

Now, this seemingly fantastic statement should be considered lightly, for Laurence is not a science-fiction writer. He is a respected specialist in his field. Moreover, he has predicted the coming atomic age and the conquest of space. He says that one writer to tell the people the official story of the atomic bomb. He was given the job by President Truman.

He says science has learned that the chemical elements needed in the early or embryonic stage of all life differentiates cells, organs and tissues never really leaves the living creature at all.

Mr. Goldsmith says that cells do not disappear. They are simply modified the coming atomic age and the conquest of space. He says that one writer to tell the people the official story of the atomic bomb. He was given the job by President Truman.

He says science has learned that the chemical elements needed in the early or embryonic stage of all life differentiates cells, organs and tissues never really leaves the living creature at all.

Mr. Goldsmith says that cells do not disappear. They are simply modified into the cells of adult salamanders by long exposure to the intracellular connective tissue, an unspecialized material.

The experimenters have concluded that these regenerative powers remain in all living things, including human beings, and that, given proper conditions, they can regenerate entire organisms from the embryonic phase.

Bright Idea Did Not Work

(Windsor Star)

It's possible to pinch a penny so hard it will fly up and hit you in the eye. Like breaking your costly bifocals or leaving you temporarily without eyeglasses. Something like that happened in Nebraska the other day, when an economy-minded warehouse foreman decided to cut down the gasoline consumption.

He placed the towels high on the wall, assuming that many users would not make the effort of reaching more than once. But as the men reached up, the water ran down their arms, and towel consumption doubled.

That warehouse genius may not be a great success as a foreman, but he obviously has a future before him as an efficiency expert.

Editor Asked To Name Baby

(Ottawa Journal)

The Toronto Telegram reports (and it seems pleased over the matter) that Mrs. Ann Hall has asked to suggest a suitable name for a baby. It says the sex is not given. It isn't even the baby has arrived, and it feels that this vagueness does not hamper the field of suggestions, but The Journal likes to be helpful to a bewildered parent and would propose what the Telegrap in its modesty may have neglected to say. The world is large: "Tely", whether boy or girl, and "Telegram" everybody will be happy about it.

We do feel, though, that it is asking a good deal of a newspaper to expect it to provide a suitable name for a baby. Constant readers ask us—and we are supposed to have the answers instantly ready—but the world's best bull seiz in 1904, who was the largest ever on record, could a man shoot an arrow farther than Babe Ruth or throw a ball farther than you address the Archbishop of Canterbury, and where is the best place to spend the Gatineau. They think the newspaper ought to know who defeated Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight championship in 1887, the depth of the Panama Canal, whether or there is a town of the name of the Duke of Edinburgh, and if a girl of 17 is too young to get married.

Usually, given a bit of time (and, sometimes, some timely help from the Britannica, Dorothy Dix, and Bartlett's) we can find answers, we can come up with the answer, and astonish the enquirer by the depth and versatility of our knowledge. But we should not like to see this sort of thing made a habit. Choosing a name for the baby is serious business. One needs to know something of the family background, whether there is a rich uncle or a fairy aunt, the feeling at the font or the infant "takes after" its mother's or its father's side.

Some jobs are better left to these fine details and it might mind even the editor of a doing little ballet dancer or Mimi for a heavy-footed child of the "whole-some" variety. Suitable names in nomenclature would be bound to happen in the columns of readers and perhaps the cancellation of their subscriptions.

No, we don't think people should name their own babies. But in this specific case, and not to set a precedent, we should make an exception and call it Teip, Tot Tiller, or Telley, but just Tely.

Book-Burning Is Not Simple

(The London Times)

President Eisenhower's advice not to join the book burners will have fallen on sympathetic ears in the case of anyone who has set his purely private and non-political capacity, tried to burn a book. "Don't read me," he may venture to reply to the President. He may even point out that one man's meat is another's poison. Rather than destroy a book, it is better to leave it to the judgment of Hollywood or the decline in what is called temperament.

Even the famous stars are shedding their temperamental foibles and becoming ill-fitting parts of watchful waiting. And the layperson of America have laid aside temperament as if it were one of these paper hats worn at the Christmas party. In the more garish Hollywood days, you had to have temperament just as you had to have lipstick if you were a girl or a boy with long hair, even if you were a man. You could not expect to pass as a performer, a writer, or an employee in any of the fields of production and direction unless you could trot out evidences of temperament at a moment's notice. This illusion was fostered by the press and which was wacky about Hollywood.

Temperament can be put on-and laid off like a paper hat, as is being so effectively demonstrated by the film colony. Is a fact that should be very welcome in the Valley of Jehoshaphat? Hollywood. In countless homes and family circles, as well as in conversations and even in business its self, temperament is not encouraged to be put on. It will get away with murder. It really is time that every recent ware that temperament has been afforded a place in our appreciation of behavior. It is time temperament be used as an excuse for laziness, willfulness and plain cussedness. With Hollywood showing it up, a father or a teacher or a boss is now free to tell a child, a pupil or a man, "Act, take off the paper hat. Temperament is over."

Personal Health Talks

MUMBO JUMBO

Dr. Brady

We could dispense with some of the names you call us (says a reader). But I must say I've come to regard some of your more radical teachings, as they seemed at first, as truth.

Formerly if I had to be exposed to the weather, get my feet wet or get chilled I accepted the fact that

I had probably "taken cold" even before any symptoms came on.

The first fresh brought out my woolen undies and hose.

When I was a child in northeastern Ohio where goiter was very prevalent, my grandmother had me rubbing my thick neck moons, looking at the noon and saying over and over to myself, "What I see increase, what I rub decrease." That, of course, cured my thick neck but not the shivers.

Two years ago my daughter, here in the Pacific northwest Region, said she believed I needed your kelp tablets. I promptly went on the daily ration recommended in the last paragraph of the pamphlet.

Now I can't believe it's true or I am myself. I have given away my woolens, now laugh with the folks who used to think the church or any place was too hot while I shivered. I enjoy outdoor exercise, outdoor air baths and am happy and very thankful that my daughter recommended you.

(Signed) Mrs.,

I hope the correspondent will not mind the name I call such baying at the moon.

Simple goiter, large neck or thick neck, was very prevalent in the Great Lakes basin—Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, particularly—thirty or forty years ago. Most school children in cities such as Akron, Ohio, and Grand Rapids, Michigan, had simple goiter in their early teens. But introduction of iodized salt in place of ordinary salt — iodized salt is ordinary salt to which some of the iodide removed by the refining process is returned —has greatly reduced the prevalence of goiter and the number of children requiring the hospitals of the goiter belt. The latter notwithstanding warnings by numerous eversteady operators that the practice of putting iodine (potassium iodide) in table cussedness with cause "toxic" goiter.

Since I used iodized salt exclusively for many years at our house (it costs the same as ordinary salt) I think no one can get scarcely enough iodin that way to matter, I think.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A friend just home from Hollywood tells me that with the confusion and excitement there are three dimensional films, television and one thing and another, the film folk are feeling the pinch. And all the little stars are going home; others are going to their jobs far different from the glamorous ones they had in Hollywood a year ago. And the most remarkable feature of the change-over is the great calm that is called temperament.

Even the famous stars are shedding their temperamental foibles and becoming ill-fitting parts of watchful waiting. And the layperson of America have laid aside temperament as if it were one of these paper hats worn at the Christmas party. ONE MAN'S AMBITION

It has been said of Alexander Smith, the author of that charming book, "Dreamthorp," that he "created" himself, that all he wished to be remembered by was to "be occasionally quoted." So I quote: "In my garden I spend my days; in my library I spend my nights. My interests are divided between my geraniums and my books. With the flower I have no communion; with my books I am in the past. . . . If God's kingdom is to come in this world it is in the face of the flower —my flower. And in one's library are to be found the thoughts of the great, and a running story of all that man has attempted, tried and brought to pass. In a carefully selected library is to be found the procession of the great and humble, of the learned and unlearned. Of science and the humanities. Of his aspirations. It's all there.

Men and women live for what they have said quite as much as by what they have done. What did Shakespeare do outside what he did in the writing of his immortal plays? In them he painted for us the portraits of all human kind. In them we read of ourselves. What is behind the mask we wear behind?

Nature is filled with God's calls to those of the kind and the kindlyperings of the wind. In the clouds are His silent speech. Also all the earth is His chemical laboratory, from which man has for centuries found his greatest joy. The world is a garden of miracles on the grandest scale, but commonplace by use.

Alexander Smith's brief book of essays was written nearly a hundred years ago. His wish "to be occasionally quoted" has been generously rewarded. Lovers of wholesome literary expression have turned to his "Dreamthorp" time and again, and will for so long as there is love in the human heart. His was an unselfish ambition.

New Marketing Scheme for Winter Wheat Crop Will be Discussed

CHATHAM (CP)—Wheat committees from five southwestern Ontario counties meet sometime this week to discuss a new marketing scheme for the province's winter wheat crop.

The meeting was called by the wheat committee of the Kent Federation of Agriculture Tuesday night when growers demanded action because of the low market price of winter wheat.

With harvesting of the 1953 crop under way in Kent and Essex counties dealers are offering $1.50 a bushel for wheat delivered to Chatham. This is one of the lowest harvest prices on record. Some growers reported $1.45 a bushel offered for grain contracts this year.

While a marketing scheme has been discussed previously, this is the first big attempt to set up a board for the crop. Growers now are represented on the wheat committee of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

Organized in 1948

The committee was organized by producers in 1948 when the crop was taken out of the wheat control board of Canada. However, it has no legal bargaining power and cannot negotiate or control the price of winter wheat.

Growers considered returning to the jurisdiction of the wheat board but rejected the idea because of the fact that winter or soft wheat is grown almost exclusively in Ontario.

Ontario's winter wheat harvest usually is about 20,000,000 bushels.

Summer School Course in Music Being Taken

TRENTON—Bill Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Long of Glen Miller, is now at Summer School in Toronto studying a musical teacher's course. In the fall Mr. Long looks forward to becoming a musical supervisor in schools in Prince Edward and Northumberland counties. The Rendezsemettes Singing Club he organized and tutored last winter brought a great deal of success to the town and his effort. He wrote the words and music to the catchy Centennial theme song presented by the popular Trenton a year. Kent is the largest producer, with a large percentage of the crop grown in the southwestern section of Ontario.

Simcoe and York counties annually produce about 1,000,000 bushels. Some 40,000 bushels is grown each year in the Algoma district of Northern Ontario.

One of the organizers of the wheat committee, Darryl Jubenville of Essex East, told the federation Tuesday night that 90 per cent of the crop is consumed on the domestic market.

Flour made from soft wheat is used for pastries, spaghetti, soda crackers and in the confectionery trade. Unlike the western or hard wheat, it is not used for the manufacture of bread.

Floor Prices Urged

Calling of the emergency meeting, followed a protest from the Essex federation Monday night when a government floor price on winter wheat was urged.

The Essex group also urged an investigation into the storage facilities for the crop. Investigation by the marketing committee of the Kent federation showed that plenty of storage was available.

Mr. Jubenville indicated that the federal government would make terminal storage available at Sarnia in an emergency.

Charging that floor prices were letting the dealers out of their responsibility, Mr. Jubenville opposed the Essex suggestion.

"If $1.50 a bushel is the best private enterprise can do with our wheat we had better get it under our own control as quickly as possible," he said.

singing group during the celebration.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ten cars of the Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train, "The Mountaineer," en route to Chicago from Vancouver, were derailed Tuesday near Stephen, B.C., in the Rockies. All cars remained upright and no one was injured.

Boat Ride Becomes Land Cruise

Boat-riding sightseers were stranded for two hours on New York's Hudson River excursion boat Gotham, which ran aground at Spuyten Duyvil. With 281 passengers aboard, the Gotham was caught in the current as it waited for the Grand Central railroad bridge to open. No one was hurt. Passengers wave from the deck of the Gotham, showing little concern for their plight. Tugs pulled the ship free of the rocks. — Central Press Canadian.

Special Conservation Committee Is Urged

TORONTO (CP)—The Conservation Council of Ontario recommended today that a special conservation committee be formed by the Ontario government to foster and guide conservation projects in the province.

The council, in a report to the government, says the inter-department committee should be chaired by Agriculture Minister W. A. Thomas.

The report contains 31 recommendations from conservation experts who spent 10 months compiling a 36-page booklet. It stresses the need for more specialists in agricultural sections of Ontario's farm planning, soil testing, drainage surveys, soil improvement and agricultural engineering.

Weddings

DOWNS—WRIGHT

PICTON—A lovely wedding of wide interest was solemnized on Saturday, Whiteley, of Picton, at Christ Church, when Marjorie Wright, became the bride of Emerson Bernard Downs, Foley's Station. The ceremony was performed at three o'clock at the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton C. Hicks, Centre Street. The standards of white chrysanthemums and gladioli arranged in front of the fireplace formed an effective background.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. W. Alexander Wright, Picton, and the late Mr. Wright. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Downs, Wellington.

The Wedding March was played by Miss Elinor Hicks, niece of the bride, before Rev. Frank Langford Hyton over taffeta and a corsage of lily white roses.

Given in marriage by her brother, Wallace Wright, of Toronto, the bride wore a lovely length dress of romance blue antique taffeta. The strapless bodice was accentuated with fine diagonal pleating above the bead-ed border of pearl iridescent sequins and bugle beads. The bridal colors was offset by a soft, rolled collar. The very full, flared skirt featured the same beading. She wore a small, close fitting white feathered hat with jewel trim, and carried a bouquet of Dream roses with cascade of white stephanotis, white tulle and ma-trix.

Miss Dorothea Johns, of Cobourg, was bridesmaid, gowned in pink apricot silk organza, with a fitted bodice, and portrait neck-line and inset of heavy beading. The sleeves were bracelet length and the skirt danced from a rolled waistline. Her small, close-fitting hat was of white lace with ribbon trim and she carried Star-light roses with tulle and ma-trix.

Mr. Donald Warren, brother-in-law of the bride, was groomsman. The reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hicks. The bride's mother chose taboo of rose-crepe with panel insets to match, of lace in the same shade, bodice of fine diagonal pleating and three-quarter length sleeves; black Milan straw hat with a large velvet bow. Her corsage was of white gardenias. Mrs. W. C. Hicks, also received with the bridal party. She was gowned in white taffeta with deep yoke effect and wing sleeves, fitted bodice with jewelled buttons and a full, flared skirt. Her hat was of white straw, with navy velvet facing and bucket veil. Red roses completed her corsage.

She was poised by Mrs. Harold Gollop, Norval, and Miss Ruth Leavens, Toronto.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered and pillared cake with tall, lighted tapers in silver holders. Those who served were, Misses Shirley and Mary Sargent Warren, Elinor Hicks, Jean Laughren, Angell Macri, Ina, Donald Warren, Mrs. W. C. Hicks, Fred and Robert Hicks and Wallace Wright.

For travelling the bride donned a dress of pink, pure silk with a matching long-sleeved jacket, pink hat, navy and white accessories and corsage of red roses. They will motor to British Columbia, returning home the first week in August. They will reside at Haley's Station.

Guests were present from Toronto, Kitchener, Campbellford, Kingston, Ottawa, Carp, Chlapeau, Beamsville, Cobourg, Norval, Smiths Falls, Renfrew, Brantford, Campbell's Bay, Que., Superior, Washington and Gravenhurst.

CONFORTI—BOYD

Rev. F. C. Beazer, Carryinl Place, officiated at a lovely June wedding on Saturday, June 27, at 4:30 p.m., in St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Wellington, when Phyllis Shirley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurel Boyd, R.R. 2, Consecon, became the bride of Edward Vincent, young-est son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Conforti, Toronto.

The church was decorated with gladioli and ferns.

The Bridal Chorus and Wedding March were rendered by Mrs. Lloyd Weech, sister of the bride-groom.

Miss Jean Rathbun, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony and "I'll Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Carl Boyd, the bride looked lovely in a gown of white slipper satin and nylon net, topped by a lace redingote with Peter Pan collar and lily-point sleeves. A brocaded tiara held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses and stephan-otis.

Miss Kathryn Hubbs, of Toronto, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in pink nylon net and matching tiara of pink. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The Misses Joan Boyd in white organdy, and Maxine Boyd in mauve organdy, were their sister's flower girls. Each carried a nosegay of yellow roses.

Mr. John Conforti, Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Mr. George Humphrey and Mr. Lloyd Weech were ushers.

At the reception, which was held at Maple Inn, Brighton, the bride's mother, received, gowned in navy nylon sheer with navy accessories and corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, gowned in navy sheer with matching accessories and corsage of white roses.

For the wedding trip through Eastern Canada and Northern States, the bride donned a grey gabardine suit with white accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. Mr. and Mrs. Conforti will reside in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Detroit, Belleville, Trenton, Kingston, and Port Hope.

Previous to her marriage, she was guest of honor at a shower in Toronto, and the congregation of St. Alban's Church, Athelstanley, presented her with a beautiful table lamp by her pupils of Adams School.

THOMPSON—O'CARROLL

Before an altar banked with peonies and ferns, a lovely wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Mitchell Sinnott, on Saturday, June 27, at 11:00 a.m. in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when Shirley Marie O'Carroll, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. Frank O'Carroll, and the late Mr. O'Carroll, became the bride of Charles Frederick Thompson, of Eldorado, son of Mr. Charles Thompson, and the late Mr. Thompson. The altar boys were Masters Bernard Robert, nephew of the bride, and James Sheridan.

Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Mac Lucy, who sang "Ave Maria". "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother", and "Panis Angelicus".

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Frank O'Carroll, the bride was lovely in her bridal floor length, strapless gown of layers of white net over satin, featuring a redingote of Chantilly lace with long sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands. A small stand-up collar with small buttons extending to the waistline. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet headdress. She wore a single strand of pearls with matching earrings and carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Joseph Fobert, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor, wearing a strapless gown of blue net over taffeta with bolero jacket, mitts, and bonnet headdress. She carried a flower bouquet of multi-colored gladioli.

The Misses Bernadette and Theresa Thompson, sisters of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids, attired in gowns of yellow and mauve net over taffeta with matching net capes, mitts and floral wreath headdresses. They carried bouquets of mauve and yellow gladioli.

Little Miss Dianne Pigden, niece of the bridegroom, made a sweet flower girl in green net over taffeta, a dainty replica of the older attendants, with matching cape, mitts and headdress. She carried a small bouquet of rosebuds and stephanotis.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Mark Thompson, of Belleville, while Messrs. Bernard O'Carroll, of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Wilfred Thompson of Eldorado, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The wedding dinner was served in the Knights of Columbus rooms, the reception taking place at the bride's home. The bride's mother received in a navy sheer dress with white accessories and wearing a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, gowned in a mauve taffeta dress, white accessories with corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip by motor to New York City, returning by way of Buffalo, the bride chose a mauve nylon dress with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home in Belleville.

Guests were present from Buffalo, Hamilton, Toronto, Pickering, Trenton, Tweed, Madoc and Eldorado.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. William Laidlaw and the staff of the Avon Jewellers.

Too few homes carry Fly-swatters. There are a number on the market which are quite adequate for the ordinary home and may be purchased for a reasonable price. Each expose, should the entire plumber ever have to be used, might save the householder hundreds of dollars.

60 Anniversary Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wilder of Plainfield celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary recently. Family members and the community tendered Liem an anniversary party and congratulatory messages were received from the Queen, the Prime Minister of Canada and the Ontario Government.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wilder, Plainfield, Wed Sixty Years

Congratulatory messages from the Queen, from Prime Minister St. Laurent, and from the Ontario Government, were received by Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wilder of Plainfield, last week on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary.

In honor of the occasion members of the Wilder family and community friends staged a big anniversary party—so big, in fact, that the couple's home was much too small to accommodate the guests and the party was held in the Plainfield Orange Hall.

Where was a good deal of speech making as friends paid tribute to the grand old couple who have lived in the community for the past eleven years. The congratulatory scroll from Premier Leslie Frost and the Ontario Government was delivered by Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., for East Hastings, who presented it to Mr. and Mrs. Wilder. One of the highlights of the occasion was the cutting of a 60th anniversary cake.

Carpenter by Trade

A carpenter by trade, Mr. Wilder, who lost his sight a few years back, can recall when a good journeyman carpenter could demand only 50 cents an hour. An apprentice had to start work at 20 cents an hour and it was at this handsome wage that Mr. Wilder learned his trade.

He is well known in Belleville where for years he worked as maintenance man for the late Mr. W. H. Panter, who owned a large number of houses in the city.

He noted that few of the "old time" carpenters are now left, naming William Pepper as one of them.

Asked to compare housing construction cost of today with those of half a century ago, Mr. Wilder admitted they had risen considerably. "But it depends a lot what you put into a house," he pointed out.

Referring to their own modest frame home of about six or seven rooms in Plainfield, Mr. Wilder said its construction fifty years ago would cost possibly $1,500.

"I'd hate to say exactly what it would cost today, but it would be many times more than that," he said.

Caused by Accident

Mr. Wilder's blindness was caused through an accident about ten years ago. While working at his carpentry trade he was struck in the eye by a nail which flew when struck with the hammer. The sight of the eye was lost and a few years later he was completely blind when the other eye was affected.

A native of Kansas, Mr. Wilder came to Canada with his parents as a small boy and settled with them at Georgiana in the Lake Simcoe district. There he farmed as a young man and sixty years ago came to Redneersville, where he met his future wife, Ella Rose. They were married at the bride's home and took up housekeeping at Redneersville, where they lived until they moved to Plainfield.

Mrs. Wilder was formerly active in the United Church at Redneersville, where she was a member of the Ladies' Aid and also the W.M.S. She was also a members of the Oddfellows and the Orange Lodge. Mr. Wilder is 80 and Mrs. Wilder is 79.

Have Three Children

The couple have three children, Mrs. A. Moore of Belleville, Mrs. Thomas Hunsinger of Demorestville and Ralph Wilder of Plainfield. A second son, Lorne Wilder, was killed in a motor car accident at Plainfield about four years ago.

Seated at the head table at the anniversary gathering besides their immediate family were grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Deni, Belleville; Jack Moore, Belleville, Gerald Moore, Belleville and Miss Hilda Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tuck, Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Kleinsteuber of Demorestville.

Others at the head table were Rev. E. J. Kersey, Mrs. John Hall of Redneersville, a sister of Mrs. Wilder's, with her husband; Mr. and Mrs. Pat Kilpatrick, Mrs. Harry McCreary, Mrs. Ernest Filndall and Mrs. H. Roblin.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BECKMAN

A good hint for a good traveler . . . be a "Good sport." Accept with a pleasant manner and grace what ever happens. Don't let little things annoy you. They probably aren't a bit important. Don't be a fussy- and fretty traveler. If you are, you'll show either (1) that you aren't used to traveling, or (2) that you aren't used to being pleasant, patient, poised. Make traveling a pleasure . . . take only it yourself, but for your co-travelers.

Gifts To Friends Who Volunteer "Service" At Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I remember reading in your column that when the wedding soloist is a professional she should be given her professional fee. But what should we do when a dear friend of mine, with a really lovely voice, offers to sing at our wedding?

2. Also: I am 23 years old, and for two years I have taught a Sunday School class of ten-age girls. We've had a wonderfully devoted relationship, and now, as their contribution to my wedding, they have asked if they may "take over" the serving of the refreshments in the informal, but quite large, reception we are having at my home after the ceremony. Is that proper? Or should I do this? And, if so, shouldn't I do something in acknowledgment of this friendly service? — Bride-to-be

1. No professional fee, of course, to this kind friend . . . but you should plan to give her a gift, in memory of the occasion and of her kindness. Perhaps something that can be marked with her initials, and the wedding date. Anyway something, I suggest, of a lasting nature. Also it is customary to send a corsage of the soloist to wear.

2. A most generous and considerate how to you from your Sunday School class . . . indeed proper for you to accept their goodness! And to every girl you should give some token of your appreciation, perhaps, to each, one or two dainty w h i t e handkerchiefs with the girl's first name or initial of her first name embroidered on them.

And enclosed with each gift . . . to the class and to the class . . . a most grateful note of appreciation.

Black-Bordered Mourning Paper Rarely Used

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband passed on last week, and I have many notes to write, to thank for all sorts of kindnesses of our relatives and friends. Should I buy black-bordered note-paper for these notes—Grace T.

I advise you not to . . . black-bordered paper is rarely used today; is, I think, unnecessarily ostentatious-looking. The best idea is to use white, double-sheet note-paper. Or if you own letterals with your name engraved on the first page, you will probably find it convenient to write some of your shorter notes on the inside pages of these.

Special-Purpose Menu

By Mary Moore

Mac 'n Cheese 'n Bacon Casserole
Buttered New Beets
Individual Salads
Fresh Raspberries or Blueberries and Cream
Last-Minute Cake with Topping
Iced Coffee or Iced Tea

The virtues of this meal are two-fold. If you are almost out of food before pay day, buy your week-end groceries and you are all set! Also, the macaroni dish solves the first problem and the last-minute cake the second.

If you will pardon a delight of hostfulness I want to draw your attention to the topping of the cake. Brown sugar and nuts sprinkled on top of the unbaked batter is an old story, but the cocoa added to the sugar is a new idea I think, and gives the finished effect of a crunchy chocolate frosting. My young people loved it.

Mac 'n Cheese 'n Bacon Casserole

For four people boil 1-2-lb. macaroni or spaghetti or noodles in 1 quart salted water until tender. Drain. Turn this into a casserole. Add 1 cup tart fruit in which you have heated 1-2 lb. sliced processed cheese. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with slices of beef bacon—there should be 2 slices for each person to be served. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 or 25 minutes.

Sometimes I find that when I make a bowlful of salad a little of it is left. I lament this for I hate waste. So I have taken to making individual salads on bread-and-butter plates and they are always eaten to the last leaf. For this one on each plate I put 2-4 or a small head of lettuce, 4 slices each cucumber and tomato and 4 radishes. We passed mayonnaise. Carrot strips could have been added or strips of green pepper.

Last-Minute Cake With Topping

Sift flour and measure 1 1-2 cups. Stand sifter in mixing bowl, put flour in it, add 1 1-3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon salt and sift together into bowl. Now add 4 tablespoons soft shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1-2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla and beat until batter is smooth. Pour into buttered square pan which has been lined with buttered wax paper. Mix together 1 tablespoon cocoa, 2-3 cup brown sugar and sprinkle evenly over batter. Sprinkle over that 1-3 cup chopped walnuts. Bake cake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Allow to cool in pan, then cut into squares.

Iced Coffee

Make coffee twice as strong as for hot coffee. Fill tall glasses with ice cubes. If you use sugar add it now. (The reducers would add a scarcity tablet at this stage if they take their coffee sweet.) Pour boiling hot double strength coffee directly over the ice cubes to within 1 inch of top of glass. Those who take cream will enjoy this next idea. Pour over heavy cream very carefully into the glass at the very edge—or pour it into a spoon and tip the spoon so the cream flows down the side of the glass. This way the heavy cream forms a layer on top of the coffee. Carefully slip in your straw. The bottom of the straw will be full of heavy cream, then follows the iced coffee. The effect of these layered in New York charges 60 cents for this summer cooler.

Iced Tea

Fill tall glasses with ice. Add 2 tablespoon lemon juice and sugar if used. Brew tea 4 minutes, using twice as much tea as usual. Pour hot tea directly over ice until full. The glasses will not break. Garnish with twist or slice of orange or lemon or sprig of mint.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Another Unfaithful Husband Cured by the Absolute Treatment

Interest still continues among women readers in the story of the wife who wrote me about her method of dealing with an unfaithful husband—a method which worked out most successfully in her case.

You remember how story. Through a coincidence, she met a psychiatrist friend of her neighbor's whose keen professional eye discerned the fact that she was a woman in trouble, and who then sympathetically drew out her tale of woe. He advised her to stop sitting at home brooding over her unfaithful husband, to go out socially as much as possible, hiring a baby sitter for her children whenever necessary.

This she did, and in the course of time, her husband woke up to the fact that while he was neglecting his wife he was running the risk that other men might get interested in her. His wanderings ceased and he became once more the husband he used to be.

The latest letter I've received on this story comes from a woman who had a very similar experience. She writes:

"Sometime ago you had in your column a letter in which a woman told how she followed the advice of a man who suggested that she try to solve the problem of an unfaithful husband by going out socially herself.

"About 25 years ago, I went through the same heartbreaking experience of having my husband go out with other women. My friends told me the way when I learned that my husband was running around and, like many other wives and mothers, I thought I would go crazy. No matter how much I cried, or how many threats I made, my husband wouldn't change. So I had to brace up and face the facts.

"I decided to follow much the same plan described—to 'our column, after my baby was born. Until then, I simply devoted myself to taking care of the baby next, taking the very best care of the two babies I already had, and trying to keep myself as attractive-looking as I could, and I just let my husband go and come as he pleased, without saying anything more to him about what he was doing.

"When my new baby was a month old, I began going out myself, chiefly to dances with a woman friend who was having the same kind of trouble herself. I would just leave the house while my husband was eating his supper, without saying where I was going or when I would be back. I didn't drink, and I never went out with other men, although I did dance with men, and it was really surprising what a nice time I could have, going out with this woman's friend.

"Well, it wasn't long before my husband quit going out without me. More than that, when we had a baby sitter, I would go to dances, he was always very jealous because I had so many dances with single fellows.

"I am sorry to say my love for my husband is dead, but I am thankful that my three wonderful boys never knew of the terrible crisis that fell upon their home, and especially that their home was never broken up. I think it is the duty of parents to keep a home together for the sake of their children."

I am very glad to pass on one more experience like this, because I feel so strongly that this basic technique for handling the problem of infidelity is a most effective one. In no case that has been told me, in any home, has a betrayed wife been unfaithful to her husband, if her activities any of them took on outside their homes were innocent and legitimate. All they did was to bolster their own morale by giving themselves something to think about besides their unfaithful husbands, and, even more important, to give their husbands something to think about.

It cannot be said too often that in such situations, tears, quarrels, nagging and threats accomplish nothing. The man who is callous enough to be unfaithful to his wife is not going to be moved by her weeping over it. That is far more likely to move him is to find he doesn't, after all, she can get along without him.

FOREIGN AID

BERNE (CP)—The Swiss government has allocated another $1,600,000 in foreign aid to such projects as medical help for Europe's refugee children, refugee housing in Germany and Austria and education aid in Southern Italy.

Beauty

(By HELEN JAMESON)

At What Age May A Girl Use A Lipstick?

When a teen-age girl first appears in the family circle with her lips carrying an artificial glow, things may happen. Pappy may throw a fit, Mommie may understand, recalling her own girlhood. Also she may know that there is an unwritten law to the effect that, when a girl is ready for high school, she is entitled to enjoy this privilege.

Because some girls look older than their years, they can carry it better. They have the more mature manner and a flair for dress. Others, looking even younger than their birthdays, are not improved in appearance when they wear lipstick. It is much like small children playing with mama's make-up box. Of course, that argument won't keep them from demanding cosmetic rights.

If there is opposition, there is always the old argument that "Other girls' mothers let them use it."

Pretty little cuties whose parents protest have been known to keep lipstick in the purse and to apply it as soon as they leave the old homestead. We have seen girls spring the red pencil when coming out of school. Better that it should not be forbidden.

Parents should remember that this world is different from the world of their young days. Anyhow, the lipstick is a minor problem compared to late hours. How many mothers lie awake listening for the sound of the key in the door? Mothers probably know why worry about such a trife as a lipstick?

Young girls have already got a start on a cosmetic collection—powder, rouge, lipstick, eyebrow brush, light-colored nail polish. If the lipstick must be added, the wise mother will guide the child in making a selection which should be as near the natural shade of the lips as possible.

Daughter should be told that a light film will produce a more becoming effect than a heavy one, that lip edges must be clear cut and that the rosy cream should be blotted with tissues.

She's like a small-child playing with Mama's make-up box.

BREAK EXPECTED

SASKATOON (CP)—A break is expected soon in the strike of employees of the Quaker Oats Company here, now in its 12th week. Company employees at the Peterborough, Ont., plant, voted Sunday to accept a wage of $1.35½ cents an hour, effective Jan. 1, as well as a 40-hour week. The present wage at Peterborough is $1.31½ cents an hour, one cent higher than Saskatoon rates. W. P. Noble, Sas-

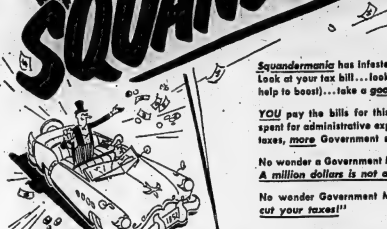
STOP SQUANDERMANIA!



Squandermania has infested every Government Department in Ottawa! Look at your tax bill...look at today's prices (which hidden taxes help to boost)...take a good look at the soaring cost of Government!

YOU pay the bills for this titanic spending spree—millions of dollars spent for administrative expenses, more millions every year, more taxes, more Government spending, more millions down the drain!

No wonder a Government Minister can say: "What's a million? A million dollars is not a very important matter!"

No wonder Government Ministers are saying now: "We can't cut your taxes!"

TRAVEL EXPENSES

The older this Government gets, the more it spends to "get around"—look what's happened to travel expenses:

1938-39 - $ 4,725,000
1949-50 - $23,052,346
1953-54 - $53,558,588* (Estimated)

*—or just about $6,113 spent every hour of the day for travel expenses!

TELEPHONE, TELEGRAPH & POSTAGE

These items are steadily on the increase!

1938-39 - $ 960,248
1949-50 - $ 8,970,000
1953-54 - $16,902,160* (Estimated)

*—$1,929 every hour of every day!

WASTE IN DEFENCE

Waste, inefficiency and extravagance in the Defence Department has been documented by the Currie Report, the McNab Report and the Auditor-General's Report . . . and this toll of waste and extravagance is one good reason why it costs Canada $1.1 BILLIONS MORE to put 100,000 men under arms ($22,035 per man) than it costs the United States ($10,736 per man) for a comparable number!

PROPERTY DEALS

The Government squandered $4,000,000 on 500 huts at a military camp. One year later, these were dismantled—they had never been used! The Government rented office space for $128,500—and never occupied the space! For one building designed to cover 21 acres, including surrounding grounds, the Government bought 281½ acres of pasture-land at $824 an acre!

ADVERTISING & PUBLICITY

The cost of publicizing your Government and its services increases by the millions every year. Here's what it costs you:

1938-39 - $ 624,420
1949-50 - $ 6,828,957
1953-54 - $10,005,978* (Estimated)

*—$1,142 every hour of the day for publicity!

"WASTE" - CURRIE REPORT

These quotations are from Col. G. S. Currie's Report on the shocking conditions in the Defence Department: "A general breakdown in the system of administration, supervision and accounting... Accounting records in a chaotic condition and of little use in determining the nature and extent of irregularities...Waste and inefficiency far more costly in loss than that covered by actual dishonesty."

"CHAOS" AUDITOR-GENERAL'S REPORT

The Auditor-General is responsible only to Parliament. His annual report is an impartial survey of Government financial operations. His Report presented this year stated: "There are chaotic accounting methods in the whole Department of National Defence . . . No civilian authority answerable to Parliament exercises direct control after procurement (of stockpiled defence materials) . . ." In addition, the Auditor-General reported ten specific irregularities created by slip-shod administration in the Defence Department.

"EXTRAVAGANCE" McNAB REPORT

The McNab Report was made to the Defence Department four years before the Currie Report. His findings of waste, extravagance and inefficiency in administration were ignored. When the Progressive Conservative Party asked that the Report be made public, the Government DENIED THE REPORT HAD EVER BEEN MADE. But when Mr. McNab stated that he had made a report, the Government "discovered" it but STILL REFUSED TO MAKE IT PUBLIC!

A Government that can't stop waste can't cut taxes!

Battery Returns To Home Base After Exercises

PICTON.—The 127 and 128 Composite A.A. battery returned to Picton, Monday night, after participating in the defence exercise Tailwind, in the Montreal area. The batteries were under command of Major A. H. Parker and Major J. D. Hall respectively, while all anti-aircraft batteries in the exercise were under the command of Col. H. E. Brown, O.B.E., E.D., Commander, A.A. Command.

The local and other A.A. units were confined to the Montreal area and they were occasionally "bombed" or "strafed" by "faker" planes, instead of "hostile" because the latter term is saved for the real thing.

Exercise Tailwing was a Canada-United States effort, a combined soldier-airman-scientist operation staged to show how well the eastern part of the continent is protected from atom bombers.

The local units left town on July 3rd.

Dies Suddenly

Charles John Grichen, 61, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., died suddenly while on holiday here. With his wife and daughter, he had spent a week at Cove Beach, Cherry Valley, and had planned to remain this week. Saturday night he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and passed away Sunday in Prince Edward County Hospital. A son came from Ottawa and the family accompanied the body to Niagara Falls where the funeral is being held.

Visits School

Major General Sparling, vice chief of General Staff, Ottawa, visited the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA), here on Friday. He was accompanied by Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, director of Military Training, and Col. L. G. Clarke, director of Artillery, also of Ottawa.

Gifts Presented

Lake-on-the-Mountain summer resort was the scene of an enjoyable gathering when twenty sergeants and N.C.O.'s of "C" Co. Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, met to honor Major James Bird, C.S.M. Barton Reid and R.Q.M.S. Clifford McClaplin.

Major Bird, retiring as C.O. of the armouries, was presented with a signet ring. The C.S.M. and R.Q.M.S. were given life memberships in the Sergeants' Mess. Appreciation of their services on behalf of the company was expressed.

WALLBRIDGE

WALLBRIDGE. — Quite a number L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. members of Wallbridge attended the celebration at Campbellford, on Saturday and report a grand day; while some attended the celebration in Ottawa, on Monday.

Miss Ella Phillips of Hamilton, is spending her vacation with her mother and other realtives and at the present time, is spending the next few weeks, accompanied by Miss Marion Pound, at summer school in Toronto.

The Orange service held in Wallbridge Church on Sunday evening, was well attended by both the L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. members. The supply, Mr. Farrow, gave an inspiring sermon and what it meant to be an Orange member. The choir, also gave two fine selections with Mrs. Charles Faiz at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris took tea with Mrs. E. Tucker and Mrs. M. Harris on Friday night also their sister, Mrs. R. Logan, of Hamilton, who is spending some time with her sister and mother.

Glad to report Mr. Clem Ketcheson, who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, is able to be out and is convalescing at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ted Evans.

McCarthy Drops Plan to Call Truman as Witness After FBI Consults With Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep-Wis) said today the federal bureau of investigation has assured him that former president Harry S. Truman did not withhold any information he received from Canada about an atomic spy plot.

In view of this, McCarthy said, there would be no occasion for the Senate investigations sub-committee he heads to call Truman for questioning.

A little more than two weeks ago, while Truman was on a vacation trip east, McCarthy said there had been "constant reports" that the ex-president had not turned over to the FBI a list of some 250 Soviet spy suspects received from Canadian authorities.

McCarthy fired off a letter to Attorney-General Herbert Brownell asking whether the justice department and the FBI ever got such a list from Truman. He called this a first step toward deciding whether to ask the investigations sub-committee to call Truman as a witness.

Truman Had No Comment

In New York at the time, Truman told reporters he had no comment because "what I could tell you, you wouldn't print."

In answer to reporters' questions today, McCarthy said "I've gotten assurances from the FBI that Truman did not withhold any information which he got from any Canadian source, including Mackenzie King, in regard to espionage."

He declined comment when asked specifically if Truman had turned over a list of names to the FBI.

McCarthy in his statement two weeks ago said he understood Truman received from former prime minister King in 1945 a list of U. S. citizens allegedly linked to an international atomic spy ring.

At the time the senator also said that if such a list were turned over to the FBI, he would like to know why the U. S. citizens were not prosecuted. He said nothing further about that today, however.

Information about suspects was made available to the U. S. government after 19 persons, including the British scientist Alan Nunn May, were sent to prison in the Canadian atomic spy trials.

Igor Gouzenko, a code clerk in the Soviet embassy at Ottawa, broke with communism and furnished the Canadian government with documents used in the trial.

THEATRE MOVING

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Totem Theatre, which features arena-style productions, is moving to Victoria because a campaign to obtain new premises here has been unsuccessful. Officials said the theatre would return "just as soon as there is a building to house it."

STARTS DUTIES

CHICAGO (AP) — R. Douglas Stuart, who resigned as president of the Quaker Oat Company after his appointment as ambassador to Canada, and Mrs. Stuart flew to Ottawa Tuesday to start his official duties. Stuart, who is 67, is a former treasurer of the U. S. Republican national committee.

Say East German Revolt Resulted In 587 Deaths

BERLIN (AP) — A Hamburg newspaper said today that the June 17 East German revolt claimed 587 lives, including 141 executed by Soviet firing squads.

The paper, Die Welt, said 1,870 other persons were wounded during the uprising.

These figures, far exceeding any previous estimates, have been confirmed by Gen. Wilhelm Zaisser, East German minister for state security, in an official report to Soviet authorities, Die Welt said.

Thus far the East German government has said publicly that only 25 persons were killed and 278 wounded in the revolt. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told his Parliament 62 had been executed.

1,870 Sentenced

Die Welt added:

Zaisser had informed the Russians that 3,143 strikers were arrested, of whom 2,317 were freed without trial and 1,078 were sentenced to a total of 6,321 years in prison. The remaining 1,159 were still being held for investigation.

In addition to the strikers, 1,754 communist police and officials were arrested, either for joining the rioters or refusing to fight them.

Zaisser estimated financial loss due to the rioting at almost 29,000,000 East marks (about $1,200,000). Most of this represented the loss in production because of the strikes, with property damage set at only 89,000,000 East marks ($37,000). Other high Communist officials have estimated production loss at twice Zaisser's figure.

Die Welt said Zaisser made his report July 10.

Last-Minute Discovery Renews Search for Child

MINAKI, Ont. (CP)—Search parties combed a narrow strip of land between two lakes near Wade, Ont., early today as the first definite trace of a five-year-old girl, lost since July 8, rekindled a cold search.

Two Kenora men, Harry Hawes and Joe Ryzaki, discovered a spot nearby where Geraldine Huggan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jared Huggan of Winnipeg, fell on her face while traversing a swampy area near the shore of Long lake.

Clear footprints were found near the spot and hand prints and the mark of a tiny face showed where the child fell.

At Kenora, the Ontario provincial police said the footprints were measurable and fitted the size of the shoes worn by the child when she wandered away from her parents' summer cottage near Wade, 10 days ago.

The section between the lakes was not searched before the discovery.

Police called for volunteers Tuesday night as an army unit from Winnipeg had already abandoned the search and returned to the city before the discovery was made. An RCAF helicopter brought news of the find to the police, refueled and buzzed back over the area.

OPP officials said the tracks were accompanied by a trace of cloth from the child's clothing. They said the new clues are genuine but footprints and another trace of cloth, reported Monday were a false lead.

There is no indication whether the child is alive or dead but police are certain she is somewhere on a narrow track of land between Long lake and Catastrophe lake, about two miles southwest of Wade.

Geraldine's disappearance set off a dramatic, intensive search. Police, Indians, campers, railway men, dogs, helicopters and soldiers scoured the mosquito-infested bush.

It was as the organized search was about to end that the break came. Soldiers had withdrawn, an RCMP dog, used mainly for tracking the child, was returned to the sweat-covered searchers and had started home.

Eden Will Return To London on July 26

LONDON (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden plans to fly back to London from the United States July 26, but he will probably require further convalescence in this country, the foreign office announced today.

Eden underwent a major gall operation in Boston last month and is convalescing at the home of a friend in Rhode Island.

Air-Sea Search For Victims Is Called Off

HONOLULU (AP)—The Hawaiian sea frontier has called off the air-sea search for victims of the Transocean Air Lines passenger plane crash Saturday 250 miles east of Wake Island, in which 26 persons perished.

Fourteen mutilated bodies were recovered before the search halted.

The U. S. Navy transport Barrett, which first came upon the plane wreckage, radioed that the plane crash apparently was caused by an explosion.

The Barrett added that there was "no possibility of finding survivors alive."

The sailors fought off sharks to retrieve the bodies from the water, and on one occasion, the Barrett radioed, was unable to get three bodies "because of the sharks."

The Barrett was taking the 14 bodies—nine women, three men and two children—to Guam. It was scheduled to arrive there Friday.

The Barrett said none of the victims had on life belts. The ship added there was no evidence among the victims or the debris that the passengers had been prepared for an emergency landing.

The plane fell into the sea minutes after it had radioed its position Saturday night. No distress call was heard.

Notting Hill's Sex Strangler Is Executed

LONDON (AP)—John Reginald Halliday Christie, the Notting Hill sex strangler who confessed he killed seven women but might have murdered more, was hanged today in Pentonville prison.

Even as he died, a controversy raged over whether the mild-appearing transport worker and wartime auxiliary policeman was guilty of a baby's murder for which another man was hanged three years ago.

The case of the insanity-pleading slayer, who wailed up his victims' bodies in his apartment or buried them in his garden, shocked Britain as no other series of murders has done since Jack the Ripper.

A crowd of some 200 persons, including many schoolchildren, were gathered outside the prison gate. A truckload of police waited near the gate and the police patrol in the Pentonville road had been increased, but there was no disturbance.

At the posting of the execution notice on the gate, the crowd surged forward, many laughing nervously and making jokes. "Take it easy, he's not cold yet," one man shouted. "There's nothing to see. You won't see Christie," another called.

The continuing controversy hinged on Christie's confession at his trial that he strangled a neighbor's wife three years ago. The neighbor, Timothy Evans, was accused of killing both his wife and baby daughter but was convicted and hanged only for the infant's death. Christie's confession aroused speculation that Christie also killed the baby, though he denied this.

Townsend Leaves Country Two Days Before Princess Margaret Home From Africa

LONDON (Reuters)—The palace official whose name has been linked romantically with that of Princess Margaret left the country today for a posting in Europe—ten days before the Princess is due back from a tour in Africa.

Townsend, a Second World War air hero and formerly manager of the London residence where the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret live, has been appointed air attache at the British embassy in Brussels, Belgium.

Reports say he is due there today, that he left Dover for Belgium by sea.

He was posted to Brussels soon after world press reports linked him with the Princess. The handsome, 38-year-old flier had been temporary comptroller of Clarence House and was expected to remain there with the office confirmed. The surprise appointment out of the country ended nine years service with the Royal Family.

The controversy in Britain over the reported romance centres on the fact that Townsend is divorced. He broke with his wife last year charging adultery and has custody of two children.

The wife has since married the co-respondent, Mr. John de Lazzio, son of the famous portrait painter.

Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express has said it was believed that senior ministers would be opposed to such a marriage because political difficulties would arise, the Church of England would be equally opposed as they were tightening up the Church's attitude to the remarriage of divorced people, and court officials were hoping that the Princess would not seek to contract a controversial marriage.

The Sunday Newspaper, The People, commenting on the group captain's new post, said "it would have been difficult for officialdom to have found one more unsuitable for a man of his abilities—and one more calculated to humiliate him."

As there was little air activity in Belgium this job would be a dull, routine sinecure, The People said, "Now that the facts are known, widespread indignation is likely at this attempt to punish him with exile," the paper declared.

Pilot Bails Out

MARS HILL, Me. (AP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force F-86 Sabre jet crashed five miles north of here shortly after Pilot Officer B. B. Cushing bailed out safely.

The craft came down near the Fort Fairfield-Mars Hill road about five miles from the Canada-Maine border.

Cushing was alone. The plane ran out of fuel.

The plane's base was not immediately determined.

Kingston Men Are Uninjured In Plane Crash

NEWMARKET (CP) — A light plane crash-landed on the northern outskirts of the town shortly after taking off from a farmer's field. The pilot, Orla Larson, 25, and a passenger, Jim Watson, 35, both of Kingston, escaped injury.

Larson said the plane was about 10 feet off the ground when it hit an air pocket. Rather than risk hitting telephone wires he said he headed the plane for an adjacent field. The aircraft, which was damaged, belongs to the Kingston Flying Club of which both men are members.

Three Months' Make of Cheese Sold at Stratford

STRATFORD (CP)—The cheese industry appears to have overcome its biggest hurdle—the price problem.

In one of the biggest business sessions in exchange history nearly three months' maket of cheese was sold here Tuesday on the western Ontario cheese exchange with prices ranging from 37½ to 38 5-16 cents a pound.

It was the first sale since April 16. Since that time manufacturers have been withholding cheese because the bottom dropped out of the price.

Cheese makers expect the price to rise to 39 cents by September.

Th next exchange session, to board cheese made during the last half of July will be held here Aug. 4.

BRUIN BUFFAOLED

TRAFFIC INCREASE

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—Marked increases in traffic through Saint John municipal airport were noted in the first six months of this year. The airport handled 23,431 passengers, an increase of 4,779 over the same period in 1952.

Man Electrocuted

BRUSSELS (CP)—A father of three small children was electrocuted and another man seriously burned about the hands Tuesday when a 22,000 length of pipe they were installing in a well touched an overhead hydro wire on the farm of Frank Walters, Concession 9, Morris Township.

Killed was Kenneth Coleman, 28, of Brussels, an employee of Kratzer Brothers, plumbers, of Brussels.

Admitted to hospital was Fred Walters, son of the farm owner, who was helping the plumbers install the pipe in the well.

Help Retarded Children

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario education department will subsidize the education of retarded children to the extent of $250 a pupil annually under an amendment to the Education Act published Tuesday.

The amendment was passed by the Ontario Legislature at the last session.

The grant will be paid to parent groups on the basis of average daily attendance for each month in which classes operate. The Ontario Association for Retarded Children is responsible for statements to the deputy minister giving full statistics.

Children up to 18 years of age, incapable of development beyond the mentality of a child of eight, must be admitted free of charge.

'Chuck' Dressen Leads 'Dream Team' To Victory In All-Star Classic

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

FOUR-MAN FASTBALL HERE

Ace Holden's Rockets, sensational four-man fastball team out of Montreal, will show their wares here on Saturday, August 8, according to the CNE AA demon publicity man, Al Meagher. The Rockets are said to be on a par with the famous King Folgner and Ella Court which had the softball faithful in Ontario agog for the past two years.

The Rockets, who will perform in the CNE Recreation Park, will face an all-star nine-man team of the district. The Rocks will be the first four-man outfit to show their wares in Belleville.

Since Ace Holden, the phenomenal pitcher, first formed the team in 1933 under the management of Pat Patterson, their dazzling displays have captured the imagination of sports followers everywhere they have performed.

Primarily their triumphs are based on the pitching magic of Holden but the brilliant fielding skill of Pete Constable at first base, and Leo Rheaume, third baseman, and roving infielder, with the generability of catcher Maury O'Connor, serve as an outstanding complement to Holden's mound genius.

The Rocks are buried thirty games in 1933, winning twenty-seven. He struck out 561 batters in 219 innings or an average of 2.56 per inning. The three losses were by 1-0, 1-0 and 7-8 scores. Two of the wins were perfect games and in one played in Quebec City, he fanned 24 men, fielded two bunts and targed out one runner on the line. His team won 2-0. Wetta man!

In the spring of 1953, Holden was brought to Montreal, where he joined the Savoia club of the East End Major Fastball League. He had the outstanding win and loss record of 19-1 with 15 shutouts. Five of they triumphs were no-hitters, three were perfect games.

LADYLIKE STANIEL!

"Meg's" mother may have been frightened by a tennis player. Or mebbe her old man was a "racqueteer."

Anyway, "Meg", a handsome cocker spaniel, owned by a Gothamite, has shown a marked reticence for giving the boss the "third" and bringing the Misses all the tennis balls and baseballs she needs.

"Meg's" record, the story goes, was seven tennis balls in one evening. The next day she brought home fifteen. She collected 88 in June and 54 in May. Her net this year is 164, including a few baseballs.

The ball-nosey "gal" has retrieved all sorts of balls from the banks of the Hudson River. Her owner was born in Wales and because of that fact he gave the dog the official name of Lady Megan Lloyd George. "Meg" is four years old.

GOOD PUBLICITY!

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will get some well-deserved publicity when three youths from Erie, Pennsylvania, return from a Lake Ontario cruise.

The trio, Al Bonnell, Carl Pierron and Dick Omellian, told this department at the club party the other night, that their reception here during a week-end stopover was one of the best they had experienced in three years of cruising along the Lake Ontario water front.

"And coming from a town," Omellian said, and he should know since he operates a large boat livery in Erie, "where ciyal summer sports of a large number of residents, we appreciate true lakefront hospitality."

"The boys back home will hear about Belleville," grinned Bonnell. "A lot of them are contemplating cruises like this, and after the reception we got here, you will be seeing a lot of the boys and Girls from Erie."

That should be good enough. Take a bow, Kay!

TUFF GUY!

Hans Schmidt, the Munich Menace, will oppose Bo-Bo Brazil, the Negro ko-ko bump expert, in the feature wrestling match at the Memorial Arena on Friday night.

Schmidt, well known to television viewers for his methodical wickedness, is six-feet, four-inches tall and weighs 240 pounds. A ruthless ringster, he often keeps punishing an opponent after the latter is unable to continue.

"What do they expect me to do?" Hans snarls at his critics. "A ballet dance?"

He may wish he had taken up ballet dancing instead of wrestling after he's sampled a flurry of Bo-Bo's famed skull-cracking ko-ko bumps.

Fancy Flinging Marks Game Featured by 'No Home Runs' Old Man Slaughter 'Kills 'Em'

CINCINNATI (CP) — Old-edged pitching made up for a lack of the National League's vaunted power Tuesday as Chuck Dressen led his dream team to a 5-1 victory over the American League.

In a game in which neither side hit a home run and the offensive was left to oldsters like Enos Slaughter, Pee Wee Reese and Johnny Mize, the sharp hurling of Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn, Curt Simmons and Murry Dickson provided the edge as they limited the losers to five hits, all singles.

Manager Casey Stengel of the losers suffered additional grief when his star centre - fielder, Mickey Mantle, aggravated a pulled leg-muscle in the seventh inning and limped from the game, a doubtful starter in the Yanks' next start against St. Louis Browns Thursday.

Apart from the pitchers, the outstanding individual performer was the 37-year-old Slaughter, whose 10th all-star appearance was his greatest. The St. Louis Cardinal veteran hit a double in a first run, scored two more, stole a base and made a fine defensive play, a diving catch of Harvey Kuenn's low liner in the seventh inning.

Feewee DM It

Reese's double was the only extra-base hit. The Brooklyn shortstop also had a single, driving in a run with each single. Pitcher Dickson and pinch-hitter Richie Ashburn drove in the other two National League tallies.

The American Leaguers were shut out on two hits until the ninth inning when Minnie Minoso singled home a run after previous safeties by Ferris Fain and Mize.

Lefty Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox matched Roberts with scoreless one-hit pitching over the first three frames.

But the Yankees' Allie Reynolds yielded two tallies in the fifth inning and was tagged with the loss. Southpaw Spahn of Milwaukee, who didn't yield a hit through the fourth and fifth, was the victor.

Old Satchel Paige, making his first all-star appearance, was tagged for two runs by the winners in the eighth inning. Cleveland's Mike Garcia gave up four hits in a two-inning stint but got by with only a single tally charged against him.

Guelph Blanks St. Thomas 5-0; Terriers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Walter Jeffries, first - baseman-turned-pitcher, is the talk of the Intercounty League.

The southpaw made his debut as a pitcher with Guelph Maple Leafs Tuesday night and blanked St. Thomas Elgins 5-0 on three hits.

He was acquired by the Leafs as a first baseman and played in that capacity Saturday night. In an experiment last night he was sent to the mound.

The only other game of the night also had its surprises. Galt Terriers dropped third-place London Majors 12-4. The sixth-place Terriers hammered out 15 hits, four of them homers, and led the Majors all the way.

At St. Thomas, Jeffries easily shone as the star of the night in keeping the Elgins hitless until the seventh. He walked three and struck out four and put St. Thomas batters down in order in five of nine innings.

Starter Ray Butler, former London hurler, had a lot to do with Galt's victory. The game was a slugging contest all the way with London managing 12 hits off two Galt pitchers. However, the Majors never got too close. Art O'Connor led at the plate for Galt with four hits in five trips. Bill Bert was charged with the loss.

Guelph used a newly signed outfielder last night for the first time. He is Gene Bilo, recently discharged from the United States Army and who played professional baseball in the U.S. in 1950 with the Middle Atlantic League.

The Elgins announced last night that they have signed Jack Cafferty, who played with Toronto St. Michael's of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, as a pitcher. At the same time they announced the unconditional release of infielder Joe Barbato and the acquisition of Pete Krawchuck for a try out on first base. He has been playing in the Quebec Provincial League.

Around the League tonight London plays at Kitchener, Brantford at Oshawa, Waterloo at Guelph and St. Thomas at Galt.

Mexicans Ready For Cup Clash With Canadians

MONTREAL (CP)—The Mexican Davis Cup team, with two days on the Montreal Royal grass courts under their belts, hope to give the Canadians a run for their money when they meet this week-end in the North American zone Davis Cup tie.

The Mexicans have won two of their three encounters with Canada in Davis Cup play. They took the Canadians 5-0 in 1946 and downed them 4-1 in 1948. Last year the Canadians took the tie 5-0.

But last year there was trouble between two powerful tennis factions in Mexico, and the team that came up here wasn't as good as it might have been.

Only one man on that team had ever played on grass courts before coming to Canada and, coming from a dry climate, they were badly troubled by Montreal's humidity.

Their No. 1 man, Mario Llamas was born last year, and though beaten, put up a memorable struggle and has improved. In practice he has shown a strong all-court game with few weaknesses.

Rafael Ortega has uncovered a terrific service and overhead for fans watching practices; and Francisco (Pancho) Contreras had played with Vancouver's Lorne Main and Paul Willey while at college at Modesto, Calif.

The Mexicans have been playing on grass courts for the last two weeks at Forest Hills, with Fred Earle, well-known American coach, working on them. They have been getting used to the humidity.

Then too, they aren't looking for the power they came up against last year. For one thing, Bren Macken, Canada's No. 1 player has retired from cup play for business reasons.

Main and Henri Rochon, both cup veterans are back, but Rochon hasn't shown too well this year and has pulled a thigh muscle which could take time healing properly. Bob Bedard too is injured—a torn ligament in his back—and is doubtful, while Willey has been both brilliant and erratic in practice.

Laid Foundation For Brazil's Most Popular Game

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—At the turn of the century when the late baron de Drumond thought up the "jogo do bicho," the animal game, he laid the foundations for Brazil's most popular form of gambling.

The baron is now dead. The palatial gardens where the game originated became the "bicho" gardens. But the "bicho" now is one of Brazil's big businesses.

As practiced in the baron's day, "bicho" was simple.

Every morning the baron, who owned a private zoo, would hoist on his flagpole the hidden effigy of an animal and the "aficionados" (players) would place their bets on its identity before the effigy was unveiled. The baron used 25 effigies.

Today the animal element is retained. But each animal is now represented by a group of numbers. And the bankers' pay-off is based on the final numbers of the federal and state lotteries.

Peewee Softball

Boyce's Garage peewee softballers won a 15-6 victory over Rotary Reds at Rotary Park in West Moira Fire Hall last night.

The winners scored 13 of their runs in the fourth innings off seven hits and six Rotary errors.

MacDonald went all the way for the winners yielding ten hits with Sheridan performing for Rotary giving up a dozen clouts.

Mimms and Bidwell had three hits each for the winners with Sheridan blasting two homers for Rotary. Lewis also connected for a round-tripper for the losers.

British Cricket

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) —In one of the most sensational and incident-crammed hours that Old Trafford has ever experienced, Australia lost eight second-innings wickets for only 35 runs before drawing the third test match with England here Tuesday. The first two test matches were also drawn.

After the start of the final day's play had been delayed until after lunch, England easily averted the follow-on and went on to score 378, 43 runs behind the Australian first-inning total of 318.

When England resumed its first innings, it was 1,000-to-one against anything but a draw. Wicketkeeper Godfrey Evans, always a crowd-pleaser, added some thrills with his 44 not out.

The Australians started aggressively, with Captain Lindsay Hassett taking two fours off Alec Bedser in the first over.

But bowler Jim Laker found the pitch to his liking, getting a vicious lift and good offspin to the ball, and got Arthur Morris out by a catch to Len Hutton and Hassett to a brilliant catch by Trevor Bailey.

Evans stumped one batsman and caught another. Then bowler John Wardle bit his stride and dismissed four men for only four runs.

Don't We All' Says Everybody

CINCINNATI (AP) — Charlie Dressen, victorious National League manager, said wistfully after Tuesday's all-star game:

"I wish I had that kind of pitching all season."

Dressen's Brooklyn Dodgers are in front of the league standings again this season, but they've had hurling trouble all season.

Casey Stengel, whose American Leaguers took their fourth straight drubbing 5-1, agreed that his hitters weren't hitting.

It was a bitter pill for him to swallow. He has beaten the National League entry four-straight times in the world series with his New York Yankees but he never has been able to win an all-star game.

Happiest guy for the Nationals was Pee Wee Reese, Brooklyn shortstop. Although he had played in seven previous games he hasn't had a hit in 13 times at bat until he knocked out a single and a double Tuesday and drove in two runs.

SEVEN ARABS KILLED

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—An Israeli army spokesman said that seven Arabs were killed, two wounded and 11 detained with dead between Israel security forces and armed infiltrators who crossed the lines into Israel during the week ending July 9."

BEGIN SURVEY

TOKYO (Reuters)—The National Railway Corporation announced that it has begun a survey for a projected underwater tunnel across the 10-mile Tsugaru strait between Honshu and Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island. A team is conducting blasting experiments of Yoshioka, on Hokkaido's southwestern tip, the announcement said.

Herd, Royals In Close Race In International

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Flip a coin and take your choice —Montreal Royals or Buffalo Bisons. That's the way the International Baseball League pennant race shapes up today.

The first-place Royals blanked the Herd 9-0 in the opener of a doubleheader at Buffalo Tuesday and felt they were on easy street. But the surging Bisons turned the tables on the leaders in the second game, winning 4-1 to remain in hot pursuit.

So far the Royals have a 3-1 lead in their four-game series with second-place Bisons—one of the most crucial series of the current campaign. They would like nothing better than to take the final game of the affair, for a victory for Buffalo tonight would pull the club within a half-game of Montreal. The Bisons now are 1½ games back.

Rochester Red Wings, who are third, can thank rookie outfielder Tom Burgess for their 13-7 victory Tuesday night over sixth-place Syracuse Chiefs. Burgess drove in seven runs with two homers and a single.

A ninth-inning homer, with two on and none out, by Jack Graham gave Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 win over third-placed Springfield Cubs. The Orioles are in fourth spot.

Righthander Bob Trice pitched and batted Ottawa Athletics to a 5-3 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs. Trice allowed eight hits whacked a homer and scored the winning run in the fifth for his 12th win against five losses.

In the Buffalo twin-bill, Gil Mills shaded veteran Earl Harriet in the opener to gain his sixth mound triumph for Montreal. Both gave up five safeties, but homers off Harriet by Tim Thompson and Ken Wood spelled Buffalo's downfall.

Jack Wallassa's 20th circuit clout, with a mate aboard in the seventh, was the decisive blow in the Bison second-game triumph. Paul Foytack scattered six Montreal hits in his sixth pitching victory.

Canadian Star In Skate Show

Miss Smith, figure-skating champion in 1951, was recommended by Ollie Haupt, an expert on skaters in New York. She is a student at Buffalo University and instructress at the Buffalo Figure-Skating Club.

'Newport Dream' Takes Rich Trot

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Newport Dream turned in a six-length victory in the $5,000 Saratoga two-year-old trot Tuesday night for his second straight Grand Circuit victory.

The bay son of Axomite from Octave Blake's Newport stock farm at South Plainfield, N.J., came from behind to win at Saratoga Raceway.

Driven by Del Cameron, he was clocked in 2:08 2-5.

Anne Sharp Heads Golf Team

TORONTO (CP)—Anne Sharp of Lookout Point, provincial women's golf champion, will head the Ontario golf team in the interprovincial match at London Aug. 6-7.

She was chosen Tuesday after a series of tests conducted by the Ontario branch of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union.

Others in the team are Mrs. J. G. McCarter of Lambton, Toronto champion, Mrs. J. B. Seawright of Scarboro and Shirley Woodley of the ladies' club.

St. Kitts Player Top Scorer In Lacrosse Loop

TORONTO (CP)—Doug Smith of St. Catharines Athletics has taken over as top scorer of the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association. He has piled up 32 goals and 65 assists for 97 points in games up to and including Saturday.

Statistics released by the OLA Tuesday lists Kent Croft of Orillia Terriers as the second best marksman with 50 goals and 34 assists for 84 points. Leo Teaterfo, also of Orillia, follows him with 39 tallies and 32 assists for 71 points.

Ike Hildebrand of Peterborough Trailermen is fourth with 37 goals and 29 assists for 66 points. Following him is Derry Davies of St. Catharines with 39 goals and 25 assists for 64 points.

St. Catharines is in first place with a total of 17 victories and five losses for 34 points. Its closest contender is Peterborough with 15 wins and four losses for 30 points.

Eleven Canucks Enter Regatta

TORONTO (CP)—Nine oarsmen and two scullers will represent Canada Saturday and Sunday at the annual United States National Regatta in Philadelphia.

The Hamilton Leander Boat Club will send Bobby Williams and Bill Hammond to compete in two singles races while the St. Catharines Rowing Club will enter its crack heavyweight eight in the intermediate eight event.

Williams, one of Canada's top scullers, will contest the championship singles, an event he won in 1951. Hammond will row the senior 145-pound singles.

The St. Catharines eight is half a freshmen crew with only four men left from last year's boat which finished second to Buffalo Orillia is third with 12 wins and eight losses for 24 points and Fergus follows with a 9-7 record for 18 points. Hamilton and Mimico are six and seventh respectively.

Charges CAHA Holding Funds

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—Dr. J. A. McCue, president of Smiths Falls Rideau of the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League said Tuesday night the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is keeping $110,000 tied up in government bonds while club member clubs are strapped for funds.

He spoke to an open meeting of hockey fans called to discuss means of ridding the Smiths Falls club of a $3,000 deficit. The meeting named a committee of fans to organize a fund drive.

The meeting was also told that Rideaus had been promised $550 for each of 11 games the club played in Allan Cup competition but had received only $425 a game from the CAHA.

West Sides in the Ned Hanlan Memorial at the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta at Toronto. Canada will face the same West Side crew on Sunday.

Federal Grant To B.E. Games

VANCOUVER (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott Tuesday turned over a federal cheque for $100,000 to the British Empire Games Society to help finance the 1954 games here. The cheque is half of a proposed federal grant of $200,000 to the games. The first half was approved by Parliament and the other is expected to be voted next year.

Junior Golfers Play at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Some 87 golfers, 18 years and under, will compete in the Ontario Junior Golf Championship here Thursday.

Players are entered from Port Arthur, Kirkland Lake, Sudbury, Timmins, Windsor and Toronto.

The 36-hole competition will be held at the Oakdale Club.

Canadian Leads Bisley Shoot

BISLEY, England (Reuter) —Lt.-Col. S. Johnson of the Calgary Regiment headed the 20 Commonwealth qualifiers Tuesday for the final of the St. George's Challenge Vase and Gold Cross at Bisley.

Lt.-Col. Johnson won the Kolapore Prize in 1939, scored 73—only two less than the top scorer, H. Charles of Wales.

The 100 qualifiers will shoot the final over 900 yards Thursday.

RETURN TO MOSCOW

LONDON (Reuters) — The Russian chess players whose visit to the United States was cancelled last week have returned to Moscow, the official Soviet news agency Tass said. The 15 players caused passages on the liner Queen Elizabeth in Paris late Thursday after United States immigration officials refused permission for the team to stay at Glen Cove, Long Island, the home of the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

INSTANT PICK-UP WHEN NEEDED!

Extra acceleration is always at your command—to move ahead quickly in traffic, or pull out of tight places in a hurry. When power demands are satisfied Mercury Truck FULLY Automatic Transmission will automatically return to cruising speed.

SMOOTHEST TRUCK POWER ON THE ROAD NO GEARS TO SHIFT... NO CLUTCH TO OPERATE

Mercury Truck M-100 FULLY Automatic Transmission* is tried and proven—has many exclusive advantages and economy features. Teamed with the "World Famous" Mercury Truck engine—V-8 definitely—it provides more GO, more EASE—with the smoothest truck power on the road.

No clashing gears, no jerky starts! For with Mercury FULLY Automatic Transmission you get faster, certain response. From start to stop you go swiftly, effortlessly with silky smoothness, that's easy on the driver. There's automatic "down-shift" for hill-climbing. You have positive, safe control on curves and turns.

For safety, the engine starts only in Neutral—no possibility of truck lurching ahead or to rear. Safe parking! Parking position of selector lever locks gears. Rear wheels can't possibly roll. Safe, simple arrangement of selector gives absolute control when backing.

Simple advance-design of Mercury Truck M-100 FULLY Automatic Transmission brings new economies to truck operation. There are service savings—wear and tear on moving parts is held to a minimum—cost of replacements is eliminated. Under normal driving conditions no sacrifice in gasoline economy is necessary with FULLY Automatic Transmission.

*Optional at extra cost.

DOWNHILL BRAKING— AUTOMATICALLY!

Safe, effective downhill engine braking is obtained quickly by simply moving selector lever to "LO" position. In heavy snow or sand "LO" position gives added pulling power; if "rocking" is necessary, move selector lever back and forth between "LO" and "Reverse".

HERE'S THE WIDEST CHOICE OF TRANSMISSIONS IN MERCURY TRUCK HISTORY!

Mercury Truck M-100 is also available with: 3-speed Heavy Duty Synchro-Silent Transmission, with steering column gearshift; 4-speed Synchro-Silent Transmission with floor shift; 3-speed Overdrive; 4-speed optional at extra cost. 3-speed Synchro-Silent Transmission with steering column gearshift is standard.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Even the easiest hands are not played in exactly the same way as the bridge greats. In the national championship exclusively like masters came the simple solution shown here in detail:

NORTH
♠A K 9 4
♥Q J 10 6
♦Q 8
♣9 5 2
WEST	EAST
♠6 5 3	♠3 T 2
None	♥K 9 4 3
♦10 9 7 4 3	♦K 6
♣10 7 6	♣A Q 4 3
SOUTH
♠Q J
♥A 8 7 5 3
♦A J 5 2
♣K J

The correct bidding would be:

South	North
1 H	1 S
2 D	3 H
3 NT -	4 H

South bids three no trump to try another trick. He knows he with must take it to four hearts since the tricks promised are in hearts.

At the 14 tables, eight of the pairs playing this hand in a contract of four hearts. All of them should have been there. It no compliment to such players that six pairs were not.

The north hand ended at four spades and made five. But it must be very poor bidding policy to bid in it. One south was in a small slam of six hearts that made. But is bad bidding.

Two south scatters ended at nine no trump that made exactly. It is certainly bad tournament bidding when five bidders can be made for a higher score. It exposes their inaccurate bidding method.

Of the eight pairs that were in the correct contract of four hearts, two took only ten tricks and the rest took 11 tricks. When such players lose a trick it is very incomplimentary to them.

Two of the tables had a time for themselves. At one of these, south made it a bid of two diamonds that was doubled. This went down four tricks. Since they were vulnerable they lost 1100 points.

At another table, east was doubled at two clubs and made it with two overtricks. This was the highest score in the east-west direction.

When the best of them prove such a flop, there is plenty of room at the top.

THREATENS COMPLAINT

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton has threatened to complain to the RCMP unless the crown attorney takes faster action to stop whoever is mailing her anti-semitic propaganda. She told board of control that she received the letter to Raoul Mercier, crown attorney, on three occasions in the last 12 months. Mayor Whitton said the literature bore the name Ron Gerrick with an address at Walker's Falls, near Owen Sound.

Entire Operation Observed By Small TV Camera

NEW YORK (AP) — The shoplifter edges up to a counter. The clerk is busy with a customer. There's the flash of a practised hand and a half-dozen expensive ties disappear.

It looked easy and it was, until the shoplifter started to walk out and a store detective quietly collared him. The completely baffled thief hadn't reckoned on a concealed, midget television camera on which his entire operation was observed.

That's only one of the countless future business or industrial uses for TV envisioned by Dr. Allen B. Dumont, video pioneer and president of Allen B. Dumont Laboratories.

Dr. Dumont says the real potential of industrial TV only recently has been opened up with development of amazing new tv cameras a fraction as expensive as previous models.

He predicts industrial and business uses of TV ultimately will eclipse its entertainment use, just as electronics grew out of radio and now is several times as large as the radio business.

He foresees the amazing use of TV for such purposes as checking signatures on cheques, for enabling a control operator to monitor an entire assembly line or fabrication operation, in railroad yards, and even in the home for keeping an eyeon a child or for seeing who is at the door.

Iran Parliament Closed as 27 Deputies Resign

TEHRAN (AP)—Iran's Parliament was closed down in virtual collapse today following the resignation of 27 deputies supporting Premier Mohammed Mossadegh. Their walkout left the aged premier to govern without any legislative interference.

With the resignations, the Majlis, Iran's last remaining legislative house, was unable to muster a quorum of 80 of its 79 members Mossadegh discovered when Senate last October.

The premier has announced he will hold a referendum on his policies and will resign if the public's vote does not back him up. He has, however, not issued any plans for holding the referendum.

The parliamentary crisis came after months of wrangling over unprecedented powers granted Mossadegh last summer, permitting him to govern by decree.

Parliament has been paralyzed since February when the opposition, led by Ayatullah Seyed Abolghassem Kashani, fiery Moslem religious leader, refused to attend session after session. Only nine of the last 40 scheduled meetings have been held because of the lack of a quorum. On July 1, Kashani was replaced as speaker by Dr. Abdullah Moazemi, a Mossadegh partisan.

Railway Union Opposes Seaway

BOSTON (AP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen is on record as opposing construction of the St. Lawrence seaway.

The brotherhood, an independent union which claims to represent 100,000 railroad employees in the United States, voiced its opposition Tuesday in a resolution adopted at its 36th annual convention.

The resolution called the proposed seaway "unsound, impracticable financially and uneconomical."

AT THE BELLE—Dan Dailey is cast as a sympathetic cab driver who warms the heart of the lovely Constance Smith, alone and helpless in Manhattan, in the new comedy "Taxi" now playing at the Belle Theatre. The companion feature is "Washington Story" starring Van Johnson and Patricia Neal.

AT THE McCARTHY—Doris Day and Gordon MacRae cuddle up in a scene from their newest Technicolor musical comedy from Warner Bros., "By The Light of the Silvery Moon," which opens Thursday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. The romantic singing stars are supported by Leon Ames, Billy Gray and Rosemary DeCamp.

AT THE CAPITOL THEATRE—Leo Gorcey in one old expression is vamped completely by lovely Angela Greene in his latest Bowery Boys comedy with Huntz Hall, "Loose In London" the Allied Artists picture opens at the Capitol Theatre Thursday. On the same program "Battles of Chief Pontiac" starring Lex Barker and Lon Chaney. Both hits are first Belleville showings.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't let opportunities slip by through lack of interest or overconfidence this stimulating day. Both business and personal affairs can be most gratifying.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Use your chances rightly and benefits will come your way. There are hidden possibilities, go below surface and find yours.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Stars indicate fine outlook, especially from noon on in selling, investments, real estate. Sell-possible arguments.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Generally favorable day but could be wasted with poor effort and lack of decision at proper time. Use tact!

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Typical in-between -day. Business affairs, personal matters demand extra astute handling. Avoid doing over trifles.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Have a light heart since your chart is in a favorable position for worthy endeavor. In home, matters be cheerful, ignore insignificant annoyances.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Your natural gifts and keen sense of perception will stand you well now. But tendency to take it easy may react against you.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Day increases in favor as it progresses. Avoid being depressed, discouraged because of things you cannot control, and you will achieve.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Another day sounds what like Scorpio natives have. You have foresight, are self-reliant. With these you should attain well today.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Vague issues may arise. Can be lucky period for well planned business ventures. financial investments, mining, merchandising sponsored.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—The right attitude plus action should bring creditable returns. Influences okay for keen, smart dealing. Use that to your merit.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Liquidate all non-essentials early in day. Gains can be made, a good job turned in with steady, astute performance.

YOU BORN TODAY: Your big asset is tenacity; another is enduring loyalty to home, loved ones, friends. May have tendency to overeat, harm health. Impede business advancement. Pray often, be teemperate, follow through with ideas and you can make fine headway. Birthdate of Sir Joshua Reynolds, noted painter; loyd Gibbons, war correspondent; Barbara Stanwyck, actress.

THURSDAY'S MEET

POLITICAL TALK

The Peiping radio said:

"The other side unilaterally declared a recess and walked out of the meetings."

The Communist spokesman said only: "No comment. We never comment on communist propaganda broadcasts."

Officers Pessimistic

Allied officers here were openly pessimistic over chances of an early armistice. They contended there was continued optimism that negotiators would agree soon.

They said they expected contact with the negotiators said the Reds have agreed to the principle they are insisting that the UN Command provide concrete guarantees that Communists will not break an armistice.

These same officers, who refused to be quoted by name, said the big communist attack on the Kumsong front last week showed the Reds do not plan to sign a truce soon.

On the other hand, President Eisenhower's special truce envoy said at a press parley in the U. S. Tuesday that the agreement he reached with President Syngman Rhee "should assure the signing of an armistice in the immediate future or a decrease in their desire for peace."

Dulles could sign a truce tomorrow in good faith with the Communists, Defence Secretary Charles Wilson Robertson on his arrival at McChord Field, Wash. Tuesday from Korea.

The communist radio at the North Korean capital of Pyongyang said today that about 35 per cent of the 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners who refused repatriation last month now are at Pohang, north of Pusan on the east coast.

The broadcast said that since the prisoners now are concentrated in one place, no one else can claim that they have melted into the civilian population and caused be escaped or caused does not hold water.

The Reds have insisted on the return of these prisoners since the first big group fled from UN stockades on Koje Island, off Pusan, three June 18.

Associated Press correspondent Alan Winnington, who frequently reflects official Red views, said negotiations have been "made some progress" at Wednesday's session.

Winnington said that a few days per cent of the 27,000 anti-communist refusal to be repatriated will abide by the terms of a truce.

HANDCUFFS STOLEN

LONDON (CP) — Truncheons were lost and handcuffs misplaced during the Coronation shuffle of police organization, Commissioner for London's police force. Most have been recovered but 12 sets of handcuffs still unaccounted for, he hinted to have been stolen.

AGILE CENTENARIAN

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP) — John Fletcher celebrated his 100th birthday by touching his toes to demonstrate his fitness.

The Soldier Apprentice is taught to look after himself and to get along with others. As a soldier he learns to care for his weapons and to march smartly. Out of the training emerges pride in personal accomplishment and in his unit.

Sports are extremely important in the training of the Soldier Apprentice. Excellent equipment and supervisory coaches help to encourage sports activity. The healthy and vigorous atmosphere fosters a fine feeling of friendship and comradeship among the boys.

FOR YOUNG MEN OF 16

The way to a fine future

The Canadian Army's Soldier Apprentice Plan is the answer for many young men 16 years of age seeking a job with a future. This plan offers a combination of:

- thorough trades training in one of 16 trades.
- academic training — in such subjects as physics, chemistry, algebra, English.
- military training — the basic training of the Canadian Soldier.

Soldier Apprentices live in separate wings under the supervision of selected military and civilian teachers. A carefully balanced programme brings out the best in these young men. Learning and living with other young Canadians stimulates healthy and happy comradeship, as well as pride in their units.

Soldier Apprentices are eligible for all Army benefits, pensions and the 30 days annual leave. They receive basic pay while 16 and full pay upon reaching their 17th birthday.

The young man who is interested in the happy, healthy and purposeful life of the Soldier Apprentice should investigate immediately.

.M. Not Sure Saskatchewan Dam Would Aid All Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP)—Prime Minister Laurent has swept away Saskatchewan's hopes of getting eral government support for ry fulfillment of its greatest ir- tion and power dream.

He stated frankly last night that t is not yet convinced that the South Saskatchewan project, a ghly controversial political issue this land of bitter drought memo- s, will be beneficial to all of anada.

Until he is convinced of its ntry-wide benefits — such as oks that will result from the St. rence Seaway—he will not be epared to recommend it to Par- ment. The Prime Minister added a speech before some 2,000 per- s attending a Liberal rally that and the local armories.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, an introductory speech said he had backed the project for many ars. It was one of the propos- he had made to the cabinet in r 18 years that he has been a eral cabinet minister and the ly one still unfulfilled.

Both the Progressive Conserv- tives and the CCF said they would build the dam if elected to power, t he felt sure that if the dam is onstructed it will be because of eral, politics.

Mr. St. Laurent clarified his po- ition on the dam, after attacking oth the Progressive Conservatives nd the CCF. He suggested the y have "betrayed" Canada's terests by not disclosing what eir "secret weapon" is for re- overing Canada's markets in the terling area.

There was no easy solution to he dollar shortage overseas, but t was "by no means hopeless," t could be solved by patience, ard work and international good- ill.

Canada had provided some help- and the key to the problem "lies largely in the United States, and we can only hope that our Amer- can neighbors will adopt far- sighted policies that will break own the barrier between dollar and non-dollar countries."

As for the irrigation and power roject, Mr. St. Laurent felt this was "too serious" an issue to be made into a "political football." His position would be the same whether it was an election year or not. He did not even want to make a statement on it during his campaigning, but he might have been considered "pretty cowardly" if he didn't.

The project, as envisioned by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration would harness the South Saskatchewan river to build an irrigation and power site be- tween Elbow and Outlook, Sask., to water some 450,000 acres and provide 150,000 horsepower.

The PFRA in 1950, said it would cost $105,000,000 but a Royal Com- mission last year said it would cost $250,000,000 and turned it down as uneconomic.

Mr. St. Laurent said the com- mission estimate was "very high." Mr. Gardiner and Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said the cost would be about $125,000,000.

"We've got to get a factual basis which we can consider as proper to make a decision in the interests of the Canadian nation as a whole," the prime minister said.

500 Germans 'On the Waltz' For Three Years

By GARY LEVY

FRANKFURT (Reuters) —Some 500 young German carpenters, tilers and tinkerers are hiking through Europe this summer in the tracks of a tradition 700 years old.

Now that the building season is in full swing one sees them every- where, distinctive in their all-black bell-bottomed trousers of velvet or corduroy, many - buttoned waist- coats and fancy headgear.

Between 17 and 25, their tradi- tion demands that they remain "on the waltz," as they call it, for three years and one day without going home.

They must walk everywhere. Thumbing rides is frowned upon.

These enterprising youngsters who work their way around the country are members of the guild of "respectable strangers," founded in the 13th century in the Hanseatic city states of Hamburg, Bremen and Luebeck.

The young apprentice who is "bound in" under the coat of arms of the guild gets a narrow black tie, called "the black res- pectability," which he must wear unknotted and fastened with a tie- pin showing the insignia of his trade.

By this rite he commits himself to three years of wandering, to stay no longer than six weeks in any one place, to pay his debts, work hard and honestly, and to help his comrades 'on the waltz."

There is no material gain, but he know that on his return his comrades will look up to him as a travelled man who really knows his trade.

MEN OUTNUMBERED 7

BRAMBER, England (CP)—Men are outnumbered four to one in this Sussex village. There are 80 women to 20 men on the main street alone.

CAUSES TENSION

RANGOON (Reuters)—The Chi- nese Communist embassy here as- sured representatives of the local Chinese community that Commun- ist troops had not occupied five villages on Burma's northeast frontier. Unconfirmed reports that Communist troops had seized cer- tain areas along the frontier had caused tension in Rangoon's Chi- nese community.

PAPER SUSPENDED

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)— The government said it had suspended the newspaper El Siglo for one day and briefly detained its editor, Gabriel Carrizo. The government information office gave no reason. Another newspaper, El Diario de Colombia, said the suspension fol- lowed publication by El Siglo of a political editorial which the gov- ernment did not like.

FEDERATION PASSES

LONDON (Reuters) — The bill paving the way for federation of Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rho- desia and Nyasaland became law Tuesday when the Queen gave Royal Assent. Lord Jowitt, leader of the Socialist opposition in the upper house, said the Labor party will cease its opposition to the bill now it is law, and co-operate to make it a success.

TO BUILD STATION

LONDON (Reuters) — A power station will be built in Scotland to burn peat instead of coal or oil, it was announced in the House of Commons. The government has decided on this experiment to make use of some of the 600,000,- 000 tons of peat in Scotland, mostly in the Highlands.

Canada's Jets 'Star' In U.K. Air Display for Queen

Responsible for Canada's part in the mightiest display of precision flying ever staged in Britain, Wing Commander Johnny Checkley, of Toronto, who led the wing, and Flt.-Lieut. Grant Nichols of Sarnia, Ont., leader of 410 Squadron, are seen above plotting show. Some 850 aircraft of 26 different types ranging in speed from 100 to 700 mph helicopter to a stratosphere jet - a new jet-liner flashed in review before Queen Elizabeth as part of her Coronation review of the Royal Air Force at Odiham base.

UNITED GERMANY PROPOSAL BY WEST TO BOTHER RUSSIA

U.S., Britain and France Urge September Parley

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western proposals for a Big Four meeting on Germany put squarely up to Moscow today the next move in the developing diplomatic battle over German unification.

The proposal is regarded here as a hot one for the Reds to handle because reunification is something that no country which wants support in Germany can oppose.

And yet the unification which the United States, Britain and France clearly seek is one which would associate a united Germany closely with the West and, if possible, bring it into the Western European defense system.

The Russians thus are being asked to accept a foreign ministers' meeting to consider rolling the Iron Curtain back at least to the borders of Poland. The Western powers have reserved the right to insist certain Polish lands be united Germany. If they should succeed, the rollback would be the greater.

Urge September Meet

The proposals for a meeting "on Germany" to be held "not the end of September at a place to be mutually agreed" were made to the Russians Wednesday in notes delivered to their embassies in London, Paris and Washington. The notes were released Wednesday night and the proposals in all are the same.

This line of action by the Western nations grew out of the decisions made here by U.S. State Secretary Dulles, British's acting foreign secretary, the late Anthony Eden, and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault to seek Big Four talks on Germany following the West German elections of Sept. 6. It was agreed that to hold them before that time would embarrass the West German government.

Propose Three Subjects

These three subjects were proposed for discussion:

1. The organization of free elections in West Germany, controlled by the Western powers, and in East Berlin and Soviet East Germany. There would be discussion of establishment of political freedom for all German "before, during and after elections."

2. Proposed creation of an all-German government "on the basis of action in Germany and external affairs."

3. Final agreement on a treaty ending the occupation and restoring full sovereignty to Germany.

The Western powers told Russia steps proposed on Germany "must precede the conclusion of discussions with the Soviet government for a German peace treaty."

Killed by Train

BOLTON (CP)—An 18-month -old girl walked on to a railroad track Wednesday night and was killed by a freight train. The engineer learned about the accident when he arrived at Toronto, 30 miles south.

Police said Deborah Ferguson, was tossed 75 feet by the impact. Her father, Ralph Ferguson, a railway section hand, missed the child and ran to the tracks just in time to see her being struck.

MARQUAND ILL

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (AP)—John F. Marquand, Pulitzer Prize winning novelist, is under treatment for a heart ailment in Anna Jaques hospital. He was reported "resting comfortably."

Drew Critical of Power Given Parliament in Emergency Act

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

A political leader has finally come up with a cold-weather word in the July heat of an election campaign. The word: hockey. The user: Joseph Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

The subject of hockey was introduced while Mr. Drew was saying in Charlottetown last night that the federal government now has powers to take over the facilities of provincial and municipal governments despite Canada's constitution.

He contended that under the Emergency Powers Act, the federal government can do anything by order-in-council which could be done by Parliament, the provincial legislature or municipal councils. There were "a few minor exceptions which really have no importance."

Don't Know Rules

He compared what he said was this current situation to what might happen in a hockey game if "the defending champions amended the rules to suit their own purpose, without even informing the other team that they intended to do . . . So far as our federal system is concerned we simply don't know today what the rules of the game really are."

QUEBEC (CP)—Solicitor General Rivard said today "strange elements" in the deaths of three United States bear hunters whose bodies were found in Gaspe peninsula Wednesday — "warrant full-scale investigation."

The wooded area where the bodies of Eugene H. Lindsey, 47, his son Robert, 17, and Albert Clark, 20, all of Holidaysburg, Penn., were found has been closed off by provincial police. The bodies, found three miles from their abandoned truck, were not moved pending arrival of police officials.

To Investigate

Mr. Rivard said:

"There is not enough information available yet for me to state that the hunters did not die naturally but there are strange elements that warrant a full-scale investigation."

It has been impossible so far to obtain from police a description of the state in which the bodies of the three were found.

The Americans had left June 12 on a bear-hunting expedition in the truck. They had taken enough food for two weeks. Most of the food was still intact in the truck when it was located by police after they were informed that the hunters' friends were missing. The Americans had not taken a gun-licence for the trip although an old logging road near the St. John river.

Rivers of Men Flow on Roads As RoKs Advance

By FORREST EDWARDS

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea (AP) The roads are rivers of men and trucks, the valleys nests of thundering artillery.

As our helicopter circles over we see first the heavy guns, belching huge bunker-busting shells at Chinese positions on Kumsong front.

Then, as we get closer to the front, we see medium guns and light guns and finally heavy mortar batteries.

Here and there the Pukhan river banks are alive with the ruddy, tan bodies of South Korean soldiers washing themselves and their mud-soaked uniforms. These are men just out of the line and soon to return.

We near the front and the helicopter settles down on a flight strip. Only a short distance ahead there South Korean tanks are slowly driving north to regain lost ground as fast as possible.

With Gen. Sun Yup Paik 32-year-old chief of staff of the RoK army, we pile into a jeep and head on a round of division command posts. At each one, Paik goes into the war tent with the division commander and his highest staff officers. A phrase or two emerges as Paik strides out:

"I say stay, fight," Paik says quoting his own watchwords that have spread through the army.

"We must fight and throw them back."

Then we are back in the air. "Discipline better now, morale, too. We fight,"

Fanatical Woman Judge Installed as Successor

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Red government held its purged minister of justice, Max Fechner, on a death-punishable charge today and installed a woman judge in his place.

Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl's cabinet announced Fechner's ouster Wednesday night as an "enemy of the republic."

It was the first shakeup in Soviet zone leadership announced since the recent East German rebellion and the Kremlin's purge of Soviet police boss Lavrenty Beria. "Red" Hilde Benjamin, vice president of the East German Supreme Court and a longtime Communist, was named to succeed Fechner. Her elevation was a direct contradiction of the sober "new course" recently trumpeted by the German Reds.

Depose Beria's Aide

Word of Fechner's axing came less than 12 hours after Moscow radio announced Beria's secret police purge had knocked off one of his top lieutenants, Soviet Communist of Georgia, Minister of State Security Vlasimir Dekanozov. The broadcast said he had been expelled from the Communist party. Presumably he also lost his government position, though this was not stated specifically.

The first blow in the anticipated East German purge did not strike either of the two men reported under fire in the regime, deputy premier and party boss Walter Ulbricht and State Security Minister Wilhelm Zaisser.

Western observers expected Ulbricht to go ever since the June 17 uprising of workers. Policeman Zaisser's fall has been predicted since the disgrace of Beria, communism's top man in that line.

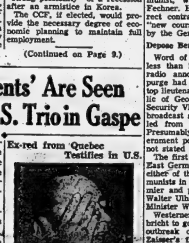
Was Sympathetic

Instead the first axe chopped down Fechner, 60, bald, heavy-jowled, a former lawmaker, and a reported Socialist who espoused communism in 1946. Of all the Communist clique, refugees say he was the only one who showed sympathy and understanding for the plight victims of the system he enforced.

The decree of communique announcing his ouster did not disclose details of the accusations against him.

Fechner's successor, 50-year-old Hilde Benjamin, has been a fanatical Communist since 1928. The National Socialists (Nazis) made the lab doctor, in a concentration camp. Though also a Jew, she and their two children survived.

Her career reached a fearsome peak in 1950 when for nine months she presided at a series of "show trials" of alleged political and economic criminals.



She condemned two to the guillotine, eight others to life imprisonment and handed out sentences totaling 150 years to 17 others she pursued. In Western courts, the crimes at the most would have been classed as misdemeanors.

Constable Charged

HAMILTON (CP) — P. C. George Brewster, 23, was charged Wednesday with using unnecessary force in the arrest of Lawrence Hall, late to provide for immediate medical attention for the prisoner.

The charges were laid following a scuffle in the cells at central police station here in which Charles McCumber, a partially crippled 36-year-old man, suffered a fractured shoulder and other injuries.

JUSTICE MINISTER OF EAST GERMANY HELD AS TRAITOR

Pat Walsh, of Quebec City, Que., a former communist international courier, appears to be shielding his face from cameras while flying before a house un-American activities subcommittee in Albany, N.Y., that the 1949 shipping strike in the U.S. was part of a global conspiracy hatched by the communists to damage Marshall Plan and the North Atlantic Defence Alliance. He added the fact that the strike was planned in the interest of the Soviet Union and that there were no trade union leaders in it. Walsh said that he himself was placed on a Canadian ship prior to the strike to contact dock workers in foreign ports to insure their support. — Central Press Canadian.

1,500 Workers Stay on Job At Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP)—Some 1,500 construction workers stayed on the job today at the new General Motors plant here, built to meet the strong possibility" of a recession or a minor depression.

The CCF, if elected, would provide the necessary degree of economic planning to maintain full employment.

Queen Mother, Princess Margaret, Flying Home as African Tour Ends

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (CP)—The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret today left Britain's British self-governing colony at 2:45 p.m. (8:45 a.m. EDT).

At the airport here the Queen Mother thanked royal aide Group Capt. George Nevill, affectionately kissed Lady Kennedy, wife of the governor-general, and other officials before boarding a Comet jetliner for London.

With the smiling Princess by her side, she paused at the top of the steps to the plane for a last wave to cheering crowds.

As the Comet climbed smoothly over the surrounding bush, Governor Sir John Kennedy, in scarlet ceremonial uniform, led a final cheer for the royal guests.

They had driven to the airport through 11 miles of crowds lining the streets.

The Queen Mother wore a pale blue crepe dress with a small matching hat. Princess Margaret was in a navy blue suit in stiff silk and a flared skirt. On her head was a straw bonnet.

First stop over for the royal couple will be Entebbe, Uganda, where they will attend a garden party and evening reception at Khartoum, the Sudan. They are due at London airport Friday morning after a four-hour stop at Rome in the middle of the night.

During the tour, the Queen Mother traveled 1,146 miles by royal train and more than 250 miles by motor car. She has shaken hands with thousands of persons, made seven speeches and been in the centre of centenary celebrations commemorating the birth of Empire builder Cecil Rhodes, founder of Rhodesia.

Reds Get Recess In Truce Parley Until Saturday

Belief That Crisis Is Near Grows as Clark Visits Seoul

By GEORGE McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Communists called today for a recess until Saturday in the Korean armistice negotiations—presumably to consider a new Allied proposal—as speculation mounted that a break is near in the stalemated talks.

Authoritative quarters had predicted a showdown today. But the negotiators talked only for 34 minutes, and then recessed until 2 p. m. Saturday (1 a. m. EDT Saturday).

There was no official hint as to what went on during the brief meeting, which was delayed for 15 minutes while the United Nations Command delegation waited a hurried message from its base camp at Munsan.

But observers outside the conference hut noted that Allied interpreters held the floor most of the time to deliver three separate Communist counter-proposals.

Lieutenant-General Paik Sun-yiu Winnington of the London Daily Worker said the Reds asked for the recess, suggesting that the Communists planned to relay a new UN proposal to headquarters for an answer.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, the UN commander, flew to Seoul from Tokyo Thursday and accused the Reds of violating the armistice by shrouds the armistice talks.

Clark conferred with Syngman Rhee. There was no announcement of what was discussed but informed sources said the two talked of the truce talks at Panmunjon and the massive Communist attack on the central front.

Prime Minister Pak Tou Chin and Defense Minister Sohn Won Il sat in on the meeting.

Clark also conferred with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th army commander, on the military situation. Clark's London visitor also denied speculation that a crisis of some sort was impending at Panmunjom.

Efforts to wrap up final details of a truce agreement have been stalled by Communist demands for repatriated prisoners of war in Korea would honor a truce and for the recapture of 27,000 anti-Communist Korean prisoners who, on orders of President Rhee last month,

Informed sources here speculated that the UN Command may have told the communists in strong terms that if the Reds won an armistice they must accept some of the facts developing from South Korea's agreement with Rhee.

Some observers said the Allied position might have been couched in terms approaching an ultimatum.

Observers in close touch with the negotiations made no effort to hide their growing concern over the deteriorating truce scene.

There was speculation that the 15-minute delay in Thursday's meeting was to enable Harrison to receive new instructions from higher authorities.

YACHT CLUB PREMISES ON PARK ENTERED

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's new premises on Victoria Park were entered last night city police were informed. Nothing was missing except a large bottle of ginger ale.

CAR REMOVED TO CITY GARAGE

Abandoned cars seem to be the order of the day in the city.

Following the removal of a car parked for a lengthy period outside a Queen Street residence, Tuesday, police were informed of another automobile that had been parked outside, 82 Clark Boulevard, for the past two weeks, with no one apparently, taking any interest in it.

Investigation revealed the car was registered in the name of Harry Holland, Marlbank. It was removed to a city garage.

OFFICIALS DENY ANY CONNECTION WITH FUND CAMPAIGN

Officials of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Veterans in Canada Branch No. 201 here said today, that it has no connections or association with a lady reported to be soliciting donations for the ANAF Welfare Fund.

As far as the ANAF branch here is concerned, it has never solicited funds of any nature, the officials said. "We pride ourselves on the fact that conversely, we contribute to the welfare programs undertaken by any civic body in addition to assisting indigent veterans, and deserving scholarships."

GIVEN SIX MONTHS AT PETERBOROUGH

Joseph Turcotte, no fixed address, who was picked up by city police two weeks ago on a vagrancy charge after acting suspiciously in the vicinity of the York Trading Company building, won't bother society for a while.

Turcotte was arrested in Peterborough this week on a similar charge and the cadi sent him "down" for six months.

Investigation of the man's record revealed he had been arrested on various charges on seventy different occasions.

SUCCESSFULLY PASSES FIRST YEAR'S EXAMS

Another local man has been successful in the first year Osgoode Hall examinations held in Toronto this spring. George Manjuris, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vasil of 246 Dundas Street passed the examinations, it has been reported.

Wooler Squares Series With Glen Roy Jrs.

Glen Roy Juniors went down to defeat 11-4 at the hands of the Wooler squad Wednesday evening at Wooler in the second game of their best of three series. The third game will be played at the Alumite field Friday night.

The teams split the first inning both on and run apiece. Glen Roy went into the lead in their half of the third. They scored out one more in the fifth and then Wooler went into the lead in the sixth with a five run barrage. The Glens tied it in the top of the seventh. The Wooler crew came up with the game in their half of the seventh and insured it in the eighth with five more.

McColl sweated the route for Wooler getting six on strikes and giving up but two free tickets. Radford started for the Glens and in seven and one-third innings issued six walks and struck out two. He was relieved by Carew who struck out one and walked one.

Austen led Wooler at the plate with a home run and two singles. Putman shared the spotlight claiming three singles. May and Istead each got a pair of singles while Leavitt, McColl and Richards each touched the ball for singles. John Batchelor led Glen Roy in the wood department, blasting the ball for two home runs. Carr got a couple of singles. Peter Green slammed the ball for a homer and a single, Barclay was credited with a double and Goyer with a single.

Work on Kingston Centre for Blind Now Under Way

Last Friday morning, construction began on the Canadian National Institute for the Blind centre at Kingston. Before members of the Kingston-Frontenac advisory board of the C.N.I.B., P. I. Timmins, field secretary; Logan Gallagher, consulting architect and T. A. Andrs, president of the construction firm doing the work, and other interested parties, Mayor George Clark Wright of Kingston, turned the first sod. On completion, the building will be known as the Estelle St. Lawrence Home and Service Centre for the Blind.

Lieutenant-Colonel S. M. Pearson, head of the building committee, was on hand to act as master of ceremonies. Other members of the Colonel's committee include — J. M. Veal, F. P. Boyce, and R. A. Wilson, all of Kingston; Ross Richardson, of Gananoque; Mrs. C. Dennyel, of Brockville, Leeds, advisory board; R. Allen May of the Brockville County advisory board; R. F. Hunter of the Lennox and Addington advisory board; H. J. Fuke of the Hastings County advisory board; A. J. Bourne of the Prince Edward committee and Colin Carter of the Prince Edward County committee.

According to newspaper reports 58 per cent of the $300,000 objective has been reached in the Prince Edward County campaign to be conducted by Ross Goodyear, chairman of the city campaign to raise funds in Belleville to go to the new C.N.I.B. rehabilitation centre in Kingston. The centre, noted the objective for this city was $25,000, it was stated that the city raised approximately $21,000 during the campaign. George Wishart, chairman of the Hastings County advisory board of the C.N.I.B., announced that $50,000 of the $55,000 objective for the county has been reached. However, all returns for the district are not in as yet, according to the chairman.

Mr. Wishart also stated that $21,000 of the money had been raised with a maximum of speed. He said that the excavation has already been completed.

Two Delegations Will Visit City

Two Innovations inaugurated by the Public Works department and given considerable city coverage are apparently paying off because other municipalities are interested and are sending delegations to this city to view the undertakings.

The first is the method of the sanitary land fill method of disposing of garbage. This has been in operation nearly one year and considerable progress has been made at Zwick's Island, where the method was tried out. In a short time there will be a large section of otherwise swampy marsh ready for a crop of top soil and grass seed, which can be used for park purposes.

The other innovation was new Mixall, which makes a hot asphalt mix for patching and the like job. For a long time cold patch was used to fix and maintain the roadways of the city but the mix was a costly effort and not too satisfactory. With the new machine hot asphalt is used and the repair job stands up much longer.

A delegation from Kingston will be in the city today to view the Mixall in operation and this afternoon, Stan Price assistant city engineer of Niagara Falls and a former engineer of this city will four aldermen will view work now being done at Zwick's Island. Mr. Price, while he was here did the preliminary work on this project and has recommended the same procedure to the council at Niagara Falls.

The members of the engineering staff at the City Hall will conduct the delegations around the city.

Charges Pending Against Driver After Collision

Five people were admitted to Belleville General Hospital, Wednesday following a two-car crash on Station Street.

The injured are—Kenneth Marcale, 23, of R.R. Deseronto, fractured shoulder and lacerations; Laurel Seery, R.R. Deseronto, cuts and bruises; Harold Akey, 37, R.R. Belleville, badly gashed arm; Beatrice Akey, 7, same address, face and neck lacerations, and John McMeister, 13, same address, cuts and bruises.

Driving in a concerted shortly after four o'clock a short distance east of Memorial Park.

City police said today that the car driven by Marcale was proceeding east on Station Street when it swerved across the road apparently with the intent of turning into Hamilton Road.

The car driven by Akey was travelling in a westerly direction and was struck by the other vehicle almost head-on.

All occupants of the two cars were rushed to hospital following the crash. Both cars were badly damaged with the Marcale automobile being the more practically demolished. Damage was estimated at $250 while the Akey car incurred damages to the tune of $150.

Charges against Marcale are pending, police said.

Staff Honors Plant Wire Chief Before Departure

At a slag given in honor of Fred Croft, plant wire chief with the Bell Telephone Company here in the city, fellow employees presented the official with an attache case as a token of their esteem. The presentation was made in the Armouries by A. G. (Ab) Acheson, tester on the local staff, on behalf of Mr. Croft left for Kingston as plant wire chief on Wednesday.

Born in Belleville, he joined the staff of the Bell Telephone Company in 1927 as a repairman and telephone installer. Around 1945 he was made wire chief and sent to Pembroke, where he remained until 1949 when he was returned to the city as an installer and repair foreman. Since then, Mr. Croft was appointed plant wire chief, a position he will retain in the Bell Telephone in Kingston.

He is unmarried and had resided on Moira Street while in the city.

RCMP Motif for Miss Canada

The natty red coat of Miss Canada, who is Thelma Rzewnie of Timmins, Ontario, is modelled by Constable Jean Scharp, Miss New York State. The two beauties are at Long Beach, Calif., to compete in the Miss Universe contest. — Central Press Canadian.

Bowling Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Argue with Mrs. H. Thompson and A. R. Symons, were runners-up in the trophy at Stirling, on Wednesday afternoon in the mixed rink tournament staged by the Stirling Club. There were eleven rinks entered, which included Campbellford, Colborne, Madoc, Stirling and Belleville.

Cliff was his first game from James Hough, of Stirling, and the second from W. J. Connor of Madoc. In the third contest he met Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hamilton also of Belleville, and although it was unfortunate, the game high score rinks had to battle for the major prize, these things happen in a small draw, it was an excellent game. Mr. Wonnacott had defeated Fred Rutherford of Campbellford and Percy Locke, of Madoc, to reach the top bracket.

Robert Patterson of the Stirling Club, won the two-game high score while James Hough and his rink won the one-game high total. An excellent luncheon was served between the second and third contest.

On Saturday afternoon, the Cavalier trophy will be competed for at the local greens. This is a triples tournament and all the money received will be given to the district treasury. The game is always played on the greens from which the president of the district resides and as Ray Grant is president of the district this year, the tourney will be in this city. The draw has been limited to a single one of 32 rinks and the way entries are coming in the draw will soon be filled. At the present time the greens are in perfect condition and some excellent bowling should result. Play is scheduled to start at 2:00 p.m. with the last game played after the supper hour. A large gallery is expected to watch the play.

Members of the local club are requested not to forget the "Guest Night" being held at the greens tonight. A large attendance is expected to come with a guest and possibly a prospective member. The person, whose guest he is will play with his host during the entire evening and after the play the women's section of the club have arranged to provide refreshments with a social hour following. The directors feel a larger number in the city should be enjoying the healthful recreation that is provided at the bowling green.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned mixed in quiet forenoon stock market trading today.

Uranium and New Brunswick base metals were enveloped in the mixed to weaker trend ruling the market as Gunnar, Anacon and Chimo eased although Nesbitt Labine and American Yukon added pennies.

In industrials, utilities gave up early advances to head the losing faction. Banks and retail stores also eased but manufacturing companies and constructions gained. For the last section, Canada Cement was a feature with its $1 gain. Southam Company topped the losers with a drop of ¼ points.

Golds drew little interest. Strike-bound Junkers, Brouian Reef and Preston East Dome, dropped pennies.

Higher-priced issues continued to dominate the base metals picture as Smelters, Quemont and Walte Amulet added between a quarter and three-quarters of a point. Low-priced stocks showed no such buoyancy as Labrador and Steep Rock led the majority issues.

Western oils failed to hold early gains, Trans Empire and Pan Western were forward and Prairie Oil and Gas and Peruvian lower.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Sales continued steady on all classes of slaughter cattle except cows which were bid 50 cents to $1 lower at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: cattle 125; calves 25; hogs 50; sheep and lambs 10; holdover from Wednesday 600 cattle.

Choice weighty steers $20-21.50; good weighty $19-20; good to choice light $19.50-20; good heifers $19; good to choice fed yearlings $20-21.50.

Calves were strong at $21-23 for good to choice veal calves; tops $24; common to medium $15-20.

Grade A hogs $23.50; dressed sows $23.

Lambs were steady at $20 for good ewes and wethers; bucks $29.

PRODUCE MARKET

Sales were very firm at the egg market. Quotations for graded eggs in flire cases were: A large 69-70; A medium 67-68; A small 30-31; grade B 47; grade C 42. Wholesale to retail: A large 74-75; A medium 72-73; A small 55-56; grade B 52; grade C 47.

Butter solids: First grade tenderable 58; non-tenderable 56½-56¾.

Ray M. Gunsolus Grand Senior Warden of Masons

Ray M. Gunsolus, past worshipful master of The Belleville Lodge, A. F. & A. M. No. 123, was appointed today in Toronto as Senior Grand Warden of the Masonic Grand Lodge in Ontario. This election will in four years lead to his election as Grand Master, a position once held by the late Lieut.-Col. W. N. Ponton. Belleville has signally honored by his election by delegates from all parts of Ontario and which included the four masters from this city, H. H. Reed of Moira Lodge, Russell Woodley of The Belleville Lodge, Harold Mott of Temple Lodge and D. J. Batchelor of Eureka Lodge.

Also elected as District Deputy Grand Master of Prince Edward district was Howard W. Sahine of Marmora. A large number of delegates from the district are attending the convention in Toronto.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds in the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Wednesday's noon rate was 99 7-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.79¼ against $2.79⅝.

WIN SCHOLARSHIPS

TORONTO (CP)—The association of Professional Engineers of Ontario has announced winners of undergraduate scholarship awards presented annually to engineering students at the University of Toronto, and Queen's University in Kingston. Among winners are W. C. Stark, Oshawa, John E. Leece, Port arthur; G. Deane Collins, Chatham; Charles L. Pelton and Keith' L. Somerville, both of Spencerville, 60 miles east of Kingston.

PHONE RECORD

MONTREAL (CP)—The number of telephones in service in Ontario and Quebec has passed the 2,000,000-mark for the first time in history. Thomas W. Eadie, president of the Bell Telephone Company, said Wednesday in his message to shareholders that the number of telephones in service in Ontario and Quebec increased by more than 75,000 in the first half of this year, it.

U.S. Transport Recovers Remains of Airliner Which Crashed Into Pacific

A naval search vessel, the USS. Barrett, seen at top, reported recovery of bodies of five of the 58 persons aboard the missing four-engine airliner that went down 300 miles east of Wake Island while flying from Guam to Oakland, Cal. The USS Barrett reported that the condition of the bodies —badly burned and mutilated — gave grim evidences of the violence with which the big C-98 apparently roared into the Pacific after probable explosion. Three of the five life rafts already found, were partially submerged amid wreckage, luggage, shoes and other paraphernalia. The Barrett's discoveries were made about 20 miles from point where the four-engined plane radioed without any indication of trouble. Those aboard included civilian workers, their wives and children bound from Guam,

EARNINGS DOWN

CHATHAM (CP) — Canada and Dominion Sugar Company, Limited has announced net profits of $1,-468,113, or 86 cents a share, for the 15 months ended March 31—17-per-cent. drop from the previous 12-month's figure. of $1,779,237, or $1.19 a share. W. J. McGregor, president, stated that although sales were up in the fiscal period under review, earnings fell, mainly because of stiff competition from Cuban imports of refined sugars. The Canadian government recently announced restrictions on these imports. The company is altering its fiscal year.

NOTHING TO CAUSE SURPRISE

The Vancouver Sun is evidently somewhat puzzled by the fact that, in the recent British Columbia provincial election, second choice votes counted for Social Credit and vice versa, despite the plainly demonstrated opposition between the two parties."

Perhaps we should try to explain that, under the alternative voting system used in B.C. provincial elections, electors mark on their ballots the order of their choice among the candidates running. Thus the phrase "CCF second choice" means that the elector places on ballots on which the first choices were the CCF candidates.

It is rather difficult to understand what the Vancouver Sun finds puzzling in the situation it describes. If all or most of the CCF second choices had gone to Social Credits, and vice versa, then indeed the situation would have been a strange one. But that assumption, even a substantial minority, would be marked in this manner, far from being surprising, was to be expected.

For one thing, there are voters who pay little attention to party lines much in the individual candidate. By the law of averages, some of the voters who thought that the CCF candidate in a riding was the best man, as an individual, would be sure to feel that the Social Credit standard-bearer was the next in line for their vote.

Secondly, those who regard the CCF and Social Credit as in "plainly demonstrated opposition" overlook two factors. One is that both these parties are also in "plainly demonstrated opposition" to the Liberals and Progressive-Conservatives, also. The second point is that, much though the CCF and Social Credit differ, they also have a similarity. Both are convinced that there is something seriously amiss with our present economic system and that, neither the Liberals nor the Progressive-Conservatives are prepared to do anything about the situation. A voter who shares this conviction of the desirability of a change, without having become a complete convert to either the social set or Social Credit theory of the manner in which this change should be effected, would be expected to place the two parties in first and second positions on his ballot.

The British Columbia election is not the Canadian province, through its electoral system, to provide voters with a second choice on their ballots, politicians have been playing this game for many years, and ever since the CCF came on the scene, in the conviction that people who would normally vote CCF will vote for this particular party if there is no CCF candidate in the field, or that some of the people who would normally vote for this particular party would vote CCF if they had the opportunity.

These guesses about the second-choice tendencies of CCF voters have never been very accurate. We recall one political campaign, a couple of decades ago, in which a minister in the Hepburn cabinet made two statements in the same evening, neither very startling in itself but rather unique when taken together. This minister told one small rural gathering that CCF-ers were little better than Communists in disguise; he then moved on to another rural audience and assured the people who supported the CCF were merely disgruntled Tories, who despaired of their party showing interest in reform. He was certainly partly right in both cases — but probably not entirely wrong in either. It may also safely be assumed that the CCF strength in that particular riding included people who were in the habit of hearing Liberal speakers make statements like the two outlined above. And then, of course, there were probably a few CCF-ers included in the party ranks.

These days it is strong conviction, in some circles, that everybody who votes Progressive-Conservative is a Tory, everybody who votes Liberal a Grit, everybody who votes CCF a Socialist, everybody who votes Social Credit a believer in funny money and everybody who votes Labor-Progressive a Communist. If this is true, the differing results of elections in provinces undergoing change take place speed with which some voters change their political convictions. Actually, though, there exists a large body of voters who believe that there is some good in all or at least most, political parties and another large body of voters which is convinced that there is little good in any political party. These voters don't have to change their political convictions in order to support any political party because they have no political convictions to change or because they just decide what political party, for the moment, comes closest to meeting their changing platforms the voter's own unchanging political beliefs.

BAY BRIDGE BLUES

Fishing off the Bay Bridge is really something.

Ken Reid found that out on Sunday, when he plucked six bass and one pike from the waters of the Bay of Quinte, including an eight-pounder.

The word got around, of course, and by Tuesday evening everybody and his cousin—not to mention his maiden aunt—was fishing off the Bay Bridge.

We—Now how did that word get in there, anyway. What we want is not the editorial "we" or any other kind of "we." This column is strictly personal and we are not afraid we are not going to be able to camouflage that fact even if we keep on putting "we" into every sentence. And, of course, we are supposed to write personal experiences in the editorial columns.

However, what we were going to say was that we joined the crowds. Sunday was fair for the small fry, who were content with the rock bass, and everybody was expecting a pleasant evening until some great big he-man thought he would demonstrate for the shore-bound proletariat how fast his steel-like little boat would go and sped up and down alongside the causeway, just far enough out of range to avoid being hit by a hastily-cast plug, but not far enough away for it to disappear from sight.

After a few such jaunts, before the admiring gaze of the assembled multitude, the dare-devil and his companions departed for the calmer waters of the anglers.

The sun dipped low and anybody but a moron could see that the big bass were just stretching their jaw-muscles getting ready to snap greedily at anything tossed in their direction.

So we lingered on. Came a skeeter. One mosquito, two mosquitoes, three mosquitoes, four; five mosquitoes, six mosquitoes, got to get out of here or—be eaten, (slap). alive (slap, slap), or break our (ouch, slap, slap, slap) darned fool (slap, slap, slap), neck on these stones.

So we grab the tackle-box and—and the kid comes ov-

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

A TRUTH HARD TO FACE

The Bible is a realistic book. It has a lot to say about sin and repentance. It has even more to say about grace—especially the love of God for man.

But it also talks about the wrath of God. And we are prone to wonder how God ever keeps his voice down or mutes the accents of terror when he speaks of the wrath of God. The Bible from beginning to end pictures the wrath as a terrifying and devastating thing, entirely consistent with God's love. Once it is turned loose, the cattle cry and cry for the hills to fall upon him and the great waters to swallow him. The wrath of God may be the death knell sounded over earthly hopes or the harbinger of eternal disappointment and sorrow.

A sad-hearted, easy-going generation whose religion quickly degenates i n t o sentimental schemes f o r social betterment, turns away with revulsion and amazement from the concept of God's wrath. But the wrath of God is very real. Anyone contemplating the evil course of his heart should ponder this. Forgiveness bids the wretched sinner arise and face God with the realization that God has put away the sin and restored him to the divine household as a son. But for the unrepentant—he will willfully pursue the very headstrong course of evil—the divinely allotted doctrine of the wrath of God should sound a solemn warning.

en and the contents spill on the rocks and the mosquitoes come up by divisions instead of by platoons and we stand there very, v-e-r-y calmly picking up what we can of the tackle, (slap, slap, slap-slap, slap)—and beat it for the car.

Not being a solitary drinker we tried a coke first. Then we found a friend. The beverage really tasted cool.

INTRODUCTIONS

The art of introducing friends
Do clarity of speech depends,
For how can I acquaintance claim
If I don't clearly get the name?

"Meet Mrs. Blurble," says my host,
As though the man were something
I call her "Blurble" later on.
To learn her name is Littlejohn,

At parties, hands I've shaken with
The sloppy whose names were
Jones or Smith.
One introduced as Burr to me,
McGregor later proved to be.

Ach so I've started this crusade
For introductions better made,
For more distinctly spoken

Cockney Is a Language

(By ROBERT L. MOORE in the New York Herald Tribune)

It was strange news, that story quoting the London County Council to the effect that the younger generation of Cockneys no longer are dropping their h's, and that "for going or ill whichers are in favor," having a levelling effect on pronunciation.

This I take with a generous grain of salt. In my book, Cockney is here to stay.

For one thing, the people in Australia and New Zealand are insuring its longevity by spreading it many thousands of miles beyond The Sound of Bow-Bells.

But Cockney isn't just sit-accent anymore. It's more than bladding hatches where they don't belong and dropping them where they do. It's a language unto itself far more than is Scottish or Irish (not Gaelic, of course), or Yorkshire or Welsh.

I was stopping a mild and bitter one afternoon in The Lamb and Lark, in Pitting House Lane, near "The Times" in London, when a lad poked his head into the door and called to the man behind the bar: "Ave you seen Jim about, Alf?"

The ruddy-faced publican flipped his thumb over his shoulder and replied: "Nah, 'aven't. Wot's 'e Frog an' toad."

"Frog an'?" the other, and left.

I lowered my glass, raised my eyebrows and asked Alf: "What was that all about?"

"E was shakin for Jim, and I told 'im 'e was in the coal-cellar, and Alf gestured again with his thumb.

"Yes," I said, "but—'frog an' toad?'"

"Oh," Alf grinned. "That's Cockney rhyme language. 'Frog and toad' means 'down the road.'"

That was my introduction to the cheerful Cockney habit of making Shakespeare used it, is largely attended today. The Cockney rhyming slang is simply the substitution of meaningless words which rhyme with the words that are really intended:

"Frog and toad" for "road"; "apples and pears" for "stairs"; "oh so frisky" for "whisky."

It is not hit-or-miss, invented on the spot. There is a substantial glossary that has been passed down through generations. Sometimes a Cockney rhyme is a language unto itself, though this is unfair today—and quite probably it did originate with the underworld long ago as a means of communicating that the police wouldn't understand.

The Cockneys, with their sharp memories, have added to it over the very special part of the English language for centuries. Historians will insist they had their origin in Norman times in the men from Cockaigne, one of the feudal states under William the Conqueror.

Frequently the Cockney uses only the first word of the rhyming phrase; since other Cockneys know the rest, there is no need to say "frog and toad" when just "frog" will do.

One Cockney friend of mine, when his daughter's bedtime came would say "uncle Ned, duck. Up the apples and pears."

Mrs. R. P., aged 62, writes: "Please tell me how to get rid of my rheumatism. I was laid up a few weeks every winter with what the doctors call arthritis. But a few years ago I began supplementing my diet with

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. READY

DON'T LET THE OLD TIMERS FRIGHTEN YOU

From the great number of letters people have written me about calcium deposits in the arteries, in or about joints or elsewhere in the body, I gather that a lot of you poor people are frightened by the pseudo-scientific hokum of doctors who are not a knowledge of pathology is as limited as their knowledge of nutrition.

The very idea of a deposit of calcium in arteries or joints is already the seat of well-advanced disease is inconceivable. If I were not without fear of competent contradiction, I would not keep telling you that there is no evidence that deposits of calcium (lime) in the arteries or joints of man cause hardening of the arteries or arthritis or rheumatism by any other name.

"Uncle Ned," naturally, meant "Up and Down," which was Cockney term of endearment. "Apples was short for apples and pears," or "stairs."

Freely translated, what he was saying was: "Jim, come downstairs, honey; up the stairs with you."

I remember one affable old pal who, when he "borrowed" with the best of intentions, never could tear himself away from a pint. "Time, gentlemen, please." Toward closing time, he invariably would approach the bartender: "Give me one for the frog, Alf.

Fresh supplied with a reasonably full glass of bitter. When he had drunk it down and then slowly contemplating the empty glass, Alf would lean across the bar and inquire: "You'd better 'ave one for the toad."

Then I'd know the old chap had had his "one for the frog" and "one for the road" he'd push his glass forward, grin sheepishly at Alf and revert to straight English: "Now I'd better have one for the road."

Slot Machines Sell Minnows

(Watertown, N.Y. Times)

Slot machines have yielded to the purchaser packtkes of gum, chocolate, cigarettes, postage stamps, but the latest contribution contrived by two local fishermen of Nashville, Tenn., is by far more novel. They have arranged a device whereby fishermen can deposit a 10-cent piece and draw out minnows for their fishing at any hour of the day or night.

An a Nashville newspaper editor they have set up a tank holding the minnows and containing about ten feet long by three feet wide, made of metal with an open top, overhanging the tank is kept in small net-like plastic containers suspended from the top. The would-be customer looks into the tank, selects the type of minnows he wishes, slips the container down a series of bars until it is reached, and a mechanism then drops in his half-dollar and receives his bait.

What a boon when an angler wishes to get off early in the morning! He knows he can wait until the minnow vendors are out of bed!

Champion Liar 60 Years Ago

(Lethbridge Herald)

Modern day Ananias societies are mere pikers. After reading a yarn from the Medicine Hat News, NWT, March 9, 1892, which came to hand recently, the modern day proponents of tall stories seem to have much to learn.

Mrs. Lethbridge, the lady which purveyed the news in this city when it was a swindling concern some 41 years ago, reprinted this tall one from the Bait, Montana, Herald-Mail. Miner, by the story ran, told by an old prospector named Jim Catlin. Here it is:

"One day while I was walking up Two-Mile Creek with a gun on my shoulder, I heard a very queer noise. I looked up the creek and saw 777 ducks sitting in the limbs of the trees. They were just about what I was looking for, so I raised my gun, took good aim, fired and pulled the trigger something attracted my attention. Before I could see what it was, when I saw 999 fat grouse. Well, I would rather eat a grouse any time than a duck. But just as I turned to fire on them a nice big bear came out of the brush on the other side of the creek. I thought I could make sure killing Mr. Bruin, so I took aim, shut both eyes and fired. Right then something happened that is a wonder of the world. The gun exploded, the charge went across and killed the bear, one barrel went up and killed 999 grouse, the other barrel went down and killed the 777 ducks. I took my pocket knife and cut off the bear's tongue, then I went to work and skinned the bear, and I had a load that I could hardly carry to camp. I had to make two trips to get all the game. I had 1,776 pounds of game. I sold it for 10 cents a pound and got $177.60 for it."

Art of Life Is a Mystery

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Further investigations have been made into an African artifact, which, although apparently a simple bronze and terra cotta statue of a woman, has baffled archaeologists, an ethnologist and archaeologist from the British Museum in London, was a member of a recent party which investigated a cave in Rhodesia, in which tried to solve the mystery of the statues made by unknown artists 800 years ago. Mr. Fagg, ethnologist, and Mr. Bimey Fagg, Newcrest, said that these works of art were the finest examples from Ancient Greece and the Renaissance, even though they were made by a people who live in mud huts. town where the, people of today are ignorant of the meaning of accomplishment.

"It is the sacred city of the Yoruba people, who number between five and six million, and their head is the king. Art is so in life that man was created. Their ancestors of some 800 years ago were amongst the world's most skilled craftsmen in bronze, terra cotta, glass and wood, but their culture has become famous amongst artists and archaeologists since the statues and heads were discovered.

"For nearly 40 years experts have known that a high form of art existed in Africa, but it was form very different from that of other parts of Africa, for it treated the human figure naturalistically instead of distorting it in various ways. But no explanation could be did. The marked difference led to speculation and many conflicting theories about its supposed origin, but Mr. Fagg considered that, because these works really held water and preferred the heads to the bodies of the figures of art were made at life and were the natural artistic expression of the ancestors of the Africans who lived there today. Mr. Fagg is the expert who went to town was to investigate some of the hundred or so ancient finds, and in this he was in consultation or the Oni of Ife and other chiefs. What they found tended to confirm their belief that the beautiful work was done by Africans and not by any race from outside.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The people least able to control their children are usually the swiftest to resent any attempt on the part of others to interfere. A little boy writes: The Packsack is try to wheedle some cagey commentary on this delicate subject. Well, I'm going happy enough, she says, "we have lived in a neighborhood that prided itself on quiet, and respect for the feelings of others. Children have been taught to be considerate of own, and they shared the feeling but year, there was a noisy people moved in next door to us with three of the most lawless, noisy and unruly children you ever saw. The row they make attracts other children from blocks all around. The place is a bedlam from early morning until after nightfall. Our first protests met with a most hostile reception from the parents. Now our every effort to keep the little brats from climbing our fences and trampling our precious garden seems to incite the parents to egg them on. We have reached a point of desperation. Should my husband and I have to sell our home because of this development?

Lady, yours is not an individual problem. You have part of a universal problem. There is no privacy in the world any more. Noise, disturbance, irresponsibility, indifference are part of the natural heritage of the years. If we had known what we have seen it coming half a century ago.

A man I know got tired of the noise in the world, and went and built a house on a lonely lake in the wilderness, to get away from it all. Nobody could get at him now.

One day, a plane landed on the lake, disgorged a man out of it with their instruments, and camped. Next year, there was a summer hotel on the lake, and a highway built to it.

I met the unruly children next door; probably a psychiatrist has advised that we have spoken to the children; it might result in emotional disturbances, I believe. Personally, I am a great believer in nature. It begins to appear that, when a child is born in next of a very large number of grown-up brats in another ten or fifteen years. For what purpose, we cannot foresee; but for her purposes, in nature will not bring a greater you supply of unruly, wilful and irresponsible adults, whether emotional blocks or psychoses of any kind.

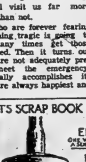
What can that purpose be?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ALWAYS EXPECT THE BEST

Have the venturing mind—always looking for better things and better times. When you doubt, you lose energy. As long as you expect, all the joy of expectancy is killed. By expecting the best you are doubly assured of escaping the most disappointment. There are in this wonderful body of ours certain healthful germs that fight off harmful germs. If you feel well you feel well and happy the healthful germs have complete control. We don't even give them a thought. We simply take for granted our healthy and our spirit high the best things in life will visit us far more frequently than not.



People who are forever fearing that something, tragic is going to happen, many times get those fears realized. Then it turns out that they are not adequately prepared for the emergency. Worry usually accomplishes its purpose. What we always happiest and healthiest when we go about each day cheerfully and with a joyous attitude.

I have known people who actually seemed to get enjoyment out of misery. As long as you would think so to listen to their talk. On the other hand, I have known who are to meet with those who are always expecting the best to happen, and who are happy and plan to bring this about. It is so much pleasant to be around with people who keep pushing their happiness ahead, while others join in.

All through life we come to realize that we have to clear, that it is best to get to them before we speculate on how to clear them. Perhaps the best way to overcome is we keep our will in trim! Have abilities are polished. They are not to be used. We need rugged, experienced characters to take us through life—carrying all its events with readiness.

The far better to aim for something that you want, and fail to gain it, than to aim at nothing, and get what you don't want!

Ottawa Paper Says Air Base At Gros Tenquin in Bad Shape

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa Citizen, in a dispatch from Gros Tenquin, France, reported Wednesday that facilities at the Canadian jet-fighter base there "have given the RCAF more headaches than it has had at any air station anywhere, at home or abroad."

The dispatch was written by Ross Munro, assistant publisher of the Vancouver Province, reporting for the Southam News Service.

It says since the three squadrons of No. 2 fighter wing arrived at Gros Tenquin last October the Canadians have been confronted with a multitude of "difficulties and frustrations, ranging from a faulty runway for their lightning-fast planes to near-impossible living conditions on the base in a sea of mud."

The base was built by the French during the last year, Munro says, at a cost estimated "as high as $5,000,000 and $6,000,000—and more millions will have to be poured in here before it is anywhere near a satisfactory permanent establishment."

"Gros Tenquin is going to be a constant cost for years to come if the Canadians remain there. The whole depressing business verges on a scandal."

Air Vice-Marshal F. R. Miller, vice chief of air staff, said in an interview at Ottawa that Mr. Munro's story contains certain inaccuracies and lacks essential information.

The RCAF knew that the station was incomplete, "that the hard stand had not been driven or the last amenity provided. But NATO plans called for us to be there by that date and the pressure of the international situation was strong enough to justify the movement despite the semi-completed form of Gros Tenquin.

He said the Canadian Sabre jets were the only planes in Europe at the time that could match the Russian MIG-15 jets. The Gros Tenquin station never was considered a permanent one but a base on lease to Canada during the 15-year NATO agreement. The French required that the site be returned to a tillable state which also ruled out more permanent construction.

"We now are faced with a lump at Gros Tenquin," said the air vice-marshal. "Conditions there will be as bad as they were last winter—and we admit they were bad, although not as bad as at United States bases where the men lived under canvas."

Houses May Be Built in Suburb By Workers

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says in a 6-paragraph story today that 250 two, three-and four-bedroom houses to cost between $8,500 and $9,500 each may be built in a city suburb by a group working on a non-profit basis.

No property has yet been purchased nor financial arrangements made, the paper says, but a company has been formed and 250 employees of Avro Canada at nearby Malton will hold a meeting within 10 days.

The Globe and Mail story says the scheme is unique in Canada in that it will employ modern engineering principles on a mass scale, a method used successfully in Europe and the United States.

The group plans to keep the units within range of the $90-a-week worker by saving on the cost of land, eliminating basements, working without profits and by economies of mass financing.

National Housing Act officials have been consulted and the paper says the group has received favorable consideration. The scheme was started when two Avro employees, looking for homes for themselves and their families, cast about for a new approach to housing.

Interior Minister In Ukraine Changed

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio announced another shakeup in the Soviet Union today with the appointment of a new interior minister in the Ukraine.

In the second major Soviet change in two days, the Ukrainian Supreme Soviet appointed Timofey Amvrosiyevich Strokach interior minister of the Ukrainian Republic, second largest of the 16 in the Soviet Union.

URGE TIDE PROJECT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maine's congressional delegation Tuesday urged a House of Representatives foreign affairs sub-committee to approve a $3,000,000 survey to determine the cost and economic feasibility of a Passamaquoddy tidal-power project near the Maine-Canada boundary. The present proposal is for an international project by Canada and the United States, utilizing Passamaquoddy Bay in American waters in a two-pool system to generate power. The estimated potential is 3,000,000 horsepower annually.

People's Mastery Of the Pen To be Improved

OTTAWA (CP) — Is flawless handwriting, the International Association of Master Penmen and Teachers of Handwriting reported Wednesday that its members are out to improve people's mastery of the pen. And they're going to start at the source—the school teacher and pupil.

The penmen, among them internationally-known Handwriting experts from Canada and the United States, have just concluded a two-week annual meeting at Lindsay, Ont.

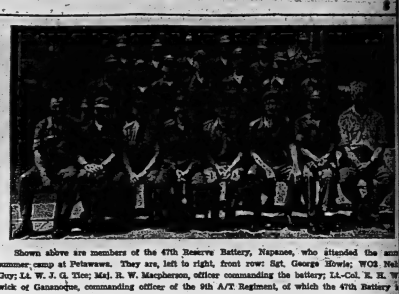
Substituting a clearly-penned report for the printed form, Fred Richardson of Ottawa, the secretary, says this is what the members decided. Handwriting should be taught in colleges, universities and schools.

Central directors elected was Miss Jean Boyes, Hamilton, E. L. Barton, Toronto; M. K. Cleaner, Sault Ste. Marie, and C. E. Embleton, St. Catharines.

Russian Advisers Serving in Korea

KUMSONG BULGE, Korea, (AP) U. S. officers said today Russian military advisers were serving with some Chinese divisions which struck along the Kumsong front.

The officers said the uniformed Russians were identified as divisional advisers.



There was no immediate official confirmation of the report.

There was no indication how many Russian officers were with the Chinese attackers. Apparently the Soviet military experts were at divisional headquarters level or higher.

(This dispatch was heavily censored when first submitted and was rewritten to conform to UN command security requirements.)

Dewey Opposes Private Power Plan at Niagara

By MAT SOMYTON

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey has gone all-out in his running battle to head off congressional approval of a plan to triple Niagara's power output by private enterprise.

Dewey wants New York state to do the job.

Dewey and his top aids Wednesday sent an unprecedented joint statement to the 31 members of the U. S. Senate public works committee in a move to block final passage of the private enterprise bill.

The measure, calling for the $400,000,000 Niagara project to be built by a consortium of five utility companies, comes before the committee Friday. It passed the House of Representatives by a 263-to-130 margin last Thursday.

In their joint statement, Dewey and his administration leaders pressed for a rival measure that would permit the New York state power authority to develop the project and distribute the power on private-utility transmission lines..

British Lifting Traffic Controls In Egyptian Town

CAIRO (AP)—British officials announced today they are lifting immediately restrictions on road and rail traffic they placed around the Suez Canal zone town of Ismailia Monday.

The British set up roadblocks and started checking all traffic in and out of the mid-Suez centre. They charged that a British airman, missing since last Thursday, had been abducted and at least one Egyptian officer was implicated. The Egyptians denied any part in his disappearance.

WANT MEMORIAL REMOVED

BERLIN (Reuters)—The West Berlin borough of Zehlendorf demanded that a Soviet tank memorial to war dead should be removed. The borough council asked West Berlin mayor Ernst Reuter to inform the Western Allies that "this tank is . . . a provocation forced upon the conquered by the victor, contrary to all custom."

Bantam Baseball

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The C.N.R. bantam baseballers forced the undefeated Schwab nine to settle for a five all tie at the C.N.R. recreation park on Wednesday evening in as thrilling a minor league ball game in many a moon.

Schwab's took a one run lead in the second frame on a walk, a sacrifice and a single, but the C.N.R. flashed back in the third inning with three runs on a walk, single, error and a two-bagger by Bill Foster. Schwab's tied it again in the fourth only to have the trainmen tally two more in the fifth and again take the lead.

Schwab's tallied in this inning and the score remained five to four until the last of the seventh when Frank Chick drilled a triple into centrefield and later scored on a passed ball.

Elliott worked on the hill for Schwab's and gave up 9 runs off 6 hits while walking 4 and setting 9 down via the strikeout method. Duval went the route for the C.N.R. team and allowed only 4 hits while striking out 13 batters. Witness was his downfall as he walked 10 men.

Bill Dickey clained two singles for the C.N.R. while Foster and Duval each had a double. Chick had a triple for Schwab's while Coe, Wright and Gifford had singles. Score by innings

The Velvet Touch

By TRACY ADRIAN

Velvet accessories are bringing a very chic note to late summer and early fall outfits. So everything from top to toe is going in for this luxurious look.

Here are three important velvet complements to costumes for wear now and in the months to come. The sand glove's peak hat features a face veil and a bow in back. A big beige bag is voluminous for all the necessities and has a rounded handle which fits comfortably over the arm. Black velvet pull-on gloves with tassels at the wrist go equally well with either long or short sleeves.

Children Going Too Soon Belief

TORONTO (CP)—Camps taking children under six years of age are in danger of becoming dumping grounds for youngsters from broken homes.

This is the opinion of Mary Barker, national secretary of health and physical education of the Young Women's Christian Association, who said here in a recent interview that a child should be about 10 or 13 before being sent to camp.

Children under the ages of eight or nine are not ready for "real camping" and group participation, she said. Some 1,000 children under six years of age were in so-called summer camps last year in Ontario.

It is a serious problem, she feels, that has come to the fore since the Second World War and can also be seen in the increasing demand for nursery schools.

Seek Higher Standards

The Ontario Camping Association, Miss Barker said, is attempting to have standards set to avoid the situation developing whereby any place with clean water could be called a camp.

Many parents, perhaps both working, are only trying to do what they think best for their children, she said. But the very young child who attends "nursery" boarding school and then goes to "pre-camp" to camp" knows little of family life.

Camping has long been a major project with the YWCA.

Twenty-one YWCA's across Canada have camps and an estimated 6,000 to 7,000 will attend them this summer.

Average cost for a week at one of these camps is $22 and some youngsters are subsidized by various organizations.

At one time the business girl was a great camper but today few go to camps, Miss Barker said. She believes the wide choice of resorts and "packaged trips" is the explanation.

Beauty

(By HELEN JAMESON)

Perfume is a Personal Note

To a certain extent you can judge a woman's character by the fragrance she uses. If she has pleasing manners, good taste in dress, and a cultured air you can be sure that her perfume will be delicate and lovely. If she wears conspicuous clothes, applies her make-up lavishly, has a loud voice, her perfume will be strong enough to make you dizzy. She has no respect of the public nose, insults it wherever she goes.

Women are likely to be confused about perfume and toilet water, especially the sweet young things who are starting to do their own shopping, instead of having Mommie do it for them.

Perfume is the most highly concentrated form of fragrance. It has the greatest amount of dorted essences and the least amount of alcohol. It is the alcohol that serves as a carrier, makes it more lasting.

Eau de cologne and toilet water are lighter in strength and much less costly, so you can use them lavishly without feeling that you are digging too deeply into the beauty budget.

A delicate scent—"with fragrant breath the lilies woo me now, and softly speaks the sweet-voiced mignonette"—makes a woman feel more attractive, and she actually is more attractive because of feeling that way. It surrounds her with an aura of femininity, whether she selects a mysterious blend or bouquet, a highly sophisticated perfume or a light, flowery one. She derives full enjoyment of it and it is as individually personal as the tinting on her lips and the arrangement of her hairdo.

Learn to conserve these toiletries. Two atomizers, one for perfume, one for toilet water. They should be the same color.

After the bath and a brisk rubdown with a coarse towel, spray chest, arms and shoulders with the toilet water.

After you are dressed, spray a little perfume on your hair, on the inner surfaces of your elbows, the backs of your hands. Use a little on the inside surfaces of your hand bags. When you take out a handkerchief it will carry a sweet aroma, and that is better than putting drops on each handkerchief each day.

If she has good taste in dress, you may be sure that her perfume will be delicate.

CHAPMAN—POST

Tall standards of blue delphinium and white snowballs formed a lovely setting in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 11, at 2:30 p.m., when the Reverend W. Robinson, rector of the church, united in marriage June Dolores Post, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Post, of Belleville, to Frank Victor Chapman, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Chapman, formerly of Peterborough.

Professor Ernest Wheatley, church organist, provided the wedding music and during the ceremony, the soloist, Mrs. Fred Newman, rendered two beautiful solos.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gordon William Post, was radiant in her period gown of white nylon net over satin, featuring an all-over Chantilly lace redingote with keyhole neckline and fingertip sleeves. She wore a double fingertip veil of nylon net edged with Chantilly lace, held in place by a tiara encrusted with seed pearls, and carried a tiny white prayer book created with white satin ribbon and streamers knotted with yellow rosebuds. A double strand of pearls, the gift of her bridegroom, was her only ornament.

Mrs. A. Acerra, of Belleville, was matron of honor, gowned in turquoise nylon net over taffeta in floor length, with matching jacket and floral headdress. She carried a basket of summer flowers.

Miss Georgina Bell, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, attired in daffodil yellow nylon molded strapless bodice of Chantilly lace, having a tapering, long-sleeved matching jacket with stand-up collar. She wore a matching crownless hat of nylon net adorned with yellow buttercups and carried a basket of summer flowers.

Mr. V. M. Post, of Belleville, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. E. F. Post, of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. A. Acerra, also of Belleville.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. H. McKenzie, George Street, where the bride's mother, received, wearing a cocktail-length gown of blizzo taffeta with matching lace overdress and jacket, matching accessories, and bronze rose corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in Elizabeth blue taffeta with bodice of matching Chantilly lace, white accessories, and corsage of red roses.

The buffet luncheon was served to seventy-five guests on the spacious lawn.

For the wedding trip to Toronto and points west, the bride chose a white and blue linen dress with red accessories and red accessories.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Ottawa, Mountain View, Woodbridge, and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman will reside in Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the guest of honor at showers given by Mrs. A. Acerra, Mrs. L. Middleton and Mrs. H. Baker, all of Belleville.

Ian and Shirley Broadworth sang a duet accompanied by Miss Eleanore Bush.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Delbert Sine introduced Miss O. Heasman, the guest speaker, who gave an interesting talk of her work while teaching on exchange in England. She told also of the different places she had visited in England as well as on the continent.

Miss Heasman was thanked by Mrs. Frank McCoy who also expressed thanks to the hostesses and everyone who had taken part in the program.

Miss Marian Broadworth conducted a contest after which the hostesses and assistants served refreshments.

TRAINING RECRUITS

CAPETOWN (CP)—About 9,000 men will be posted next January to army, air force, navy and marine service citizen force units throughout the Union of South Africa to begin a new training plan. Recruits will spend an initial continuous training period of three months in camp.

Women's Activities

SALEM W.A.

The July meeting of Salem W.A. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Janie Sine and Miss Delbert Sine. There were 27 ladies and several children present.

Mrs. Mayes, the president, opened the meeting with a poem, "Across the Road".

Mrs. George Sine had charge of the program. Readings were given by Mrs. Harold Holden, Barbara Twiddy and Mrs. Lorne Hagerman, Miss Linda Sine, accompanied by Mrs. George Sine, favored with accordion music. Mrs. Tom Clements read an article "Around Muskoka Lakes" written by Miss Mathews. Mar-

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mrs. H. Red Fernsie Won't Let Miss Wave Girl Friends

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I am a boy of nineteen, my parents still won't permit me to date girls. The reason they give is that my older brother was sort of wild and they don't want me to get like him. This is nonsense, because I am not a bit like him and have no interest in the kind of life he led, but they refuse to listen to reason and I am getting fed up.

I have a good job, pay board at home and can well afford to take girls out for the right kind of good times but, instead of getting any fun out of life, it is just not worth living. I am so disgusted that I've thought of leaving home but I don't want to take such a drastic step without advice, so I'm asking for yours.

H.R.W.

If you have not over-dramatized your problem, then I think you have every reason to be disgusted, and I don't blame you at all for thinking about leaving home.

My advice would be that you tell your parents exactly how you feel; that you intend to have girl friends just as every other normal young man has, and to have dates with them; that you certainly have neither the intention nor the desire to do anything they wouldn't approve, and that their lack of confidence in you is a reflection on themselves rather than on you.

Then simply refuse to discuss the matter say further. Always be be pleasant, courteous and considerate with them, but go your own way. In time, they'll probably come around, or at least stop nagging at you about it. On the other hand, if they continue to make your home life so disagreeable and unhappy, then, in my opinion, you would be fully justified in moving out and living somewhere else.

Her Mail-Order Acquaintance Is a Convict

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Sometime ago, there was a notice in our local newspaper from a man who requested people to write to him, so I wrote just a friendly letter, and he answered it.

I found out then that he is in a prison in my state — I think he stole some money — but he says that he sees his mistake and intends to do right after he gets out.

He is due to get out next month, and then he wants to come and see me. He suggests that we go to a movie here in town or to dinner somewhere. Do you think I should go out with him, since we just know each other through letters?

He is 31 years old, and says he is unmarried. I am just 19. My mother knows I have been writing him, and doesn't approve of it.

A.B.

Dear A.B.:

I don't approve, either.

This man may be perfectly sincere in saying that he intends to live a different kind of life after he gets out of prison, and it is not impossible, of course, that he may do so. But I think it would be a serious mistake for you to make a personal friend of him on the basis of such a very slight acquaintance, and only a mail-order acquaintance at that.

I might feel differently about this — although I don't think so — if he were a teen-age boy who had made an impulsive mistake. But a man of 31 who gets himself into prison is an entirely different proposition. Anyone who commits a crime at that age knows exactly what he is doing. Even under the best of circumstances, he would be much too old for you.

If you feel that you wish to help this man, then you had better advise him to go to see a representative of his church after he is released, and seek advice on how to begin and carry on a new life. But I would disapprove strongly of your getting any more closely involved in his life.

Featuring Friends and Raspberries

By Mary Moore

Have you counted your blessings lately?

You are better off than a boy I know who is all alone in the world and so shy that he cannot bring himself to invite a cute red-headed girl he has his eye on to a dance. Another reason I know is his only confidante and the shy boy promises he will invite his bridging friend redhead to an important dance where Guy Lombardo is playing if the other boy will go on a doubledate with them as moral support. This dance costs $6.00 per couple. The other boy is saving his money for a car, and besides he can dance all evening at the Y.M. for practically nothing (and to G. L.'s records too). However he knows that friendship is more important than money or cars so he's shooting the $6 bucks.

If you have such trusting friends, don't fret—they are worth their weight in gold.

Besides friends, we in this greatest of all countries have an abundant food.

Friends and food—those are blessings you can count, even if you are up to your neck in work or debt or worry over the ailments of your young ones.

Some of you will recall a trip I took a few years ago and while away we stopped at a famous roadside restaurant in the middle of the raspberry season (now don't be fresh just because of our Irishian—we stopped in the middle of the raspberry season—the restaurant wasn't in the restaurant wasn't in middle of raspberry patch!) . . . anyway their fresh raspberry pie a la mode (homemade the ice cream was too) is never-to-be-forgotten by this lover of good food.

Do you aim to have a fresh raspberry pie this year?

Note—In areas where thimbleberries, boysenberries and Saskatoon berries are abundant they may be used in these recipes in place of raspberries, but change the sugar content to suit your taste.

Fresh Raspberry Pie

Line a deep pie plate with rich pastry and sprinkle bottom with 3 tablespoons dry fine bread-crumbs (to prevent soaking). Into 1 cup water put 2 tablespoons cornstarch (if you want to make an open pie use arrowroot flour if you want the glaze perfectly clear) and when mixed add 1 cup cold water, then stir this over medium heat until thick. Cook over boiling water stirring occasionally, for 15 minutes. Into pie plate turn 4 cups washed and drained raspberries then carefully and slowly pour the glaze over them, being sure it trickles down between the berries. Put on gashed upper crust, and seal edges well. Brush upper crust with mixture of 1 tablespoon each milk and white sugar. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 40 or 45 minutes. This pie should not be cut until it is perfectly cold or filling will run a little. If you want to cut it within an hour or so after cooking use 4 tablespoons cornstarch or arrowroot in the glaze.

The next little number will appeal to the girls whose families lick their lips over whipped cream desserts.

Raspberry Ice Box Cake

This may be used for strawberries and loganberries too.

Twenty-four lady fingers (or the equivalent in slices of sponge cake), 1 quart plus a few choice large raspberries, about 1 cup sugar, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, 1-3 teaspoon vanilla or almond flavoring. Line a spring mold, or loaf pan or refrigerator tray with split lady fingers, being sure all the little crevices are filled with the trimmed off ends or crumbs from the lady fingers. Pick out about 1 dozen of the choicest berries and crush the remainder after they are washed and drained, and stir the sugar into them. Let them stand for 3 or 4 hours to extract the juice. Drain off all of the juice and stir the beaten eggs into it and cook this mixture in top of double boiler, stirring, until thick. Let cool. Now cut and fold into it the whipped cream and the berry pulp and whichever flavoring you choose. Pour half of it over the lady fingers in the lined mold add layer of split lady fingers and the remainder of the berry filling. Chill 24 hours in refrigerator. This is frozen.

A spring mold is used mold does not have to be lined with paper, but if loaf pan is used, removal of cake is easier if it is lined with wax paper. Turn out on serving dish, garnish with choice berries, and slice in 1-inch slices.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. SEECKMAN

Acknowledging An Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine, who is quite ign a literary capacity on the "Play" side, always acknowledges an introduction by merely repeating the name of the person who is being introduced. Somehow I don't like the sound of this, and I've often wondered if this form is correct. Yesterday, at a tea-party, I heard her do this again, and I decided to write you. Do you approve of this form of acknowledging an introduction? — Alicia S.

No, I haven't any enthusiasm for this form of acknowledging an introduction . . . to me it's as stuffy and frigid as answering the telephone by saying "Yes!" Occasionally, very, very occasionally, one does hear a person use this form of acknowledging an introduction who can say the name with such grace that the "How do you do" seems charmingly out-of-date. But the safest way is to say, first, "How do you do," and then graciously add the name . . . "How do you do, Mrs. Hill," or "How do you do, Mr. Thompson."

How Wife Address Her Husband's Relatives

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I were married about three months ago and now his company has transferred him back to his home city, where he has many relatives whom I have never met—aunts, uncles, cousins, as well as two married brothers and one married sister. How should I address all these relatives of my husband's — "Mr." and "Mrs." until they perhaps suggest that I call them by their first names? (I am not sure of the latter.)

Wondering

Here's an easy rule to remember . . . you call all of your husband's relatives exactly what he calls them: "Aunt Margaret," "Uncle John," "Cousin Dorothy," "Forester" or by the nicknames used by your husband in addressing them. Don't even wait for them to suggest that you call them by their first names, for they will expect you to call them by the name your husband uses for them. And your husband, in turn, addresses your relatives by the name you use in speaking to them.)

Conservative Funeral Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it correct for a sister to wear a white hat and white gloves to her brother's funeral?

2. Also was it correct for my sister-in-law to send me a card of thanks acknowledging the floral piece I sent? It seems to me she might just as well have sent herself a card of thanks!

M.

1. No, it is not correct for a sister to wear a white hat and white gloves to her brother's funeral. One of the few definite rules about mourning today is that the woman members of the family should wear black dresses (of a dull material) and black hat and shoes and gloves to the funeral.

2. I see no impropriety or discourtesy in your sister-in-law's sending you a card of appreciation for the memorial flowers you sent to your brother's funeral. She acknowledged your flowers, thanked you for them . . . if she hadn't, you might have cause to complain. But in these first days after her loss, and with her sorrow, exactly readjustment to bear, I think it was very kind of her to send you some word, evidently prompt even though brief to thank you.

Barbara Ann Takes On Job Of Baby-Sitting

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A maid quit her job for the summer here and Barbara Ann Scott stepped into her shoes.

Barbara is baby-sitting for the president of the University of Western Ontario and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Hall of London, who are in Europe.

Barbara arrived to visit when the Halls were packing for a trip to Europe with their three oldest children. The two younger children, Elizabeth three and one-year-old George were to stay with a maid. The maid changed her mind and the world famous figure skater volunteered to do the job.

"Never had so much fun in my life," said Barbara. "I'm very domesticated, you know, and I'm smart, too. By ten every morning I have the babies fed, bathed and out. I have the dishes done and the washing on the line."

REBUILD RESORT

LYNMOUTH, England (CP)—Government approval has been given a plan for rebuilding this beautiful Devon resort, devastated by floods last August. The plan provides for rebuilding the harbor and improving the road system.

Women's Activities

BETHANY W.M.S.-W.A.

The ladies of the Bethany W.M.S. and W.A. met at the home of Mrs. Douglas Tummon for their July meeting with an attendance of 28.

Mrs. John Ritz opened the meeting the theme of her worship service being "Lord of the Lands, Make Canada Thine Own". After the call to worship, Mrs. Thrcope read the Scripture lesson, Psalm 72.

A reading was given by Mrs. Ritz.

Mrs. Ritz also gave a reading on the work of a missionary-at-large Miss Fern Graham of Yorkton, Saskatchewan.

Mrs. David Martin gave a reading on another missionary, Miss Madeleine Bock, of Lethbridge, Alberta.

Mrs. Fred Hancey and Mrs. Bert Martin also reported on Evelyn Mathews a W.M.S. worker in and around Ontario's holiday land of Muskoka.

Mrs. George Sills was in charge of the program.

A reading "The Joy of Sacrifice" by Mrs. Harry Walker, was enjoyed, followed by a Christian Stewardship reading by Mrs. Orval Beer.

Mrs. Clayton Eggleton contributed a solo; a reading "What a Little Child's Penny Did", was given by Mrs. Charles Hinze.

A temperance dialogue "His First Temperance Lesson", was given by Mrs. Russell Ritz and Mrs. Fred Hancey.

A poem "Aspirations", by Mrs. Horace Casey, closed the program period.

Mrs. J. Ritz conducted the W.M.S. business.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. Mrs. Ritz gave a short report on a president's meeting held recently at Foxboro.

Mrs. Grant Cole conducted a short business period for the W.A.

Mrs. Tummon and her 3rd Line assistants served tea and cookies and a social time was enjoyed.

WALLBRIDGE W.A.

The July meeting of the W.A. was held in the church hall on Wednesday night with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Hudson Ketchenon, presided with Mrs. Charles Fair at the piano. Scripture lesson John 14:8-13 was read by Mrs. Frank Harris and the lesson study "Obedience", was given by Mrs. C. Fair.

It was decided to hold the ice cream social, Wednesday night, July 29, in the dining hall. There will be a good program following in the church.

Mrs. F. Harris read "thank-you" cards from Mrs. W. Wickson and Mrs. Charles Fisher, after which the W.M.S. followed with five president, Mrs. Clarence Woods, presiding and reading the theme story "Action for the Church" Mrs. Sam Nicolson read the Scripture lesson, Psalm-72.

The president read a most interesting piece about Miss Fern Graham, a missionary, under the title "Days of Opportunity", written by Mrs. Lovey.

Women of The Moose

On Thursday evening the Women of the Moose, Chapter 435, held its first meeting of the month with Sr. Regent, Ruth Mintz, presiding.

Three new candidates were balloted on, Mrs. Eva Little, and Mrs. Mary Means, who were sponsored by Senior Regent, Ruth Mintz, Mrs. Annie Loveless, sponsored by Nellie Secrymgour, was found favorable and was admitted to the defending circle.

The guest of honor, Past Deputy Grand Regent, Mrs. Alice McKelvie, was escorted to the altar by the College of Regents, Mrs. Edith Maginis, where she was presented with a cheque from the chapter, for which she expressed her appreciative thanks. She also thanked the Senior Regent, officers and co-workers, for the splendid work they had done, and hoped that they would all work and make the coming year a successful one. She was then escorted to the Senior Regent station.

A basket of groceries was donated and won by Mrs. Waddell, of Trenton.

The next meeting will be on July 23rd.

Refreshments were served by the officers following the meeting.

NO CHARGE

LONDON (CP)—Police took 18-year-old Jimmy Sweetin to the station when they found him swimming naked in the Thames. But no charge was laid. Jimmy was rescuing an injured pigeon and may even get an award.

MINTO—Mr. and Mrs. Mark Anderson, of Allan's Mills, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner.

Mrs. John Courtney and Francis were Saturday visitors of Mrs. A. Clements at Ivanhoe.

Mrs. A. J. Edwards and daughters, of Creighton Mines are spending two weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tozer.

The Tozer L.O.L. celebrated the "Glorious Twelfth" in Tweed on Saturday.

Mr. William Hagerman spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wood, of Ivanhoe.

DREW CRITICAL

"We would place our economy on such a basis that Canada's prosperity would not be dependent on war or the threat of war."

Outlines Advantages

Meanwhile, Prime Minister St. Laurent outlined to listeners at the Lakehead what the St. Lawrence Seaway project should mean to Port Arthur and Fort William.

He said he hopes ocean-going ships will be steaming up the St. Lawrence river to the Lakehead "before the end of this decade."

He estimated that in hydro-electric output alone, the multi-million-dollar project would provide a saving in power costs in Ontario and New York state of about $75,000,000 a year.

Just before the meeting started, Labor-Progressive Party workers outside the meeting hall distributed leaflets charging that Trade Minister Howe is a "pompous Bureaucrat" and "chief spokesman for United States monopolies in Canada." Mr. Howe, the member for Port Arthur in the last House, was at the meeting.

Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member for Fort William in the last Commons, told one of the pamphleteers, a woman: "When you are attacking Mr. Howe, you are not helping the Lakehead. What have you Communists done for the Lakehead?"

Strongest in World

At Wetaskiwin, Alta., Finance Minister Abbott said Canadian currency is one of the strongest in the world because of "good people, geography and good government." The Liberal government, he said, had expanded trade, exports and production, besides financing a large defence program.

At Barrie, Health Minister Martin claimed that under Mr. St. Laurent federal-provincial cooperation has been the best in Canada's history.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative member for Peel in the last House, said in a speech at Brantford, that Ontario is "giving leadership in a great trans-Canada move in favor of the Progressive Conservative party."

"There is scarcely a safe seat in Ontario for the Liberal party," he added.

Today's main political bill-of-fare has Mr. St. Laurent at Sudbury, Mr. Drew at St. John's, Nfld., and Mr. Coldwell at Sydney, N.S.

Wellington on the Lake

HOLIDAY TIME

Once time is here again,
As we haste away
To the quiet countryside
For a holiday;
Where we'll find sweet peace and calm
In lake or stream,
Gaining strength, from mother earth
As we rest and dream.

Banish every frown and fret
Leaving care behind,
All life's worry to forget,
Gain a tranquil mind;
Return and spirit strengthened
Then
We ask for more!
Bending to our daily task
When vacation's o'er.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON. — A very pleasant time was spent on the afternoon of July 8, when the members of the Prince Edward-Belleville club enjoyed a picnic in Wellington Park. Some came by bus and others came by cars. The day was fair and opened with a prayer, offered by Mrs. Basil Baird. Brief addresses were given by the president, Mrs. Emmanuel Hagerman, the past presidents, Mrs. Morton Weese and Mrs. Lee. Other speakers included Mr. Montgomery, Percy, the bus driver, Mrs. G. C. Blake, Mrs. H. B. Anderson and Mrs. Farnsworth. Mrs. G. French handed a fine poem "Somebody's Mother".

This club seems to stress the importance of loyalty or love of home, as the members are residents of Belleville who formerly dwelt in Prince Edward County. Contests were presented, Mrs. Montgomery being one of the prize winners. A pretty gift was presented to Mrs. Anderson.

A bounteous supper was enjoyed, the tables being laden with an inviting array of delicacies. Pictures were then taken of the group, after which the host served off returning by way of Picton, the passengers waving goodbye as they all joined in singing Auld Lang Syne. Certainly a day long to be remembered.

Mr. James Dorland passed away at his home East Main St., on July 8, after a lingering illness. The funeral service was held on Wednesday afternoon at the Ainsworth Funeral Home. Sympathy is extended to his wife who is in poor health.

Mrs. Roy Wiehl has returned home after visiting in Detroit with Mrs. Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mantle and Eva, have returned from several weeks' holiday in Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. M. MacArthur and daughters have returned to Welland after spending some time with Mrs. Edna Platt. Their son, Richard is remaining during the holidays.

The summer cottages of Mr. Walker and Mr. V. MacDonald are now occupied by tourists.

The pea harvest continues and factories are busy canning the later crop. Many men and women are employed.

Mrs. Ralph Morden and children are visiting her mother and other relatives in Nova Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leavens of Weyburn, Sask., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Bob Stevenson and Mr. Stevenson.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Dorland, of North Augusta, were recent guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dorland.

The Church Vacation School is being well attended.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Bernard Stevens and bride (nee Miss Catharine Tait), who were married on Saturday, July 4, in the United Church. Rev. A. Poulter and Rev. J. F. Lenz of Milford, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will reside in Niagara-on-the-lake.

Miss Nellie Arthur and Miss Clara Anderson, Belleville, and Miss Marjorie Blakely, Wellington, were week-end guests of Mrs. Leona Whyte, Bath.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandervoort and family spent Sunday at Silver Lake.

The Glorious Twelfth

The morning was fair when on Saturday we left Wellington to motor to Campbellford, to attend the Orange walk. Reaching Trenton where the old familiar Prince Edward road, we enjoyed the drive to Brighton passing many apple orchards and tourist camps.

The road north to Campbellford was through a fine farming district, in many places overshadowed by hills. Entering the town we read above the street the words "Welcome Brethren" and into the town were numerous flags and part of the holiday.

After enjoying lunch, we waited with a large gathering for the parade. And what a grand spectacle it presented led by a large band. Lodge after lodge passed marching to the music of the fife and drum and the bagpipes. And how beautiful and attractive were the women and children taking part in their pretty costumes and gay parasols.

Four lodges, — Wellington, Bloomfield, Brighton and Soulters, represented Prince Edward County. In these we recognized a few familiar faces, L. N. McFaul, Clifford McFaul, W. H. Morton, W. Way, Fred Goodmurphy and others. Truly it was a sight worth seeing and we were told that the speeches at the close were fine. One hundred years ago, the L.O.L. was organized in Campbellford.

Through the kind invitation of Mrs Gladys Lumb, we with Miss Mary Lumb and Miss Marjorie Blakely, enjoyed the drive to Campbellford and the Glorious Twelfth.

Miss Beverley Tait and Miss C. Bryant, who are attending summer school in Toronto, spent the week-end at their respective homes.

Among those who are re-painting their homes are Mrs. Edna Platt, Mr. G. C. Blakely and Mr. W. Baverstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson, Toronto, were recent guests of Miss Ruby Nash.

The July meeting of the W.M.S. on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Gladys Pettengill. Miss I. Pettengill, of Winnipeg, is spending holidays with her sister.

Just another summer, added to the store
Of the long-lost summers that have gone before;
Just a fleeting summer with its fruit and flowers,
Bringing its remembrance happy by-gone hours.
All the golden summers of the years long past
Hold for us a fragrance that for age shall last;
Year after year its passing with pleasure or with pain
But thely fervid influence on the heart remain.

Defiant Porcupine Miners Plan to Ignore Court Order Banning Broulan Picketing

TIMMINS (CP) — Hundreds of northern miners converged on three gold-to-uranium properties here today as the crack of dawn today and said they will defy any court injunction forbidding them to stop picketing properties in the rich Porcupine camp.

There was no violence.

Two hundred hardrock workers from nearby mines joined miners at Broulan Reef, Preston East Dome and Hollinger mines early this morning. They came 19 hours after members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) reaffirmed demands for higher wages and shorter working hours at a big union rally.

The men who swelled the picket ranks are strike veterans. However most of them arrived at the Broulan property in answer to a call from Leo Behie, local union representative, on Wednesday night. He asked non-striking miners in the area to give pickets a hand.

The non-strikers came from the big McIntyre, Hollinger and other mines, well before dawn off-work hours. Some of them headed for the Broulan property as soon as they left their night-shift jobs.

To Ignore Order

Although a temporary court injunction prohibiting the hardrock workers from picketing the mines has not yet been served, the union said the men "will not pay any gardless" of what happens.

Although picketing was orderly there was tension in the air. Observers and union leaders watched for a spark that would start a repeat of the sale walkout of the 5,200 miners in the area when a strike closing of all 13 mining companies.

Local police were posted at the struck property early today. Provincial police, who would be used to enforce a court injunction, were not called out.

More than 1,000 workers hurled defiance at the Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday night as they threw their support behind the picket parts at Broulan Reef, one of the area's smaller properties.

Broulan applied for the injunction in Toronto Wednesday.

The union's request for room in the Steelworkers' hall Behie asked the men to "sweat it out" after Broulan "wound the clock." He said 1,000 men were needed to patrol Broulan's four six-hour entry

Tangle With Police

Pickeiers tangled with police Wednesday as more than 700 workers forced their closing of Broulan Reef, Preston East Dome and Hollinger mines. police reported one car was torn during a scuffle when a police foreman attempted to drive past through the picket line. There were no injuries and no arrests.

The night was strewn in the fight." Behie told the miners Wednesday night.

"We have tried to co-operate with the provincial police, but we intend to maintain our position. If the steel companies of the United States and Canada cannot defeat the Steelworkers' union, then we don't propose to let a little hayseed outfit like Broulan Reef do it."

Mr. Behie said the only issue at stake at present was whether Broulan Reef was going to destroy the union.

Staff representative James Robertson of Toronto said the challenge put forward by Broulan Reef was actually the outcome of the past of the entire industry.

Will "Stay Put"

"We are prepared to stay put regardless of what orders and who they come from," Mr. Robertson told the cheering miners.

Meanwhile the union laid plans for next Sunday's meeting with C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the Steelworkers.

The mine management went to the courts in Toronto Wednesday and received a temporary injunction granted by Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven. The order is effective until next Monday when it will be argued at Osgoode Hall.

Labor Minister Daley of Ontario said earlier this week that he will try to arrange a meeting of the union and management in the "near future."

Walked Out Saturday

Employees of Broulan Reef walked out suddenly last Saturday and union officials charged the company had intimidated a union employee and tried to kill the local with low wages and long working hours. They also charged a delay on conciliation reports on their drawn-out wage talks.

Mine officials countered that the union had breached its contract and the walkout is illegal because the company had not been given notice of the strike.

Increases asked by the miners have not been made public. Basic rate for surface workers at Broulan is $1.63 an hour for surface workers and $1.75 for those underground.

Commission Told To Begin Work Within Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Power Commission Wednesday directed New York State to begin construction of a giant St. Lawrence river project within one year.

The commission, acting from its award of a license to New York to join with Canada in building the $600,000,000 project, also directed that it be completed within seven years after construction is started.

The project, to be located in the International Rapids section of the river—between Massena, N.Y., and Cornwall, Ont.—will yield 12,600,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy a year. The output will be divided equally between New York and Canada.

Premier Frost said Wednesday the St. Lawrence Seaway project is rapidly running out of red tape to stop its progress. Only minor ordinance obstructions could hinder it now.

He said in an interview that the passing of bills by New York State at the United States authority means that all governments have accepted the principle of building the seaway.

Dewey to Block Passage of Bill On Power Project

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York on Wednesday threw the weight of his Republican party administration against a U.S. Senate committee in an unprecedented move to block passage of a bill calling for private development of the $400,000,000 Niagara power project.

In a joint statement, Dewey, the three other state-elected officials and Republican legislative leaders said they are "opposed to" surrendering these great natural resources for private exploitations.

The statement was signed by the 11 members of the Senate public works committee. The Niagara bill, approved last week by the House of Representatives, reportedly will come before the committee Friday.

The Dewey administration has been backing the bill which would authorize the state power authority to build the project.

The statement said the state plans to "retain for the consumer power to the consumer through all existing public, private and co-operative utility companies."

The plan would "avoid costly and wasteful duplication of facilities," and "would save the consumers of our state at least $25,000,000 a year," the statement added.

Albany sources said there were indications the privately-owned bill would have tougher sledding in the Senate than in the House.

The measure would permit five New York state private utilities to construct facilities that would nearly triple Niagara's hydro-electric output.

DIES AFTER FALL

NEW YORK (AP)—Oliver Wolcott Roosevelt, 60, banker and cousin of the late president Theodore Roosevelt, died of injuries suffered in a five-story fall Wednesday, according to police, was the victim of an apparent accident in a fall from a low-sill bedroom window of his apartment.

Strauss Opposes Election Bill By Premier Malan

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Opposition Leader Jacobus Strauss told Parliament Wednesday that Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's efforts to amend South Africa's 44-year-old constitution may deprive Negroes as well as persons of mixed blood from voting with the white population.

Strauss made the statement before a joint session of the Upper and Lower Houses after Malan urged approval of his South African Act amendment bill.

The bill prescribes a separate electoral bill for some 30,000 Cape Province coloured (mixed blood) persons. Hitherto have been allotted with the white electorate. Section 35 of the South Africa Act says no voter may be removed from the list of voters "on account of colour" unless the section is amended by a two-thirds vote of both houses in joint session.

Strauss, leader of the United Party, said his opposition to it is altered "it will be possible to deprive members of Jewish extraction of their body voting rights on the grounds of race only."

Several leaders of Malan's nationalist party have been widely criticized for their political fees of anti-semitic views.

Strauss sought to shelve the Nationalist Bill by moving for its tampling amendment during the second reading. The amendment asks that the bill be held up until a joint committee of both Houses studies the issue in detail.

Malan offered a lengthy defence of his bill. He said that the color instead against any race but merely provided that whites and coloured voters each have their own elected representatives in parliament.

"If the bill is not passed," he said, "the color question will be the issue at every election and by election."

Ammuing Incident in Ridgway's Formal Farewell

Unimpressed by the occasion — the farewell reception at Orley Field, Paris, for his dad, General Matthew B. Ridgway — and unawed by the VIP's present, the guard of honor, etc., five-year-old Matthew B. Ridgway, Jr., proceeds to "mow 'em down" with the very latest weapon of the future, his space crayon. Mrs. Ridgway, totally unaware that her son is drawing a bead on the distinguished line-up, is shown bidding good-by to one of the officials present, while General Ridgway is shown at left just about to disarm his small son. The amusing incident took place just before General Ridgway left for the U.S. after handing over the NATO command to his successor, General Alfred M. Gruenther. — Central Press Canadian.

Germans of Second World War Eat Crow at Canadian Table, Like It

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—Some Germans who fought against Canadians in the Second World War are eating crow at Canadian tables here. It has to be biting it, though.

For instance, a former German sergeant-major helped to push Maj. Richard (Jock) Cummings of Toronto off the Dunkerque beaches in 1940. Now he's Cummings' batman-driver.

Cummings, in fact, is boss of all the Germans employed as civilian laborers with the 27th Canadian Infantry brigade in Germany. He supervises all matters to do with "provision, allocation and maintenance of accommodation" for 6,000 Canadian troops in Hannover and the satellite brigade towns of Hamelin and Hohne.

Cummings, a 37-year-old native of Weston, Ont., joined the British army when he was 17, went to France with the Royal Tank Corps in 1939 and came out through Dunkerque in 1940.

He later fought with Lord Strathcona's Horse in Italy. He helped to drive the Germans off Monte Cassino and, among a batch of prisoners taken by the Canadians was the sergeant-major who now is his batman.

As boss of the Germans, Cummings can relate some tales which show how the fortunes of war have given ironic twists to their lives. There were two full colonels, both winners of the Victor Kreuz, German equivalent of the Victoria Cross, who started working as cleaners in the Canadian barracks. One was a former Panzer officer, the other had served with the Luftwaffe.

One rose to be foreman of cleaners with a salary of about $30 a month. The other, after a year of good conduct and efficient service, became a file clerk.

A former expert manager for 35 years in the Far East—he speaks six languages—now is serving behind a bar in a mess here. His assistant is a former German paratrooper. A clerk is the former commissioner for housing for Hannover. A former tea planter in the East Indies who once had 2,000 persons working for him is Cummings' chief assistant. A former German medical officer is a groundsman for the Canadians.

Cummings says he finds his German workers industrious, disciplined and intelligent, that they feel they are lucky to have jobs. With thousands of displaced persons pouring in from the East now each month, they can be replaced if they aren't willing to work.

Ottawa Fair Director Hits At Mayor, WCTU

OTTAWA (CP)—A director of the Central Canada Exhibition Association said Wednesday that the Ottawa Local Council of Women, Union and Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa "are becoming fanatical about liquor."

"Instead of being temperate, they're even fanatic on liquor," Stanley Higman told an Association meeting. He added that the WCTU and Mayor Whitton "are trying to take Ottawa right back to the dark ages of carrying his flasks."

Mr. Higman was commenting on WCTU criticism that 344 banquet permits, authorizing the serving of liquor, were issued for Lansdowne Park parties last year. The park is situated in the Association.

The WCTU had written Mayor Whitton that it was disturbed about the number of permits issued and asked her intervention.

The mayor expressed sympathy for the WCTU stand and said it was "disappointed" by city council to pass resolutions against more liquor permits when city council members were directors of the Central Canada Exhibition Association that was "going into the liquor business."

Association president S. F. Dadson said the Association has nothing to do with the liquor permits. It merely rented its Lansdowne Park buildings to responsible organizations.

OPEN FAIR

OTTAWA (CP)—George Doucett, Ontario highways minister, will officially open the 1953 Central Canada Exhibition here Aug. 22, it was announced Wednesday. Mr. Doucett is acting minister of agriculture.

Triple Drowning In Cameron Lake Near Ottawa

QUADVILLE, Ont. (CP) — An heroic attempt by a 19-year-old boy to save his mother and sister resulted in a triple drowning Wednesday night in nearby Cameron lake. Quadville is some 90 miles southwest of Ottawa.

The victims were Mrs. Ida Yuke, 36, her 13-year-old daughter, Barbara, and 10-year-old son, Ivan.

Eyewitnesses said that Barbara, while swimming, got beyond her depth. Her mother went to her rescue but got in difficulty herself. Ivan swam to their aid. For a time, he managed to keep both afloat but became exhausted and all three sank.

The father, Ivan Yuke, Sr., a cripple, also tried to go to his family's aid.

Woman Falls Over Cliff Edge, Escapes Death

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—A 25-year-old St. Thomas woman escaped death here Wednesday when she fell over the edge of a cliff towering 110 feet above Lake Erie.

The woman, Mrs. Helen Hall, of 7 Eagle street, suffered a broken heel and ankle, lacerations and bruises as she tumbled helplessly down the steep cliff into shallow water at its base.

Her husband, Max, who slid down the crumbling embankment after her, pulled her safely ashore.

Mrs. Hall was taken by Ambulance by boat and transferred to Memorial Hospital, St. Thomas for treatment. Her condition was reported as satisfactory.

Hall said he and his wife were on a picnic outing at the lake when the mishap occurred.

Potato Market Better

LEAMINGTON (CP) — Essex County farmers complained Wednesday that a surplus of potatoes in the United States is having a serious effect on the sale price of their crops.

The farm price for potatoes now is $2.50 a bag with the farmers pay about 75 cents below the cost of production.

However, officials of Essex County Associated Growers said they believe "the worst is over."

"The potato market shows signs of strengthening slightly," an association spokesman said.

"There now seems to be a slightly better tone on the wholesale market in Toronto and we hope as a result that the price won't drop any further."

Shirt, Jeans, Tufts of Hair All Left of Missing Child After Wolf Finds Her Body

MINAKI, Ont. (CP)—A tiny plaid shirt, a pair of blue jeans, some underclothing and a few tufts of long brown hair were all that was left of five-year-old Geraldine Huggan.

The tragic end of an intensive search of mosquito-infested northwestern Ontario bushland came about Wednesday.

It was a hunch on the part of prospector Harry Hawes of Kenora that sent searchers back to the swampy area between Long lake and Catastrophe lake, about two miles southwest of Wade, where the child disappeared from her grandparents' cottage.

There was not enough left for either a proper burial or an inquest," said Dr. D. J. Mason, coroner. The hair was infested with maggots and signs of wolf hair on nearby bushes led to the conclusion the body was devoured about 48 hours before discovery.

Death From Exposure

Dr. Mason said death probably stems from exposure and lesser time later by mutilation by the wolf. There was no blood on the clothing.

Police said the area where the very latest search was covered by searchers last Thursday and Friday. The child wandered from the cottage day by a bunch of flowers for her mother. It was assumed that darkness on her first night sent her deeper into the soft forest. In the first time she became lost, discovered Monday, kept activity east of the area where the child was found until late Tuesday.

Child Had Fallen

Hawes and plumber Joe Bymski of Kenora, acting on Hawes' hunch, came across a place near the shore of Long lake where the child had fallen on her face, leaving a able foot prints, hands and face prints covered they were on the right track.

An Army unit from Winnipeg had returned to the area, but the men signs sent 100 volunteers into the area. Searchers Wednesday after spent Tuesday night camped on the V-ock of land between the lakes and started searching again at the dawn Wednesday.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jared Huggan of Winnipeg, left Kenora, where Mr. Huggan spent untold hours in the searchers' for Kenora by plane to identify their child's clothing shortly after the discovery was made.

The search was one of the most extensive in the history of the area. Besides the Army unit, numerous campers, Indians, district rest and relaying men bolted their way through bushland for 10 days. An RCAF helicopter which aided all through the search, returned to Rivers, Man. Wednesday night.

Canada, States To Discuss Gas Pipeline

WASHINGTON (AP) — State department officials told Michigan and Wisconsin representatives Wednesday they will discuss with Canada the possibility of routing a projected trans-Canada natural-gas pipeline through the two states.

The proposed pipeline would link Alberta's natural-gas fields with the industrial centres of Eastern Canada. State representatives have been trying to get Canadian gas to northern Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Glenn Wilton, president of Midcontinent Pipelines Ltd., Toronto, is reported to have told a meeting that his firm has applied to Canadian authorities for permission to export gas to the United States.

The Canadian line, Wilton said, would enter northwestern Minnesota, cross Northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan and leave the U.S. at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

New Icebreaker Leaves Montreal Bound for Arctic

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's newest government icebreaker, the C.D. Howe, sailed from Montreal Wednesday night for a cool 12 months in Arctic waters.

The d'Iberville, loaded with sufficient fuel oil for her 12,000-mile voyage, will call first at Newfoundland before turning north to Labrador and the islands of Northern Quebec.

Her passengers are government officials and Newfoundland missionaries and beardless Eskimos and a Newfoundland magistrate whose job it will be to fly sabor in one of the ship's two helicopters to settle any deputy reburning disputes for the Aug. 10 federal election. The magistrate will be R. Noseworthy.

In her holds she has food and medical supplies, mail for east Arctic outposts, trade goods, and tinned meats for the new barracks for a new RCMP base.

The Howe is being established at Cape Herschel on lonely Ellesmere Island.

Scientists aboard are going to relieve other officers at RCMP posts and to open the new Ellesmere Island base.

All but a very north the ship will call at isolated stations to pick up and put down police officers, Hudson Bay Company officials and missionaries.

DESERONTO

Redeemer Church S. S. Holds Picnic

DESERONTO. — The Presbyterian Church of The Redeemer holds its annual Sunday School picnic at Mohawk Beach, with a record attendance, due no doubt in part to the perfect weather:

Swimming, games, and races, provided fun, and prizes for both children and adults.

The activities were under the supervision of Mrs. P. Thielman, Miss Betty Fowlie, Mrs. H. Everett and Mr. D. Castle.

A picnic supper on the bay shore, complete with ice cream, and soft drinks, was enjoyed by all with the children, especially showing the effect fresh air and exercise has on one's appetite.

Transportation to and from the picnic was provided by members of the congregation.

'Chuck' Dressen Wakes From Dream; Resumes Nightmare With 'Bums'

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

BASEBALL

Seamus Mulholland and his Nomads from Prince Edward county and other points crippled with a seven-run blast that sent the Regent Juniors' hopes of a victory skyhigh in the little Spanish town last night. Sammy was getting over the whole show blasting out a double and single and taking over the batting chores in the second innings when the Bryson younkers chalked a bloke by the name of Leblanc bet plenty.

It was the Regents' first defeat in seven starts and they will get the chance to redeem themselves here tomorrow night at the C.N.R. Recreation Field when they hook up with the Bloomfield - Wallington mob, a crew of Belleville expatriates, or nearly so. The latter burned a neat defeat on the chappies wearing the "B" - W" uniform on their last clash here, and "Red" Carson has high hopes of a repeat. The canning village crew are tops in the loop at the moment and with the kids smarting under that 12-0 setback of last night, it should be quite a diamond brawl.

SOFTBALL

Just what President Cy Barriage and his executive will do about that cancelled playoff game between Point Anne and Northern Electric on Tuesday night is not known. Northern claimed they could not field a team and the Ore Peninsula are not feeling too good about it. It may be handed them via the default route. Anchor the teams clash tonight, or so they are scheduled, at the Point in the so-called second round of the series, or is it the first? If it is dubbed the first game, the teams meet again tomorrow night at the Alemite Field here.

YOU THINK YOU'RE UNLUCKY!

Strange things happen in baseball. Lady Luck at times teases bearers' smiles at players, and then again on the other hand she produces nothing but leaks of the darkest hue.

Sports writers have written reams anent the home-run exploits of the immortal Babe Ruth and other sluggers of repute. But seldom do the hard-luck stories come to light.

Frivolance there is the case of Bill Bribeck, slugging outfielder of the Binghamton team in the Class-A league. It happened way back in 1923 when Bill hit home runs in six consecutive games and nary a one got in the record books.

The first washed-out four-banger occurred this way. The powery-thatched of the club had erected a ten-foot fence five feet back of the regulation three-foot barrier. Bill's first clout since the erection of the new fence bounced off it back into the field for an automatic double.

Bribeck hoisted his drives from then on and in the very first inning of the next game, he towered the ball over the fence for a very legitimate homer. He was grinning all-out as he jogged around the bases. No fence could take that one away from him.

But Bill didn't figure on the weather. A heavy rainstorm broke loose, the game was called on account of the weather, and Bill's second homer was washed out with the game.

But the next day broke sunny and clear. In the seventh inning Bribeck blasted the ball clear over the fence. "Laugh that one off," he grinned. "No rain will spoil that fourbagger."

But, as Bill neared third base on his jaunt around the necks, the coach shouted congratulations. Bill looked up, the big grin still on his face. What he didn't realize that in his enthusiasm he neglected to touch the sack. The third baseman, being a wide-awake bloke, walked Bill around the plate, called for the ball and Bill was thumbed out.

The fourth instance occurred the next day, and Bill wasn't feeling too good about the way Lady Luck was treating him. On his first trip to the plate he drove the ball toward the left-field corner. There was some doubt whether the ball would clear the fence and the base runner ahead of Bill held up halfway between first and second to see if the fly would be caught or go on to home-run glory. Bill wasn't sure either and was galloping at top speed to get as far as possible in case the ball hit the fence.

He recalled his base-running of the day before and his hand was nearly between his knees as he raced along. He forgot the runner ahead of him. Before the former could pick up speed and shout at Bill the disgruntled slugger had breezed past him. He was "out" and the fourth homer went into the discard.

The next day Bill, who was hitting in the number three slot, had his mind on his misfortune. The batter who preceded him was out of the game because of an injured ankle. Later he was inserted as a pinch-hitter and forgetful Bill paraded to the plate behind him from force of habit. He fanned the ball far out of the park. The opposing team brought it to the umpire's notice that Bill had batted, out of turn—and Number Five four-bagger was null and void.

By this time Bribeck was fighting mad. He scarcely spoke to anyone. His mates refrained from speaking to him. In this game the battle went to fifteen innings before he clouted his sixth straight homer. In their half of the frame the opposition scored seven runs with the darkness gradually closing in. Bloomington's first two batters singled and Bill strode to the plate. His booming lickings blasted the ball over the fence for the circuit trip and three runs came in.

But — at this point it was almost pitch dark and the home team decided they could not overcome the margin and the best thing to do was stall. The next two batters took their time at the plate and the umps were forced to call the game on account of darkness.

The score reverted back to the end of the previous inning since Bloomington had not had a full time at bat. And the timing and individual records, including Bribeck's sixth homer, went into the well known ash can.

Flatbushers Meet Cardinals In 'Crooshul' 4-Game Series; White Sox Threaten Yankees

By REN FRLEIGAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

Major league ball players put away their fielding gloves and go back to work today after a three-day midsummer all-star holiday.

As if to make up for lost time the majors scheduled 11 games for today and tonight, with most of the action coming after dark.

Charlie Dressen wrote from his three-day dream during which he controlled the talents of such pitchers as Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn and Curt Simmons and resumed his daily agony of trying to find a winning assortment from among the throwers on his Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers return to action with a 1½-game lead in the too-close-for-comfort national league pennant chase, facing St. Louis tonight in the first of a four-game series at home.

Dressen, whose National League all-stars came out on top at Cincinnati as expected, decided to give Preacher Roe another chance to recover his wizardry over the Cards in the fourth game. Roe, Preacher used to beat the Red Birds by just showing up, but he's been layoed twice by them this season.

Braves and Reds

Milwaukee's second-place Braves open their third eastern invasion with a night game in Pittsburgh and then Cincinnati entertains Redlegs visit Philadelphia for a twilight-night twin bill. The Phillies, like the Cardinals, are four games off the pace, but own third place by two percentage points.

New York Giants, winners of two straight from the Dodgers stopped them last Sunday, renew their battle for a first-division spot in a night game against Chicago.

What was Dressen's dream was Casey Stengel's nightmare and the New York Yankee skipper's only pleasant thoughts when the all-star encounter are that it's over. From a personal standpoint he also can remember that he's lost the dream game the last three years and gone on to win his pennant and the World Series.

Stengel's Yankees, who won every game their last western swing, open their third tour with a twi-night doubleheader against the lowly St. Louis Browns. Casey's biggest problem at the moment is Eddie Lopat's pitching, his all-star centrefielder now reported suffering with water on the knee.

Mantle reported he was ready to play but the indications were that Stengel would rest him for a vital doubleheader in Chicago Sunday.

The Yankees visit Sox, who have moved from fifth place to a challenging second in a month, open their home stand with daylight twin bill against Washington. The Red Sox Yankees by five and have a 13-game home stand coming up.

Cleveland's third-place Indians play host to Philadelphia Athletics in a night game. The Indians fell 6½ games behind by losing four out of five to Chicago just before the all-star intermission.

Fourth-place Boston begins its invasion with a night game in Detroit.

Gotham Fireman Will Defend Sculling Title

By CRAIG SWAYZE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP) — A quiet unassuming little guy who fights fires on the side and rows quite a blaze on his hands July 25 when he defends his Canadian singles title against the best sculler in the United States and Canada on offer.

That's when Joe Angyal, the 31-year-old New York City fireman, lines up against such behemoths of rowing as Jack Kelly, Jr., Bobby Williams and Bob Platt in the championship singles, top sculling event of the four-day 71st Royal Canadian Henley Regatta here.

However, it won't faze the 149-pound New York Athletic Club sculler one little bit. He's used to pitting power against size.

Joe the Greek, as he is affectionately known throughout North America sculling circles, has never been satisfied with the lightweight crowns he has repeatedly won in 16 years of competition. Even at the United States National Regatta and Canadian Henleys he rows the lightweight events, then takes a breather and heads into the big sculling championships against the heavies.

At next week's Henley, Angyal will enter two lightweight races and move on against the big boys in a pair of heavyweight events.

He will attempt to repeat his 1951 victory in the Canadian senior-title dash, then try to keep Gubenate Hugo Zenek's 1952 record pound distance crown for the NYAC. Jazek was called into the U.S. Army shortly after winning the title last July.

Joe's next race will be the open dash, but his biggest test comes in that championship singles contest when he defends his Canadian open sculling title, won last year against Lachine's Gabby Beaudry and Bob Platt of Toronto Don.

And as a prelude to these heavier races, the firm fireman will scull in the same four events at the 79th annual United States National Regatta Saturday and Sunday at Philadelphia.

Joe Angyal first took to sculling in 1934, learning his style in the old school system at the Ravenswood Boat Club of Long Island City, N.Y. Although short, but relished a long run through seemingly effortless stroke packed with dynamite.

Angyal missed four years of sculling during the Second World War when he served as a fighter pilot in the U.S. Marine Corps.

The diminutive sculler has power in 153 races in 16 years of competition, winning 27 open-singles events and 47 lightweight contests for a total of 114 victories. His batting average is .745.

Eighteen of these wins were various United States singles championships while nine were Canadian titles.

Brantford Nips Oshawa 2-1 In 12 Innings

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brantford Red Sox run into a real senior baseball buzz saw Wednesday night. The league's top team had a tough time coming out on top 2-1 in 12 innings.

The battle was between the Sox and Oshawa Merchants and it lasted 13 innings before Brantford was able to break a 1-1 deadlock and drop the Merchants 2-1.

The game was a pitchers' duel. Lee Griffith finally won out over Bill Hanrahan, both hurlers went all 13 innings and pitched tight ball throughout. Trittleh was also the key batter when he singled home Lee with the tie and scored the winning run on Jim Wilkes' double.

Galt Terriers continued on the winning path last night with a 10-4 victory over the visiting Sarnia-dwelling St. Thomas Elgins. In other league senior baseball action Waterloo defeated seventh-place Guelph Maple Leafs and Kitchener won 7-6 over London Athletic.

At Oshawa the game went scoreless until the fifth inning when both teams managed a run apiece. Oshawa had threatened previously in the first when they had the bases loaded but failed to score. The first Oshawa man up in the 13th made his way to third and Oshawa again threatened. However, the next three men up were put out.

The losing pooted his eighth victory due Salt. The Terriers performed well at plate with Jimmy Russian, Andy Turowski and Gerry Cline each knocking home runs. Joe Fiorini held down the Galt club for three innings but it was up to Earl Gaffery in the sixth who finished the job.

Waterloo put on pressure in the first inning to get their only run of the game. While Guelph came up with a runner fielding game they didn't register at the plate. Three Waterloo pitchers held them off letting only one hit, a double by Gene Rito in the fourth.

Kitchener picked up a 3-0 lead in the first inning but lost it in the fourth when the Majors went ahead briefly when they scored four runs. The Panthers bounded right back for three in their half and Manager Earl Rosenberry in the eighth proved the winning run. Chuck Fedoris was touched for 12 hits but was all there in the victory. Bob Penny took the loss.

Seven-Run Riot Spells Disaster For Regent Jrs.

With a seven run explosion in the fifth inning, the Prince Edward combines downed Bryson Reid's Regent Juniors by a score of 12-6 in a scheduled Belleville and District Baseball League game at Picton, Wednesday evening.

The Regents took the lead in the top half of the first inning on two walks, an error and a double. The Combines came back in their half of the inning with three runs on two hits, a walk, and two purloined bases. The Regents again grabbed the lead from the Combines in the top of the second, managing to get three runs on a triple, two walks and half scoring off Stephens' chest. In the bottom of the second the Combines got two across on three singles, and a stolen base. Then came the disastrous fifth inning. The Combines combined their forces to tally seven runs on five hits, three walks, two errors and a wild pitch.

The Regents have acquired a new catcher by the name of Ed. Woolcox. He caught the whole game for the Regents, played three hits and slammed out a triple besides. Unfortunately, however, he is not under the age limit for the Juniors, and will not be allowed to bolster the clubs reinforcements in the OBA playdowns.

Sammy Mulholland led the Combines in the wood department blasting out a double and a single. Stevenson got a pair of singles, while Cornelius and Chalmers each touched the ball for singles.

Woolcox led the Regents at the plate with a three for four. He took hold of one of Mulholland's slants for a double, with Gilmour, Strachan and Xavarda each connecting for singles.

LeBlanc was the for the Combines and in one and two-thirds innings struck out two and walked six. He was relieved by Mulholland who got three on strikes and walked one. Strachan started for the Regents. He struck out one and walked four in four innings. He was relieved by Drummond who walked one and struck out one. Stephens finished with the loss.

The only double-play of the game came when Casey picked up a grounder and relayed it to Carson at second, who touched the bag and fired it to Stephens at first to complete the twin-killing.

Tigers Claw St. Kitts 10-6

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tigers upset the league-leading St. Catharines Athletics 10-6 here Wednesday night in a Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association game. It was the second time within a week that the fifth-place Tigers managed to drop the As.

Tigers led the game all the way with quarter scores of 2-1, 5-2, and 6-2.

The Cats were paced by Jack Blondel's three goals. Other Hamilton scorers were Doug Davidson with two, Reid McCabe, Jack Sibbald, Butch Guthro, Barney Welch and playing coach Arnold Smith who netted singles.

Derry Davies led for St. Catharines with two goals while singletons went to Skip Teal, Max Wooley, Ted Howe, and Don Frick.

Tennis Veterans Main and Rochon Will Carry Load Against Mexicans

MONTREAL (CP) — Two veteran Canadian Davis Cup tennis players will probably be doing most of the work in the North American Zone tennis tie against Mexico starting Friday at the Mount Royal Tennis Club.

Lorne Main of Toronto and Vancouver and Henri Rochon of Montreal may play both singles and doubles matches against the strong Mexican team of Mario Llamas, Pancho Contreras and Rafael Ordonez. Canadian partners for Bedard of Sherbrooke and Paul Willey of Vancouver may possibly get in the singles.

Official referee Jacques Vadboncoeur will make the draw for the singles today and for the doubles Saturday.

Bedard Injured

Bedard, at first considered a great singles prospect tore a ligament in his back during a recent workout. He said he could still play a singles match with his back injury but difficulty reaching for low shots.

Observers felt, however, that the injury almost nullified his chances of drawing a single's berth.

Rochon pulled a thigh muscle in recent practices but returned after a day's rest and said the leg disappearing Main.

Beat Marciano Before, Do It Again, Boasts Challenger Roly La Starza

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Most fighters who have been hit by Rocky Marciano don't want to talk about it. Roland La Starza is different. He wants more.

So thinks he has been hit harder by another guy.

"When Rocky knocked me down, I rolled over and got up on one knee," he said Wednesday at the opening conmunication where he signed for a title match with Marciano at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 24.

"When Gene Conley hit me, things went kind of funny, but I'm the count of three. And he dumped me twice in one round."

"I can combine faster, sharper and cleaner," he said. "Not as hard. But I don't expect to get hit. And I can hit hard, too, maybe as hard as Rocky if I wound up like he does."

It will be 2½ years to the day since their first meeting, March 24, 1950, when Roland gets his rematch. He's sure it's not too late.

"Sure I think I've improved," he said. "I'm heavier, stronger and I punch better. I guess Rocky has improved too. Maybe he has a little more poise, but he doesn't punch any harder and he doesn't hit any better. I think I beat him last time and I'm sure I'll win Wednesday."

Dan Florio was talking about the match.—Dan trains La Starza. You may remember he also handled Jersey Joe Walcott for his two fights with Rocky. In fact, Dan is well on his way to Ray Arcel's old title of "meat man" for he was the fellow Arcel sent when Marciano flattened Joe Louis and Walcott twice and also a fellow named Joe Dominic.

"This fellow is altogether different from Walcott," said Florio. "He's got it in his hand that he couldn't get from Walcott or Louis. He don't want to talk about anything but Rocky. He thinks he's a cinch to knock him out. I don't know what happened yet. He died on me the last day. After the fight he went to his room and I went to mine. I never saw him since.

"He just went gloomy on me. In the dressing room before the fight it took him a half hour to take his street shoes off. He didn't say nothing to nobody. Who the hell knows what happened?

"Maybe it takes a young fellow like Rocky to do it, though, that can move around. He's easy to hit but he's a tough fellow who keeps winging. He shouldn't touch another short, moving guy like himself."

Bisons Defeat Montreal 7-2; Toronto Wins

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The surging Buffalo Bisons Wednesday night pulled within a half-game of Montreal Royals and today threaten to move into a first-place tie as the International Baseball League leaders.

The Bisons defeated the Royals 7-2 to gain an even split in the four-game series between the clubs at Buffalo. Montreal is not scheduled to play tonight and the Herd gain the tie with a victory over Syracuse Chiefs.

Wednesday night's contest saw catcher Joe Frazett whack his first homer of the year, with two mates aboard, to lead the Bisons. Frazett's blow was the big one in a five-run, fourth-inning rally.

Veteran Milt Jordan, returning to action after being out two weeks with an ailing arm, gained credit for his 11th victory after rescuing southpaw Ken Johnson in the fourth-inning rally.

Heavy hitting featured two other Wednesday night contests.

Rochester Red Wings pounded out 15 hits, including homers by Don Richmond, Tom Burgess and Charley Kress, to belt Syracuse Chiefs 13-4 and sweep a three-game series.

Highlander George Condrick went the route at Rochester for his first shutout of the season.

Toronto Maple Leafs shelled three pitchers for 16 hits and an 8-1 verdict over Ottawa Athletics at the capital. I. was Toronto's third win in a completed four-game series.

Don Johnson gave up only three hits for his sixth victory of the season.

In Baltimore ex-Cardinal, Howie Fox, limiting Springfield to six hits, pitched his eighth victory as the Orioles blasted the Cubs 4-1. Fox had a shutout into the ninth when he faltered, giving up three hits.

Jack Graham of the Orioles hit his 15th homer of the campaign in the sixth.

HOLE IN ONE

GALT (CP) — Fifteen-year-old Billy Stacey scored a hole-in-one Wednesday at the Waterloo County Golf and Country Club here during a warm-up game for today's Ontario Junior Golf Championship final at Toronto's Oakdale course.

Billy sunk his tee shot on the tough par-three 225-yard 11th hole. He was using a no. 3 wood.

BO-BO BRAZIL

TIMMY GEORAGEN

The famed bludgeoning methods of Hans Schmidt, the Terrible Teuton, may be his own undoing when the Munich Menace clashes with Bo-Bo Brazil, the Negro star, in the feature wrestling match at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. For Schmidt's hammer-handed tactics figure to arouse the fiery Brazil to a fighting pitch which Hans may well wish he had never instigated. Bo-Bo's a clean wrestler but he's not dopey enough to stand still while Schmidt perpetrates the mayhem which television fans are so well accustomed to see him use. Not only that, but Brazil has a smashing means of retaliating and still be within legal limits — namely, his dizzying ko-ko bumps.

Will Decide Junior Golf Champion Today

TORONTO (CP)—A new Ontario junior golf titlist will be declared today at the Ontario Junior Golf Championship tournament. There will be no defending champion in the age group; Ernie Kincaid of Kitchener Rockway, last year's winner, is just over the age limit.

A record entry of 89 boys will tee off in the 36-hole event which is being staged at the Oakdale Club. Representatives from all parts of Ontario, are expected. The tournament is divided into three age groups: 15-18, 14-15, and 13 and under.

The winner will represent Ontario in the Canadian junior match-play championships at Montreal Aug. 23-27.

In addition, eight players under 18 will be chosen to make up Ontario's team in the annual junior match against the District of Columbia in Washington next week.

The eight-man team will leave for Washington Friday and they will play Monday as individuals in the District of Columbia qualifying round in the United States Junior Amateur Championship. Tuesday and Wednesday they play in the D.C. Championship.

On Friday night, the eight-man team will meet Washington in the team match. The Ontario squad won the match last year at the Mississauga Club here.

Canuck Marksmen Qualify For Bisley 2nd Stage

BISLEY, England (Reuter)—Thirteen Canadian marksmen qualified Wednesday for the second stage of the Queen's Prize at Bisley, to be held Saturday.

T. W. Gregory, Ottawa, and E. L. Warner of Sherbrooke, Que., each scored 100, two less than the top scorers in the first stage, G. G. Barratt of Australia and A. T. Hooper of Britain.

Lt.-Col. D. T. Burke of Lansing, Ont., 1924 King's Prize winner, C. F. Rowell, Hamilton, scored 98. Scores of other Canadian qualifiers were: G. B. Kay of Hamilton, Ont., and E. W. Hampton, Ottawa, 98; E. R. Jamieson, Vancouver and G. H. Kemper, Ham of Montreal, 96; W. R. Reid of Edmonton, Steven Johnson, the King's Own Calgary Regiment and A. S. Emery of Saint John, N.B., 97; C. C. Wilson of Ottawa, S. W. Graham of Toronto and W. J. Stachan 96.

Canada was well represented in the Service Rifle Championship aggregate, compiled Wednesday from the scores in the service-rifle events.

The winner, with 486 out of possible 525 points, was Sgn. Ld. G. C. Corbett of the R.A.F., King's Prize winner in 1946.

Officer Cadet E. L. Warner, Kingsville, Ont., was eighth with 469.

Based on a study of their real performances they are far from perfect. These indications are that they could improve considerably by using good knowledge of the simplest basics.

In the 14 table match of the 84 players in this exclusive set, what did they do with it? Did they survive and end at the correct that was most correct? Did they take the tricks available?

Two stepped into and stopped it four no-trump, one of which was defeated. Two got to three no-trump and hung there. Five made in four spades. Seven made six and four made five.

Only one such player ended at a contract of four hearts. Of such bidding are pelochas made. That he made six, does not change the charge.

Four north players were in six no-trump and three of these went down one or two tricks. When they reach six spades I can understand the gamble of six no-trump with players of their ability.

If six spades will make, maybe six no-trump has an equal chance to work itself out. In duplicate this difference in score is of much importance if other pairs are in it and make it.

But every sound bidding system will indicate that a slam in spades is worth a try. What happens me is that so few were willing to play it in spades at slam level. So few of their rating, I guess.

However, my jeers are not so much because they failed to reach a right contract. It is that so few of these agree with each other. They are bridge masters; not poker players. Or are they?

SARATOGA SPRING, N.Y. (AP) —Peter Lind, a fast and game son of Volomite, took over the favorite's role for the Hambletonian Wednesday night by winning the $2,000 Troy three-year-old trot on the Grand Circuit program.

The colt owned by the Arden Homestead Stable, Cooden, and L. B. Sheppard, Hanover, Pa., out, lasted 13 rivals, including 2 other Hambletonian eligibles, in a three heat elimination race at Saratoga raceway. He captured the deciding dash in 2:05½ after taking an elimination heat in 2:05 2-5.

Western Regatta Starts Friday

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oarsmen from both sides of the international border will pull their shells over the sluggish Red river Friday and Saturday in quest of one of Canada's oldest rowing awards.

Winnipeg Rowing Club is host to other members of the Northwestern International Rowing Association for the organization's 36th annual regatta. The winner takes home the Sir Thomas J. Lipton Trophy.

This year's regatta is at Winnipeg for the first time since 1946. The course stretches one mile, 550 yards eastward from the club's location. The shells will race upstream against a current which varies from three to five miles an hour.

Crews will be on hand from the Minnesota Boat Club of St. Paul, the Kenora Rowing Club, the Fort William Rowing Club and the Minneapolis Rowing Club. The Regina Boat Club, recently amalgamated with the Regina Canoe Club, may slip an entry under tonight's deadline.

Most powerful strokers at the meet in recent years are the Fort William boys. They captured the Lipton Trophy every year between 1947 and 1949 with the exception of the war years when the heavy exodus of rowers into the armed forces forced suspension of activities.

Fort William dropped the trophy to Minneapolis in 1950 and 1951 as the Americans came up with the strong crews of newly-developed high school oarsmen. Fort William bounced back in 1952 to win again.

TITLE GO FOR LONDON

LONDON (AP)—The world middleweight title fight between Britain's Randy Turpin and Bobo Olson of San Francisco, may take place in London in the fall, Turpin's manager, said Wednesday.

The bout originally was scheduled for Aug. 27 in New York. It was postponed until mid-October at the request of Turpin's manager, George Middleton, who said his fighter needed a "little more time to get into proper condition" after an auto accident.

Olson is reported to want to fight in San Francisco.

AT THE BELLE—Van Johnson and Patricia Neal form the new romantic team in M.G.M.'s "Washington Story" currently on view at the Belle Theatre. Van plays the spirited young legislator, with Miss Neal cast as a columnist looking for political scandal and winding up in love. The companion feature is "Taxi", a jolly crashion with Dan Dailey and Constance Smith. Both features are shown for the last times today.

Look in the section in which your personal interests, domestic and social matters. Favorable for wise investments, selling to public, recreational activities.

FOR FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Grand planetary day with a few restrictions. Impetience, ugly irritations are labs. Do be energetic so that you can benefit from the fine Moon. Venus, Jupiter vibrations.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Very encouraging for occupational duties, domestic and social interests, artistic professions. You should gain in any worthy project or work.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — May not be suspicious for legal matters so be cautious, know what and why you are signing agreements, etc. Day favors essential jobs, recreation.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Could be peak for you folks with Venus and Jupiter in favorable positions. But Uranus warns against sudden changes from what has been scheduled or planned.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Stars friendly on whole, but you still have to work hard for what isn't just a line of duty. Don't neglect family or friends.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Splendid indications for

Cool Night "Cools Off" Blazing Prisoners

Rebellious convicts at Oregon State Prison, at Salem, are seen bedded down on the ball diamond where they were driven following rioting and setting of fires. Hungry and thirsty by nightfall, the rioters, about three of them all told, offered to capitulate, but Warden Clarence T. Gladden drove them into the recreation field, where they spent the night, without food and water. Cooled off and chastened, the warden told them they would be returned to their cells provided they agreed to obey prison rules. They agreed. — Central Press Canadian.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass
Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates slipped and rocked. Don't be timid or self conscious. You need no longer live in fear of this happening to you just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth firmly and so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour but checks "plate breath" from brushed. Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Stomach Disorders, Gas Headache, Rheumatic Pain
Had Indigestion, Heartburn, Stomach Trouble So Bad I Couldn't Eat, Says This Woman. Got Dizzy Spells, Nervous, Felt Awful. Says She Got First Real Relief by Taking Syntona.
Here's good news for sufferers from functional stomach, kidney and liver disorders and their nervous, rheumatic symptoms. Thousands of men and women say Syntona Herbal Compound has helped them to feel and look better. Such is the experience of Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner, Campbell St., Strathroy, Ontario, as reported recently.
Feel Six All Over
"I suffered a lot with stomach trouble that I felt sick all over," she said. "Sometimes I had awful gas and my heart would palpitate, causing the lightest foods. Headaches and dizzy spells plagued me from day to day and my nerves were so on edge I couldn't sleep. More recently I developed pains set into my back, and I felt miserable all over. Syntona helped me from the time I'd get up in the morning."
Friend Advises Syntona
"Sometimes that I could scarcely bear to look at food. I was tempted that I'd quit trying. But a short time after I started to take Syntona I noticed a change for the better. I felt like a changed person. My food was digesting better, gas, heartburn and headaches left me, my nerves were also improved. As I continued with Syntona I felt stronger and could work away, dizziness and headaches stopped and I began to relish food.
Pleasant to Take
Many thousands of men and women have found that Syntona is a wonderful help for stomach, liver and kidney disorders when they have tried Syntona time and again when they were too sick and tired to feel that it always gives the same good results. Why not get Syntona today? You'll be pleased to take and results are quickly felt.

Three Strikes And He Is Out Hundred Bucks

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Smashing into the state police commissioner's automobile was bad enough.

But then calling him "sergeant" and wondering out loud if there wasn't "something we can do to fix this up"—ouch!

Theodore D. McCrory, traffic manager of a tobacco firm, found out in court what can happen under such circumstances.

He was fined $100 and his driver's license was revoked for six months. The charge was drunken driving.

Father Arrives To Claim Body Of Slain Chorine

NEW YORK (AP) — A heavy-hearted father came today to claim the body of his daughter, Canadian-born showgirl Florence Forsberg, slain apparently by a drink-crazed sailor.

Bert Forsberg flew here from Fort Frances, Ont., where he is a partner in a clothing firm. Struggling to control himself he told reporters:

"Coming on top of my wife's death, about two years ago, the shock is just a little too much."

The nude body of the 25-year-old blonde singer, stabbed and beaten, was found Thursday morning slumped between the twin beds of her Manhattan apartment.

The discovery came after police investigated a gunshot heard in the room of one of Florence's friends, Johnsen, 25, of blocks further uptown.

They found Johnsen shot through the chest with a hunting rifle. A note said:

"I killed Flo Forsberg because of passion and drink. It was not a passion, both drunk. I killed her and I'm sorry. Life is not worth living."

Police rushed to the Forsberg apartment and found a second note which read:

"I'm sorry it had to happen this way but I could not take it with all the liquor and affection. Les."

The couple had been seen together in a cocktail lounge the previous evening.

At the Winter Garden Theatre where Miss Forsberg appeared as a chorus girl in "Call Me Madam," tonight members decided to keep the show running as usual.

"Besides her chorus work, the pert girl had understudied one of the top supporting role of "Kiss."

Police said there was evidence of "quite a bit" of drinking in Miss Forsberg's apartment, which she shared with two roommates. They were away at the time.

COMMONWEALTH FUNDS

LONDON (Reuters) — Emanuel Shinwell, former minister, today said Thursday that British should seek investment capital from Commonwealth countries as well as from the United States, in development of the colonies. He said in the House of Commons that funds from Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa should be solicited "to a very much larger degree."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Generally sunny and very warm weather still prevails throughout the provinces. Only a few local high pressure centres to show very little motion however, on the horizon which the high is exerting as the weather, appears to be weakening and increasing cloud is indicated over Saskatoon.

Rather widespread thunder-storm activity throughout Illinois and Indiana is edging very slowly toward extreme southwestern Ontario, and cooler air which is expected to arrive somewhat sooner at the province tonight through these areas with showers and thunderstorms.

FRENCH GENERAL URGES INDO-CHINA GET INDEPENDENCE

Only Way to Win War Against Communists

HANOI (AP) — Freedom-seeking, anti-Communist Indo-Chinese drew powerful support today from France's top military man in the Far East. Only by giving Indo-China complete independence, Gen. Pierre Navarre asserted, could France win her seven-year war against the Red-directed Vietminh forces.

U. S. experts here, whose government is sending $500,000,000 worth of military supplies annually to bolster France's fight, also welcomed the declaration in Paris Thursday night by Navarre, new commander-in-chief of French-armed forces in the Far East.

Back in France from his first inspection of the Indo-China fighting fronts, Navarre told the French Diplomatic Press Club: "Military operations" could get full participation in the war by the French-sponsored governments of the three associated Indo-Chinese states of Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

Nationals With Reds

Only such an independence grant, he continued, would "permit the withdrawal of nationalist non-Communist elements now fighting in the ranks of the Vietminh."

The new French government on July 3 proposed to the Reds that the Chinese states aimed at greater autonomy for them, but independence for them and for Viet Nam and Laos readily accepted the independence of Vietnam's King Norodom Sihanouk prepared a long list of counter-proposals.

Navarre, who has just taken over direction of the dull, almost-lethargic war of steaming jungles and rice paddies, warned that the situation is rapidly becoming more difficult and a dramatic gesture—such as independence—now is vital.

War's Character Changed

The fight began soon after the Second World War ended when the French and their native allies resisted fanatic, independence-minded forces led by Red-trained Ho Chi Minh.

Lately the fight became Communist versus anti-Communist.

About three years ago, the United States took a hand. Now U. S. weapons, equipment and supplies are coming in at the rate of 1,000 tons a year. The Western Big Three foreign ministers' meeting in Washington meeting indicated last week-end this rate soon may be stepped up.

The French and Americans figure that if the Communists take Castle and Anchor hill.

In name at least, Chinese resisted only with small arms and machine gun fire.

Advancing RoKs ran into their first heavy fighting south of Kumsong, where Red Chinese companies were defending hills with mortar and artillery support. The RoKs were manoeuvering with tanks and infantry.

Red Jubilant

RoK soldiers and generals were jubilant at the quick advance but some U. S. advisers with them suggested that the easy reoccupation of lost territory indicated the RoKs had pulled back too fast in the first place.

It became more and more apparent that the Reds had not decided to gamble on any serious advance while truce negotiations lasted. The retreating RoKs failed to blow several bridges in the withdrawal. The bridge on a 14-mile a day have feared a quick Allied counter-blow and prepared them against it. The flooded river. U. S. Navy and Air Force planes blew up the bridges Thursday.

Reds Tell Story

The Reds were spending manpower recklessly in their attacks. The U. S. 8th army reported a total of 11,000 casualties for a day for the week ended Tuesday—14,-300 dead and 34,000 wounded. Most of the casualties were inflicted on the 90,000 attacking force which hit the U. S. 2nd corps line.

Allied casualties were not disclosed. But Chinese prisoners have showed they were heavy. Without disclosing figures, the U. S. Air Force said the number of wounded evacuated to hospitals Thursday was the highest one-day total of the war.

At least 900 U. S. troops were dead or missing after the Chinese overran a veteran artillery battalion as the fight at Kumsong raged earlier in the week, the 8th army announced. It was the heaviest slaughter since troops of the U. S. 2nd division were cut up near Hoengsan in February, 1951.

Other Party Leaders Gain Day of Campaigning on Drew

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Liberal, CCF and Social Credit party leaders Thursday gained a full day's election campaigning on the Progressive Conservative clientele.

George Drew was fog-bound. After waiting nearly five hours at Sydney, N.S., for the mist to lift at the St. John's airport, he cancelled his Newfoundland tour and his plane was diverted to Halifax. Mr. Drew is scheduled to speak today at B.W.Igwater, N.S.

Reading between the past, this is what the other vote-seeking party heads were saying:

In a recorded, free-time political broadcast from Edmonton over a CBC network, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, accused the Liberal government of "dictatorial" high-handedness and regarding parliament as a "nuisance."

The great issue before the country, he said, is the political machine. It forced some members of Parliament to vote in direct opposition to the known wishes of their constituents.

He said the Liberals are ridiculing the Social Credit party because the Liberals are "bankrupt," without a policy to lay before the Canadian people. Justice Minister Garson had referred to Social Credit as "strictly pioneer." If "pioneer," meant different from the Liberal party, then Social Credit didn't mind being called names.

By Dalton Dyck Staff Writer

—Mr. Low said buying from Canada by Europeans and through Marshall aid has dried up, resulting in surplus goods, merchants were carrying billions of dollars on their books as credit, prices for farm products were falling, unemployment was getting worse.

They say Canadians, "the depression is on," Mr. Low said.

At Sudbury, Ont., Prime Minister Louis Saint Laurent, his attack on the Progressive Conservative promise of a $500,000,000-a-year tax cut.

"Perhaps the Tories believe in deficit spending and in increasing the national debt. If they do, the people of Canada will not," he told Victory Bonds and Canada Savings Bonds are not very likely to look with favor on the Tories."

He suggested that Canadian bonds might drop in value under a Progressive Conservative government if it cut taxes by deficit financing.

"Even under a Liberal government," the prime minister said, "it has not been possible to avoid some share of the world-wide inflation and the most terrible war in history."

GEN. MARK CLARK MAPS STRATEGY FOR VITAL PARLEY

Sees Truce Delegates Before Showdown Meet

MUNSAN (AP) — Gen. Mark Clark huddled for three hours with United Nations truce negotiators today in advance of a showdown meeting tomorrow at which the Communist high command is expected to answer an Allied demand for a quick Korean armistice.

There was no hint of what was discussed during the secret conference as the UN commander and his negotiating team mapped strategy for the crucial session at Panmunjom.

The top-level delegations are to meet at 2 p.m. (1 a.m. EDT Saturday).

The negotiations were in recess Thursday. They had adjourned for a one-day break Thursday after the UN delivered what Washington sources called a firm demand that the Reds agree immediately to steps leading to a truce agreement.

Informed quarters have said efforts to agree on final details of a truce were stalemated by Red demands for the recapture of 27,000 Communist prisoners the UN forces liberated last month and guarantees that South Korea will not attack.

Lt.-Gen. William Harrison, senior UN delegate, has said the Reds:

1. The UN will not meet their demand for the recapture of the prisoners freed on orders of President Syngman Rhee.

2. The UN has given adequate assurance that South Korea will abide by a truce.

3. There no longer is any reason why Communists should delay signing an armistice.

Walter Robertson, President Eisenhower's truce envoy, back in Washington after more than two weeks of conferences aimed at winning Rhee over to a truce, told Congress Thursday the South Korean president promised in writing to co-operate in an armistice.

The UN delegation met all meetings at Panmunjom will remain secret and "regardless of whether they (the Reds) break their word, I will not. We have an agreement for executive sessions and neither I nor any of my colleagues will break it. We regulate it."

Meanwhile radio accused the Allies of walking out on the negotiations Wednesday and Clark later called it "a false charge" in violation of the secrecy agreement.

Julian Chang, who was virtually ready for signing when Rhee objected the liberation of anti-Red prisoners, said Thursday that ratification will be considered at a post-armistice political conference.

Poland to Aid U.N.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Poland joined the Soviet Union Friday in granting financial support for the first time to the United Nations' technical assistance program for underdeveloped countries.

Julien Modzelewski, Polish delegate, told the economic and social council that Polish government has decided to contribute 300,000 zlotys (about $75,000) to the UN fund.

The Soviet Union pledged 4,000,000 rubles (about $1,000,000) to the program for 1953.

The Polish and Soviet contributions raise the 1953 pledges to the budget of the UN program for 1953, under which 97 countries and territories are being assisted.

St. Catharine's Man Held For Murder In Wife's Death

Police Seize Car Crank Believed Used in Slaying

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A 20-year-old mother, Patricia Nelson, died of head injuries early this morning and her husband was charged with murder.

Police arrested George Nelson, 24, of St. Catharines shortly after his wife died in hospital here. They said they seized a crank from Nelson's car.

Police said Nelson turned up at the Lincoln county jail on Niagara street at 1 a.m. and talked with the turnkey. Officers were called and found Nelson's car parked in front of the jail.

Sprawled on Seat

Mrs. Nelson, bloody and unconscious, was sprawled on the front seat of the old-model sedan. She was taken to hospital with multiple head lacerations and a fractured skull. She died without regaining consciousness.

Police said they believe Mrs. Nelson, mother of two children, was attacked on a side road about three miles east of Port Weller, 10 miles northeast of here.

Cross Operator

Nelson, a crane operator for an electric company, appeared in court today on a murder charge. He was remanded to jail without plea.

The Nelsons and their children had been living with Nelson's parents in Welland. They had believed they had quarreled over whether Mrs. Nelson should keep her home or move to a home of their own.

Propose Korea Captives Move To Neutral Area

NEW DELHI (AP) — Reliable sources said today the United Nations command in Korea has proposed that the question of war be brought into an enlarged post-armistice neutral area for discussion between nations trying to talk them into going home.

These informants also said the UN has proposed to the Reds that the neutral area be Formosa to permit Indian troops, who will take custody of the prisoners, to land without going through South Korean territory.

Indian Leaders

Indian leaders have charged that India is pro-Communist and one of President Syngman Rhee's severest critics. The Formosa truce was that Indian troops and Communist representatives would have to enter South Korean territory to deal with the UN-held prisoners.

IS FOUND DEAD

TIMMINS (CP)—Police are investigating the death of Edmund Sauvé, 70, of nearby Kelvin township, who was found in his cabin Thursday.

He is believed to have been dead for several days.

TO JUDGE AT FAIR

HEREFORD, England (Reuters) —Britain's most travelled breeder of pedigree Hereford cattle, Sidney Evans, of Kinnersley Manor, Herefordshire, has accepted an invitation to judge Hereford cattle at the Imperial Valley Fair. He will be the first English breeder to judge Herefords in Canada.

Builds House Over Oil Line: To Sue, Whom?

The house took shape. He had put some $3,700 into it when he saw a stop work order nailed on the front.

He had placed his home directly over the oil lines of Imperial Oil Co. and Imperial Oil has three lines extending down a 20-foot right-of-way from Sarnia, Ont., to Cygnet, Ont.

Nowhere over that 151-mile stretch is there a building—except Morgan's.

Now Morgan's house will have to be torn down.

"I'm going to sue somebody but I don't know who," he said.

Paper Publishes Angry Replies From Canadians

LONDON (CP) — Britons and Canadians alike reacted vigorously to a charge that the land of the Maple Leaf harbors the dullest people in the Commonwealth.

The weekly magazine Truth, which started the fuss by claiming Canadians are unsighted, published angry replies in a later edition.

Typical was a 300-word letter from Douglas Dalston of Toronto, denying that Canadians are inferior to those of Commonwealth countries in producing prominent personalities in politics, business and politics.

Dalston listed Hal Hanley of Toronto, Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa and Toronto, Marlene Dietrich of Montreal, and George Genereux of Saskatoon in which, former premier of Ontario, Mackenzie King and external affairs minister Pearson in politics as well as Canada's movie stars.

Many stars with a Canadian background, Dalston said, included Walter Pidgeon of Saint John, N.B., the late Mary Martin of Cobourg, Ont., Norma Shearer of Montreal, Deanna Durbin of Winnipeg and Mary Pickford of Toronto.

Another letter, published, agreed over two pages, included several from Briton who said they had found Canadians friendly and nevertheless had wholesome respect for Canadians.

The magazine was founded 77 years ago by a writer named Labouchere, a controversial, who often coupled with that of Oscar Wilde as a writer of epigrams. A spokesman for Truth said the article on Canadians was compiled from notes and written with "inspiration and knowledge."

AIRPORT AGREEMENT

LONDON (Reuters) — British military aircraft will have landing and other facilities at Samara airfield, Eritrea, under an Anglo-Ethiopian agreement announced here. The agreement, signed in Addis Ababa in March and laid before Parliament today, is an addition to the June 1948 Anglo-Ethiopian arrangement for the exchange of air facilities.

Tossed Daughter Over 8-Foot Fence Dragged Wife Over Mines to Safety

VIENNA (Reuters) — Hungarian lawyer Geza Kapus told Thursday how he threw his little daughter over an eight-foot barbed wire fence and dragged his wounded wife through a frontier minefield in their escape from their Communist homeland.

Mrs. Kapus had a leg shattered by a border guard's machine gun. She had to undergo an operation in Vienna hospital and doctors, today said it was the first time that she has a chance to live.

Mrs. Kapus is a relative of Brig.-Gen. William S. Key, former head of the United States military control commission in Hungary.

Kapus, a slight, dark-haired man, showed signs of nervousness as he told of the long preparation for the escape.

They had set that in 1949 he was dismissed from his law job because he was not a Communist. Unemployed for a year, he was finally given the job of town of Veresegyorerk. The family lived in a one-room but and did heavy manual labor through which to earn enough to live. One, by one, they sold off their possessions.

All the time they were planning to flee to the West. Last week the time came.

They drove by a devious route to a point near the Austrian border, they left, the car and went on by foot.

After a few miles they had to drop their few remaining possessions as their daughter was exhausted and had to be carried.

They came out of the forest and before them stretched a minefield, then the frontier fence, and freedom.

Quebec Police Suspect Foul Play in Deaths of 3 Hunters

QUEBEC (CP)—Solicitor General Rivard said today provincial police are investigating the possibility of foul play in the death of three hunters who were attacked and found Wednesday in the rugged wilderness of the Gaspe peninsula.

In an interview, Mr. Rivard told The Canadian Press:

"We are investigating every angle including the possibility that a crime has been committed. In a case of this sort we must check every possible element."

Mr. Rivard referred to "absolutely unfounded" a rumor in Gaspe that police have made an arrest in connection with the hunters' deaths.

Bodies Mutilated

Remains of the hunters were found in an area teeming with bears. Police said the bodies had been mauled by wild animals.

Mr. Rivard said it is believed the men were attacked by wild animals while they were alive.

An unidentified rifle was found near the scattered remains. It is not known whether it had been fired. A ballistics expert will be called in to examine the weapon.

The hunters were Eugene H. Lindsey, 47, his son Robert, 17, and Albert Clark, 20, all of Salisbury, Burgh, Penn.

They flew into the bush June 12 to hunt for bears along the St. Jean river. Search was started for them July 5 when relatives be-of foul play.

Belleville Man Hurt

KINGSTON (CP) — Construction worker William Chinnell, 52, of Belleville was critically hurt Thursday when he fell from a Belleville bridge.

It is believed he fell from a part of the structure. He suffered fractures of the back, pelvis, legs, ankles and feet.

came anxious about their whereabouts.

Eugene Lindsey had hunted the area before and because of his experience as a guide, a party decided a guide would not be necessary. The area is about 450 miles east of Montreal.

The bodies were found by hunters in a boat hundred from an old logging camp. They were about 12 miles from the party's supply-laden truck. The truck was found a week ago 65 miles from their destination.

Mr. Rivard said there are "strange elements" in the deaths of the hunters and he "warrant a full-scale investigation."

He added:

"Evidently, before we are able to draw any conclusions we must await the report of the autopsy and the report on another matter which we are investigating but cannot divulge at this time.

"I can only repeat to the statement, Mr. Rivard said the police were investigating the possibility

Princess Margaret Comes Home To a Britain Buzzing With Rumors

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP) — Smiling and seemingly carefree, Princess Margaret arrived home today to a Britain buzzing about her latest romance and lacking the presence of her reported boy friend.

The man in the story, divorced RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend, went to Brussels two days ago as the Queen's attache at the British embassy there. Many Britons believe he was exiled from his post as a result of his romance with the princess is reported to want to marry him.

But if his absence or the talk about them bothered the Princess, there was no outward sign of it as she and the Queen Mother arrived at London Airport by Comet jet-airliner after a 16-day tour of Rhodesia.

During their stay there for the 100th anniversary of Cecil Rhodes' birth, the press and public controlled over Margaret's reported affection for a divorced 36-year-old hurst into full flower at home and the glamorous princess.

Margaret quickly set at rest any apprehensions her people may have, embarrassed by the stories being told about her. She faced the 2,000 newsmen and photographers who jammed the airport like a veteran.

Dressed in pink, she stood under a silver wing of the sleek airliner and waved gaily at the crowds.

The Queen, in a light green frock and white shoes and gloves, was at the airport to greet her younger sister and her mother. With the Duke of Edinburgh, she entered the plane for five minutes of private greetings.

DOES NOT PAY TO IGNORE SUMMONS

Apparently it doesn't pay to ignore a police summons after you decide to pay no attention to a breach of the city by-laws.

A woman who ignored both was fined the conventional one dollar and costs assessed $6.50 costs in absentia and in default of payment she will serve five days in jail, said Magistrate T. Y. Wills today.

DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE BRINGS SEVEN-DAY TERM

Howard M. Van Tassell of Rego Park, New York State, was sentenced to seven days in the county jail to date from July 11 after pleading guilty to a charge of drunken driving in magistrate's court today.

The charge arose when the car driven by Van Tassell crashed into the overhead bridge of the C.N.R., on Front Street. The bridge was not damaged, it was stated, but considerable damage was done to the car.

Van Tassell had his car impounded for the regulation three months.

Man Critically Injured in Crash Near Marysville

An overturned automobile, a critically injured man groaning in nearby weeds, stirred the attention of a passing motorist on Highway No. 2, two miles east of Marysville shortly after six o'clock this morning.

Later the man yet unidentified but believed a member of the armed forces was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital, where, it is stated, he was found suffering with a fractured leg and severe head and facial injuries.

Cyril Wilcox, 221 Rathnally Avenue, London, Ont., was driving towards Belleville when he saw the car, a 1949 English Morris type, turned turtle in the ditch. He pulled up and heard groans coming from the weedy ditch. He found the injured man partly out of the car and covered him with a blanket. Wilcox hailed the next passing motorist and asked him to notify police and an ambulance.

According to investigating police, the Morris car had left the highway and travelled considerable distance in the ditch before turning over.

Ontario Provincial Constable W. Seary is in charge of the investigation.

Tilbury West Woman Killed in Car Crash

LEAMINGTON (CP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Adeline Joyce, 63, of Concession 12, Tilbury West, was killed Thursday night and her husband, Thomas, was critically injured in a smashup at the Essex town line at the Graham sideroad.

Joyce was taken to Leamington Memorial hospital.

The wrecked car was discovered by Clifford Rice, of Woodslee.

Police believed that the car had shot through a dead end road warning and plunged into a deep ditch.

Diesels Square Frankford Series

CNR downed the Frankford crew at Frankford last night by a score of 5-3. City-District Softball League game quarter final by a score of 5-3.

Al Adams won his own game when he came up with a bone run with one man on base, the score being knotted at six all.

TwoNewMembers Of Police Force Are Sworn In

Two new members of the Belleville Police Department were officially sworn in this morning by Magistrate T. Y. Wills following the regular Friday session of magistrate's court.

They are Police Constable Ronald Lee and Don DeMille. The two officers fill the vacancies created by the resignation of former constables Jim MacDonald and Charles Lockwood.

Constable Lee comes from London, where he was a member of the Metropolitan Police Force for five years. He also had almost two years service with the Hampshire Constabulary. He saw war service in Italy and Palestine with the East Surrey Regiment.

Constable DeMille is a native of Sidney township and prior to joining the force was associated with the Corbeil Rock Company for the past seven years. Both officers are married and have two children.

Their period of service started from Tuesday, July 14.

STUDIES SYNTHETICS

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Effect of synthetics on the wool industry will be studied in the United States by O. Falkiner, president of the New South Wales Sheepbreeders' Association. Mr. Falkiner said he is convinced the big synthetics manufacturers hope to displace wool.

Lyndhurst Lake Scene of Camp For Choristers

A new venture in the world of church music in the Diocese of Ontario this year was a Choristers' Camp. The diocese have, during the past few years, established a fine camping ground, known as Camp Hyanlo, on the shores of Lyndhurst Lake, the scene of the various church organizations, and this year, for the first time, the choir boys made good use of the camp between the 8th and 14th July. The camp was under the general management of a committee, of which the Rev. Canon J. B. Gunne was chairman, with Archdeacon R. R. Dixon as general manager. The Choristers' Camp was organized and directed by George Mayhew, organist of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, who was assisted by John Wilberg, organist of Christ Church, Bellerville, and William Barnes, organist of St. James' Church, Gananoque. The camp chaplains were Canon Creggan and the Rev. S. E. Jones, Kemptville. Choristers attending the camp came from Kingston, Belleville, Brockville, Kemptville, Napanee, Picton and Prescott.

Religious and musical instruction were the principal features of the week, but outdoor activities were not neglected. Each day began with a celebration of Holy Communion, attended by all campers. Choral instruction and choral matins followed, and each week-day there was choral evensong. On Friday and Saturday the camp was honored by a visit from the Bishop of Ontario, the Rt. Rev. Kenneth Evans, M.A., PH.D., D.C.L., D.D. and the Dean of Ontario, the Very Rev. Gerald Hamilton, D.D., who attended evensong on Friday. His Lordship spent Friday night at the camp, taking part in all activities, and celebrating at the choral celebration of Holy Communion on Saturday morning. On Sunday the boys sang evensong at the regular Sunday evening service, and the camp concluded on Tuesday with another choral celebration of Holy Communion. By the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lyndhurst, the Rev. R. Booth, all the services and rehearsals were held in the Parish Church adjoining the camp.

The purpose of the instruction was to give the boys a better understanding of the church services and music, and, at the end of the course, a most interesting service was held with Mr. Mayhew giving a summary of the work done, and with the choristers answering questions put by the boys. They sang studied liturgies, chanted Merbecke's Communion Service and anthems by Bach, Handel, Mendelssohn and S. S. Wesley, and the pointing for the Psalms and Canticles was taken from the Parish Psalter. It is the desire of those responsible for this Camp that it will in time become an annual event, and that it may be extended and improved in the light of the experience gained this year.

No account of the venture would be complete without reference to the Camp Mother, Miss Florence Fitzgerald, whose ministrations and advice contributed in no small way to the smooth and successful working of the camp.

Masonic Members Highly Honored In Elections

Masonic members, who have been prominent in this city and district for many years, were signally honored in the elections at the Grand Lodge meeting, held in Toronto on Thursday.

Rt. Rev. W. L. Wright, Bishop of Algoma, was elected Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge in a position that will eventually lead to the highest office in the gift of the members — that of Grand Master. Mr. Wright is well known in this district as he served as rector of the Tweed parish a number of years ago.

Rev. Lloyd B. Neal, former pastor at Holloway Street United Church in this city, was elected Grand Chaplain. He is well and favorably known in this district where he is leaving has paid periodic visits to this city to renew old acquaintances. He has recently secured his Doctor of Divinity degree.

The election of Ray Gunsolus to the office of Grand Senior Warden was a distinct honor in Masonry in Prince Edward district. It has been a great many years since this office was held in this city, the last incumbent being Rt. Wor. Bro. W. O. Adams, who incidentally belonged to the same lodge as Mr. Gunsolus. It was said in a previous report that the election would carry Mr. Gunsolus to the Grand Master's chair, but this does not necessarily follow in Grand Lodge procedure. It is understood that Mr. Gunsolus defeated three other candidates for this important post.

Also appointed to Grand Lodge office by the Grand Master was Wor. Bro. L. Frank Walker, a well known Belleville Mason, as Grand Steward. This appointment will be well received by Masons in Prince Edward district as Mr. Walker has rendered outstanding services to Masonry in this part of the Grand jurisdiction.

Obituary

MRS. GRACE HAMMECKER (Lyons Falls, N.Y.)

Word has been received in the city of the death on Wednesday in Lyons Falls, N.Y., of Mrs. Grace Hammecker, former resident of this city.

She was born here 47 years ago being the daughter of the late Arthur Rev. and Mrs. James Jackson, and after her marriage to Horton M. Hammecker in 1931 she resided in New York City and in 1941 went with her husband to reside in Turin, N.Y., where he operated the Turin drug store for some years. In 1939 Mr. Hammecker purchased a drug store in Lyons Falls, N.Y., and since that time has continuously resided there.

Before her marriage Mrs. Hammecker was child's librarian in the city and was active in the work of the City Children. While a resident in Turin she organized a Girl Scout troop. Mrs. Hammecker took an active interest in civic affairs and was president of the Turin Civic Club. She loved to entertain and Elizabeth Strong Memorial Library at Turin and fraternally was a member of Derby Chapter, No. 290, O.E.S., of Turin.

While in Lyons Falls she was a member of the Presbyterian Church, was the organizer of the Lyons Falls Women's Club and served as its first president. She was also active on committee work in the Northern Federation of Women's Clubs and served as treasurer in 1946-1947.

Surviving are her husband, two sons, Gerald Horton Hammecker, of Lyons Falls; a sister, Mrs. Norbert Barrett, of Turin, N.Y.; a brother, Earl Jackson, of Belleville, and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be held from Forest Presbyterian Church, Lyons Falls, on Saturday afternoon with Rev. John Hatt officiating and burial will be in Turin cemetery.

MRS. ALICE LOUISE WADDELL

After an illness of some duration, Mrs. Alice Louise Waddell, 68 Goldfinch Street, in this city died at her home last Thursday evening.

She was born in Simcoe, 32 years ago, being the daughter of Mrs. Jessie Durward and the late Walter Bennett Durward and had resided in this city for the past six months. She previously resided in Ottawa.

She was a member of the Christian Science Church and is survived by her husband, James Alexander (Max) Waddell, her mother, and one brother, Robert Durward of Saint John, New Brunswick.

A Second World War, Mrs. Waddell served overseas as a Captain in the CWAC.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

SWORDFISH NEXT

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Cape Breton fishermen, the lobster season over, are adding "pujists" (for sighting and harpooning) to their boats in preparation for the swordfish voyage. The big fish, whose numbers have declined for several seasons, appear late in July.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Receipts of cattle were heavier at the Ontario stockyards this week and prices gained from 50 cents to $1. Steers were a strong $1 higher while light steers and heifers were fully $1 higher in spots.

Fed yearlings, cows and bulls advanced 50 cents, but cows lost their gain at the close, ending up at a complete standstill. Holdovers at the week's close were 400 cattle.

The cattle run totalled 8,197 head, added to 150 carried over from last week. Choice weighty steers were $30-31; medium to good weighty $28-29; choice light steers $29-21; medium to good $18-19; common downward to $16; good heifers $19-20.50; one load $20-22; common to medium $14-18.

Good cows sold at $14.50-15 in the early art of the week with light heifer cows up to $18, but bids were $1.50 lower on Tuesday with no action at all on Wednesday. Good butcher bulls brought up to $14 while heavy fat bulls $12-13; common downward to $10 chiefly feeding yearlings $21-22; medium to good $18-20. Stocker trade was slow at $15-18 for good to choice while a few at $19.50.

Calves totalled 1,640 head. Good to choice veal calves gained $1 to $2 to sell at $21-23. A few topped $24 with common to medium weights and bulk of sale at $15-20; grassers brought $10-12.

The hog run was 2,532 with prices unsettled Monday and Tuesday morning, but steadied at 50 cents higher for $33.50 on grade A. Dressed weights were steady.

Sheep and lambs totalled 947 head. Lambs sold steady at $25 for good ewes and wethers with bucks $29; good light sheep $9-11; common to medium $4-7.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and the finer print prices were unchanged here today.

Sales were very firm at the egg market 1 o'clock. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large 70; A medium 68; A small 51-52; grade B 47-48; grade C 42. Wholesale to retail: A large 75; A medium 72; A small 56-57; grade B 53-53; grade C 47.

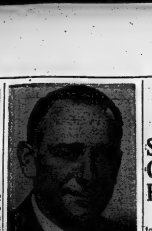
Butter solids: first grade tenderable 58; non-tenderable 56½-56¾; second grade 55½; western 58; cheese 28½.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices mixed narrowly in dull forenoon stock market trading today.

Uraninm eased pennies in nearly all issues traded with leaders such as Sudbury Contact, Brunston and Rix weaker. Gunnar was the exception as it added 3 cents.

In industrial issues, banks and manufacturing companies showed modest advances.



Action in the golds group was concentrated in juniors as shares of strike-bound companies added to their losses of recent sessions. Hollinger showed a small gain in seniors.

Base metals drew little interest outside of the lower-priced group where East Sullivan and Chromium firmed and Britland and Dominion Asbestos eased in mixed dealings.

Trading quickened in western oils as selected stocks like Pacific Petroleum and New Superior advanced against a downward movement led by Home Oil, Peruvian and Central-Leduc.

Senator Praises Committee For Fine Celebration

TRENTON (Special — Senator William A. Fraser praised the Trenton Centennial Committee last night for a good job well done, while Reg. Terrill, representative of the Trades and Labor Council and Centennial chairman of decorations, presented S. O. Graham, chairman of Trenton Memorial Hospital a cheque for $500, a part of the profits derived from the eight-day celebration. Chairman of the Centennial committee, O. G. "Buster" Alyea, promised the hospital chairman another cheque as soon as the books were finally straightened out, intimating that it could be for a similar amount. Mr. Graham thanked the committee on behalf of the Hospital Board.

The Senator said he was working with a group, and mentioned ex-Mayor Ken Couch as one of the members in connection with a better place to live in for the children of tomorrow. He hinted about a meeting he has today with a large English industrial group interested in locating a factory in Trenton.

The Senator, displaying rare form, condemned labour influences harming local progress. He said the local press would not publish the things he considered were of great interest to the community. He pointed out that a $550,000 filtration plant was being developed below No. 1 dam and that after 15 years the town will own the system because long hours of negotiation had paid dividends. The Senator referred to Chairman Alyea as a great guy, a true friend and a public spirited citizen second to none in Trenton.

Mayor R. E. Whitley at the committee's wind-up dinner expressed his gratitude to the chairman and committee members. "I'm so happy about the Centennial I don't know what to say. On the whole I think it was the most successful thing Trenton ever attempted," the mayor commented.

Chairman Alyea suggested that the members of the committee continue to work to make Trenton a bigger and better place. In announcing that a substantial financial success he told "there was nobody great, nobody small, but everybody was good." Mr. Alyea proposed the toast to the Queen.

There were three lucky draws for prizes left over from donations received from business and industrial people. The winners were Mrs. A. Coulter, F. J. Aiken and O. W. Larry.

Some 85 people attended the banquet, including the council.

Disregards Own Safety to Rescue Drowning Man

TRENTON (Special) — Floyd Ellis, 25, a Trenton man with his leg in a plaster cast, disregarding his own safety dove into the blackened waters of the Trent River late last night to save LAC Barney Bouchard from drowning.

Bouchard with two friends, taking relief from the hot night, was swimming near the highway swing bridge when he got into difficulty. His rescuers, fishing from a boat with four friends nearby, heard a man shouting "I can't get there" and went to the rescue. Using a spotlight they spotted Bouchard three feet under the surface slowly sinking toward the bottom. Ellis, recovering from a recent leg fracture, was first in the water, followed by Teddy Martin, 14; Geo. Sweazey, 23, and Jerry Ellis, 20, while Harry Ellis steered the boat and directed the light.

The unconscious swimmer was brought to the dock where he was temporarily revived by an inhalator and artificial respiration. Later he lapsed into a coma and is still unconscious, fighting for his life in the hospital at the Trenton Air Station.

The rescuer as a result of his plunge into the water had to return to hospital today for a new cast.

Canadian Pensioner's Body Found at Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Police today found the body of Robert Warren Norman, 58, First World War Canadian Army pensioner, washed ashore south of Paphos, most westerly port on this island. He had been missing since July 3.

Norman, who came to Cyprus about a year ago, returned from a tour of East Africa six weeks before he disappeared.

Although a Canadian, he is reported to have signed his hotel register as coming from Fahan, Ireland.

Given 10 Days, Pays Restitution On L.C.A. Charge

Allan Moase, R.R. Belleville was sentenced to ten days in the county jail in magistrate's court today after pleading guilty to a charge of drunken driving.

Moase entered his plea last Tuesday and Magistrate T. Y. Wills remanded the case until today in order to investigate the amount of the damages. The accused's car veered off the road at the corner of West Moira and Yeomans Streets on July 11th, incurring damage to trees, hydro poles and a car owned by Earl Kitchen, 170 Yeomans Street.

The court was told today that full restitution to the amount of $250 would be paid by Moase to Kitchen for damage to his car and expenses involved in the rental of another.

Damages to property owned by the Hydro and Belleville Telephone Commission were assessed at $34.73 and $50 respectively. Arrangements for payment agreeable to the hydro and telephone company had been made, it was stated.

Magistrate Wills said the accused "had appeared anxious to show good faith in making his arrangements for restitution" before assessing the sentence. It will date from July 11th.

Mission Accomplished, Robertson Returns Home

PHRASES FROM THE PAST

Some of the words coming out of Egypt, these days, sound strange to our ears.

"We are keen to see blood," declares Major Salah Salem, Egypt's minister of national guidance, whatever type of a portfolio that may be.

And the newspaper "Al Da Awa" says the British should be prepared to see their soldiers flogged and hanged from trees."

This is rabble-rousing, naked and unashamed.

We are not accustomed to that kind of talk today. In the mid-twentieth century the assassin speaks quietly as he stabs. Even Hitler, though he could equal the Egyptians in his talk of blood and beatings, painted a picture of a master Race defending itself from spiteful attacks.

But there was a day, not so many years ago, when words of talk would have seemed normal and natural from the mouths of the statesmen of the most civilized countries. There was a day when it was understood that soldiers thirsted for the blood of their enemies and when to flog or hang these foes was the desire of many.

The world has come a long way in its attitude towards war and bloodletting. But we must sometimes prone to forget that all countries have not travelled the same road at the same pace. In some of the more backward lands, alas, it appears that men still dream of the glory of war. Such men are dangerous—much more dangerous today than in those years when they led out their little armies to seek that elusive glory with broad-sword or long-bow and scimitar and lance.

KENYA'S MAGNIFICENT EXAMPLE

All those people who believe in rule by law, whatever their race or nationality, must have been cheered by the action of the Kenya Supreme Court in ordering a new trial for Jomo Kenyatta and five other alleged leaders of the Mau Mau. But people of the Commonwealth had reason for special pride. It is doubtful if there has ever been a more magnificent example of the tradition of British justice—or a time in history at which such an example was more badly needed by the world.

To be cheered, to feel pride, it is not necessary to have been convinced that Kenyatta was falsely accused. Indeed, the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused is immaterial.

In Kenya we see a little group of white men facing a rising tide of resentment and unrest amongst the overwhelmingly more numerous natives. We see a terroristic cult perpetrating abominable outrages. We see the alleged leaders of this cult arrested, tried and convicted. And then, while terror stalks the land, a court calmly considers the case and decides that the sentences imposed on the accused men must be quashed because the court which sentenced them had no jurisdiction in the case.

This is the law. It may be those who will insist that it is majestic nonsense, that at such a period of crisis there is no time for quibbling about technicalities for men on the bench to place stumbling blocks in the path of those entrusted with the difficult and hazardous task of restoring peace and order. But they who protest in this manner miss the entire point. It is the very fact that this devotion to the principles of British justice can be maintained in the face of such an emergency that gives these principles value — and the world hope for their eventual triumph and universal recognition.

ROYAL ROMANCE RUMORS

Emrys Hughes, Labor member of the British House of Commons, wants to start a debate in the House on the rumored romance between Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend, 38-year-old divorced air hero.

We do not know, of course, what purpose prompts this activity on the part of Mr. Hughes. But we are not at all sure that an open debate is not now highly desirable. Even those who feel that discussion of the reported romance has been in poor taste or an unwarranted infringement on the privacy of the Princess may share this view. For the truth is that her privacy has been invaded in the most distasteful manner, by articles in newspapers of large circulation. The only possible excuse is the contention that this was done in an effort to win her the right to wed whoever she chooses. The newspapers cannot confer that right — but Parliament can; and nothing that could be said in the House of Commons could infringe further on the privacy of the Princess than the newspapers have already done.

LOOKING BACKWARDS
GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE DAYS

20 YEARS AGO
July 17, 1933.

The first street cars in Belleville were horse drawn and the system was managed by Mr. Jason S. Tice, father of Mr. Geo. O. Tice of this city. In this connection it is interesting to note an item from our file copy of July 17th, 1883—which reads: "The street railway did a rushing business on circus day. Five cars and two buses were used and 3,500 people were carried without an accident of any kind. This fact is highly creditable to the management of Mr. Jason Tice."

Another is another interesting item from our file copy of July 11th, 1883: "A petition asking for the discontinuance of Sunday trains is being signed by the congregation of the Bridge Street methodist Church."

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coon and family spent Sunday at Consecon with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Coon, George Street.

Miss Joan Buckingham of Toronto, is the guest of Miss Violet Lewis, Dundas Street east.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pearsall and Mrs. J. H. Clare of this city were guests at a wedding in Toronto on Saturday last.

Mrs. Arthur Booth and daughter, Miss Janet returned home after spending a month's vacation in Western Canada.

30 YEARS AGO
July 17., 1923.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Harrison and family of Cranbrook, B.C., are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. W. H. Reed and daughter Nora, of Edmonton, Alberta, and Mrs. Jon F. Spider and daughter, Patricia, of Rochester, N.Y., are spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Clarke, Grier Street.

Mrs. A. J. Stewart and son Arthur have returned home after visiting friends in Mountain Grove.

Mrs. William Fox and Son Earl of Prince Edward Island, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, Turnbull Street.

Mr. Allan Turner is now residing in Hamilton.

Roy Arnold is spending some holidays with Jack Marsh at Meilenhiton Lake.

Miss Lily Baldree has returned home after visiting friends in Toronto.

40 YEARS AGO
July 11., 1913.

Mrs. A. H. Cameron of Detroit, Mich., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Spence Clarke, Church Street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Crozier, Alexander Street, are spending a month at Thousand Islands.

Members of the Belleville Rifle Club competed at the rifle butts yesterday afternoon. The following scores were as follows: J. Douch 91; H. Holton 87; J. W. Davison 82; A. J. Stewart 81; H. Dily 75; E. Vanner 74; H. N. Pearsall 73; A. Harman 68; A. Bell 67; Sergt. J. F. Cretney 60; J. Collins 57; W. J. Andrews 55; H. Parks 52; W. Ridley 48; R. H. Day 45; J. J. Shea 37; J. Woodley 36.

Mr. Frank Smith left today for Nominee, Mich.

50 YEARS AGO
July 17., 1903.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, of this city, has been appointed a member of the Board of General Purposes of the Toronto Grand Lodge.

Mr. Donald Paterson, one of the defeated candidates at the last municipal election, has been appointed to fill the vacancy in the city council caused by the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Chisholm, who is leaving the city.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gibson, Cedar Street, celebrated the 30th anniversary of their wedding yesterday and many friends called to extend congratulations and to express good wishes.

Police Magistrate J. J. B. Flint went to Tweed today on legal business.

Chief of Police John Newton and Mrs. Newton will leave shortly for a month's vacation in the Old Country.

Sheriff George Hope is spending a vacation at the Sand Banks.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

Three or four years ago, a big business executive decided to take the lost-passengers being a group of seven of the top executives of one of America's biggest corporations. From that day, most big transcontinental trains carried that top ranking executives should no longer travel in groups, whether by plane, train, ship or even motor car. Some of our Canadian corporations are very strict in that matter, and two senior men are not permitted to travel together. It makes sense. For even in these socialistic days, it has to be admitted that top men in industry do not reach the top unless they are considerably more valuable to the industry that average men.

This brings up the question of holiday traffic. Why should senior executives of business have to be back in their offices first thing Monday morning? Isn't it a risk to business to allow key men to travel in the wild stampede of Sunday holiday traffic? Far more people are being killed every Sunday in motoraccidents than in air, railroad and ship traffic. As pointed out in the Packsack a few days ago, the out-go of weekend traffic is spread over Thursday night to Saturday night. But the intake of weekend traffic is all jammed into Sunday afternoon and night.

But hanging over from the old pre-motor age is the tradition of Monday as a day for "getting down to brass tacks and ginger. Presidents and general managers call staff meetings of their chief executives for first thing Monday morning, just as they did in the days when nobody went anywhere on Sunday except to church. By parties late in this outmoded Monday, the president, general manager and all the top executives have to get into top form.

What's suggested to the biggest executive I know that a directive as strict as that ordering him to train or ship travel be applied to executives traveling to their offices Sunday crush, and that no senior executive be allowed to report at the office until Monday noon at the earliest, he replied gravely:

"We have to set an example to the rest of the staff."

Do big executives realize how little their comings and goings are observed by the staff? It is the minor executives we little men have to keep our eyes on, all the time.

Few Rich to Rob
(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

The great oaks and elms of Robin Hood's Sherwood Forest, which have long been legendary, are now being replaced. But at a current scarcity of income taxes in Britain, a modern Robin Hood might have trouble finding the rich to rob—or the very poor to reward.

The Right Way to Weed

(New York Times)

There are a number of ways to extract weeds from lawn and garden; the best way is to have the extraction done by somebody else. Getting somebody else to do the weeding may take a little longer, but it is effort well repaid. Any gardener who has ever had to get set his mind to it, pull two or three bagfuls of weeds in an evening, but it is so much better to see somebody else busily weeding even if somebody says he'll get up to that pleasant sight, are consumed in maneuvers of one sort or another, a few days' growth will make the weeds easier to see and to grasp.

The lady of the house will say on a Monday, for example, that the weeds in the garden seem to be growing more vicorously and successfully than the flowers, and that something ought to be done about it right away. With this one will agree completely, helpfully putting aside at the same time that several bushels of dandelions, roots and all, should be pulled out on the lawn and these, too, should be dealt with at once. Of course one says, there are other matters happen to be of greater urgency, like the cocktail party on Friday, or perhaps a day. If the gardener then grasps a cultivator and hoeing briskly and resolutely off perhaps no questions will be asked, but it is the rare gardener who does not event someone inquires as to just what is, after all, more urgent than weeding.

The roses, one can say, if that question is put. The roses have to be fed, watered and mulched. Since roses are the pride of the lady of the house, who has her eye on a first prize at the ribbon, the lady will not put the business of weeding aboard of roses. There is no matter how urgent the former. With care, the rose project can be put off for a whole evening, which will bring the gardener safely to Tuesday.

On Tuesday the lady of the house will say, "About those weeds" and one says yes. Indeed, that will be attended to shortly, but right now the hedge must be clipped because the neighbor have trimmed about half of the hedge and obviously are waiting to see if the other half will be done as well. So if one does not work too fast Tuesday will be spent in care of the weeds will grow for another day.

If fortune smiles upon the gardener on Wednesday the barometer will be falling and come weeding time in the evening it will be raining. If not, he will have to prepare another delaying action, either inventing some new gardening chore unrelated to weeding or inviting some friends to drop in after supper. One does not invite friends to join in weeding the garden, and it is not polite to ask them to watch one weed. Thursday is arrived at with the weeds growing better than ever.

"The weeds" the lady of the house will say now, very firmly, and at that the gardener may have to put it upon his honor and word. When the lady of the house, weed hoe in hand, goes about her assignments in hand comes looking for him, the gardener will be found on his knees, head bowed in apparently blood-lawnmower. A disassembled lawnmower surrounded by wrenches, odd nuts and bolts, oil cans and greasy rags is an impressive sight. It generally succeeded over, with hammering and frequent trips to the garage. Failing that, a wet water, the disassembled lawnmower can be made to last for a couple of years.

If the gardener has done his work well he will have reached Saturday with the weeds under control, which will be flourishing and indeed, awesome. If he is wise he will put in the day not by the garden, on hands and knees, the figure of the lady of the house, gloved, perspiring and putting weeds into a basket—a beautiful sight.

Shakespeare Was Not "Nice"

(Hamilton Spectator)

The Shakespearean Festival at Stratford, Ontario, opened with a performance of King Richard's Ass's Well That Ends Well.

It is surprising that Stratford's own newspaper, the Beacon-Herald, should be so ill-informed as to call the choice of Richard III as the chief attraction at the festival. It is not the part of a hero actor of Richard that is offensive. The monstrous, blood-besmeared murderer created by Shakespeare is the sum total, in human form, of all that is loathsome, cruel, vile, unrelieved by any virtue. Now it is a well-known fact that the unpleasantness of the character may deter people from patronizing the festival.

Shakespeare's genius was universal, he endowed his characters with qualities which, while they did not detract from them, made them human beings and made them symbolic figures in all countries and all ages. That is part of the magnificence of Shakespeare's genius.

The Beacon-Herald thinks that Richard III is an "unwholesome" play and that Shakespeare's impulsive hypocrite, liar and murderer" could not "compare with a blood - letting." Unfortunately, Shakespeare did not write tame "wholesome" plays. He left us "unwholesome" features—Othello, jealousy and deceit; Macbeth, of vaunting ambition, and Hamlet, indecision; Lear, of the Oedipus Complex. Shakespeare was not afraid of his characters to reject or characterize. It is that, perhaps, which makes his tragedies great.

Unfading is the picture of Lady Macbeth goading her timid husband to murder when she tells him that if she were feeding her baby:

"I would while it was smiling in my face,
Have plucked my nipple from his boneless gums,
And dashed the brains out, had I sworn as you
When you have marked."

Fair Rosalind, pathetic Ophelia, Desdemona, will not become hazy in our memory, but the terrible will be more terrible.

So it is with the malevolent Richard. When he limps down the contorted stage at the play's opening, an evil and sinister figure, he is unmistakable.

"Now is the winter of our discontent Made glorious summer by this sun of York. . . ."

this grotesque is most masterly in all drama, remains in our memory, unforgettable, unsurpassed.

If the suggestion is that another of Shakespeare's plays should have been chosen because it would be "nicer" we think it quite invalid. And in saying suggestive of the "nice" Shakespeare's stage shows with sugary sentimentality.

Doing Much About Weather

(Montreal Star)

The weather, Mark Twain once said, is something that every one talks about but no one does anything about. He was wrong. Inadvertently, we are doing quite a bit about it. Whether we know, is changing. A slow rise in temperatures is in progress. Sometimes the rather woolly-minded theory is offered that we are affecting the weather by filling the air with radio and bomb blasts. He is affecting the weather, but not by these pursuits, but by all his fuel-using activities.

According to a paper by Dr. G. N. Plass of Johns Hopkins University, published in the proceedings of the American Geophysical Union and summarized in the New York Times, he is pouring carbon dioxide into the atmosphere in quantities which a couple of score of a century will raise average temperatures by a few degrees. This blanket of gas helps to prevent the escape of heat from the earth's surface, much as the glass of a greenhouse does. Natural variations in the amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere have been given as the explanation for the changing geological record, great reductions possibly occurring in periods of mountain building.

For the future, then, we may look forward to warmer periods than the present, with the sort of winter granddad used to tell about becoming more and more infrequent. Agriculture's frontiers will creep northward. The well known considerations being apropos just now, summers presumably will be longer and warmer.

So far, there is nothing in Dr. Plass' paper to encourage any forecast to be concerned. But there is his suggestion that the atmosphere engineer might make for scantier rainfall. We are not sure that it can be done, but we might be wise to think a little more about the huge range desirability of more extensive reforestation and afforestation against drought. We shall want ground cover of conserve that scantier rainfall, not to speak of the need for growing those longer and warmer summers.

so the public may never be under the illusion that it is not having "fun" or, worse, suspect that it is being "improved."

The aim of the festival, as we see it, is to give good theatre and to give it in such a way as to please audiences. The organizers have decided to treat Canadian audiences as mature, and we do not think it will be disappointed in their decision.

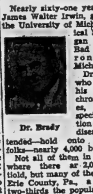
CALL AN AMBULANCE

Nearly sixty-one years ago Dr. Eric Walter Irwin, graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School, began practice in Bad Axe, Huron County, Michigan.

Dr. Irwin, who now limits his practice to obstetrics and gynecology, devoting special attention to blood diseases, has attended—hold onto your hats, folks—nearly 4,000 births.



Not all of them in Battle Axe, where there are 2,028 souls all told, but many of them in Corry, Erie County, Pa., a town with two-thirds the population of Canadaigua, and a few in Rapid Rapids, Michigan, with a population of 3,000.

The statistic which I hope will be of particular interest to the cautious young man who inquires what in the world a doctor could do if, attending childbirth in the home, he were confronted with the need for transfusion, operation with an obstetrical crisis (I forget now what other dire hazard the fearful young man conjured up.) And I hope it will interest a million other unreformed and therefore frightened prospective parents. It is this:

All of Dr. Irwin's obstetric cases were home deliveries—except six.

Home is the safest place to have a baby. As I have said many times and shall say many times more before I turn up my toes or flee to the hills.

Or the 4,000 cases it happens, I mention without prejudice, that to the hospital.

Dr. Brady

experimenting upon the making of different kinds of bricks and building others. Anything that engages one's interest is one of my fads, both educational and constructive. I once knew a noted cartoonist who went from the school where he won elements of old furniture and restoring it, to the making of a showpiece of beauty and ingenuity.

In my youth I was never so happy as when I could spend hours at a time with some carpenter or mason, watching and learning the things to do. Every tool had a fascination for me. To this day I have a fine kit of tools and am sure I have no objection. This is still a free country.

Perhaps I should must concede that I know something about hospitals—what I learned as a medical student, intern, staff "physician and, on two occasions, as a patient myself. Incidentally the hospital is the safest and the most economical place to have a major operation or pneumonia. As I have said many times and shall say many times more, a hospital beds are for the sick—and not for the (you'll forgive me) Fifty Hundred).

Uneducated people—people who have received little or no instruction in anatomy, physiology, hygiene, embryology, care of the baby, parenthood, nutrition, sanitation—seem to have a notion that in any circumstance one evades or shirks all cares or responsibilities by calling an ambulance and rushing the patient to the hospital.

POWER OF PRAYER

Have you ever considered what a useful person you might become if you constantly assumed the responsibility of praying for your friends (and even for your enemies), and for the success of great enterprises which may have a mighty effect upon the destiny of the human race?

Yes, your prayers, sincerely uttered, can probably do more for some friends or relative than any act you may do in their behalf. You may smile over the suggestion that you in your humble position in life can pray to Almighty God about great national or international problems and that your prayer will be influential in its solution. "The prayer of a righteous man availeth much"—how much we do not know. But we should err in underestimating rather than overestimating the potency of such prayer.

Sir Thomas Browne, the author of "Religio Medici," has this to say about prayers for others: "I cannot contemn, scorn or scarce pity a mighty effect upon the fortune of the human race?

TOOLS

It does not take a large number of tools to build things, be it a house or a boat. It's the materials that form the completed product or structure. I have thought about this many times when I've seen a start out in life. They may have a few tools that they may have inherited, but, if they are big in material, watch out! You will hear of them.

The size of the brain or the hands or the feet does not matter. People even with a disabled body have achieved wonders. It's the few tools of the mind that do the construction of life. The will, the imagination, the over-all vision, and the courage. These are tools without which little could be accomplished.

At my summer island retreat I converted an old ice house into a carpenter shop. I have collected a set of tools—not many, but essential ones. And what fun I have

RCAF Station Swimming Club Members Keeping Cool in Pool

RCAF Station Swimming Club members are keeping cool on Tuesday evenings at the Station outdoor swimming pool where residents from in and around Middleton Park have been meeting regularly to practise their swimming and diving.

P/O F. Walker has been putting local mermaids through their paces with instruction in ornamental swimming and diving. One hour of the club period which starts at 6.30 p.m. and closes at 9.30 p.m. is devoted to competitive swimming for male and female entrants. The evening's program closes with one hour of water games.

Membership in the club is open to all service personnel, their dependents and civilian employees for a small fee.

Rifle Club Competition

Three groups will compete for [major prizes] in the year's biggest rifle shoot when members of the RCAF Station Rifle Club meet on Sunday at 9 a.m. at the RCAF Station Rifle Range.

Each competitor will fire 20 shots into two five-bull targets in 20 minutes. Group A for shooters with recent averages of 97.5, Group B is open to those with averages of 92, and Group C is open to members with averages below 92.

Lakeshore Loop League

RCAF met RCAF last week when the "Jets" from the Station met the "Rockets" from the Repair Depot met in scheduled games in the Ladies' Lakeshore Loop league. The Station nine downed the Repair Depot ladies by scores of 5 to 3 and 6 to 5. The two wins gives the "Jets" command of top place in the league with a two game lead with Belleville, now, in second place.

Pitchers Coulson, King, Baker and Willman have helped bring their team into top spot. A total of 96 innings pitched, Coulson has won four and lost once to give her an average of 1000. In 43 innings, King is credited with four wins and a loss to give her an average of .800. Baker has a .500 average with one win and one loss in 13 innings of pitching. Willman's average of 1000 was gained in six innings of pitching in the last one win.

The team's batting average is .371 to give them 164 hits and 152 runs in twelve games. The 164 hits against the "Jets" resulted in 76 runs for their opponents. Individual batting averages are as follows:

Player	AB	H	Av.
Allen	3	3	.857
Coulson, ...	46	24	.541
Lehman, sa	34	18	.529
Lockwood, 2b	30	14	.466

Field Artillery Regt. Credited With Break-up

By BILL ROSS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—The 81st Field Artillery Regiment of the Royal Canadian Artillery is credited with breaking up a Chinese attack in battalion strength on the western sector of the Korean front Wednesday night.

The attack came on Outpost Betty held by the 1st Republic of Korea Division.

It was the third successive night that the gunners have frustrated Chinese attacks. Thursday's eighth Army communique said the artillery fire broke the attack.

Monday night the Chinese assaulted with two companies and accomplished a partial success. By 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, the gunners had poured 15 times their normal rate of fire on the position. The Chinese vacated it, leaving 42 dead and suffering many wounded.

That night the gunners were directed by Maj. Yvon Theriault of Quebec City.

The Chinese repeated the assault Tuesday night when the fire was directed by Lieut. Beverly McKinnon of Moncton, N.B., who thought he could not top that night's but also Wednesday night's attempts.

Thursday the 1st RoKs regained the hill they had tried — unsuccessfully — to capture from the Chinese. Sixty-two Chinese were killed.

"There's a forward RoK platoon," he said. "which was never driven off despite three desperate Chinese attacks. Now they've gone to ground and called artillery fire on top of the gunners."

So integrated is the co-operation that the Koreans had only to point out a target for the gunners to map to bring the regiment's entire fire on it.

U.S. Services Interested In De Havilland

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says in a newspaper story that the United States armed services are interested in the de Havilland Canada plant which produces jet transport aircraft.

The other is a large single-engine plane capable of carrying 14 persons. It costs about $75,000.

The paper says Russ Bannock, military sales manager for de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited, is in Washington for conferences.

The Globe says it has ordered 14 Otters for use in search and rescue operations and the Ontario department of lands and forests has ordered three.

The Globe and Mail reports that if negotiations are successful, the U.S. Air Force and Army will buy four each and determine the plane's suitability in various roles.

The 1-30 Beaver, another de Havilland product, is in mass production for the U.S. Army and Air Force.

Switch Strikes But 40 Workers Enter Broulan

TIMMINS (CP)—Forty hardrock workers, led by two company officials, drove cars through picket lines around the Kerr Addison Red Lake mines this morning to restart operations at Broulan after a six-day walkout over wages and hours.

The move came 15 hours after an injunction was served against the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) restricting its members from picketing the Broulan property.

The 40 miners were carried through the picket lines—set up by striking workers at the adjacent Hallnor gold mines Thursday night —in 10 cars. They were led by Broulan President B. W. Lang of Toronto and mine manager Walter F. Brown.

The workers, carrying placards declaring "No Strike at Broulan," passed through the lines without incident. There were about 275 striking workers at the gates.

The gates where pickets are set up lead to both the Hallnor and Broulan mines. Some 300 Hallnor miners went on strike Thursday night, starting the Broulan workers called a halt to their walkout, however. Broulan miners refused to cross the Hallnor picket lines.

Mr. Lang arrived here from Timmins Wednesday. He went over the railway station by two local detectives and was not seen for the rest of the day.

He and Mr. Brown appeared at the picket line at 8 a. m. Ontario provincial police were on the scene.

The union had no comment on the incident. Mr. Lang said only that he expected to have all Broulan mines back to work by tomorrow."

The strike switch Wednesday night was an obvious move to sidestep injunction-granted to the Broulan management. It restricted Broulan workers from picketing the Broulan gates. However, the move by Hallnor left the strike situation the same.

Broulan employees walked out last Saturday to enforce their wage and hour demands. Hallnor miners, who have to cross Broulan property to get to their shafts, refused to cross the picket lines. When the strike switch took place Broulan miners refused to cross the Hallnor lines.

Gain Two Days

The union move gives it at least two days to continue the picket lines. The Hallnor management, which said earlier that a walkout would be illegal, now must get an injunction restraining the workers from picketing.

Broulan Manager Walter F. Brown said he would "probably look things over before deciding the next course to move.

The union said it will continue picketing the Hallnor and Preston East Dome mines, hit by a strike Monday, on around-the-clock shifts. Hourly rates also will picket.

Fear Strike to Spread

It was feared the strike would spread to all 13 mining companies employing 5,200 men in this rich gold-producing area.

A conciliation board report on the Broulan dispute, made public Wednesday, recommended an across-the-board increase of seven cents an hour for all workers. Neither the company nor the union had indicated acceptance.

Basic rate at Broulan is $1.02 an hour for surface workers and $1.16 for those underground.

PICTON

Fishing in P.E. County Waters Much Improved

PICTON. — With fishing in Prince Edward County waters much improved, many activities are being made in the Chamber of Commerce Fishing Hall of Fame competition. In addition to the prizes for the largest muskinonge, small mouth bass, pickerel and pike caught during the season, there are monthly prizes for the largest fish of any species caught. The lady who catches the largest fish during the season will receive a rod and reel valued at $25. Another special is offered the tourist coming the longest distance, who registers a fish caught.

All winners have their names inscribed on a large plaque and they receive a replica of this Hall of Fame award.

The major prize, a Ronson lighter given by Nick Welsh, went to Norman Cottler, Buffalo, who landed a 9-pound, 4-ounce pike in West Lake. It was 34 1-2 inches in length.

June prize, a sports shirt given by Ted's Men's Wear, was won by Wesley VanCleaf, Wellington, who took a 11-pound, 13-ounce pike from Prinyer's Cove. It was 34 inches in length. Runner-up was a 10 lb., 3 ounce pike taken in the same lake by Roy Wannamaker of R. D. Consecon.

July catches reported include a 4 pound, 4 ounce small mouth bass taken in East Lake by Frank Polley, Jr., of Niagara Falls, N.Y. It was 20 1-2 inches long and girth of 13 1-2 inches. A live perch was the bait used.

Edward T. O'Brien, Fair View Park, Ohio, landed a 3 pound, 12 ounces small bass in Smith's Bay, using a chub live bait.

Mrs. Eddie McConnell, East Lake, landed a three pound small mouth bass in East Lake.

Joseph Marvai, Youngstown, Ohio, entered a 5 lb., 1 oz., pike taken in East Lake; Don Krock, Toronto, a 8 lb., 13 oz., pickerel from Baggot's Bay; Fred Greatrix a 7 lb., 4 oz., pickerel from Baggot's Bay.

300 Americans Dead, Missing In Korea Attack

By ROBERT GIBSON

EAST-CENTRAL FRONT, Korea (AP)—It was 2:05 a.m.

The night was black.

American gunners sweated in the rain as they flung shell after shell into the trenches of their 105-millimetre howitzers, and methodically fired and reloaded.

These men, a veteran artillery battalion, were firing support for the Seoul-Chorwon Capital Division south of Kumsong.

Then, between salvos, they heard an unexpected sound.

It was a quavering, off-key musical note up ahead. Then to the right; then left. It was Chinese bugles, whose call often means death in Korea.

There was a moment of silence, broken by an American officer's shout:

"Point blank fire at will! The Chinks are on us."

—It was all over.

At least 300 Americans were dead or missing. It was the worst such slaughter since mid-February, 1951, when an artillery battalion, two infantry battalion and other troops of the 38th Regiment, U.S. 2nd Infantry Division, were cut up near Hoengsong.

Weary survivors came out Tuesday and Wednesday with only five of their guns. Others straggled in singly or in pairs, and there was hope that some of the missing might make it later.

Thursday the survivors told their stories:

When the Chinese reached the guns, artillery men who could not move their pieces performed their last service for them. They threw magnesium grenades inside. And the guns, their firing locked back and tube together, making the guns useless to the enemy.

Then the living pulled up carbines, rifles and grenades and fought for their lives."

CLAIM GOALS REACHED

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government says it has fulfilled its production goals for the first half of 1953 "by 100 per cent" and claims gains over the previous year. An economic progress report—first one issued by Premier Georgi M. Malenkov's government—was broadcast over Moscow radio and got prominent play in the Soviet press.

REDS RELEASE 1,017

BERLIN (Reuters) — East Berlin's lord mayor, Friedrich Ebert, announced that Russia has released 1,017 persons serving terms for "economic crimes." Their cases were reviewed by Justice Authorities, he said in an interview published by the East German news agency ADN.

FRANKFORD

Youth Is Killed By Cement Mixer At Espanola

FRANKFORD—Gilbert Lohnes, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lohnes, formerly of Frankford, died in Espanola hospital on Saturday, following a tragic accident at his father's concrete plant there.

Wesley Lohnes had driven to Espanola from their home in Massey, some nine miles away, to spend the day working in Espanola. Wesley was working approximately 60 feet from his large cement mixer, when young Gilbert apparently started the electric motor on the mixer, Wesley rushed over, to find his son trapped under the large barrel of the mixer. How he became entangled in the machine, is not known, for there was a large protecting frame around it which would make it difficult for anyone to get too close to the barrel.

Wesley freed Gilbert, and rushed him by automobile to the hospital, arriving minutes later after the accident. At the hospital, it was found that his chest was crushed as well as one lung.

Mrs. Lohnes arrived at the hospital by taxi, and was able to talk to Gilbert, who never lost consciousness until just before he died. The attending physician stated that he was in a state of profound shock, and didn't seem in any pain. The fact that he conversed freely with his parents bears this out.

Funeral services were held in Massey on Monday afternoon, many of friends and relatives in this district goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Lohnes, and the next two years toward an Indian school building trust fund inaugurated here.

Chinese Drive Gained 7 Miles Say U.S. Leader

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of the U. S. 8th army, said today that the huge Chinese offensive this week drove a jutting line back a mile and a half to seven miles on the east central front.

Taylor identified the 9th U. S. and 2nd South Korean army corps as fighting on the Kumsong front.

He also identified the 9th RoK division, heroes of White Horse mountain last October, as hurling the Reds back in a major assault near Kumhwa Thursday night.

Taylor said the 20-month old Kumsong bulge in the line was broadened back approximately to its original base—a line extending roughly from a point slightly north east of Kumhwa due east to the Pukhan river.

19 Divisions Struck

Taylor said an estimated 19 enemy divisions struck the Kumsong front Wednesday.

"Commanders have regrouped their units and have pressed back to contact with the enemy in the first resumption of open warfare in nearly two years," he said.

The 10 divisions represent a buildup of about 90,000 and a "super strength" of about 100,000 men.

U. S. corps such as the 9th usually are made up of a mixture of U. S. and South Korean divisions. RoK corps are all Korean.

It was reported today that counter-attacking South Korean infantry men rolled back Chinese Red gains on both sides of the central front.

TEACHERS MAKE GIFT

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters) Almost 1,000 Indian school teachers in Natal-Province have agreed to contribute six per cent of their salaries over the next two years toward an Indian school building trust fund inaugurated here.

PRINCESS

Then all emerged and chatted in the lounge, sometimes with little groups of airport officials and members of the crew.

Though the vivacious Princess beamed and seemed to be thoroughly glad to be home, she coughed occasionally. Apparently she has not shaken off all the effects of the cold she developed in Africa.

After goodbyes to the crew and officials, the royal party drove off to Buckingham Palace and to Clarence House, where the Queen Mother and Margaret now reside.

The press turned over to the royal romance rumor continued unabated. The tabloid Daily Mirror reported 70,143 of its readers had replied to a poll asking whether the Princess should marry Townsend, and 96 per cent said yes.

Even though Townsend was the innocent party in the divorce case he won almost his wife on charges of adultery, the Church of England frowns on the remarriage of divorced persons. Britain's leading Catholic newspaper, The Catholic Herald, also is opposing the match and said this week that the Princess should surrender all royal "rank and status" if she marries Townsend.

Weddings

MOORE—CASEMENT

At 2:00 p.m., on Saturday, July 4, at the Free Methodist Church in Trenton, Rev. R. L. Casement assisted by Rev. P. L. Chase united in marriage Lillian Pauline Casement, daughter of Mr. Lew Casement and the late Mrs. Lew Casement, to Merle James Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore, of Springbrook.

Miss Carol Silas provided the wedding music while Miss Verna Mikel sang "O Perfect Love" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Lew Casement, the bride looked lovely in her gown of nylon net with Chantilly lace inserts, over satin. Her juliet cap held a floor-length veil of tulle illusion. She carried a cascade of red American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Grace Zufelt as matron of honor, wore mauve with white lace jacket and matching lace mitts and a headdress of mauve flowers. She carried a nosegay of carnations and baby 'mums.

Miss Betty Shipley, bridesmaid, wore a green bengaline floor-length gown with matching green lace mitts and headdress. She carried a nosegay of carnations and Sweet Williams.

Bonnie Zufelt, flower girl, wore a yellow nylon organza frock and carried a nosegay of red carnations and baby 'mums.

Mr. Basil Moore, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman and Mr. Ron Aldous and Mr. Bill Zufelt acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zufelt. The bride's father, Mr. Lew Casement and Mrs. John Casement, received the guests, assisted by Mrs. T. Moore who wore a blue nylon dress, with white accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Eastern Ontario and United States, the bride chose a mauve nylon dress with white accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Moore will make their home in Trenton.

Guests attended from Springbrook, Madoc, Peterborough, Toronto, Oshawa, Kingston and Frankford.

DALES—VAN DUSEN

Trinity United Church, Madoc, was the scene of a lovely summer wedding on Tuesday, July 14, at 2:00 p.m., when Verla Anne Van Dusen, of Madoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Dusen, became the bride of Merrill Johnson Dales, of Tweed, Ontario, son of Dr. and Mrs. Merrill Dales. The Reverend R. L. Sisco, B.A., D.D., of Warkworth, officiated before an effective background of blue delphiniums, white hydrangea and massed cedar.

Mr. Fred Forster, of Tweed, guest organist, rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Carl Armstrong, of Madoc.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her gown of white lace and mesh over white taffeta with traditional veil of tulle illusion. She carried a white Bible crested with orchids.

Mrs. Don Bowdish, of St. Louis, Mo., sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor, was attractively attired in green net over nylon in ballerina length, and Miss Dorothy Govier, of Madoc, as bridesmaid, wore mauve net over nylon in ballerina length. Both attendants carried bouquets of yellow Talisman roses.

Mr. Ted Sisco, of Warkworth, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Don Bowdish, of St. Louis, Mo.; and Mr. Alfred Van Dusen, of Oshawa, brother of the bride were ushers.

The reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, gowned in navy "blue crepe with matching accessories and corsage of red rosebuds, received the many guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, whose gown was of rose wool mesh with matching accessories and corsage of yellow rosebuds.

For the wedding trip, the bride travelled in a white linen suit with navy accessories. Upon their return, they will reside at 274 Victoria Avenue, Belleville.

Prince Edward-Belleville Club Enjoys Picnic to Wellington Park

Favored with bright sunny weather over 44 members of the Prince Edward and Belleville Club and guests recently enjoyed a picnic at Wellington Park.

Going by chartered bus by way of Carrying Place and Consecon on the scenic highway, they returned by Bloomfield, Cherry Valley to the Lake on the Mountain, Gilnora and Picton.

Friends are due Mrs. Yorke and Mrs. Blakely, of Wellington, for securing tables all together.

Mrs. Wannamaker, the president, welcomed all and was assisted by Mrs. W. Baird as chairlady for a short program.

An honored guest was the poetess, Mrs. Helen B. Anderson, who gave a brief talk on "Our Pride in Our Country and Our Canada", referring to love and respect for the new Queen Elizabeth II. She closed with her poem "Our Memories".

Mrs. G. H. French brought back schoolboys in her recitation "Somebody's Mother".

Mrs. Sharp put on a contest while Mrs. Gersline sent a good contest "Hidden Articles". Both gave lovely prizes.

Several joined in the swiftwalking race. All prizes were donated.

Before leaving the tables, Mrs. Farnsworth asked for a few minutes silence in memory of departed members.

Skater Now Baby-Sitter

Barbara Ann Scott arrived in London, Ont., to visit the president of the University of Western and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Hall, but stayed on as a baby-sitter when the Halls left for Europe. "Never has so much fun in my life," said the famous skater, shown with George Edward, 3½, and Elizabeth, 1½, the Halls' two youngest children. "I'm very domesticated, you know, and I've always had the babies fed, bathed and smart, too. By ten every morning I have the dishes done and the washing on the line." (CP Photo.)

Friends, Relatives Assemble to Honor Young Couple

A most delightful time was spent recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Moorman, Carmel, when a reception was held in honor of their son, Roscoe, and his wife, who were recently married at Angus, Ont.

There were between 50 and 60 guests of near relatives and friends, who gathered for this special occasion and who were graciously received by the bridegroom's mother. The many beautiful wedding gifts were admired by all.

During the evening an impromptu program was given in which a number of guests contributed vocal and musical numbers. Mr. Harry Moorman, of Belleville, rendered two fine vocal numbers; Miss Jean Love, cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Elaine West, sister of the bride, and Mrs. J. Glover, of Marmora, gave specially appropriate solos. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. Maybee, of Wellington.

The Rev. W. R. Merrick, of Belleville, was called upon for a few words in which he referred to his happy associations with the parents and grandparents of the bride and bridegroom and their fine contribution to the common good through the years, providing a worthy background and assurance that the happy couple will preserve the same ideals in their lives.

The Rev. J. Glover of Marmora, who officiated at the marriage ceremony followed with a brief and humorous address.

After this the bridegroom expressed on behalf of his bride and himself, their most sincere thanks for the wonderful evening given them, and he extended a cordial, invitation to all to visit them at their home.

Abundant and dainty refreshments were then served to the guests, bringing to a close a most delightful occasion in which the bride and bridegroom were made to realize that all were interested in their future success and happiness.

Lions Near Nairobi Lose Fear of Humans

Though Nairobi, capital of Kenya, is a modern city, lions still make their kill almost on the runway of its two airports. A pride of nine lions recently killed three wild beasts a few yards from the main hangars and BBC reporter Ian McDougall states that this was not the first time that lions had killed and dined on the airfield.

It will not be the last either, for the field adjoins the National Park which is only partially ringed round with fencing that cannot prevent a resolute animal from getting out if he wishes to do so. Because of this the population of the park is always changing as some animals move out to the hills and others move in to the plain. "Which is what the Park really is" said McDougall, "a vast rolling plain outside Nairobi, full of most, though not quite all, of the animals that are to be found in East Africa."

Human beings are allowed in the Park provided they stay in their cars and those who have been inside the Park and seen the lions are not surprised that a large number of them should settle down to a meal virtually under the wing of the planes and within a stone's throw of the flare path. Lions seem to be astonishingly uninterested in the achievements of mechanical science and sometimes do not even bother to look up when a car arrives within a few yards of them.

There are various theories as to the reason for this humiliating indifference: some people think that lions consider cars are just another kind of animal, one that cannot easily be digested when eaten, and looks through two great eyes like a rather timid vulture waiting to pick a carcass. Others say that lions are used to cars in the Park and now ignore them but once outside it lions that have not seen cars since, brood-sow at the scent of human beings inside the car so that they are safe within.

Few people try to challenge the strength of this by getting out of their cars but the more relevant presumably holds good when applied to the fumes of an aeroplane.

Fire Island Fashions

By TRACY ADRIAN

As delightfully fresh as a sea breeze wafting its way over the dunes is this separates costume designed for a mid-summer vacation. Created by Kenn Barr, who caters to chic New Yorkers, who long for comfy comfort after the hot city, this outfit reflects the carefree atmosphere of the famous little island that was its inspiration.

Tie-ups are the features of the big-scoop bra-slet blouse with the two-button closing and knotted sleeves and sash. The navy and white polka dot shorts have a buttoned pocket on each side and are worn with a matching jockey cap.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Nothing But Trouble Will Come Out Of This Mess

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am living with a man who has been married four times. I love him very much, and he loves me and is very good to me.

What I want to know is, will he have to get four different divorces before we can get married, or would he just have to get a divorce from his first wife? You see, he has never been divorced from any of his wives. — A.T.

Dear A.T.:

Do you really mean that this man actually married three women after leaving his first wife without getting a divorce from her? Or, is it possible that he simply lived with the last three women, as he is now living with you?

If he actually went through three marriage ceremonies while still legally married to a fourth woman, I can assure you he will be in for a very bad time if he ever attempts to try and untangle his extremely involved matrimonial knots.

The, only thing you can do is to have him go to a competent lawyer, and ask him to see what he can do toward unsnarling this nauseating mess. And if this man was so deceitful as to find three women into believing each of them was legally married to him, you should had better go with him to the lawyer, and find out just what goes on. That, I would think, would be the only way you could be sure you, too, would not get fooled by him.

If you had any common sense at all, however, you would get yourself out of the way and keep out, fast fast, for any relationship with such a creature as this will never bring you anything but trouble of the worst kind.

She's Right, He's Wrong, About Kissing

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 16, and the boy I have been going with for six months is 18. We like each other very much, and have had many good times and dates, but something happened on our last date that has worried me very much. Up until then, he had always treated me with the greatest respect, but when he brought me home the other night, he kissed me goodnight in a way that I didn't like. I told him I didn't like it, and he said everybody who wasn't a child kissed that way.

Was he right, or was I right? I like this boy a lot, but if that sort of kissing is wrong, as I feel it is, and if he can't kiss me the way I want to be kissed, then I'm afraid we'll have to break up, which would hurt me very much. Pat E.

Dear Pat:

You were the one in the right. You evidently have the intelligence and the maturity to distinguish between what is in good taste and what isn't, while your boy friend either doesn't have those qualities, or prefers to ignore them.

While it seems to me that far too much kissing of any kind goes on among young people today, I fully realize that a goodnight kiss at the end of an evening is taken for granted among boys and that, in most cases, it is a perfectly harmless expression of good comradeship At the same time, as you obviously realize yourself, many boys and girls carry this to extremes, so that much of it is not only in extremely bad taste but downright improper.

You did exactly the right thing in letting your boy friend know where you stand on such a subject, and I hope you will always put boys who try this type of thing in place immediately.

Question:

Will you please send me your recipe for Swedish Limpa Bread. Thank you.—Marion K.

Answer:

By your surname I assume you are Swedish. This Limpa recipe is authentic and I hope maintains your standards.

Swedish Limpa Bread (rye)

Note—Dough made of rye flour is sticky. Add just enough flour so that dough handles easily.

Measure 1-2 cup lukewarm water and sprinkle over it 2 packages granular yeast and 1-2 teaspoon sugar. Let stand 10 minutes then stir it. In a warm bowl mix together 1 cup lukewarm water, 1-4 cup molasses, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, and the finely grated kind of orange. Stir in the soaked and stirred granular yeast. Now add 3 tablespoons soft shortening. Sift rye flour and measure 3 1-2 cups. Sift all-purpose or bread flour and measure 2 3-4 cups. Stir in these two flours with a spoon at first, then mix with the hand. (If desired 1 cup of raisins may be added now.) Knead this dough on your board, which has been lightly sprinkled with rye flour. Knead the dough for 30 turns. Return dough to scraped-down bowl, brush the top with a little butter, cover and let rise to double its bulk. Knead again and let rise again. After second rising shape dough into 2 round or 2 elongated football shaped loaves. Place on opposite corners of lightly greased baking sheet. Let rise until doubled, covered. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 40 minutes.

Question:

I have lovely parsley in my wee garden and would like to know how to keep it green for use in winter, when I cut it. Should I wash and lightly dry with towel, then place in a plastic bag and keep in dry? I try to keep it from yellowing. . .don't overwork, and have a lovely summer with your loved ones.—Mary E. M.

Answer:

It was so nice to hear from you again and thank you for your kind thoughts. I have a tiny patch of parsley in the garden. When I pick a bunch I wash and lightly dry it and put it in a covered jar loosely and store it in the refrigerator. If it is used up within 3 or 4 days it does not go yellow. Plastic bag is just as good. In winter transplant to a pot and keep in sunny window. Much of its vitamin B and almost all of its minerals are retained if it is picked, thoroughly dried, crumbled and kept in covered jar for using dry in stuffing.

Question:

I have been reading your column for a couple of years with your other worthwhile followers. I am seeking aid. I have been appointed candy convener for a fall church bazaar. In past years we have had trouble pricing our candy. The way we handled it was that the Guild bought our materials and we gathered in groups of 5 or 6 to make the candy. (We had a whale of a time by the way.) Then we sold 3.1"x1" squares for 5c or 2 squares for 5c of double fudge. We sold all of it and could have sold twice as much, but our profit seemed smaller than it should have been. I noted at another church's bazaar their candy was in paper tumblers, sold for 35c. It was also nearly all on the tables when the bazaar was over.

Therefore we thought that with your experience in such matters you could help us in our pricing. We would also appreciate any recipes you could send along. Have you any quantity recipes for candy.

Peach time is in the future, but I have a lovely peach pie recipe I would like to share with you. This is a 1-crust pie and is wonderful alone or ringed with whipped cream.

Peach Pie

(Contributed by Mrs. V. N. S.)

One rich pie-crust —unbaked and quite thick. Take 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons butter and trumph this mixture. Add 2 well-beaten eggs and mix them with first mixture. Add pinch of salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Peel and halve 4 large peaches and put around the pastry-lined pan with 1 half peach in centre. Pour egg mixture over peaches and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, and at 325 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes.

Thanks for so much . . . it is wonderful to have you at our beck and call. We all share your pride in your family.—Mrs. V. N. S.

Answer:

Thanks for sharing this peach pie recipe. . . my mouth is watering for it. I shall try it as soon as peach season arrives. Please see my answer regarding pricing candy for bazaar and quantity recipe in tomorrow's reader's column.

Wedding Canceled . . . All Gifts To Be Returned

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My dearest friend, who was to be married soon, has just broken her engagement. She is very flim in her wish to return all gifts given to her for engagement presents, shower presents, and also the wedding presents which have already been sent to her. She has asked me to ask you what you think of this, and just how to go about this matter. She would particularly be grateful for your suggestions as to the note to be enclosed with the present-to-be-returned. I thank you in her behalf, Mrs. Beeckman.

Gloria K.

I am sorry, very sorry, that this shadow has come to your friend's life. But I am proud of her spirit in meeting this so-difficult problem straightforwardly and deciding to lift the shadow as much as possible by removing from her life the things that would be symbolic, persistent reminders, of the engagement that no longer exists. This is the healthy way to do, makes perfect sense, is really constructive.

"With each present to be returned, she might enclose a note worded somewhat like this:

Dear Joan,

You were so kind and thoughtful, as always, to give me such a beautiful shower present (or "engagement present" or "wedding present"), and I thank you deeply for your goodness. But now, since Bob and I have broken our engagement, by mutual consent, I know you will understand my returning to you the present which was to be the engagement that no longer exists (or "for the wedding which is not to take place"). I thank you for your goodness and for the beauty of the crystal candlepiece you chose, and always I thank you for the memory of your dear thought for me.

Your devoted friend,

Ruth

Today's "At Home" Cards Often Carry Only Name And Address

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it absolutely necessary to mention the date—for example, "After the first of October"—on the At Home cards which I would like to enclose with our formal wedding announcement? (We are not sending invitations, and only the members of our immediate families will attend the ceremony.) We have already bought, and even partly furnished, our new house, and so of course it would be extremely convenient to send this "at home" address. L.W.

Today, much more often than not, no date is given on the At Home cards to be enclosed with marriage announcements. Also, as a matter of fact, very often the "At Home" is also omitted, I think this is very sensible and practical, for then these cards can be used for many occasions . . . joint cards with just name and address. For example:

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Hill

Two Home Place

Haven, New York

Also this form of card is quite often mailed separately, after the bride and groom are in residence" in their new home.

How To Sign Enclosed With Wedding Present

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I haven't any engraved personal cards, and we would really have little if any use for them. But when I send a wedding gift from a shop or department store and am given a plain white card to enclose with the gift, how should I write our names on the card—"Mr. and Mrs. John Browne" or "Mary and John Browne"?

"Mrs."

If you wrote your names only, in Johannesburg, South Africans "Mrs. and Mrs. John Browne" is correct . . . the same form as the name that would be engraved on cards. But for this informal-looking card it seems to me to be more suitable and natural to write a message and then sign your informal names, your husband's name first and last, as would be writing the card, For example: "With love and every good wish for your happiness, always, John and Mary Browne."

Beauty

(By HELEN JAMESON)

Keep your chest and your chin up

Girls who carry their bodies in a slouchy manner assume the outlines of an interrogation point—head and shoulders thrust forward. They do not appear arty, as they fancy they just look lazy. Too lazy to keep their spinal columns straight. As dress reformers they are a washout, and their chances of developing into ladies of fashion are nil.

The type does not suit the times. The healthy, strong, capable girl is top. She is the kind that the guys like to be with. She is highly energized, finds life much more zestful and enjoyable than the little gal who drags her heels, moves without grace.

Unless the lung box is kept expanded, deep breathing is restricted. That means that the blood streams will be sluggish, the complexion pale. Keep your lungs air-conditioned. That is a law of health and beauty. In young girls it helps normal bust development, as the chest muscles will be strong.

When the habit of deep breathing has been fully established, chest development is easy; one-half the road towards the fulfilment of desire to put a good front has been traveled.

Stand erect in a room that is flooded with fresh air. Let the arms hang loosely at the sides. Now tense the muscles of the chest by lifting it high. Inhale slowly and deeply through the nostrils, holding the breath while the arms are swung backward until the palms meet. Exhale through the lips, then let first position and repeat. After a time, swing the arms back more vigorously. The idea is to call into play all the muscles of the upper portion of the torso. There will be a pleasing effect on the shoulders too, especially if they have rounded somewhat.

Here is another one, and it's fun; stand tall, arms hanging loosely in front, hands clasped. Fill the lungs and hold the breath while the arms are raised forcibly above the head, an imaginary weight resting on the hands, against which resistance is used. Slowly lower the hands to the original position while exhaling fully.

These exercises, done daily for ten or fifteen minutes, and continued for several months, will produce a marvelous change in a thin narrow chest and prominent collar bones will do a neat hiding. They are equally beneficial to weak and strong, young and middle-aged.

...olice Chief 'Shot'

TIMMINS (CP)—The company police chief at the strike-bound Kerr-Addison Rouyan Reef gold mines was "shot" by a picket Wednesday night.

A striker raised a pistol to the chief's head as he inched a car through picket lines.

The chief caught a squirt of water in the face.

3,500 Truckers Scheduled To Strike Monday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some 3,500 southwestern Ontario truckers are scheduled to go on strike next Monday.

The walkout will close 36 transport companies in Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor and force industries all over the province to bring goods from the United States and other Ontario points by rail and water instead of road.

Officials of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC) last week said they had advised union members in their northern Ontario locals to reject recommendations of a conciliation board for a seven-cent-an-hour increase to drivers and 11 cents for mechanics.

Votes on whether to strike were held Thursday, and the union was to count ballots today.

Teamsters rejected the vote as just a formality. The union sent a note a week ago to the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, representing companies in the Windsor area, which said:

No Doubt of Veto

"Immediately following the counting of the ballots the Hamilton division of local 880 will go on strike. There is no doubt of the outcome of the vote."

Involved are employees of 17 trucking firms in the Windsor-Chatham - Sarnia area and employees of 19 companies in the Hamilton district. A Hamilton strike would also halt truck movements in London, Woodstock, Kitchener, Brantford, Waterloo, and Guelph.

A trucking strike could hit southwestern Ontario area harder than a similar strike in other parts of Canada because of the shorter distances and the dominance of truck transport in moving goods.

Many Ontario industries depend largely on trucks for the delivery of production parts are already taking precautions. Railways this week reported a sharp upswing in the number of enquiries on freight rates.

Industries most affected would be those operating assembly lines where no inventory is maintained and where raw materials and supplies are drawn from day to day as the strike area. Firms drawing materials or parts from Detroit and her U.S. areas which funnel through Windsor could be hard hit.

General Motors in Oshawa is one plant which would be affected. The company has no short inventory of parts coming by truck from the U.S. through Windsor.

Report Accepted

A conciliation board report March 28 was accepted by the Toronto branch of the union, but rejected by Hamilton and Windsor.

Toronto members agreed to a seven - cent - an - hour increase for drivers and 11 cents for mechanics, with additional raises which would bring the hourly increase to 17 cents by Jan 1, 1955. The seven-cent boost put the Toronto drivers' rate at $1.30, paid for waiting time or breakdowns.

Most pay, however, is made up on a basis of 5.2 cents a mile. A driver on the Toronto - Montreal route, under this system, makes about $100 a week for his round trips.

Windsor has asked a flat 53-cent-an-hour increase, while Hamilton asks 30 cents for drivers and 30 cents for mechanics.

Town Reservoir Dry for Several Hours Wednesday

PICTON — A state of emergency was declared in the Picton area for several hours Wednesday night when the town reservoir went dry, and there would have been little water available had there been a fire.

The causes are attributed to the lack of water. One is that there was excessive use due to the ninety-degree temperature and the other is that employees at the pumping station did not use all the pumps which were available.

Major Greenwood, administrative officer at the Royal Canadian School of Artillery, was unable to contact the mayor and other officials, who were out of town, and therefore located Councillor Lindley Calnah. A sound truck was used to advise householders of the shortage and ask that water not be used and points out the town to see that the request was obeyed.

Mayor H. McFarland returned by air at nine o'clock by which time the reservoir was again being filled. Two hours later there was sufficient supply on hand, after five tense hours.

The town pumps water to the army camp and housing and the pumping station was recently enlarged and new pipes laid.

After the station was operating perfectly, the supply was overcome and officials say there should be no future shortages.

The utilities commission is meeting today to discuss the matter and town council will hear the same topic at their meeting tonight.

On Wednesday the station pumped 1,800,000 gallons of water, which is 900,000 more than the station has ever pumped.

Yesterday, almost as much was being pumped as the hot spell and heavy consumption of water continued.

Attempt to Settle

SASKATOON (CP)—Union and management officials met Thursday in an attempt to settle the Canadian strike at the Quaker Oats Company plant here.

Rumors of a break in the long standoff have circulated here since employees of the company's main plant in Peterborough, Ont., voted last Sunday to accept a company offer.

Workers at both plants, members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CCL), went on strike April 22. The Peterborough workers, while accepting the company offer, voted not to return to work until the Saskatoon strike was also settled.

L. H. Ingram, company vice-president in charge of personnel here Wednesday with "full powers" to effect a settlement. It was believed Thursday's meeting was called to consider another company offer.

OUT OF BOUNDS

REGINA (CP)—A frisky deer who wandered into a residential section was chased by a dog and cornered in a school yard. The deer broke its neck against a metal fence post in an attempt to get out.

Beauty Poses Problem For The Judges

LONG BEACH, Calif (AP)—International beauty in 36 eye-catching shapes and sizes posed a problem for judges Thursday night in the preliminaries of the Miss Universe contest.

Would the judges prefer tall girls? Italy's Rita Stara, Canada's Thelma Brenda Brown or Sonora Alaska's Muriel Hagberg are all 5-feet-9. Or would they tend toward petite Aileen Lauwers Shone of Hawaii or Sweden's Ulla Sandkist, both under 5-feet-3?

If facial beauty outweighs figure considerations, they might favor Miss Turkey, Ayten Akyol. Or France's Christiane Martel. Otherwise, Miss Italy, Miss Canada and Miss Germany (Christel Schaack) would be strong contenders.

In reducing the field of 36 to 6 semi-finalists, the judges will rate the girls on both face and figure, and give added points for poise and personality.

The 15-semi-finalists will not be announced until the start of tonight's judging. Miss Universe will be selected late tonight after the field has been narrowed to five finalists.

Serious Water Shortage Seen In Many Centres

TORONTO (CP)—A heat wave which has left southern Ontario sizzling this week has resulted in a serious water shortage in several cities.

Ontario Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders said Thursday a critical shortage of water power used in generating power was also developing.

Water restrictions have been announced in Hamilton, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls and North York.

St. Catharines officials said the water consumption was so heavy it was interfering with fire protection.

Curbs were placed in Niagara Falls where consumption was running between 3,000,000 and 7,000,000 gallons a day above capacity.

Kitchener reported a heavy drain on its water supplies but no shortage was in sight.

Mr. Saunders blamed the shortage of water for power generation on the light spring rainfall and lighter winter snows. The Hydro was turning to steam plants in Windsor and Toronto for its supply of power.

Royal romance—which has stirred echoes of the Windsor-Wally Simpson romance—The Mirror reported results of a four-day poll with a 4½-inch black "yes" on its front page;

Then it went on to day:

"Today (Friday) Princess Margaret returns from Rhodesia to a Britain which knows that she and Group Captain Townsend would like to marry. She will have to wait while church and state dignitaries discuss what, in their opinion, she may or may not do."

Readers Polled Favor Princess Marrying Pilot

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Mirror says more than 96 per cent of 70,142 readers polled said they are in favor of Princess Margaret marrying handsome RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend if she wants to.

The mass-circulation tabloid said 67,907 readers voted "yes" and 2,233 voted "no" on a question form which asked:

"Group Captain Peter Townsend, 38-year-old hero of Britain pilot, is the innocent party in a divorce. He was given the custody of his two children and his former wife has recently married. If Princess Margaret, now 23, so desires, should she be allowed to marry him?"

The Mirror claims to have 4,300,000 readers.

Princess Margaret returned from a tour of Rhodesia today two days after Townsend arrived in Brussels in his new job as air attache. There has been talk that Townsend, a former member of the Queen's Household, had been "exiled" to Belgium because of his friendship with the Princess.

Who Won Match?

ASCOT, England (CP) — Who won the challenge golf match between John W. McConnell, 76-year-old past president of the Montreal Star and 61-year-old Canadian-born financier Sir Edward Peacock? Nobody will say.

The two prominent Canadians slugged it out in week-end contests over a course near Sir Edward's Berkshire home.

Questioned about the result, McConnell said: "Ask Sir Edward."

Sir Edward said McConnell was dodging the issue and proceeded to do some artful dodging himself.

"We had two very pleasant games," he said. "Who won? Well, just say it was conversational golf."

Yankees Find Road Trip Tough; Lead Cut Full Game On Opening Night

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

TENNIS STARS HERE!

Lorne Main, Canadian Davis Cupper, may blaze his two-handed tennis shots over the nets of the Quinte Tennis Club the week-end of September 12-13, following the U.S. national championships at Forest Hills, N.Y. The Toronto and California intercollegiate tennis stars, Don Fontana, Jim Bentley and Don Platt will probably accompany Main here on the four-man tennis tests.

Plans for the tennis show are now under unofficial discussion between tennis men Dan Cowley, Belleville, and Cole (Pete) Paterson, Toronto. Nothing of an official confirmation will be announced until Les Digby, president of the Quinte Tennis club, returns from his holidays later this month.

Since 1947, Toronto sportsmen have assisted in financing Fontana, Bentley and Platt to play the tough, thick-through-the-middle U.S. tournaments. On leaving high school, funds were available to help them attend University of California at Los Angeles, where they came under Perry Jones and J. D. Morgan, coach of the UCLA American intercollegiate team champions. Both Fontana and Bentley played for the UCLA team.

This year Main, with over ten years' experience on the United States tennis circuit, England and Bermuda, spear-heads the Canadian Davis Cup team who play Mexico this week. Fontana is back appearing in Canada this season, having been scheduled through the American tournaments, picking up experience on cement, clay and grass courts. Platt played Salt Lake City and is now adding to his experience in the hot, dry court event at Chicago. Bentley is working out with the Davis Cup team in Montreal. With the exception of big Don Fontana, all will swing the white sphere back and fuzz above the nets in the Canadian championships at Toronto next week.

The boys, ranging from age 20 to 22, are keeping pace with their opposite numbers in the youthful American tennis picture, growing up with international tournament competition, instead of behind it, in the hope of winning for Canada the Davis Cup, Wimbledon and Forest Hill championships around 1957.

DOTS 'N FLASHES!

The New York Yankees' bureau of statisticians, who tape-measure every home run belted by Mickey Mantle figure his thirteen four-baggers have travelled more than a mile. They figure the exact distance is 5608 feet. His homers have averaged 424 feet regardless of which way he clouted them . . . The grapevine has it that Howie Meeker will manage the Strat-ford Indians in hockey club next season . . . Since Hap Emms decided to stay with the Barrie Flyers, Windsor's hopes of a junior "A" hockey team next winter are in poor condition, merting. Reported out of Galt have it the Spitfires' boss-men were in Barrie recently trying to lure Le Hap to the banks of the Detroit river . . . This lad Roger Hill of the Tyendinaga Reserve, is said to be another "Jack Williams". The young southpaw, who fashioned a no-hitter the other night, has the style and stance of the great "Indian" . . . With Jackie Elliott, who misses 'em from the starboard side, baseball boss has two great pitching possibilities . . . Tomorrow the CNRAA is holding its annual picnic at Port Hope instead of Cobourg as in former years. Some 600 members and their families are past the Dudley's and taking the trek via special train. Big sports program is on deck and the "iron horsemen" have planned an outstanding day. We are going along for the ride . . . Hope for a senior hockey club here next winter were raised a short time ago but died a sudden death. Bill Cook informs this department that he is definitely through as manager of the junior "B" team. He means it, too . . . Bob Bland, popular proprietor of the "Sports Centre," Bridge St., is forsaking bachelordom tomorrow, so we are informed. Best of luck, Robert, from all of us in the sports business . . . C. Charlton, Trenton, shot a 167, 13 holes behind the leader in the Ontario junior golf championships yesterday. Bill Hinsman, Picton, had a 226.

WRESTLING

Hans Schmidt, the German blockbuster, will be up against an opponent who is pretty good himself at busting things, such as craniums, when he meets Bo-Bo Brazil, the talented negro star, in the wrestling feature at the Memorial Arena tonight.

Schmidt is considered the No. 1 ring disturber in the U.S. and his nefarious feats are familiar to Canadian fans through television. This will be an opportunity for them to see the Maxich Menace in person and, at the same time stand as excellent chance of beholding the Schmashing Herr Schmidt get smashed about himself. For Bo-Bo doesn't toy with these rough baby-dolls — he just ka-bo bumps them until something gives — and it's usually the miscreant's negzis.

Dan "Bulldog" Pleches, whose face may not be his fortune, but it sure makes the fans go "Woof! Woof!" at him, will meet Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman, in the semi-final.

Robert Duranton, of France, will have a go at Firpo Zbysko, of Poland, in the first match.

THE "BUSH" LEAGUE!

"Mouse" Bunk and his Chain Store Chiccries laid the law down to the McLeod - Pellsters gang from the "H.Q." on Pinnacle Street at King George School last night. The limbs of the law emerged on the short end of an 11-7 score in a softball tilt. At least that is the way "Louie", the demon statistician figured it out. The rest of the crew are demanding a recount knowing Louie's ability with figures. The "Mouse" gang nibbled at the offerings of Fillerton, Rachgan and Treker and sprayed the landscape with the overstuffed baseball. "Fils" said today that he is going to have the rule rescinded that forces his playmates to wear their own handcuffs when playing the outfield. At least it seemed that way. And there are rumors of charges being laid against the "Bush Gang", who are suspected of plastering the law's bludgeons with glue so they couldn't get 'em off their shoulders. It seemed that way, too.

Browns Hit 3 Homers in Row In 8-6 Victory Over Champs; Sox Win Pair; Roberts Gets 16th

By BEN PELEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

It didn't take New York Yankees long to find out that this western trip is going to be different.

Only a month ago the league leaders blazed through St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit on an all-victorious tour of 4 games. This time they got stopped before they got started.

The Yankees virtually invented the home run and the lowly St. Louis Browns made them mighty sorry for it in the opening game of twilight-night twin bill. The Browns pounded three in a row in the first inning, tying the major league record, and added two more later in the contest for an 8-6 victory.

The defeat was the first of the year for the Yankees in St. Louis and although they rallied to take the nightcap 7-3 they lost a full game of their first place margin to the streaking Chicago White Sox, two-time winners over Washington.

The Sox won the first game in 10 innings 4-3 and the second 10-7. Billy Pierce, pitching in relief, drove home the deciding run with a single in the first game for his 11th victory. Jim Rivera's double by Eddie Stewart made the difference in the second. The Sox now trail by four.

His Grand-Slammer

The two other first division American League teams also triumphed. Cleveland Whitey Ford-phila 5-3 on Al Rosen's grand-slam home run and Boston nipped Detroit 3-2 with Mel Parnell winning his 13th game. Tops in the circuit, the pitching-heavy Red Sox National League lead to 2½ games by defeating Brooklyn 9-2 while second-place Milwaukee was losing to Pittsburgh 5-2.

Philadelphia won a couple of squeakers from Cincinnati 3-1 and 3-2. And New York Giants, who had won eight in a row before the Dodgers stopped them in the final game of the all-Star break, resumed their winning habits with a 10-1 decision over Chicago.

A double by Mike Garcia and a homer by Rosen got the stage for Rosen's grand slam at Cleveland. The blast broke up a scoreless duel between Garcia and Marion Fricano.

The Dodgers struck quickly and decisively against the Cardinals. With one out they loaded the bases on a fielder's choice. Gil Hodges drilled a Stu Miller pitch high and deep to the Dodgers' first grand slam home run of the year. Hodges and Duke Snider hit two more home runs later in the game as Preacher Roe scored his sixth victory.

Pittsburgh broke a 10-game losing streak with rookie Carlos Bernier playing the starring role. He drove in two runs and scored a third by stealing home. The last-place Pirates apparently have solved the Braves for sure. They've beaten them five straight times. Johnny Antonelli was the loser against Dick Friend.

Robin Roberts won his 3th game of the year in the opener against Cincinnati Although he gave up 10 hits to only three by losers Brad Pohlfield. The Cincinnati right-hander retired the first 20 men he faced but the Phillies bunched a walk, two singles and a double by Smoky Burgess to score three runs in the seventh inning.

Galt Terriers On Way Up; Whip Tigers 7-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Although slow to show form in this season's senior Intercounty baseball race, Galt Terriers have been burning up the league of late.

Shaking off some of the mire down in sixth place, Terriers are exhibiting an urge to climb into the eight-team league's first division.

Thursday night at Waterloo, the Terriers moved within half a game of sixth spot with a 7-2 victory over third-place Tigers while runner-up Kitchener Panthers edged fourth-place London Majors 6-4.

Earl Nanne was Galt's big star as he hurled four-hit ball to handcuff the Waterloo hitters. He held the Tigers hitless for five innings and then scattered the quartet of safeties over the succeeding four innings.

Big Eddie Steele paced Galt's eight-hit attack with a home run, a triple and a single. Gerry Cline blasted a four-bagger to hold onto 4th Intercounty home-run crown. It was his 19th and the Terriers' 40th of the season.

At London, the Majors tried hard, but left their rally until too late.

Kitchener built up a 6-0 lead in seven innings and then sat back while the Londoners had a go. The Majors scored twice in the eighth and twice in the ninth. They even had two runners on base when the final out was made.

Veteran Cy Bricker gained the win for the Panthers, but he needed help from Lefty Allan when London hitters began reaching him in the eighth. Up until then he had the Majors well under control.

Dick Walker led the Kitchener plate parade with three-for-five, one of them a home run. His teammates tallied three times in each of nine innings.

Starter Jerry Burke was tagged with the loss, even though he lasted only two innings. Bob Penny relieved for the Majors.

Galt moves into Kitchener tonight while Waterloo is at Oshawa and London entertains St. Thomas. Brantford plays at Guelph in the fourth and final Intercounty clash.

Canadian Veterans Rochon and Main Open Davis Cup Series With Mexico

By W. R. WREATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada entrusted its tennis fortunes today to a pair of Davis Cup veterans, Henri Rochon and Lorne Main, in the opening singles of the first-round North American zone tie against Mexico.

Rochon, 29-year-old Montrealer, was drawn against Mario Llamas Francisco (Pancho) Contreras, one of Mexico's up-and-coming youngsters. Main celebrated his 32nd birthday only a week ago, but has been a member of Canada's last four Davis Cup teams. The players will switch opponents in Sunday's singles.

The singles choices by Dr. Georges Lecavalier, Canadian captain, occasioned no surprise. A hard hitter who has been a mainstay of Sherbrooke ruled him out in any event. Frank Willey of Vancouver, like Bedard a newcomer to Davis Cup tennis, might get the nod for Saturday doubles play.

In meeting Llamas, Rochon will face a steady, smooth-striking player although the 25-year-old Mexican, who sports a small moustache, is rated by observers less powerful than he was last year, when he lost a five-set match to Main.

Rochon, a southpaw, may get the jump on Llamas before the Mexican fathoms the Montrealer's unorthodox style. Rochon makes use of unexpected shots, with ability to slice either way. It was the feeling that Henri will have to start well, "and if he does, he's on his way."

Observers believe Main can win both his singles matches. In meeting Contreras, he will face a hard hitter, more to his liking than a soft hitter like Ortiga. Lorne meets the hard servers with his two-handed return, and should also be able to handle Contreras' good overhead.

Rochon holds a 2-1 lead over Canada in their previous Davis Cup ties, the Mexicans whomping 5-0 in 1946 and 4-1 in 1948 before being blanked by Canada last year.

Physical Handicap Nothing to Kell, With 'Back Misery', He Tops Hitters

NEW YORK (AP) — If George Kell wins the American League batting championship as well he might, it will be a triumph of will power over aches and pains.

There are days when Kell fears he won't be able to drag himself out of bed in the morning, let alone put on his Boston uniform to play third base. Still he has played every day this season despite his club's games. And is leading the league in hitting.

Doctors tell George that it's simply a case of too much batting, shifting and tumbling for his spinal disc. They say it's similar to the trouble that forced Bobby Doerr into retirement and sent Charlie Keller to the hospital for an operation.

"I don't want any operation, if I can help it," Kell said the other day. "I'm sure my back will be all right for ordinary every-day life with the proper rest. It's just the bending I have to do in baseball."

In mid-May there was a time when Kell thought seriously of giving up. In chill, damp days, such as we had often this spring, he had the miseries. His trusty masseur Lou Boudreau, told him to forget playing and not even show up for a few days.

At Kell's suggestion he tried left field when he returned. It worked out fine.

But the club needed George's bat at third so Kell went back to his old job. When the thermometer hit the 90s and the old ericks in the back melted away, it's the night games on cool evenings and the rainy days that bother him most.

When Kell first came up to the majors, out of Swifton, Ark., he was a school teacher.

School teaching is not for Kell any more. He prospered in baseball at a healthy wage scale in Detroit and Boston. He has a going farm back home in Arkansas with cattle and cotton as his specialties. Eventually he'd like to come back to baseball as a coach, or maybe manager, but first a year off to rest that back on the farm.

Right now Kell wants to win the batting championship this year more than anything else in his career.

When Kell won the championship with .343 in 1949, beating out Ted Williams and Joe Dimaggio, some said it was a fluke. If he wins this one, bad back and all, he should be the most valuable player award.

TEAM WITHDRAWN

TORONTO (CP)—Harold Bailey, secretary of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, said Thursday Windsor has withdrawn its entry from the senior league for the 1953 season "due to circumstances beyond its control."

The ORFU executive will meet here July 25 to revise its 1953 schedule, in which four teams in the league are Toronto Balmy Beach, Kitchener, Brantford and Sarnia.

Hamilton To Have Junior A Hockey Club

TORONTO (CP)—Hamilton will have a team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league next season.

The Junior A council, meeting Thursday, approved the application, but added the condition that the council would have full jurisdiction over whether, and how much, television would be allowed.

Only opposition to the application hinged on the question whether home games of other Junior A clubs would be hurt should the Hamilton club televise on the same nights. Rudy Pilous of St. Catharines Teepees was most concerned.

The Hamilton team, owned by Ian Sobile, radio and TV owner, is actually a transfer of the Windsor Spitfire franchise, which Sobile bought from Lloyd Pollock.

Sobile said the Hamilton arena, now renovated, will be ready for practices Sept. 15 and seating capacity will be 4,500. He will operate both junior and senior teams in Hamilton. They will both be called the Tigers.

The last time Hamilton had a Junior A representative was during the 1945-46 season, but the team failed to finish the schedule.

Billy Bell, 16, -Year-Old Toronto Boy Wins Canadian Junior Golf Crown

Yesterday the 16-year-old athlete was crowned Canada's junior golf champion.

Billy topped a record field of 96 at suburban Oakdale to win the title with a 36-hole card of 154, an eight-stroker team to represent Ontario against District of Columbia in an annual match at Washington next Friday. Team members will also compete in the USGA junior championship at Washington Monday and in the Mid-Atlantic Match Play championship July 21-23.

Bell, who learned his golf at Aurora Highlands, 30 miles north of here, competed in a group for boys 16 to 18 years of age. His score over the 6,465 yard, par-72 layout was one better than Hugh Paterson of Toronto St. George's. He fired a morning round of 37-40 and did exactly the same in the afternoon.

Fifteen-year-old Bill Stager of Galt led the 14-15 year group with a 64, six strokes better than Dave Drury of Toronto Lakeview. Stager, Garry Cowan of Kitchener Rockway, Singer medalist a hole-in-one at his home course Wednesday night in a practice round for the championship.

Phil Brownlee, 12 years old and 80 pounds, won the 12-and-under class with a 180 to beat out second-place Jim Slatter of Dunsville by nine strokes. Brownlee, who works in the pro shop at Toronto Cedar Brae, emerged for the tournament. He hired a caddy—a 13-year-old friend—to tote the 13 clubs in his bag.

Terry Diatchenko of Windsor was well down in the list in the 14-15-year class but it wasn't for lack of enthusiasm. The youngster, clad in blue jeans, hitch-hiked here from Windsor last week slept one night in a Toronto park and two in a Niagara Falls park before catching up to an aunt in Toronto. Just before he teed off he admitted to officials that he didn't have any money for the entry fee. An Ontario Golf Association official paid the $2 fee.

Following the competition OGA officials announced the Ontario team which leaves for Washington this week-end. It is made up of Billy Bell (Toronto); George Sherry, Burlington; Jack Lawrey, St. Catharines; Hugh Paterson, Toronto; Bill Stager, Galt; Phil Brownlee, Toronto; Dave Drury, Toronto and Garry Cowan, Kitchener.

Leafs Buy Infielder, But— He's Fishin'

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League bought—and lost—a ball player Thursday.

"He's a fine pickle," Public Relations director Al Mercer said after it was announced Leafs had purchased utility infielder Al Chichi from St. Louis Browns of the American League. "We got the guy and then find he's on a fishing trip some place in Canada.

"We have no idea where he might be."

Chichi started this season with San Antonion in the Texas League and hit 263 in 63 games. His purchase price was not announced, nille in 2-0.

Pacing Colt Sets New Mark

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Newport Stock Farms' Newport Chief from South Plainfield, N.J., counted his stock for the famed Little Brown Jug by scoring impressively in the $5,000 Untca Purse at Thursday nights Saratoga Raceway.

The three-year-old Chief Abbedale colt flashed home in 2:01 3-5, setting a track record for sophomore pacers and a new season standard. Thunderclap set the former mark of 2:01.4-5 a year ago.

Sharp Note, 1:59.3 Hambletonian winner, captured the second-featured $5,000 Chatham free-for-all with a 2:02 clocking.

Buffalo's Turn In Piggy-Back Fight for Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, taking advantage of Montreal's layoff Thursday night, vaulted into the International baseball league lead over the Royals—but only by the slimmest of margins.

The Bisons defeated the third-place Rochester Red Wings 5-2 in one of two scheduled contests to advance into first-place by two percentage points.

Springfield Cubs remained on the losing path. The tail-enders were downed 5-3 by Baltimore Orioles, currently in fourth position—four games behind the leaders and one back of Rochester. Springfield is down 23½ games, victorious in only 27 of 84 contests.

Frank Carswell played a big part in the Herd's triumph at Buffalo, whacking his 10th homer of the campaign, with two aboard. Bob Nerval earned the victory, allowing seven hits.

Jack Farabaki, who had beaten the Bisons six straight, was beset by the showers when he got into trouble in the fourth.

At Baltimore, it was three straight for the Orioles over the Cubs. Tom Herrin held the losers to seven hits until he tired in the eighth. Veteran lefthander Ken Heintzleman took over and disposed of the next four batters to face him.

All clubs are scheduled to see action tonight. Buffalo remains at Rochester, Montreal goes to Baltimore, Ottawa visits Springfield and Toronto invades Syracuse.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Inauspicious rays from today's planetary outlook, so be on guard. Don't hold grudges or speak out of turn. Avoid arguments, quarrels.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Attend immediate issues don't put off what can be done now. Make decisions promptly, carry out orders precisely. And do so cheerfully.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Your keen mind should be your real help today. But be careful you don't over-do or over-trust. Be extra cautious right now.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may be asked to make changes, try other methods than you intended. Check carefully before doing so, especially if properties are concerned.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Ponder awhile in matters of business, investments, or handling your own personal affairs. Consult those you know to be on safe side.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—May be some exception, but stars suggest you do everything on the conservative side now. Day may offer little co-operation.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You can hold your own in routine affairs, matters in the personal category. Don't hurry your action. Move carefully and have no regrets.

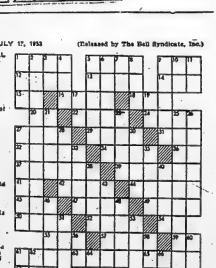
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—What you say as well as what you do will govern progress now. Don't put off, then have to rush things.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Don't try a lone hand; counsel your way around. You can make things easier for yourself by doing that.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Less stimulating day than appears on surface. Can be retrieved if you dig in and let your natural ability hold sway. Some things sure to please.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Maybe little to offer that you can build on now but you can overcome hindrances by doubling effort. Try the unusual (if sound) at unusual time.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Explore well before acting. Some traps that could prove troublesome if you are not alert. But you can bridge such hazards.



YOU BORN TODAY: Genial, a good memory, a lover of fun and travel, are good entertainer, can really "take" as well as "give" it. That's a rare trait. Real estate, selling, managing business, are in your line. Don't cling too much to tradition or old ways. Don't be oversensitive, a worrier. Take things in a happy medium and be happier. Birthdate of: Wm. Makepeace Thackeray, noted novelist; Lupe Velez, actress.

BRIGISH HOUSING

LONDON (CP)—More than 26,000 permanent houses were completed in the United Kingdom during May, compared with 19,000 for the same month last year.

TRAWLER FOR CANADA

LONDON (CP) — The trawler-sealer Theta, being constructed in Britain for a Montreal firm, was recently launched from a River Clyde shipyard. The vessel will be powered by a British-built 800 horsepower motor.

It's Camp Time for Canadian Air Cadets

Statue to Honor Post-War Heroes of Berlin

Artist Gerhard Schulize-Seehof of West Berlin is seen, foreground, with his assistants working on the statue which will honor the people who cleaned up the rubble left by bombings of Berlin and who helped in reconstruction of the city. The statue is being constructed of pieces of rubble of all kinds — brick, marble, stone, glass, earthenware, etc., all of different colors and fitted together to form a striking mosaic depicting allegorically the destruction of Berlin, the clearing-up, reconstruction and living peace. To be 60 feet high, the statue will be built on top of Berlin's highest rubble hill, a former air raid bunker which was blown up after 1945. — Central Press Canadian.

OTHER PARTY

"But I believe that the wise fiscal policies and the other measures that have been adopted by the Liberal government have kept those inflationary pressures under control.

At another point, Mr. St. Laurent said he was sure the danger of Communist aggression will decrease so that defence expenditures can be cut, thus more dollars could move money allotted to the Colombo Plan and the United Nations.

Talks of NATO

Earlier at North Bay, Ont., training site for the RCAF's No. 445 CF-100 jet fighter squadron, Mr. St. Laurent spoke on the "terrifying" effectiveness of the Canadian-built CF-100.

He talked about the value of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, saying that through NATO member countries are saying in effect to would-be aggressors: "Don't start a fight with any one of us, unless you're big enough to defeat us all."

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, speaking in the east end city of Fraser, N.S., went after Canada's steel industry for the second straight night. He claimed the industry is looking after its shareholders instead of expanding to meet the country's steel needs.

Again advocating nationalization of the steel industry, he said it could be integrated with the national economy. Between 1939 and 1948, the industry had received $40,000,000 in government subsidies, made no appreciable expansion, but had returned nearly $60,000,000 in profits.

Decisive Size of Industry

"The profit motive continues to dictate the size of the industry, thereby preventing it from meeting Canada's industrial needs. Instead, we import iron and steel from the United States, contributing to our adverse trade balance with that country."

Both Mr. Coldwell and Mr. St. Laurent will campaign today in Quebec province, Mr. Coldwell at Montreal and the prime minister at Quebec city. St. Ives is riding.

L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister, who spoke from the same Sudbury platform as Mr. St. Laurent, said Mr. Drew is the "most promising" party leader Canada has ever had: "He has small promises for local consumption, medium promises for provincial consumption and large promises for national consumption."

Not So Stupid

Mr. Pearson said the government is not so stupid to consider itself irreplaceable, but it has a right to ask Canadians whether it can be replaced by a better one.

At Winnipeg, Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto-Eglinton in the last Commons, said Mr. Garson unpressed a four combines investigation report in 1945.

He said Mr. Garson, as justice minister, "has become Canada's No. 1 bandit against of low 1 law upholder."

In a radio broadcast from Lethbridge, Alta., John Blackmore, former Social Credit leader in the Commons, said Canada can solve the problem of Europe's inability to earn enough dollars by curbing debt-free money, "the first principle of Social Credit."

Canada could either give this debt-free money to countries needing dollars or supply the money to an international agency which would distribute it freely.

At Winnipeg, during a turbulent meeting at which demonstrators scattered a set of Communist pamphlets, Tim Buck, Labor-Progressive Party leader, predicted a Korean truce and said the question would then arise of admitting Red China to the United Nations. He said American traders are already preparing to do business with the Red Chinese.

OPENS NEGOTIATIONS

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The Canadian government has opened negotiations in New York with the New York Central Railway Company in an effort to re-open the St. Thomas repair shops, Jack Peterson, Liberal candidate for Elgin, said here Thursday. Some 250 employees have been laid off at the shops here since Christmas, and the shops now are almost completely closed.

MELROSE W.M.S. Plays Hostess To Mission-Baby Bands

Under a favorable sky, the members of Melrose Women's Missionary Society played host on Wednesday last, to the Mission Band and the Baby Band with their mothers upon the occasion of the third anniversary of the Baby Band.

The setting for this happy affair was on the spacious lawn of Mrs. Jack MacFarlane with 37 adults and 39 children attending.

Mrs. Jack MacFarlane, Baby Band leader, called the gathering to order and conducted the following program. Beside the leader was placed a well-planned poster which showed the time and thought she is giving to this great work with the little ones.

The poster read thus: "The babies of today will be the W.M.S. of tomorrow. Baby Band membership begins missionary education, binds the home to the church; becomes the basis of community friendship; brings missionary education to the home, builds a Christian foundation for the future."

Program

Duet, Shirley Pascoe and Eileen Reilly, "Can a Little Child Like Me" and "God Sees the Little Sparrow Fall." Scripture reading, Matt. 18:1-6, by Joan Milligan.

The leader gave a reading which dealt with the privilege of working with little children, trying to develop in them the trust in God that they have in their parents. One must not lose concern for the children in other lands who are growing up, without the knowledge of Jesus Christ. How often the influence of a little child will lead the older members of a family to God's House.

At this time, the graduating class came forward and was presented with "Hope of the World" cards, graduation cards and copies of the "World Friends". The children ranging in ages from 3 to 5 years were also presented with booklets entitled, "Peter Shares With His Friends".

A poem "A Happy Family", was given by Barbara Weese; piano, "An International Smile" by Barbara Boomhour; poem, "Topsy Turvy" by Bobby McIntosh; Carolyn Embury closed the program with the Baby Band prayer.

Sports Program

The sports program followed, and much merriment was caused when all the ladies had to get weighed. Mrs. Mac Lazier assistant leader, conducted the races and other contests and the winners are as follows:

Races, 8-10 years— Barbara Boomhour; 5-7 years—Carman Milligan; 3-5 years—Kenneth McLennan.

Youngest baby present, Suzanne Bartley.

Girls with longest pig-tails — Janice MacFarlane.

Freckle contest—Beryl Scruby. Lucky cup prize—Mrs. T. Howard.

The children enjoyed the Fish Pond while the ladies had a social time. Various snapshots were taken including the young mothers and their children, also the afternoon spent at the home and spoke highly of the work she and her assistants are doing, in leading the young, step by step, to become missionary minded.

Mrs. MacFarlane and Mrs. Lazier replied briefly and said how much they enjoyed their work with the little ones and expressed their appreciation of the co-operation of the members of the Woman's Missionary Society, for three or four generations.

A good keeper is expected to look after his lighthouse and dwelling in the same way as ordinary householders tend their homes.

Lighthouse attendants believe, like their oldtime counterparts, that "the light must no fail." But today there are more aids in this respect. Duplicate power plants and radio beacons and alarms cut chance of light failure to a minimum.

Keepers are mostly married men. Transport officials discribe them as "steady types."

Healthy Life

While there is occasional loss of life among the group due to the job itself, the occupation is described as "safer than driving on a highway."

When loss of life does occur it is usually by drowning. Longevity probably because the lighthouse keeper's life is essentially a healthy one, is the rule.

In some inland lighthouses keepers can get ashore to bring in supplies. In other remote places this is impossible. Supply ships bring needed goods. Most difficult areas, say marine officials, are along the Brit i ishandsCoastsr, along the British Columbia coast.

While there has been an increase in recent years in new equipment, many lights working under remote control or automatic, the human life chance modernization will ever replace the lighthouse keeper himself.

A spokesman said: "Mechanical equipment can fail. There is no substitute for personal attention."

SMELL CROSSES BORDER

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — A sickly sweet smell routed people from their breakfast tables here Tuesday and made them cough, sneeze, and cry. One woman said she fainted while hanging out clothes in her backyard. City Manager Jay F. Gibbs said Wednesday he will ask Governor G. Mennen Williams to petition the international board of air pollution to make a study of this area on the Canadian border. It was the second time in 18 months that Port Huron has been caught in a smokey haze that may come from chemical plants and oil refineries across the St. Clair river in Sarnia.

One almost sure way to save money is to be a lighthouse keeper. The earliest lighthouse on record, and still operating, is this 82-foot stone tower at Eddystone on the south coast of Nova Scotia, operating since 1758. Marine service spokesmen for the transport department say keepers of the light in remote areas have little chance to spend their pay, which reaches a maximum of $3,500 a year. Dwellings also are provided in isolated areas. — (CP Photo.)

Thrift Thrust on Lighthouse Keepers Because of Isolation

By ANTHONY DICKASON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Thrift isn't a virtue among Canada's lighthouse keepers—it's forced on them by isolation.

There are approximately 1,150 lighthouse keepers throughout Canada and the maximum pay rate is $3,500 yearly. In many cases, says marine service officials of the transport department, lighthouse keepers in remote areas have little chance to spend money. And dwellings, too, are provided in such places.

Lighthouses are to be found in lonely spots from Cape Race in Newfoundland to Esteven Point on Vancouver Island, and from Pelee Island in Lake Erie to Resolution Island northeast of Hudson Bay.

Plenty of Applicants

There are generally more applicants for jobs then positions available, though it varies according to localities. In areas close to settlements would-be lighthouse keepers are numerous; in windy and wet areas a long way from human habitation there are fewer applicants.

The earliest lighthouse on record —and still operating—is the 82-foot stone tower at Sambro on the south shore of Nova Scotia. It has been in almost continuous use since 1758.

In 1906 the first inland waterways light was built when Sir Francis Gore was lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada. Its operating today, at Gibraltar Point on Toronto Island. In 1833 a light was raised at Point Peter in the Picton, Ont., district and subsequently at strategic points throughout the Great Lakes.

Today there are about 2,860 lights in operation, of which 1,150 are tended by keepers. The remainder of the lights are automatic.

Lifetime Job

The transport department hopes, when it signs a new lighthouse man, to keep him for life. Frequently applicants know the region where a vacancy occurs—tides and bogs, winds and reefs. In some cases care of the light is handed down from father to son, often

Sunday School Lesson:

Let's Begin With The Church

By ROY L. SMITH

The churches have spent much time and energy in recent years lecturing the nations on the subject of world peace, as though it were a simple thing for the governments and peoples of the world to get together and forget their differences. But the churches have not succeeded too well in doing that, and until they have they are in a difficult position when they try to offer advice to the statesmen.

Christian Unity

The great central theme of this week's Sunday School lesson is a very simple one, in spite of the archaic and awkward language in which it is stated in the scriptures. Quite evidently, however, Paul is trying to say that when men are possessed by the spirit of Christ—really possessed—they will work together in unity, regardless of what ground like a second principle.

One of the striking facts concerning Jesus of Nazareth was his willingness to work with anyone who was working toward the same goal that he was dear to him. On one occasion he said that those who were not against him were actually for him. He welcomed as friends and fellow-apostles of his people—folk who were kindly, penitent thankful, and eager to be better than they were —without subjecting them to theological examinations as to their orthodoxy.

Can We Work Together?

It can almost be said that the genuine Christian-ness of a church can be measured by its willingness to work with other people who love the same objectives and work for the same results. The finest orthodoxy is that tolerance of other people's sincerely which makes it possible for one body of believers to work with another body of believers whose opinions run down a slightly different groove.

The Uniform School Lesson for July 19: "One World in Christ." Ephesians 1:15—2:22.

Gone is the day when we demonstrate our Christianity by our aloofness; now is the time to demonstrate our Christian unity by our ability to work with people who differ from us in methods and ages with us in purposes.

Evil Enough For All

There lived in one community a man who took advantage of every possible occasion to declare his own orthodoxy and question the faith of every other person. He spent a considerable amount of money printing pamphlets in which he undertook to prove that other Christians were mistaken in their views or opinions. He attended churches for the purpose of disrupting. If possible, some word or implication in the sermon with which he could fault. He then proceeded to flay the preacher in every manner available to him. The odd thing about it all was that in the course of an entire life he was never the instrument for bringing into any church a single individual who had been converted from the evil of his ways. No man had been rescued from the terrible habit of alcoholism by his assistance. His entire religion had been a continuous attack upon other religious people. And there was something very tragic in that.

A dreadful epidemic of influenza was raging in a certain community, and every physician of the town was visiting the sick almost 'round the clock. One hard-worked healer was approached by the friends of a man sick unto death who asked him, "Which one of the doctors in this town is right? Osteopath, homeopath, or allopath?" To this the physician replied, "I can't tell you. There's enough sick folk in this town to give all of us more than we can do. Get help from any of them if they can heal you."

There is enough evil in any community to keep all the churches and the Christian people busy, if they will stick at the physician task. You can depend upon it, no church is converting the wicked man from the evil of his way while it is attacking another church which is trying to do it just a little differently.

Russia Reaching Across Curtain For Trade Pacts

Motive Aimed at Relieving Economic Ills of Satellites

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union on new trade pacts signed with France, Denmark and other Western European nations appeared today to have launched in earnest her long-expected trade offensive.

The trade manoeuvres part of the entire peace campaign believed aimed at relieving the economic ills of the restive satellite nations now seething over lack of consumer goods. They are also obviously part of the Kremlin's plan to woo Western nations from economic and military ties with the United States.

The French and Soviet governments announced Friday they have signed a three-year commercial pact—their first since 1934. It calls for an exchange of 12,000,000,000 francs ($34,285,700) worth of goods in the next year.

Copenhagen announced Denmark has signed contracts to build five more cold-storage freighters for the Soviet Union within the next two years. These are part of a new Soviet-Danish $21,000,000 trade deal under which Denmark would supply industrial machinery and foodstuffs in return for certain Russian goods as wheat, cotton, iron ore and asbestos.

Dismay Platinum

The British Board of Trade announced Friday the Russians have dumped 30,000 ounces of platinum on the London bullion market—and that a good part of it already has been snapped up. A board spokesman said Russia has also offered to sell British manganese and chrome ores—two strategic metals listed in bottleneck steel.

Trade talks are going on between Soviet agents and British metal brokers under which Britain may buy 6,000,000 tons of wheat. Trading also are expected to be kept large quantities of Russian timber in the next few months.

The French pact grew out of the East-West trade conference at Geneva, sponsored by the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe. The conference included limit on the "black list" of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. These are largely raw or finished products vital to the economy of the west or of strategic importance to a potential aggressor.

As part of the new policy, Russia at Geneva this week agreed to put up 4,000,000 rubles ($1,000,000) to aid underdeveloped countries under the United Nations Technical Assistance plan. Russia never contributed a ruble to this plan before.

Moscow dispatches said this week western fur buyers are in Moscow and that bidding for furs is brisk.

New Edwardian Suits Appeal To Americans

LONDON (Reuters) — American men in London have shown so much enthusiasm for Britain's "new Edwardian", style suits that London tailors are planning to establish a clothing centre in New York, it was disclosed Friday.

Savile Row men's fashion centre in London—said dollar orders from overseas and American tourist orders here have given the industry its biggest fillip in years.

Bespoke (custom made) suits at this Coronation season have set off a style contest in London, going back to the early days of the century when men wore the single-breasted jackets and pipe-stem trousers. They are a direct contrast to the wide shoulders and draped effect of the post-war era. The "Edwardian look" also calls for bright, checked vests.

Member Denies Statements Said Made by Him

SARNIA (CP)—Bryan L. Cathcart, Progressive Conservative Member of the Ontario Legislature for Lambton West, Friday denied a statement attributed to him concerning the Sarnia Indian band.

A story quoted Mr. Cathcart as saying Chief Telford Adams of the Sarnia band was no longer the Indians he can prove he is an Indian.

Mr. Cathcart, a member of the provincial Indian affairs committee, said the Sarnia band was not the farm band he had been quoted as that he would have no reason to make such statements.

"In regard to the $18,000 fund, I had no knowledge that the money was being held up in any way," he said. Mr. Cathcart said he didn't know that the Sarnia Indian band would lose his status on the reserves and that he did not refer to Chief Telford in any committee meeting.

The Canadian Press carried a story July 13 in which Mr. Cathcart was quoted as saying that when an Indian leaves a reserve he loses his Indian rights and becomes enfranchised. Chief Telford Adams left the reserve and returned.

Uncle Opposes Nephew

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Notary Joseph E. Langlois of Maskinonge, 30 miles northeast of Montreal, will oppose his nephew Joseph Langlois, 31, also a notary, in the Aug. 10 federal elections in the riding of Berthier-Maskinonge-Delanaudiere.

The candidature of Joseph E. was announced Friday by the director, chief organizer of the Progressive Conservative party in Trois-Rivieres.

Nephew Joseph, the Liberal candidate, held the seat in the last House.

WARNS VIOLATORS

TORONTO (CP)—Motorists were warned Friday by Ontario Highway Minister Doucett to stay within the 38-mile-an-hour speed limit. The minister said police will crack down on any violators.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The barometer is falling throughout southern and central Ontario today and the unsettled weather at the ending of the high pressure area which has dominated the weather picture for the province this past week. Increasing cloud and showers moved into late south-western and northern sections of the province overnight and will spread throughout remaining localities during the day. Aside from brief cooling in showers, there is still little evidence of any relief in the current unseasonably very warm temperatures prevailing across entire southeastern area of the continent.

SHOWDOWN MEET IN TRUCE TALKS POSTPONED DAY

Reds Request Delay To Talk Over Terms

MUNSAN (AP)—A possible showdown meeting of Allied and Communist truce negotiators was postponed 24 hours today at the request of the Reds.

The recess put off until 2 p.m. Sunday (1 a.m. EDT Sunday) an expected Red reply to reported Allied demands that the Communists sign an armistice now or face the prospect of a breakdown in the negotiations.

The second consecutive 24-hour recess postponed the meeting first arranged during a one-minute meeting of liaison officers at Panmunjom.

North Korean Col. Ju Yon said the delay was needed for "administrative reasons" and the United Nations quickly agreed, an official spokesman said.

The extra day gives the Red high command more time to arrive at what may be a momentous decision: whether to bring the truce talks to a quick end to more than three years of fighting.

Meanwhile, U.S. State Secretary Dulles said Friday night "we are ready for an honorable peace" in Korea. At the same time he declared that "if the Communists don't want it they must be ready for that, too."

Six Months Hint

San Francisco, South Korea's ambassador to Washington said Friday night that Communists who agreed to unify Korea six months after a truce is signed, the ROKs will fight.

Dr. You Chan Yang added at a press conference that "we hope the United Nations will give us air and sea support."

"If you feel you can't fight communism any more," he said, "then don't stop us from fighting—and give us the help we need."

A truce was virtually ready for the signing Friday after Reds ordered the release of 27,000 anti-communist Chinese war prisoners from Allied stockades because the documents left no doubt of their personal unification of his country.

The Reds are reported to have told Allied officers that the Communist rounds up the prisoners and confessed that South Korea still smoke a truce.

Only a few hours before asking for a second 24-hour recess Saturday, the Communist Peiping radio broadcast that "the Americans are responsible for holding up the talks."

Abbott Says Fiscal Year May End With Deficit

WINNIPEG (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said Friday he "would not be surprised" if there was a deficit this fiscal year with a slight deficit, rather than a surplus.

In an interview on his arrival at Winnipeg, Mr. Abbott based his statement on the fact that during April and May, the first two months of the fiscal year, revenue in the surplus was running about $40,000,000 less than during the same period last year.

At the end of the last fiscal year, he budgeted for a surplus of about $11,000,000 out of a total budget, he said. "This year, he is budgeting for a surplus of about $11,000,000 out of a total budget of some $4,300,000,000—"not much of a margin for error."

Reports Time Ripe for Truce

Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state, is shown with President Eisenhower at the White House on Robertson's return to Washington. Robertson told newsmen that details of the agreement he won from South Korean President Syngman Rhee must be kept secret for the moment, but he indicated that he considered that his mission had been completed successfully. He said a truce could be signed at any moment the reds desired.—Central Press Canadian.

P.M. and Coldwell Campaign In Quebec, Drew in Nova Scotia

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec was the election campaign cockpit for Prime Minister St. Laurent and CCF leader M. J. Coldwell yesterday while Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, concentrated on Nova Scotia's South Shore.

After a strenuous western tour Mr. St. Laurent returned to his home riding of Quebec East. He found it even hotter there—97 degrees—than it had been on the Saskatchewan plains earlier in the week.

Speaking in French to an outdoor audience of about 2,000 in Quebec's white-cedar district, the prime minister said Mr. Drew represents himself as a champion of provincial unification of his country.

The Reds are reported to have told Allied officers that the Communist rounds up the prisoners and confessed that South Korea still smoke a truce.

Only a few hours before asking for a second 24-hour recess Saturday, the Communist Peiping radio broadcast that "the Americans are responsible for holding up the talks."

Assessor Not Threatened

He said the Progressive Conservative leader had told Quebec voters recently that provincial autonomy was threatened.

"If such a threat existed I would be the first one to fight it," Mr. St. Laurent said. "If I forced a policy on them until my last breath to safeguard the autonomy of Quebec. But that does not mean that I intend to neglect the other provinces."

At another point, the prime minister put aside his notes and brought up the subject of a national flag: "Canada will have its own flag some day but it will have one when it will be a sign of unity and not a subject of quarrelling and dissension."

Makes One Promise

Speaking of election promises, he said: "It will make but one promise and that is to serve the whole population with the same care that we bring to our own family affairs."

Earlier, he told a press conference that during his election tour he has detected "more unity than ever" in Canada. At Montreal, he told newspaper men the campaign is on at the quietest he has ever seen.

On foreign affairs, he said to Montreal reporters: "I haven't been satisfied with the international situation for the last 12 years. But it's better now than at any time during the 13 years I've been in politics."

Attacks Duplessis

Mr. Coldwell, addressing a shirt-sleeved audience in a Montreal workingclass district, attacked Premier Duplessis' provincial government "and the Fascists who are in power with it."

He said that in all other provinces political parties put up no posters and distribute pamphlets without having to submit them to police officials. But in the province of Quebec was on the way to a police state like the European countries before the war.

Mr. Coldwell spoke in English. He was interrupted during his hour-long speech by a man who asked him to speak in French.

The CCF leader said it was time that Mr. St. Laurent, who had a genuine interest in freedom, spoke out against "Duplessis and the Fascists who are in power" in his native province.

Support Secrets Claim

On another subject, Mr. Coldwell said Mr. Drew had stated the Progressive Conservatives would not enter into any alliance with the CCF. But in British Columbia Progressive Conservatives supported Social Credit. "If Mr. Drew needs a few seats to form the government of Canada, I have no doubt that Social Credit would help him to achieve that."

At Bridgewater, N.S., Mr. Drew counter-attacked a suggestion by Mr. St. Laurent that the value of Victory Bonds might be endangered if a Progressive Conservative government employed deficit financing to carry out its promised $500,000,000-a-year tax cuts.

Mr. Drew has stripped off his coat as he warmed to his subject before an audience of 1,000 in the town's sports arena, said the value of Victory Bonds had declined already because the government "broke its promise" to maintain the high level of prices.

Betrayed Responsibility

The government had "betrayed its responsibility" to the people who bought Victory Bonds as a patriotic duty.

Referring to the prime minister, Mr. Drew said: "Out of his own fear he's trying to create bogeys in other people's minds . . . as to what would happen if a Progressive Conservative government came to power."

Mr. Progressive Conservative leader contended that "the dollar" diagnosed by the Currie report is spreading to other government departments. A Progressive Conservative government would "undertake a very delicate operation" to restrain government spending to cut out "waste, extravagance and inefficiency."

Would Guarantee Prices

At Chester, speaking in the Hillop Memorial Park, he said: "We have been a government which has taken the position that your representatives in Parliament have no right to get information unless it is the government's wish. We have come to believe they are there by divine right."

Stanley Wright, Chief CCF farm spokesman, said in a free-time broadcast Friday night the CCF will work that a CCF government would guarantee prices in advance to farmers and other primary producers.

The member for Melfort, Sask., in the last Commons said the Liberal government is trying to build a prosperous Canada on a depressed agriculture—trying to "climb to higher standard of living by using the backs of our farmers as stepping stones." Mr. Wright is opposing Agriculture Minister Gardiner in Melville, Sask.

RECESS DELAYS TREATY

Brussels (AP) — The House of Representatives spurned government recommendations and voted to take its summer recess before debating and voting on the European Defence Community treaty. This means the treaty, which has won approval of its official house committee, cannot be ratified here before fall.

COMPLETES CONSULTATION

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles E. Bohlen, U. S. ambassador to Moscow, has completed his consultation with State Secretary Dulles on the Berlin purge and will be back at his post in about a week. The state department announced that Bohlen plans to leave New York Monday for Europe.

SOUTH KOREANS REGAIN 5½ MILES OF LOST GROUND

Red Counter-Attack Heavily Supported

SEOUL (AP) — Thousands of Chinese infantry supported by tanks and field guns today swarmed relentlessly southward in daylight as the Communists boldly bolstered troops which smashed through the Kumsong bulge this week.

Even as Allied air spotters watched Red infantry streams across the Kumsong river, three South Korean divisions moved cautiously northward over ground given up in the mighty Communist onslaught.

There was no indication whether the big Red buildup signalled new attacks or was a frantic effort to check the gains of South Koreans.

Heavy fighting broke out east of the Kumsong bulge as the Communists shifted about 12,000 men against South Korean and U. S. divisions on the eastern front.

One North Korean regiment—about 2,500 men—struck three hill positions held by the U. S. 45th Division, about 15 miles east of the bulge, in a counter-attack preceded by 30,000 rounds of artillery and mortar fire, the U. S. 8th Army said.

977 Reds Killed

In a fierce three-hour fight, the ROKs stopped the assault force and killed or wounded an estimated 977 Reds, the army said.

Infantrymen of the U. S. 45th Division smashed back two 700-man Red attacks south of Christmas Hill.

Waves of Allied planes strafed and dive-bombed the Red troops piling up supply around the Kumsong on bridges or forded the river.

Heavy trucks rumbled through the shallow water, apparently driven to Allied planes overhead.

One South Korean unit said 45 Russian-built T34 tanks were operating in its area. The 8th Army said the estimate was high. Fresh spottings confirmed reports the Communists have concentrated more tanks in the Kumsong bulge than in any one sector for two years.

Main Opposition

Meanwhile, the slow South Korean northward push that has regained 5½ miles from the bulge's base ran into some unexplained difficulty and plunged to the ground.

After 15 days, the ROKs cut of his farm home when he saw "a ball of flame about 150 yards away."

Barn Caught Fire

"Then the barn caught fire and I came running up to me, his clothes were burning all over and he asked me to pull off his shoes and clothes," he said.

"A neighbor and I put a blanket over the burning carried him to the side of the house. I got some lard and rubbed it all over him. Then another man came up, with his clothes afire."

Nearby wounds were set ablaze by the plane, but the flames were extinguished by the two neighbors and civilian volunteers.

There were 40 naval reservists and six marine crew members aboard the plane.

Remains of Only One Hunter Found In Gaspe by Quebec Provincial Police

GASPE, QUE. (CP)—Provincial police officers emerging early today from the mountainous interior of Gaspe peninsula reported the remains of only one of three visiting American hunters had been found.

Their report from the scene of the intensive search of the Gaspe wilderness for traces of the three men from Lansdowne, Pa., replaced the mystery surrounding their disappearance.

A provincial police spokesman said it was believed that a few hundred yards beyond 12 miles along a bush trail from an abandoned farm were the remains of Eugene H. Lindsey, 45. He said this discovery gave rise to the hope that relatives of Lindsey's 17-year-old son, Richard, and a 20-year-old companion, Jack Clear.

He declared, however, that there is "very little possibility they are alive."

Ira Clear, father of one of the two youths who entered the Gaspe bush June 5 with the elder Lindsey, confirmed the information given out by police directing the search.

Clear said that Dr. Jean-Marie Rousset, Quebec government expert in criminal investigation, told him that the bones found a short distance from an old logger's camp on the Dartmouth River were those of a man.

Clear added that the medicolegal expert expressed the opinion that the bones were those of a man of the elder Lindsey's age.

Earlier reports brought out from the bush by searchers were that the bones found in the trail of the American hunters had been located. The reports, however, declared that only a few bones lay in the woods as a scene of "indescribable" disarray.

Clear said Dr. Rousset told him he was able to reconstitute only one body from the bones because Wednesday 65 miles inland from Gaspe.

He said a loaded rifle found near the body "belonged to Mr. Lindsey." A cartridge pouch found in an abandoned logging camp, 12 miles down the river from where men parked their truck, was also identified as belonging to the elder Lindsey.

Clear said "about $700 in cash" carried by Lindsey has not been found.

Difficulties of the search for the hunters, last seen alive at Gaspe June 5, were responsible for the variety of reports reaching this little town since last Wednesday when hunters stumbled across the collection of bones.

Forty-One Killed As U.S. Transport Crashes on Takeoff

Plane Transformed Into Massive 'Ball of Flames'

MILTON, Fla. (AP)—A U. S. Marine cargo plane carried 41 young naval reservists and crew members to death when it crashed on a farm and burst into flames after taking off from Whiting Field at midnight Friday.

Charred bodies of the victims were recovered by U.S. Navy teams which worked at the grim task throughout the night.

Five other occupants of the two-engine plane were rushed to Pensacola naval air station hospital, where two were reported in critical condition and three in serious condition.

The plane, transformed into a massive "ball of flames" after plunging into a clump of trees a mile north of the runway, smashed three parked automobiles and plowed into a field on the farm of Ray Allen.

Harold Stokes, city editor of the Pensacola News-Journal said that when he arrived on the scene shortly after the crash he found "scrambled, scorched bodies scattered all over.

"They looked as if their clothes were akin fight, stuck to their swollen bodies."

Scattered Over Wide Area

Stokes reported that an engine and parts of the plane were found torn from the plane and scattered over a wide area.

Six survivors were picked up by navy rescue teams, but one of the six died in the Whiting Field hospital about four, hours later without regaining consciousness.

The plane was part of a flight of five transports which had made a refueling stop at Whiting. They were ferrying 200 reservists from Memphis, Christi, Tex., to Norfolk, Va., for another phase of their six-week summer training program.

One plane already had taken off for Norfolk after being fueled. The second had cleared the runway and was gaining altitude when it ran into some unexplained difficulty and plunged to the ground.

Alan Allen, 15, dashed out of his farm home when he saw "a ball of flame about 150 yards away."

Barn Caught Fire

"Then the barn caught fire and I came running up to me, his clothes were burning all over and he asked me to pull off his shoes and clothes," he said.

"A neighbor and I put a blanket over the burning carried him to the side of the house. I got some lard and rubbed it all over him. Then another man came up, with his clothes afire."

Nearby wounds were set ablaze by the plane, but the flames were extinguished by the two neighbors and civilian volunteers.

There were 40 naval reservists and six marine crew members aboard the plane.

Army Opens Court Of Inquiry On Corporal's Death

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

OTTAWA (CP)—Pte. Frederick Joseph Burke of Regina collapsed and died Thursday after drilling at Petawawa military camp as the result of bilateral pneumonia, an autopsy disclosed Friday. Burke was undergoing punishment at the time.

The 28-year-old Ottawa-born soldier collapsed after a "concentrated" 30-minute obstacle course exercise and died in hospital two hours later at the military camp, 110 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Army authorities here said Burke was medically examined two days before his death and showed no signs of illness.

George Burke, father of the soldier, said his son came to Ottawa 10 days ago to visit relatives on a farm near Ottawa.

He had taken ill and had overstayed his leave, the father said. On his return to Petawawa Sunday, he was stripped of his corporal's stripes and given seven days' detention.

The Army opened a court of inquiry on Burke's death.

Laborite Will Ask House About Margaret

LONDON (AP)—Laborite Marcus Lipton said today he will ask the government in the House of Commons next Wednesday what it plans to do about changing Britain's succession act so Princess Margaret may be free to marry anyone she chooses.

Under the act—passed in 1937 soon after King George VI was enthroned — Princess Margaret would become regent if anything happened to the queen during the infancy of Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Any intimate 22-year-old Princess is said rumored want to marry Capt. Peter Townsend, 38, for nine years royal equerry. He divorced his wife and although he was the innocent party in the proceedings, the Church of England frowns on the idea of a divorcé can be reported to frown upon a divorced romance.

Third in Line

Britain's leading Roman Catholic newspaper, the Universe, has said, said this week Margaret should surrender all royal rank and status if she decides to marry Townsend. She is third in line to the throne.

The government has refused to be discussing changes in the regency act or the agreements of the Commonwealth countries.

One suggestion is that the Queen may follow the example of her great-great-grandmother Queen Victoria and bestow her husband as regent to act in the event of her death or inability to act.

If the Duke of Edinburgh were to take Margaret's place as regent, it would remove one obstacle to the royal romance.

Margaret returned Friday from a 16-day tour of Rhodesia where she and the Queen Mother took part in 1000-year celebrations of Cecil Rhodes' birth.

RESIDENT FACES NUMBER OF CHARGES

A city resident was in the jail cells this morning after a bout with John Barleycorn and will face charges of drunken driving, careless driving and having no brakes on his car.

The car in question jumped the pavement on Henry Street and, luring pedestrians, it was stated just before city police arrived on the scene.

SWIMMING IN NUDE BRINGS POLICE CHARGE

Two men were brought to the police court yesterday with one being charged with indecent exposure. The other was saved by a pair of trunks.

The man were swimming in the Moira River off East Moira Street, with one enjoying the ducking in the suit nature gave him. He is seventy years of age.

CAR IS TAKEN FROM PARKING LOT

Jack Scanlon, 21 Second St., city, reported to police that his car was stolen from its parking place outside the residence. Scanlon said he had the keys to the car in his house and the thieves must have used the time-honored method of wire-crossing in order to start the vehicle.

Body Recovered

MASSENA, N. Y. (AP)—The body of Robert Boyle, 44, of Montreal, was recovered from the St. Lawrence river today by a veteran diver-aide—at a place he said he had dreamed it would be found.

Boyle was drowned last night at Whalen's Bay while trying to start an outboard motor. The engine started at full throttle and he was thrown into the water.

William Castleman, 76, the river man, said he had dreamt Friday night that Boyle's body would be found at Gibson's Point. Early this morning he boated out to the point and within a few minutes found the body.

Drill for Oil On Farm Near Napanee

By the middle of this week, oil well drilling operations on the farm of Percy McKeon, R. R. 5, Napanee, had reached the 100-ft. level and reasonably only limestones was being brought up with the samples.

The new well is being drilled by Stephan Stewart of New York City. This contractor last year obtained options on 4,000 acres of land in the area immediately north of the Belleville highway.

Mr. Stewart is originally from the state of Texas. His business includes drilling the well and then selling it after it has produced. The drilling was begun last week with equipment under contract from W. Goodberry of Vernon. Experienced drillers are employed on the operation.

Options were taken out in 1952 on all the farms bordering a large swamplland between Napanee and Selby. The present contract calls for 500 feet of drilling.

Bantam Baseball

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

Schwab's bantam's hopes for an undefeated season came to an abrupt end last evening at Pine Street School as the Napanee team took advantage of ten miscues to wallop Schwab's 17-3. Up until this game Schwab's had won seven and lost one.

The Napanees youngsters scored runs every inning as they clamed 11 hits off the combined pitching of St. Louis and Elliott. One of these was a three run homer by MacMillan in the last inning. The all Napanee line up pitchers they received very poor support from an unusually reliable infield.

Hawley toiled on the mound for the winners. He allowed three runs off three singles while striking out seven and issuing five walks. He helped his own cause with a single.

The batting for Napanee were Mitchell and Richardson with three hits apiece, MacMillan had two while Alcombrake, Vine and Hawley each had one. Coe, John and Coe drove in a three run single for Schwab's.

Six City Scouts Will be On Hand For Jamboree

Soldiers of the 3rd Battalion, PPCLI, in Korea, have bypassed the usual Hollywood glamor girls to pick 19-year-old Rose Marie Stumpf of Olds, Alta., as the sweetheart of their battalion. At dawn pictures of the pretty Canadian girl decorated the walls of PPCLI bunkers. When mail call rolls round the troops line up and receive letters from their "girl." —(CP from National Defence.)

Six "first class" Boy Scouts from two Belleville troops packed their knapsacks early Saturday morning and boarded a train for Ottawa and the annual International Boy Scout Jamboree.

The boys, who will be at "C. J. for" as it is called, are a solid crowd. From the First Belleville: Roy Garland, 15½ Everett St.; Larry Cooper, Herchimer St.; From the Second Belleville: Bob Owens, Albert St.; Phil Stewart, Octavia St.; John Bedford, North Front St., and Gerry Putman, Herchimer St.

Last year the International Jamboree was held in the West Indies. Herb Middleton, scoutmaster of the First Belleville Troop, said the boys will absorb special instruction and study for badges. However, he noted that no badges would be tested for at the Jamboree.

Mr. Middleton stated the proceedings during the eight days would be much the same as a regular Scout camp, with the routine varying only slightly. Countries around the world will be represented at the Jamboree.

Actual location of the camp is on the Connaught Ranges a few miles east of the city. The last Canadian Jamboree was held in 1949 on the same site.

Interment was in the United Church cemetery at Bath.

Maude Adams, 'Peter Pan' of U.S. Stage, Dies

TANNERSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Maude Adams, "Peter Pan" of the American stage, is dead at 80.

Miss Adams, one of the greatest U. S. actresses, died peacefully Friday in this Catskill mountain village. She had stayed here the last three years with Mrs. Margaret McKenna.

Miss Adams started her stage career at nine months, cradled in an actor's arms, and flowered in the plays of Sir James Barrie. Her first appearance was in "Peter Pan," the boy who never grew up, made stage history.

Shy and girlish, she never married and was cool toward men. The actress, in good health until last spring, was reading a newspaper on a sofa when she said "Oh, Mrs. McKenna, I don't feel good" and died.

Miss Adams was born in Salt Lake City Nov. 17, 1872, the daughter of James and Annie Adams Kiskadden. Her mother was a leading lady of a stock company who kept her maiden name on the stage.

In 1891, when she was 18, she returned briefly to the stage with Otis Skinner in "The Merchant of Venice."

Winter Wheat Growers to Set Up Marketing Scheme

CHATHAM (CP)—Winter wheat growers in five southwestern Ontario counties Thursday night decided to set up a scheme for marketing wheat themselves instead of selling it through dealers.

Growers protested the low price for Ontario new winter wheat at an emergency meeting of the wheat committees of Kent, Essex, Lambton, Middlesex and Elgin. The meeting was called by the wheat committee of the Kent Federation of Agriculture.

Grain dealers are offering $1.50 a bushel for wheat delivered at Chatham and are contracting for the crop at $1.45 a bushel.

G. Parry Wilson of the Burley Tobacco Marketing Association told the meeting soft wheat is worth $2.45 a bushel fed to hogs, and said the crop was being given away at $1.45 a bushel.

Darryl Jubenville, chairman of the marketing committee of the Kent federation, said that if $1.50 is the best private enterprise can do with our wheat, "we had better get it under our own control as soon as possible."

Life Is Easy in Siam

The politics of hunger can be exaggerated in southeast Asia. In Burma, Indonesia, Malaya, and other British territories there is no real danger as peasants in Madras and Ceylon know. So claims the Bangkok correspondent of The Times of London.

There are people who do not quite get enough to eat or, as much from personal choice as economic prohibition, do not eat the right kind of food; but hunger has driven very few people to accept Communism as in Madras.

Communist propagandists rarely try to exploit hunger, and in Malaya they have been directed by the party to exercise caution because unfavorable comparisons have been made with conditions in Communist Asians that although colonial rule had its evils it left much constructive work was done by the colonial Powers, work also inter-locked trade, intellectual ideas.

Nevertheless there is a noticeable difference as the Siamese frontier is crossed. There is no hunger in Siam, but plenty of vice and Buddhist charity for all. Unlike most people, including those of the wealthiest nations of the west, very few Siamese have wondered where the next meal is to come from. The social consequences of plentifulness are exaggerated, but the politics of plenty are conspicuous by their absence. Indeed, politics in the western sense are non-existent.

There is no strident nationalism because Siam has long been independent, and no distinctive party perhaps because a colonial power had no opportunity to introduce them. Instead there is government and acceptance. It is as exasperatingly unlike as it is alarming a state of affairs; and for the foreigner it is alternately restful, amusing, and baffling.

In Hasdyal, in southern Siam, reaction of the town authorities to the last coup d'etat (December, 1851) was to start up the governors of the power station, which normally only operate after nightfall, to enable the people to listen to Bangkok broadcasts. Nothing was brisk until the power station closed down again, and then the electorate returned to their trivial but pleasant round:to catch a few fish in the rice fields as they watched the rice grow, to tap a little rubber, and drink and amuse themselves. Still, in a personal sense the interest shown by rural Siam in the only political event since the previous coup.

Plenty, independence, and their attendant lack of political interest, have created a favorable climate that is pleasant and stable, but not entirely parochial. The Siamese are willing to trade and meet the west on their own terms and they are fascinated by its inventions but more interest is shown in beauty competitions than in debates of the United Nations and German beer is preferred to political philosophy. The beauty contest is now a national institution, and it sets the standards for what may be called Siam's cultural activities. The government's decision to install a television station instead of drains or some other worthy municipal service was applauded.

The literacy rate is high and the publishing trade is a thriving industry; but very few serious books are issued. Very few Siamese would read them. Instead there is a continual flow of cheap magazines between multi-coloured covers with pictures of past and present beauty queens are stories of love and romance, each illustrated by drawings of persons with Occidental features. In a recent train journey from the south to Bangkok every passenger carried an armful of these, except a lonely Chinese, who rather self-consciously read a book on Greek culture.

The Siamese are amazingly tolerant, except toward the large Chinese community. Its many missionaries are accepted with equanimity and Buddhist calm. Its Diaspora were two English missionaries, earnest young men from the industrial Midlands, who were refused entry into Malaya but welcomed in Siam. For 17 months they had been trying to persuade Buddhists to become Christians. Witnesses; and two Siamese had agreed to attend their meetings. They suspected that something fishy followed visited them to learn English, but they had been accepted.

It is said that Siam will survive as long as it has American support, but there appears to be every reason to impose this limit. Accommodation could be made with another power; the Siamese would certainly if it were by, although Communism could upset this old diplomacy.

Collectors Hunt for Old Disks

Jacob S. Schneider, a busy New York lawyer, glanced at three well-dressed men in the waiting room, Harry Krush writes in Coronet, and whispered to his secretary: "I'll be in conference with them most of the afternoon, don't want to be disturbed."

His secretary nodded. A few minutes later, a 16-year-old boy came into his office. "May I see Mr. Schneider?" he asked.

"He's busy"

"I'm sorry," replied the secretary. "He's busy. You'll have to come back tomorrow."

The boy insisted. "Tomorrow may be too late, I have to see him now." Then he whispered something to the pointing to the package he carried. The secretary tiptoed into the conference room. In a moment she was out with Schneider right behind her.

The lawyer talked to the teenager for half an hour, handed him some money, took the package and only then returned to his clients.

One of the nation's largest collectors of phonograph records, Schneider was engaging in no mysterious transaction. He merely had bought several disks to add to his treasury of old and rare recordings.

Since 1945, when the disk-collecting bug hit him and left him with what he laughingly describes as an "infectious disease," Schneider has amassed more than 250,000 disks of popular and operatic music recorded before World War II.

So far, his collection has cost him a net $2,500 or $3,000. But experts estimate that if he sold it piece by piece he would get at least $250,000. Yet Schneider is unable to locate the records for a fraction of that amount.

Peculiar Hobby

"The reason is simple," he says. "This is a peculiar hobby. Some of these records are real rarities, ranging in price from as little as 50 cents to hundreds of dollars each. But none is worth a cent until you find a collector who wants it badly.

"Take those fellows who collect nothing but Bing Crosby records. If you've got a Crosby record that you might have paid a nickel for, they give you $5 if they need that particular disk to round out their collection. One Crosby man gave me 50 records for one of Bing's."

Schneider is not alone in his quest. In the last decade, record collecting has grown immensely in popularity. The number of collectors today, estimated at two million half of them in the U.S. is nearly double what it was just before the war. During the war there was a shortage of shellac. Record buyers turned in their records—the shellac was recovered, but the records destroyed, and its overnight hundreds of titles became rare.

Today, collectors haunt junk shops, Salvation Army depots, flea market and second-hand music stores, turning stocks upside down like connoisseurs searching musty old Parisian attics for forgotten art masterpieces.

On collector, for instance, recently got his hands on a Mary Garden recordings of the "Card Scene" for five cents in a rummage shop, and resold it for $45. Another got $200 for Elena Gerhardt disks put out for the Hugo Wolf Society.

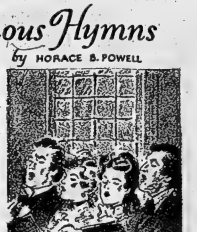
Jenny Lind Opera

There is one record, if it actually exists, that will probably bring his lucky finder several hundred dollars. It's supposed to be the only recording made by the celebrated Jenny Lind to preserve her voice for future generations.

Nearly all collectors, however, specialize in collecting a particular favorite. Sometimes this is a formidable problem.

One New York Advertising executive decided that he was going to get everything Bing Crosby had ever recorded. He started 10 years ago. At a cost of $3,000 he managed to round up more than 2,500 different records.

Mostly, Schneider gets his records by trading. It's done by correspondence. Schneider gets an average of 75 letters a week from collectors.



Some of his correspondents offer almost anything to get certain records. A man in South Africa wanted to send him hand strung beads in exchange for an old Al Jolson number.

Schneider also buys records and will fly cross-country to get a deal. Sometimes, he recalls sadly, his enthusiasm to get his name on a really huge collection perhaps discovered in a musty attic or in basement stores' backrooms, can lead to bitter disappointment.

A few years ago Schneider got a visitor who was looking for records he had made as a youth. They were five inch disks called "Little Wonder Records" and the songs were described on the label only as "sung by a baritone." Schneider found them in a New York junk shop, recognized the voice and filed them under the singer's real name. That's why Schneider was one of the last to see Al Jolson alive in 1950.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Christ For The World We Sing

Christ for the world we sing;
The world to Christ we bring,
With loving zeal;
The poor, and them that mourn,
The faint and over-borne,
Sin-sick and sorrow-worn,
Whom Christ doth heal.

Christ for the world we sing;
The world to Christ we bring,
With fervent prayer;
The wayward and the lost,
By restless passion tossed,
Redeemed, at countless cost,
From dark despair.

Christ for the world we sing;
The world to Christ we bring,
With one accord;
With us the work to share,
With us reproach to dare,
With us the cross to bear,
For Christ our Lord.
Christ for the world we sing;
The world to Christ we bring,
With joyful song;
The new-born souls, whose days,
Reclaimed from error's ways,
Inspired with hope and praise,
To Christ belong.

That was the slogan which, inscribed in large, evergreen letters over the stage at a state Young Men's Christian Association convention in Iowa, greeted Lowell Samuel Wolcott, Cleveland pastor as he entered the convention hall one February night in 1869.

The convention program that night must have been inspirational and inspiring, but it was the theme above the stage that Wolcott remembered as he bade farewell to his friends and started homeward. Walking alone through the streets, he kept thinking of the challenging motto and decided that it would make a good missionary hymn theme. He began to write as he walked. One stanza after another took form and, by the time he reached his residence, he had completed all four verses just as they are sung today.

It was many years before Wolcott learned that the missionary theme which inspired his first hymn for, years earlier as a young man, he had served on the foreign mission field in Syria. Ill health had compelled him to return to the United States and he served several Congregational pastorates in New England and the middle west before going to Cleveland.

He was 57 years old when he wrote "Christ For The World We Sing" but he added more than 200 other hymns to his literary output before his death, 17 years later.

Grease Fittings and Bees

By JOHN GOULD

(In Christian Science Monitor)

The other day a swarm of bees came out, which is nothing new around here. It was a warmish occasion, and as the temperature got a bit quite hot, an auspicious one. The bees came out and attached themselves to the limb on an apple tree after their custom, and I found them after my return.

No matter what you're doing around the place, a swarm of bees generally makes itself known, partly because a beekeeper has his ears bent forward and recognizes the moment. This particular swarm I was trying to get a grease fitting out of the wheel harrow. A wheel harrow is a difficult customer at best, and this one I have found even more than most. Furthermore, I wasn't making much progress. This grease fitting had been "shot" rather deeply by a rock that was going by, and I had brought out a box of assorted grease fittings to go at it. I was at it with one that would take grease and stop a squeak which has been setting teeth on edge over all the county.

I am the perennial voice crying in the wilderness which says, "Why don't the fool manufacturers standardize at least something!" There's no reason why hayrake teeth shouldn't all be the same, no reason why one mowing machine section shouldn't fit another mowing machine, and no reason why one grease fitting shouldn't replace another. But this simple co-ordination of thought is beyond the ability of the great industrial minds that can, otherwise, solve the most wonderful problems. So I was on my back, down under, hotter than a billy goat with my own thoughts, and discussing this great question when a bee came out of the bonnifiul blue and gave me his undivided attention.

I have said before on this intermittating people who weren't ready for it, and it usually stirs up a furore which makes the Battle of Bunker Hill sound like a game of cat's cradle in an old folks' home. But, I having my ears always alert, merely have mused to myself and said I guess I must have a swarm of bees somewhere. This deduction isn't remarkable. Bees make a variety of sounds as they go a variety of things, and their whole life is on such an undeviated pattern that a beekeeper can tune them in and tell just about what goes on.

The greatest argument against totalitarianism is a beehive, where the regimentation is so complete that nobody ever has any fun. It is true that they get things done, but the subjugation of the individual is so complete that no matter the success will not justify the means. A master mind, like myself, makes out fine when he has a total state working for him; and I suppose the great kings, dictators and comrades who have headed up such states made out fine while it lasted. I know I get stung once in a while, but I do have rich rewards. My honeybees get enough to eat, have the supreme delight of giving their all to the state, but I eat, and eat well. I like the arrangement first rate. I would not care to be a bee, however. So I look after their welfare and when they make distinctive noises I see accordingly.

After a swarm of bees comes out of the mother hive, as a result of prosperity and overcrowding, they follow their queen to some nearby spot, and hang up in a cluster. Immediately scouts strike out to locate a vacancy — perhaps a hollow tree, or a hole in somebody's clapboards. Then the scouts suddenly appear in all directions, buzzing about and looking things over. You can tell from they way they operate that they aren't gathering nectar or pollen, seeking water, or doing anything like that. If my supine position on forty guillotines of a wheel harrow, right in the middle of fitting which was pressed in, this bee came down and buzzed into my mouth to see if I'd make a good beehive. He started away once, then came back, and finally took was called for, and came back. I spoke to him about his mistake and tried to reason with him. He went in one nostril, and I crawled out to look for the swarm of bees I knew would be hanging up somewhere.

Next I tried to find an empty hive, which isn't always easy to do. Sometimes I find one almost anywhere. I had an empty one with a bottom board, and then I fitted in some fountain wax, and by that time I was ready to hive my bees, but the bees had gone. Otherwise, I would have set the empty hive on the ground under the swarm, knocked the limb until the bees fell off, and then put the cover over them. But the bees had gone — me in it, and the swarm had flown while I was fitting in the grease. Well . . . now I'd have a hive ready for the next time.
